Play For President's Cup at Park Club Saturday Was Void of Any Sensational Features—The Scores.

The golf events on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club and Park Golf Club courses Saturday and yesterday, attracted a goodly number of players, and the ancient game proved just as fascinating as ever. Many who have been away during the summer, returned in time to take part in the events, and altogether the play was successful. The regular competitions were the attractions and good scores were the rule:

SATURDAY AT PARK CLUB.

The weekly play for the President's cup on the Park Golf Club course Saturday afternoon was void of any sensational features. The standing for the trophy was not changed, and Senator Charles A. Reed still leads with 9 points. The winner of first honors was Frank Rogers, who made a net score of 86. The second and third honors were captured by Arthur H. Serrell and Charles L. Nichols. Frank Rogers, with a total of 5 points, is now tie with four others for fifth position, while Charles L. Nichols is tie with two others for seventh position.

The course was in excellent condition and the scores were generally fair. The scores for the trophy are as follows:

	G.	H.	N.
Frank Rogers	116	30	86
Arthur H. Serrell	111	19	92

SATURDAY AT HILLSIDE.

The attendance on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course Saturday was much larger than usual, although not so many handed in their scores for the weekly competitions. The regular play in the morning for the Mellick cup attracted the customary quartette. Miss Lida vanHerwerden won the event with a net score of 104, while Miss Margaret Tracy finished second with a net score of 106. The third honors were won by Miss Maude VanBoskerck, who made a 117 net. Miss vanHerwerden now leads in the competition for the trophy with 24½ points, and as Miss Daisy Elsberg did not score for the cup Saturday, she did not better her position.

Miss Margaret Tracy moved up a short distance, by adding two points to the three she already had, while Miss VanBoskerck now holds third position with a total of 6 points.

The scores for the Mellick cup are as follows:

	G.	H.	N.
Miss vanHerwerden	108	4	104
Miss Margaret Tracy	129	23	106
Miss M. VanBoskerck	129	12	117
Miss Mary Tracy	163	30	133

Miss Daisy Elsberg	14½
Miss Maud VanBoskerck	6
Miss Adelaide Ball	5½
Miss Margaret Goddard	5
Miss Margaret Tracy	5
Miss May Holly	2
Miss Mary Whiton	1

By being one of three contestants to make a tie score of 81 net for first honors, C. Wesley Abbott increased his lead for the Golf Committee cup on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course Saturday afternoon. He now has a total of 10½ points. He with Dudley H. Barrows and Frank Reinhart each made a score of 81, and it was decided that each receive two points. Reinhart, who had 3 5-6 points, now has a total of 5 5 6 points and takes third position, while Barrows takes Reinhart's former position with 3 5-6 points. The competition is constantly increasing in interest, and while Abbott has a good lead, he cannot safely count on winning the trophy.

There were many players on the course in the afternoon, but many did not hand in their scores. There was strong evidence that the members are beginning to come home. The day was a delightful one for the game and those on the course fully enjoyed it.

The scores for the Golf Committee cup are as follows:

	G.	H.	N.
Frank O. Reinhart	81	0	81
Dudley H. Barrows	96	15	81

YESTERDAY AT HILLSIDE.

The only event at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course yesterday was the stated play for the Holiday cup. There was a large field of players and much interest was taken in the event. Many players who did not take part in the competition, enjoyed playing private matches. The prize for the lowest gross score made during the day was won by W. L. Glenney, who made a 73. The prize was a box of golf balls. A similar prize for the second best score for the Holiday cup was a tie between F. A. Clark and Roger F. Murray, both of whom made a net score of 81. C. C. Burke, Jr., won first honors for the Holiday cup, with a net score of 79. The scores for the cup are as follows:

LABOR DAY AT PARK CLUB.

The third preliminary round for the Holiday cup was the event on the Park Golf Club course yesterday morning. There was a fairly good entry list and considerable interest was manifested in the play. The four members making the lowest average scores in any two of the three rounds are qualified to play in the semi-finals. In yesterday's play Arthur H. Serrell and S. St. John McCutchen were tie for first honors, each making a net score of 87. J. L. Myers and Charles L. Nichols finished in second and third

TROTTING RACES DREW LARGE CROWD.

Events at Plainfield Driving Park Yesterday Witnessed by Lovers of Speedy Horses.

MAYOR SMALLEY A WINNER.

DAVID SMALLEY, JR., A YOUNGSTER, DRIVES AN EXHIBITION MILE.

Fred V., New Haven and Factotum, the Swiftest Trotters—No Serious Accidents—Track Was Fast.

Interest in the light harness world, at least in this vicinity, shifted to the Plainfield Driving Park, yesterday afternoon, where some of the local flyers gathered in purses amounting to $350.

Not in a good many years has so much success attended the Plainfield Driving Club meetings, as at this season, and the fact that the time average has not been very high detracts nothing from the interest of the meeting. The races of yesterday were attended by 1,500 people, a large percentage being women. The grandstand was occupied by 500 enthusiasts, while there were scores of carriages, traps and runabouts lined up around the track. The track was fast and the day excellent.

The first event called was the 2:25 class in which there were five starters. Woven Wind went lame the last minute and was drawn by J. H. Johnson. The first heat went to Paul Patchen in a good race while the second was taken by Irving's Fred V. Lulu B. made a great effort down the home stretch and it was a regular "Ed. Geer" finish, Fred V. winning by an eye lash. In the third heat Fred V. lead from wire to wire and Ned Davis, which was last at the three-quarter pole, stepped around the bunch, while the supporters of J. S. Irving's horse held their breath, and took second place. The fourth heat went to Fred V. in 2:28½. D. C. Smalley drove Ned Davis all four heats without a break.

In the 2:30 trot and pace there were five to start, but Coxsackie King was drawn after the second mile. The first and second heats went to New Haven, while Barney Williams took the third. A. Blume, driver of New Haven, was the victim of an unavoidable accident at the quarter pole of this heat. New Haven broke and came to a dead stop, when Brower, who was immediately behind him, caught his sulky wheel and threw both horse and driver on the track. The animal made no effort to get away and the damage was to the sulky only. Distance was waived and New Haven took third place, Belle securing fourth. The fourth and last heat was of the grand circuit order, with an exciting finish, which brought down the applause of the spectators.

In the 2:40 class the first heat was won by Factotum, who had a length to spare. The second heat was also his and was a very pretty race, Belle being beaten by a nose. The next heat also went to Factotum, finishing the race.

David Smalley, Jr., D. C. Smalley's ten-year-old boy, drove Ned Davis an exhibition mile in 2:37. This finished the day's racing.

JOHN O'KEEFE WEDDED TO NEW ENGLAND GIRL

Married Yesterday Morning to Miss Mary E. Maxwell, of New Haven, Conn.

FR. M'GEARY OFFICIATED.

CEREMONY AT ST. PETER'S CHURCH, JERSEY CITY.

Wedding Breakfast in New York—Groom a Graduate of Ottawa and Georgetown—In Spanish War—To Reside Here.

John Arthur O'Keefe, of this city, was quietly married to Miss Mary Elizabeth Maxwell, of New Haven, Conn., at St. Peter's church, Jersey City, by the Rev. J. A. McGeaty, assistant rector of St. Mary's church, of this city, at 8 o'clock yesterday morning.

The bride was becomingly gowned in pale grey crepe de breize, wearing a picture hat. The bridesmaid was Miss M. A. O'Brien, of Waterbury, Conn., and the best man was David J. Carney, of Lincoln place.

A romance intertwines their courtship and a re-united couple of former sweethearts plight their troth by this marriage. The bride has for a long time superintended the management of the millinery department of one of the largest business houses in New Haven, where she is well known and popular.

A wedding breakfast was served at 9:30 o'clock in the private dining room at the Continental Hotel, New York, after which Mr. and Mrs. O'Keefe left via New York Central for an extended wedding trip through Massachussets and Connecticut.

Mr. O'Keefe is a graduate of Ottawa University, Ottawa, Can., and also of Georgetown University, Washington, where he was coach and captain of the college foot-ball team. He was for six years a member of the Naval Militia for the State of Connecticut. During the war with Spain Mr. O'Keefe enlisted in the Auxiliary Navy and was promoted on two different occasions and afterwards honorably discharged as gunner's mate of the first-class. Since residing in this city he has made a host of friends. Upon the organization of Watchung Council, No. 552, Knights of Columbus, Mr. O'Keefe was chosen Sir Grand Knight of that lodge.

Mr. O'Keefe is employed in the office of the Aluminum Press and Plate Company, of North avenue, and has resided here for the past two years. Mr. and Mrs. O'Keefe will reside at 652 South avenue, after October 15, where a new residence is being erected for them.

WAS THEIR FATHER'S FRIEND.

DAUGHTERS OF A CONFEDERATE COLONEL VISIT CAPTAIN PECK.

Plainfielder Had Guarded The Southern Officer as a Prisoner during the Great Rebellion.

The Misses Howard, of Claussen, South Carolina, who have been spending a few days with Captain and Mrs. S. C. Peck, of West Front street, returned to New York yesterday and from there they will return to their home in the South. Coupled with this little personal item, there is a story.

During the Civil War, when Captain Peck was serving with the Union forces, a number of Confederate soldiers were taken prisoners on one occasion and among them was a Col. Howard, of the 21st South Carolina Regiment. It was Captain Peck's duty to guard the colonel and while doing so a strong feeling of friendship grew between them. After the war they corresponded for many years and Captain Peck visited his Southern friend.

It was about the time of the war or shortly afterwards that the Misses Howard were born. Recently they visited the Pan-American, but before leaving home they promised their mother that they would not return home until they had seen Captain Peck. They kept their promise and had a delightful visit.

MANY BALL GAMES TO INTEREST CRANKS.

All the Contests Witnessed by Large Crowds of Enthusiasts.

BLUECOATS DEFEAT GRAY.

HOPE CHAPEL WON A GAME AND AND LOST ANOTHER.

St. Mary's Defeated Elizabeth—Scotch Plains Won and Lost—Dunellen Got a Game on Forfeit.

There was no dearth of baseball games yesterday to incite the interest of local cranks. All the contests were well attended and the results of the games varied widely. The game between the Letter Carriers and the Policemen came in for the largest share of attention, principally because the contest was unique. Two games were played by the Hope boys, one being won and the other lost by them. St. Mary's nine defeated the crack Garwood team, while Dunellen was awarded a game by the umpire. Scotch Plains won a game and lost another. The games are separately reported.

POLICEMEN 44, CARRIERS 13.

Four years had elapsed since the letter-carriers and policemen of this city met on the diamond, and hence the scheduled game between the "mail chasers" and the "cops" was looked forward to with interest. The two teams met on the St. Mary's grounds yesterday afternoon and amused a crowd of probably 300 people for considerably over two hours. When Captain Dan Shea, of the letter-carriers' aggregation, announced that the performance was ended, the score stood 44 to 13 in favor of the bluecoats, and the crowd stood a unit in "jollying" the defeated team.

Unfortunately Captain Shea's raw recruits did not size up to expectations while, on the other hand, the coppers surprised the cranks, who had witnessed their contests with the Elizabeth police force team this season. There was a marked improvement in the coppers' play, their fielding especially being much superior. There were plenty of features in the game yesterday, but all were not of a baseball kind. Reville, the second baseman on the grays' team, however, made a double in the second inning by hauling in a fly off Lunger and touching second on "Big Bill" Conroy, who had left that bag on his tour to third base. In the seventh inning Totten caught a fly off Thorn and put the sphere to Captain "Herb" Overbaugh, who put Demarest out there for wandering too far from the base. Overbaugh and McCarthy, of the blues, put up a good game in the field, as did also Shea and Hines, of the grays.

The policemen were better at the bat than were the letter carriers. Conroy, C. Flynn, Saffron, Higgins, Overbaugh and McCarthy were the stars in this department of the game. In the third inning Overbaugh pounded the leather in such a manner as to bring in three runs, and the feat had such an effect on Conroy that he successfully imitated it in the eighth. This about sums up the chief features of the game, although there were many of a different sort which kept the crowd in good humor. Reville, the letter carriers' second baseman, exhibited himself at least ten times during the game in a little specialty on errors. "Carrie" Higgins behaved creditably and won applause for some clever stunts, among which was a raid on some urchins who got in his way. It was the maiden effort of Dan Shea's lads and, therefore, they may be pardoned for some gross errors in baseball, which sent the chills up the back of Baseball Expert McCarthy.

The batting order of the letter carriers was: Reville, 2b; Thorn, 3b; Shea, c; Hines, 1b; Mack, p; Glaentzer, cf; Pierson, rf; Clarkson, ss; Demarest, lf, and that of the policemen: McCarthy, ss; Conroy, c; C. Flynn, 1b; McGinley, p; Lunger and Totton, cf; J. Flynn, 3b; A Saffron, lf; Higgins, rf; Overbaugh, 2b.

Score by innings:

Letter carriers	1	0	0	1	3	0	0	5	3	—13
Policemen	6	0	5	7	7	6	3	10	x	—44

Summary—base hits: Shea 2, Hines 2, McCarthy 3, Conroy 2, C. Flynn 3, McGinley 2, J. Flynn 1, Saffron 1, Higgins 2, Overbaugh 2. Base on balls—By Mack and Reville, 6; by McGinley, 8. Struck out—By Mack and Reville, 8; by McGinley, 9. Errors—Letter carriers, 22; police, 6. Umpire—Lawrence Doyle.

HOPE, 12; NEW PROVIDENCE, 0 NEW PROVIDENCE, 11; HOPE, 7

The Hope team and the New Providence Field Club divided honors on the diamond yesterday. In two games played on the former's grounds, each team secured one victory. In the morning game the Hopes shut out their opponents entirely, Hewitt allowing them but one hit. In the afternoon game the local team was defeated. Both games were witnessed by large crowds.

Summary of the morning game:

Hope A. C. 1 1 0 5 4 0 0 1 x—12	11	3

In the afternoon game, the visitors braced up and retrieved themselves by defeating the Hopes 11 to 7. They came near paying the Hopes in their own coin, as the locals secured but five hits.

Following is the summary:

	R.	H.	E.

ST. MARY'S 6, ELIZABETH 1.

Through the pitching of O'Keeffe, the St. Mary crack twirler, that team scored a signal victory over the Elizabeth Y. M. C. A. baseball team on the latter's grounds yesterday morning. Summarized O'Keeffe's record was; thirteen men struck out, two hits allowed, no bases on balls. The Elizabethans would have been shut out entirely but for the fact that the field was in miserable condition and one man got home through Doyle's slipping in the mud. The local team scored six runs.

Following is the summary:

St. Mary's...2 0 0 0 0 0 1 0 3—6	11	3
Elizabeth...0 0 0 0 1 0 0 0 0—1	1	5

Double play, Pace and Newbeck. Stolen bases, Mack, Keene, Taylor, Beebe and Newbeck. Sacrifice hit Keene. Umpire, Price scorer Larew.

AT SCOTCH PLAINS.

The Scotch Plains nine played two games on the home grounds yesterday, losing the one and winning the other.

In the morning the opposing team was the Plainfield Athletic Association. For some reason the home team seemed to forget what they knew about the game and gave poor support to Albert, who pitched a remarkably good game, considering he had not been in the box for six weeks. A number of costly errors in the field enabled the visiting team to roll up 8 runs, while the locals were enabled to get only 3 runs across the plate.

In the afternoon the strong team of Rutland College, of New York, were met and defeated. Harvey pitched a fine steady game and the strong-hitting visitors were held down to 6 runs, while the locals tallied 9. The score by innings of the two games is as follows:

Rutland College	2	0	1	0	1	0	0	0	2	—6

DUNELLEN 9; RARITAN 0.

The Dunellen A. C. base ball team met the Raritan team yesterday afternoon on the Lincoln avenue grounds at Dunellen. In the middle of the seventh inning the visitors quit to catch a train when the score stood in their favor. The umpire accordingly awarded the game to Dunellen with the score of 9 to 0.

FAREWELL SERMON BY REV. G. K. NEWELL.

Addressed Congregation of Hope Chapel Sunday For Last Time As Pastor.

CELEBRATED LORD'S SUPPER

LEAVES TO WORK IN LARGER FIELD IN BROOKLYN.

Pastor of Hope Memorial Chapel For Ten Years—To Be In Charge Of City Park Mission of First Presbyterian Church.

A congregation, representing the outpouring of a devoted people, filled every seat in Hope Memorial Chapel Sunday morning, for the purpose of listening to the words of Rev. G. Kennedy Newell as their pastor for the last time. After sharing their open joys and secret sorrow for more than a decade, ministering to their spiritual comfort, a duty call rendered a separation necessary and the parting could no longer be delayed. With mutual regrets, pastor and flock met Sunday for the purpose of bidding a formal farewell. The occasion was made doubly auspicious inasmuch as it represented an anniversary, that of Mr. Newell's entrance to the ministry. Eleven years ago Sunday, he emerged from a seminary, imbued with hope and filled with the prospects of performing a life's work laboring for the welfare of his fellow men. Hope chapel was his first charge.

In a voice choked with emotion, Mr. Newell expressed his gratification for the evidence of good will shown him by the large gathering and culmination of the love manifested during his presence among them. It was a day of thanksgiving he said, and not of farwell, as it was simply a tempory leavetaking. He referred to the anniversary of his work as a pastor, but stated that the few previous moments at hand could not be used in God's house in celebrating such occasions or in extending farwells.

"Instead," said the speaker, "we must speak of His work. If these moments are precious ones we must speak of precious things. We need a benediction and I know of no other more suitable than Paul's parting salution to the Corinthians. 'The grace of the Lord Jesus Christ and the love of God and the Communion of the Holy Ghost be with you all.' Grace is such a large word to define that it at first seems difficult but simplified it means the outpouring of God's love. His love is more bountiful than sin and His first motive in dealing with us is seeking those upon whom he might bestow it. But while men may learn something of God's love from nature, it is never secured in its truest form except through the grace of Jesus Christ. The Father reveals himself in grace and love and fellowship and this is the benediction we may sing today as pastor and people for the last time, and as a pastor who is to say farewell it is my prayer for you."

Mr. Newell's sermon throughout was noticeable for its total absence of personal reminiscences, denying himself the privilege for the purpose of drawing his people away from all thoughts of parting. With his usual promptitude he devoted the opportunity to the heartfelt sermon.

In the evening the communion of the Lord's Supper was celebrated, after which Mr. Newell again spoke, but briefly. He took for a text John xv:13, "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends," and spoke strongly on friendship. He impressed his congregation with the fact that, though he was to sever his connection as pastor of the chapel, his love for them would be unceasing. While his new field of duty would require the greater part of his time, he stated that every available moment would be spent in Plainfield among his old flock. He concluded by asking for the earnest prayers of all.

Tuesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Newell will be accorded a reception by the congregation of the chapel and also the members of the Crescent Avenue church. It will take place in the old chapel and present indications augur a pleasant occasion.

Mr. Newell's personal effects have already been moved to Brooklyn where on Sunday he takes charge of and preaches his initial sermon at the City Park branch of the First Presbyterian church of which Rev. Charles Cuthbert Hall was formerly pastor. It is an important pastorate but, with Mr. Newell's abilities coupled with the experience gained during his stay at the local chapel, the duties devolving upon him undoubtedly will be executed in a manner to win the commendation of all.

DENY CONTAMINATING RIVER

Officers of American Copper Extraction Company Declares That Waters Have Not Been Polluted.

An article published in The Daily Press, Friday, August 23, to the effect that suits are about to be brought against the American Copper Extraction Company, of Garwood, for contaminating the waters of the Rahway river, by polluting them with sulphuric acid, has brought forth a letter from the company in question. It was stated at the time that a complaint of the nuisance had been made by the New Jersey Game and Fish Commission.

The communication, which is self-explanatory, is as follows:

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—Referring to the article in your issue of the 23d inst., regarding the pollution of the Rahway River:

We do not manufacture or produce sulphuric acid, neither do we use it for any purpose whatever at Garwood. A thorough analysis has been made by the most eminent chemists in the United States of the water from Fisher's Brook, and nothing whatever was found that could contaminate the water, much less kill the fish therein.

Notwithstanding this we have at the instance of the State authorities constructed filter beds, through which the small quantity of waste liquors which we have is percolated.

HARKEN YE.

To the Voice of Plainfield People.

If you will but listen to your friends and neighbors, they will tell you how the pains and aches of a bad back, the nervousness, the restlessness that come from kidney ills can be relieved and cured. Read what one Plainfield citizen says:

Mrs. R. Wortman, living with her daughter, Mrs. S. E. Cook, of 204 Somerset street, says: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills with good results for severe pains across my back and hips, which no doubt was caused by the kidneys being out of order. It was painful to stoop or bend forward and I could not sit ten minutes in one position, but had to be continually changing about. I used many different kinds of medicine recommended for kidney trouble, but I could not see that any of them benefitted me. Doan's Kidney Pills were procured for me at L. W. Randolph's drug store and it is the only remedy I ever used that gave me any relief. I always keep a supply of them on hand and would not think of being without them."

CARRIE NATION AGAIN.

Smasher From Kansas Takes a Steamboat Ride.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Mrs. Carrie Nation, the Kansas joint smasher, who went to Coney Island to lecture yesterday afternoon, made things quite interesting for the passengers on board the Iron steamboat Pegasus. The captain of the vessel at one time told her he would put her in the hold and keep her locked up there if she didn't behave herself.

Handly had Mrs. Nation got on board when she began to exhort the male passengers to throw away their cigars. A few of them puffed smoke in her face, but she didn't seem to mind a little discourtesy like that and kept on talking. She ran across a man who was asleep on a camp chair with a half smoked cigar held between his fingers. She deftly relieved him of it and threw it overboard. He woke up, pulled another cigar from his pocket and ran off to a safe spot where he could enjoy it without interruption. She asked several persons to give her their cigars. Many of them obeyed, and she threw all the cigars which she could collect overboard.

Mrs. Nation showed a disposition at this point to become quiet, but a waiter passing with a glass of beer on a tray aroused her smashing instincts, and she made a dash for him. The crowd saved the waiter, and he delivered the beer to the thirsty customer in safety.

The smasher then learned that there was a bar on the lower deck of the steamboat. She headed for it at once, with the passengers at her heels. She walked over to the bar, picked up several glasses and threw them on the floor, spilling the contents.

It was at this point that the captain warned her, and two of the employees quickly put her out of the barroom.

She then stood on a chair on the lower deck and began to make one of her characteristic speeches.

Prominent Democrats to Meet.

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 3.—Considerable significance is thought to attach to the acceptance of an invitation from the Jacksonian club of this city to speak at its annual picnic Sept. 21 by Governor Culberson of Texas and Governor McMillan of Tennessee. William Jennings Bryan has also signified his willingness to address the Democrats of Nebraska at that time, which is said to add to the significance of the occasion. It is not known what steps if any will be taken toward outlining future policies and discussing probable Democratic candidates, but one or two party leaders have intimated that these matters will come up. The club had partially decided to extend an invitation to David B. Hill to be present.

His course apparently was to Point Allerton, on the Hingham shore, fifteen miles from here.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 3.—The second official trial race of the Columbia and the Constitution had practically no result. The yachts for lack of wind were unable to finish within the time limit of five and one-half hours.

ARRESTED IN LONDON

Dr. Krause Charged With Treason.

FORWARDED INFORMATION TO BOERS

Military Administration at Cape Town Has Determined to Deport All Boers In Reconcentrado Camps.

LONDON, Sept. 3.—Dr. Krause, former governor of Johannesburg and a prominent official of the late Transvaal government, was arrested in London last night on a charge of high treason. He will be arraigned today at Bow street police court.

For the past four months Dr. Krause has been living in Great Britain. It is alleged that after signifying his allegiance to the British crown he secretly forwarded information to the Boers.

The warrant was issued some time ago, but the police were not able to find him until yesterday, when they ascertained that he was coming from Inverness with his sister, Mrs. Dixon, who is said to be the wife of a British officer.

It was Dr. Krause who handed to Lord Roberts the keys of Johannesburg on the occasion of the surrender.

A Cape Town dispatch says that the military administration has determined to deport all the Boers in the reconcentration camps, numbering upward of a hundred thousand, to garrisoned towns on the coast, where food is more readily available.

The railways, thus relieved, will probably suffice to supply food for the population of Johannesburg, which is as large as before the war, permitting the reopening of all the mines.

Major General Sir John Ardagh, the representative of the British foreign office before the Transvaal compensation commission, presented to the commission as part of the British case against the American and other claimants the report of Captain Carl Reichmann, who was United States military attache with the Boers, from which it appeared that the Irish-American ambulance corps originally consisted of fifty-three men. On their arrival at Pretoria forty-six of them threw away their Red Cross badges and took up Mausers.

Captain Reichmann was quoted as saying that the works of the Netherlands railroad and the dynamite factory at Johannesburg were turned into Boer arsenals, and consequently the claimants who had worked therein could not be entitled to damages for deportation.

Coal Miners' Strike Probable.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Sept. 3.—President John Mitchell and District Presidents T. D. Nichols, Thomas Duffy and John Fahey will go to New York some day this week to confer with the presidents of the coal carrying roads relative to the settlement of the grievances complained of at the Hazleton convention last week. Unless the negotiations prove successful it is thought the executive officers by reason of the power vested in them by the Hazleton convention will order strikes at several collieries in the Wyoming region, where the miners claim the companies have broken agreements made with their employees. The impression seems to prevail here that if Messrs. Mitchell, Nichols, Duffy and Fahey are successful in getting a hearing in New York they will be referred to the district superintendents of the mines. This will not be considered a satisfactory answer, as, it is alleged, the superintendents have persistently refused to listen to any of the grievances complained of by the miners.

The Eastwick Forgery Case.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 3.—Friends of Miss Marie Josephine Eastwick learned with surprise the story of her trouble in London. Although she has only been an occasional visitor to Philadelphia in recent years, her charming personality and her high social position in this city have, despite her indifference to society, made her well known in local social circles. Miss Eastwick is about 32 years old. She is a granddaughter of the late Harrison Eastwick. Her father, Edward P. Eastwick, was formerly associated with the Havemeyers in the sugar refining business, and when he retired fourteen years ago he was reputed to be a millionaire.

General Sewell Returns.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Broken in health, General W. J. Sewell of New Jersey returned home on the Red Star line steamship Vaderland. The general is said to be suffering from a complication of diseases and was so weak that he had to be assisted from the steamship. He was met by his secretary, H. J. Rumrille, on whose arm he leaned while walking to the Pennsylvania tug Belvidere, on which he was taken to Jersey City. Mrs. Sewell followed him down the gangway. General Sewell has been abroad for several months in search of health. Most of the time he was at Carlsbad. His health, it is said, has not improved.

Prince Chun Off For Berlin.

BASEL, Switzerland, Sept. 3.—At 11 o'clock last night Prince Chun and his entourage left for Berlin by the imperial special train. Before starting a member of the mission said that Emperor William had decided to waive the ceremony of kotowing and that the only persons to be received by him in ceremonial audience would be Prince Chun and Ying Chang. The member of the mission in question said also that the mission would remain in Berlin for a fortnight and had received and accepted invitations from the British, Italian, American, Belgian and Japanese governments.

The French Vacate Peking.

PARIS, Sept. 3.—M. de Lanessan, minister of marine, has received a dispatch from Peking announcing that the French have formally handed over the Palace of Ancestors and the Imperial City to the Chinese plenipotentiaries and that only one French battalion remains in the old French quarter. Paotingfu and the other points adjacent to that occupied by the French have been evacuated, the dispatch says, after salutes to the tricolor from Chinese regulars.

Academy Heavily Endowed.

BOSTON, Sept. 3.—The trustees and principal of Vermont academy are rejoicing over the raising of $90,000 for the endowment of this institution, which is located at Saxtons River, Vt. Some time ago John D. Rockefeller agreed to give the academy $15,000 if $75,000 could be raised among the friends and alumni of the school.

LABORERS' HOLIDAY.

A General Observance of the Day.

PARADES AND FAMILY OUTINGS.

A Time For Recreation and Enjoyment For Thousands of Workingmen and Their Families Throughout the Country.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Labor day in Greater New York was marked this year with less formal observance than in the past. Parades and gatherings to hear the talks of the leaders among the workingmen gave place to picnics and family outings.

Some organizations marched individually, and addresses on labor were features of the programmes at different places where athletic games and dancing were the magnets, but the great majority looked for pure enjoyment and sought the beaches, nearby groves and excursion steamers, while others crowded the picnic grounds, baseball parks and race tracks.

It was essentially a holiday, and the thousands were out for fun and got it despite the showers that began at noon.

The chief parade of the day was that of the bridge and structural iron workers. The men marched 3,000 strong, with bands and banners, making a fine showing.

They were an army of Vulcans, all big and brawny, clad in blue shirts with white buttons, dark trousers and wearing drab army hats.

The grand marshal was Samuel Parks, chief delegate of the union, and the aids were John Kelly and Patrick Flynn.

Other organizations took shorter marches to various picnic grounds, and by early afternoon all had disbanded and joined the army of merrymakers.

The city was quite deserted, more than half the town being off on the celebration.

There were no parades in Brooklyn, the Brooklyn Central Labor union celebrating at the Ridgewood Coliseum.

As has been the custom for fourteen years, the Brooklyn Knights of Labor under District Assembly No. 220 celebrated with a big reunion and seaside festival.

Riots In Savannah.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Sept. 3.—Business of all kinds was practically suspended from noon for Labor day. There was a parade of organized labor through the streets, in which both races participated. A feature of the parade was the fact that the line was led by the negro union of bricklayers. After the parade the unions took trains for Tybee island, twenty miles distant, where the principal events of the day were to occur. During the afternoon there was much boisterousness at the island, and a number of individual fights occurred. At night there occurred what promised to become a general and dangerous riot between civilians and soldiers from Fort Screven. A call was sent to the fort for troops to quell the disturbance, but for some reason there was no response. After the rioting subsided it was found there were many broken heads and noses, but no fatalities.

Labor Day Accidents.

OSWEGO, N. Y., Sept. 3.—The celebration of Labor day here was marred by two accidents, in one of which a policeman was probably fatally injured and in the other a number of persons badly cut and bruised. During the parade Policeman Frank Milo's horse ran away, throwing the officer to the ground with such force as to cause concussion of the brain. He also sustained a broken shoulder and was badly cut and bruised. A dozen people were knocked down and trampled upon by the horse before it was secured. None was seriously hurt, however. The collapse of a truck in the parade on which was a huge boiler injured several men. Frank Boardway had his leg broken, and it is thought he received internal injuries. John Ryan and August Kata received severe cuts and bruises, and four others were severely hurt.

Philadelphia's Big Parade.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 3.—Labor day was generally observed in this city. Business was practically suspended, and commercial institutions and municipal departments were closed. The various industrial establishments supplied hundreds of workmen for the parade which took place in the forenoon. There was a big demonstration by the trades unions at Washington park, on the Delaware river, where sports, speechmaking and jollification were the order during the entire day. Among the speakers were Carrie Nation and Max S. Hayes of Cleveland. It is estimated that over one hundred thousand union workmen participated in the celebration.

Bryan at Kansas City.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 3.—Labor day was marked by the largest and most imposing parade of labor unions ever seen here and by the participation of William Jennings Bryan in the procession and exercises. Eight thousand men marched through the streets, grouped in their unions and each union wearing a distinguished uniform. Mr. Bryan occupied a carriage at the head of the line and was cheered as he was recognized. A striking feature of the parade was the hod carriers' union, composed of 225 colored men, led by a colored band.

Big Demonstration at Columbia, S. C.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Sept. 3.—The largest Labor day celebration ever seen in this city occurred yesterday. Between two thousand and three thousand people participated. No disturbances occurred. The parade formed at the capitol and marched from there to the fair grounds, where the speaking and sports were held. The most conspicuous feature of the procession was the members of the textile union, 1,000 of whom are now on a strike against the mills of which W. B. Smith-Whaley is president.

Thousands March In Chicago.

CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—Organized workingmen in Chicago and vicinity celebrated Labor day with numerous picnics and a huge parade. It is estimated that 25,000 trades unionists and musicians were in line. Business was generally suspended. South Chicago steel workers who refused to obey President Shaffer's strike order were not invited to participate. They enjoyed themselves at a picnic arranged by their employers.

The Day at Buffalo

BUFFALO, Sept. 3.—Business was generally suspended here Labor day, and thousands of mechanics and laborers turned out in a monster parade, under the auspices of the United Trades and Labor Council of Erie County. The parade was composed of six grand divisions. The first division was made up of miscellaneous organizations. The second division was composed entirely of members of German trade organizations, the third of railroad employees, and the fourth, fifth and sixth of members of the iron trades, the printing trades and the building trades. There were between eight thousand and ten thousand men in line.

Labor Day In Alabama.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 3.—Labor day was celebrated here on a more extensive scale than usual. Upward of five thousand men were in the parade. Many unique trades displays were in line. The afternoon was spent at the state fair grounds, where horse racing and other sports took place.

Richmond's Demonstration.

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 3.—The Labor day parade in Richmond was the largest and finest ever seen here. There were 4,000 men in line, most of them neatly and appropriately uniformed. Some fifteen or twenty thousand people witnessed the demonstration.

Generally Observed In Maryland.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 3.—Labor day was generally observed in Maryland. It is estimated that between 35,000 and 40,000 workmen in this city participated in parades, meetings, picnics and other festivities arranged by the labor unions in honor of the day.

STRIKERS GET UNRULY.

Unlawful Actions About the Star Plant In Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 3.—The big Labor day demonstration monopolized the attention of workmen and strikers here and in the surrounding towns, but the steel manufacturers went on making preparations for the opening of the plants that are shut down by the strike and increasing the number of men at the mills already in partial operation.

Public interest in the strike itself is lagging, as the contest seems to have settled down to an issue of endurance. Only the unusual incidents connected with each day's doings receive notice by those not directly affected by the struggle. Evidences of impatience are cropping out on the side of the strikers and fears that the unlawful acts participated in by the strikers about the Star tin plant may multiply and spread to other quarters.

The officials of the Star plant claim that the pickets about their mill held up a special delivery boy from the postoffice with a letter for the office while he was coming down Twelfth street and inspected the letter before he was allowed to proceed. The matter will be reported to the postal authorities at once. It is also charged that the strikers stoned the company carriage on Pennsylvania avenue, but did no special damage to the occupants. The aggressiveness of the strikers was further demonstrated when a mob surrounded William Jones, a colored man, who was mistaken for a non-union man from the Star works. He had a narrow escape from serious injury and possibly death by the appearance of Police Lieutenant Crossan, who came to his rescue. Before Crossan could secure additional aid he was almost overwhelmed by the large crowd that had gathered. The prompt arrival of a large force of officers probably saved Jones from being lynched, as the mob appeared a desperate one, and many demands were made that he be strung up.

Massachusetts Prohibitionists.

BOSTON, Sept. 3.—The Prohibitionists of Massachusetts have laid down the gauge of battle by declaring their principles and naming their ticket for the impending state political campaign. There were 204 delegates, representing 61 towns and cities, and a big audience of men and women not delegates at the state convention held at Tremont temple. The ticket named follows: For governor, John B. Lewis, Jr., of Reading; for lieutenant governor, William H. Partridge of Newton; for secretary of the commonwealth, Frederick W. Clark of Boston; for treasurer and receiver general, George E. Batchelder of Lynnfield; for auditor, J. W. Smith of Dalton; for attorney general, Allen Coffen of Nantucket. The platform of principles, which was unanimously adopted, declared that the supreme issue before the American people is the liquor traffic and its attendant evils, that the attitude of the state toward the liquor traffic affects favorably or adversely every interest of the people and that an independent political party with prohibition of the liquor traffic as its paramount issue is an inevitable necessity.

A Special Delivery Experiment.

MACON, Ga., Sept. 3.—Postmaster Edwards of this city has been granted permission by the postoffice department to experiment with the special delivery system to the extent of using postal messengers as the telegraph companies use call boys. A telephone is in the postoffice, and if a letter or parcel is to be sent anywhere in the city a messenger boy may be summoned. He takes the letter to the postoffice and records it. Then he carries it to the addressee. The total cost to the sender is 12 cents. The advantage in this over the old system is the ease and promptness with which a letter is sent to the postoffice from the resident portions of cities.

Oyster Season Open.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 3.—The oyster season opened auspiciously yesterday in this state. At least twenty pungies are expected in port with many bushels of bivalves as a result of the first day's work. Eighty-five cents a bushel is the prevailing price. Over a hundred men stopped work upon the new buildings for the Naval academy at Annapolis in order to engage in the business of tonging oysters. The vacant places were filled by the arrival of outside workmen.

Sculler Greer Defeated Lewis.

BOSTON, Sept. 3.—Frank B. Greer, the Jeffries Point sculler, vanquished Charles Lewis of the Wachusetts of Worcester in the championship senior single scull race at the N. E. A. R. A. regatta on the Charles river, defeating Champion Ten Eyck's double scull mate by about two lengths in the very fast time of 9m. 58s. The race was the spectacular event of the regatta and was held under the most favorable conditions possible.

ROOSEVELT IN THE WEST.

A Strenuous Day For the Vice President.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Sept. 3.—The vice president had a strenuous time yesterday. Arriving in the morning, he was the orator of the day at the formal opening of the Minnesota state fair by invitation of the Minnesota Agricultural society. He shook a thousand hands at a reception following the exercises, was the guest of the fair association at luncheon on the grounds and reviewed the Third infantry and First artillery, Minnesota national guard. Colonel Roosevelt occupied the judges' stand at the race track with General Miles, Archbishop Ireland and Governor Van Sant of Minnesota. The grand stand was literally packed, and when Governor Van Sant introduced the honored guest the welcome was one which the vice president will long remember. The audience was responsive throughout the address, and he had frequently to pause before he could make himself heard.

The vice president was followed with brief remarks by General Miles.

The hours of the afternoon were spent by the vice presidential party viewing the exhibits. Those which appeared to interest the vice president most were found in the dairy and fat stock pavilions.

During the review of the troops Colonel Roosevelt, mounted on a spirited animal, rode down the lines, followed by General Miles and Governor Van Sant, afterward taking a position on the race track, where the troops marched in review. This over, he went to the home of National Committeeman Thomas H. Shevlin for an hour's rest.

Mr. Shevlin was host and Colonel Roosevelt the honored guest at night at a dinner given at the Minneapolis club. About a hundred invited guests were in attendance, and the function was formal and elaborate.

MUNIR BEY ORDERED OUT.

The Turkish Embassador Leaves France.

PARIS, Sept. 3.—The result of Munir Bey, the Turkish embassador to France, coming to Paris, in spite of the rupture of Franco-Turkish relations, and holding a fete in the most open way at the Turkish embassy in honor of the anniversary of the sultan's accession to the throne has been that the French government sent him the same afternoon a request to leave France immediately, and Munir Bey departed for Switzerland that evening.

Advices received here from Turkey indicate a disquieting internal situation. Disorders and military uprisings are reported in Armenia, Macedonia and the neighborhood of Mecca. The son of a high functionary was carried off by brigands near Adrianople, who fought a bloody engagement with the troops sent against them.

A dispatch from Salonika says that Nouri Bey, aid-de-camp of the sultan, who was sent to investigate the brigandage in Albania, has been killed by Albanians.

It is also said that the Turkish troops at Prisrend, Albania, and Uskub (a hundred miles from Salonika) are rioting because they have not been paid.

M. Constans, the French embassador to Turkey, had another conference with the French foreign minister, M. Delcasse. The government of France is determined to compel Turkey to fulfill her entire obligations. Unless the sultan yields shortly he will find the bill against him increased by a number of other outstanding claims of Frenchmen which will make an appreciable addition to the sum now demanded.

Independence Could Not Sail.

BOSTON, Sept. 3.—The yacht Independence, built at a great cost, some say of a quarter of a million of dollars, for Mr. Thomas W. Lawson, who hoped to use her as a candidate for America's cup honors and which purpose failed, went out yesterday for what was to be her last sail. As the breeze failed, she will have a try today. Mr. Lawson kept his promise that the people of Boston should see her under sail and in racing trim before she went out of commission. She never looked finer than yesterday, sails, rigging, deck and hull spic and span, her crew in their attractive racing uniforms and Captain Hank Haff at the wheel. In the afternoon, when there were no prospects of a breeze, the Independence was towed back to her anchorage.

Two Men Shot.

WALPOLE, Mass., Sept. 3.—Two men were shot and seriously wounded here as the outcome of a quarrel between Fred L. Jenks, a Millis machinist, and Myra Belle Spear, a young woman with whom he had been keeping company. Jenks thought that Miss Spear did not care for him as much as formerly, and by way of emphasizing a protest he threatened to shoot her. Charles Maiers of Norwood saw the infuriated man point a revolver at the girl, and when he grappled with Jenks the latter shot him in the body, the bullet entering four inches below the heart. Jenks then shot himself near the heart. He is not expected to live, but there is a slight chance that his victim will recover.

Insane Criminal Escapes.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—Thomas Donahue, said to be one of the most dangerous criminals with which the police of this country had to deal, escaped during Sunday night from the New Jersey Asylum For Insane Criminals, located at Morristown. He was under sentence for tapping a Newark saloon till. He had frequently threatened to kill his keepers and was kept in the "strong room" of the asylum. His cell was searched every day, but he succeeded in sawing through the patent lock on the door of the room and the chilled steel bars of the outer corridor. How he got the implements with which to escape is still a mystery.

Unrest In Persia.

COLOGNE, Sept. 3.—A dispatch to the Cologne Gazette from Teheran, dated Aug. 31, says: "A widespread revolutionary movement is going on in Persia, fostered by discontent with the government on account of the new loan negotiations with Russia. The grand vizier is accused of selling the country and failing to make reforms. Martial law has been proclaimed in the capital and environs. The agitation, it is said, proceeds from the entourage of the shah, who frequently finds threatening letters upon his writing table."

Mailcoach Robbed.

SYDNEY, N. S. W., Sept. 3.—A masked cyclist held up the White Cliffs-Hillcania mailcoach, wounded a passenger, secured the mails and opals valued at £1,400 and escaped.

A TOWN THREATENED

Bocas del Toro Besieged by Insurgents.

COLOMBIA'S TROUBLES THICKEN.

Martial Law Prevails, and Communication With Other Ports Except Colon Has Been Stopped—Foreigners Enter Complaint.

COLON, Colombia, Sept. 3.—Bocas del Toro, 140 miles west of Colon, is virtually besieged by the Liberals or insurgents. They number at least two hundred and, as already cabled, occupy Provision island, which is opposite the town and commands the entrance to the harbor. They are fairly well armed, possessing two small modern cannon as well as plenty of ammunition, and are commanded by a Nicaraguan. Among them are many Nicaraguans and Costa Rican Liberals.

For more than a month the Liberals have been threatening the town. About a fortnight ago they improved their position on Provision island about a mile and a half from Bocas del Toro, which is also on an island, and the opposing forces have occasionally exchanged shots, although, with the exception of one Jamaican wounded, there have been no casualties.

Among the Liberals are several who own property in Bocas del Toro. The Liberals express no desire or intention to damage the town or to molest foreigners or foreign vessels. There is easy communication by mail with the land east and west of Bocas del Toro. Cannon, arms and ammunition are obtained from coast towns in Costa Rica and Nicaragua, Bocas del Toro being about forty miles from the Costa Rican frontier.

The Liberal position is strong, and the situation is likely to remain as it is until one side or the other makes an attack. Such an action would subject the attacking party to the severe fire of their opponents, as it would be necessary to pass from Bocas del Toro to Provision island, or vice versa, in small open boats. Neither side is inclined to take this risk. The Liberals profess to believe that a prolongation of the present situation would result in a withdrawal of the government force from Bocas del Toro. Counting reenforcements, the government has about one hundred and seventy men there, and the town can only be reached by very light draft steamers through roundabout channels.

Martial law prevails in Bocas del Toro. The authorities have stopped communication with other ports except Colon. They have stopped local fishing and forbidden passage along the streets after 8 o'clock at night. Foreigners claim that the measures adopted for harbor supervision materially injure commerce. Two Germans were sent to jail for expressing their views too freely in a cafe, and it needed the intervention of the German consul to effect their release.

The United States, French, British and German consular agents in Bocas del Toro told the Colombian commander there that if the severe harbor restrictions interrupting commerce were not abated they would call for gunboats. These representations resulted in a limited improvement only in harbor conditions.

The local trade, which has been chiefly in bananas sent to the United States, is virtually dead. Fruit steamers from Mobile and New Orleans are getting only partial cargoes, the disturbed conditions preventing work on the plantations. The foreign element predominates in the town—Americans, Germans, British and Chinese in the order named. The United Fruit company of Boston owns many banana plantations in the neighborhood.

The United States consular agent in Bocas del Toro has made an urgent appeal to the United States consul in Colon to send a gunboat. Commander Sargent of the United States gunboat Machias is fully informed of the situation, and if this does not improve shortly the Machias will probably proceed to Bocas del Toro. The Liberals on Provision island say the presence of the Machias will not alter the situation, as they have in no way interfered with or injured foreigners, and the government alone is responsible for the restrictions laid upon commerce.

Our Time In Cuba.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—It was definitely learned that the United States government will not withdraw from Cuba for at least seven or eight months. American control will continue until after all the elections are held for the selection of government officials, including a president, which under the Cuban constitution cannot be completed for several months. General Leonard Wood, who has recovered from his attack of yellow fever, reported at the war department yesterday his arrival in Washington on his way to Norfolk, Va., where he will go aboard the Kanawha, which will sail today for Havana. General Wood is returning in time to make arrangements for the coming election for senators and representatives.

The Belgian Steamer's Loss.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 3.—The Belgian steamer Noranmore, whose loss while bound from Batoum for Bombay was reported Sunday, foundered in the Black sea during the night of Aug. 25 in a severe storm. The solitary survivor of a crew of forty was picked up four days later in an open boat and was landed at Rizeh, east of Trebizonde. Nothing is known as to how the others met their fate.

Flanagan's Great Hammer Throw.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—At the annual Labor day athletic meeting of the Greater New York Irish-American Athletic association at Celtic park, Long Island City, John Flanagan, the champion 116 pound hammer thrower of the world, added new figures to his former record by throwing the missile 171 feet 9 inches, breaking the former record by 2 feet 5 inches.

Heroic Miners Rewarded.

LONDON, Sept. 3.—Andrew Carnegie has given £100 each to Sheddon, Law, Jones and Dick, four miners who displayed conspicuous bravery in the rescue of their comrades at the time of the recent Dolnibristle (Perthshire) colliery disaster.

Railway Collision.

PHENIXVILLE, Pa., Sept. 3.—A northbound passenger train on the Schuylkill Valley railroad collided with a freight train at Spring City, near here. A number of persons were slightly injured, and several cars were wrecked.

A Great State.

Some time since, the managers of the Pan-American Exposition set apart Friday, September 13, as New Jersey Day. Arrangements on an elaborate scale have now been perfected and the occasion promises to be an auspicious one. The Governor and his staff, distinguished men throughout the State and a multitude of citizens from every walk in life will be in attendance. It is proposed to grasp the opportunity to herald abroad the greatness of New Jersey and the abundant resources within its borders. Some of the plans of the State commission, having the matter in charge, have been wisely laid and, undoubtedly, will be carried out to the credit of the fair name of New Jersey. Among the purposes of the commission is one to distribute broadcast a compact little digest, which has already been issued, entitled the New Jersey Handbook.

This small volume contains, within its covers, a recount of the possibilities, resources and advantages of the State. It is devoted largely to the position occupied by the State in agriculture. Few possess a correct idea of our wealth in this respect, although Jersey crops are a by-word all over the country. The standard of excellence of our vegetables and fruit is the envy of sister States. Rich soil, properly tilled by the proverbial Jersey farmer, is the important factor which is largely responsible for our position in the agricultural world. It is claimed, and the contention is undoubtedly true, that Jersey farm lands command a higher price than those of any other State in the Union. We are, indeed, wealthy and prosperous in agriculture.

Good roads is another factor which has made other States jealous of us. The roadbeds, through the length and breadth of the State, are of a superior quality. They are not natural by any means, but have been brought to their present condition by wise provision made by the people through their legislature and religiously carried out. Still another source of our greatness has been the grandeur of the scenery, combined with the general healthiness of the State. People are contented to live and truly enjoy life in a State where natural grandeur abounds. The diversified topography is rarely to be found in a State of the area of New Jersey. Yet another feature of the State is that it forms a connecting link between the north and the south and the east and the west. Its beautiful ocean shores attract hordes of people from far and wide. The government of the State, laying aside all partisan expression, is now and has been in the past exceptionally good, when compared with that of a sister State.

New Jersey is great and it is gratifying to know that an opportunity is presented, whereby its greatness can be brought to national attention.

Some interesting facts are to be gleaned from a bulletin recently issued by the census bureau. It shows that there are exactly 149 more women in this State than men, and that, out of the total population, 96 2 per cent. are white. The bulletin also shows that 22.1 per cent. of the population is foreign born. It is not surprising that there is such a large percentage of foreign born persons, when it is considered that the State is in close proximity geographically with the principal sea port where the general run of foreigners land. It is surprising, however, that the number of women and men in the State are almost equivalent. We need just 149 young men to settle here to even matters up.

One of the most liberal offers yet made by a petitioner for a water supply franchise emanates from a resident of Bernardsville. S. S. Childs, the restaurant-millionaire, is the man who makes the offer. He promises to furnish an abudance of water in that borough this fall, and in Basking Ridge within a year. The pipes will be laid in every street where a request is made. He also agrees to put in the necessary fire plugs and to furnish water free for fire department purposes. It is understood that the franchise will be granted. Now it's up to Mayor Smalley.

A Boston merchant tells The Transcript, says the Philadelphia Record, that his object in advertising is to get the people to his store; that once he has them there he can sell to them what they had no idea of buying at the outset. To attract people he always has some useful article to offer at a low price. "The newspaper is the only medium of publicity which I have any use for, but of newspaper space I use a great deal," he adds.

Councilman vanHerwerden has set the fashion. His arrest as an anarchist suspect, a few weeks ago, is brought to mind by a cable dispatch that William K. Vanderbilt was subjected to the same treatment, because of his anxiety to see the Queen. Pierpont Morgan had better keep away from the Hague.

The band concerts have been marked by great outpourings, but the outpourings have been of people and not of cash. A small donation is not a great loss to the contributor, but is the means of making a large number of persons happy while the music lasts. Let the band play.!

Paterson can't loose her reputation. Raiding alleged boarding houses, where they served beer for tea, is the latest story from that famous and infamous place. It is time for the Paterson papers to come to the rescue of their city and explain away the affair.

What's become of those street signs which were to be labelled North Plainfield and placed at the dividing line between the city and the borough? It seems that after all the North Plainfielders do not mind being confused with the Plainfielders.

The Columbia defeated the Constitution in the first trial race. Some politicians claim that the constitution covers everything, but the fact is that this particular one could not cover the course satisfactorily.

Yesterday was Labor Day and every one got tired from the enjoyment of the occasion. Today is another labor day and they're tired just the same. What's the difference?

A romantic couple were married one day last week in an undertaker's shop in Jersey City. Although it was not a burial, it was a funereal affair.

September is here and with it come the oysters. There are eight months of R and in each of them the oyster is in season.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence.)

Scoth Plains, September 3.—One of the closest and most exciting games of ball this season was played Saturday afternoon when the local team crossed bats on the Westfield avenue grounds with the strong Aeolian team from Garwood. The game throughout was of a quick, snappy order which gave the rooters for both nines plenty of chance to get in their fine work at rattling the pitchers, but it did no good as both Harvey of the local club and Force of the visitors pitched a steady game and were well supported throughout the whole nine innings. Scotch Plains by heavy hitting and clever base running brought in 2 runs in the first inning and scored 1 more in the third but after this it was one, two, three and out. Garwood was shut out until the eighth inning when they were able to bring one man across the plate, no more scoring was done by either team and the game was placed to the credit of the home nine by a score of 3 to 1.

Score by innings.

CLAMBAKE A BIG SUCCESS.

CLERKS OF BUTCHERS AND GROCERS ENJOY LABOR DAY AT DEWEY PARK.

Winners of the Athletic Events—James E. Martine Speaks—Drake's Talk.

Fully 1,200 people attended the butchers' and grocers' clerks clambake and athletic games at Dewey Park yesterday. It proved to be one of the most successful events scheduled for the day. The grounds were profusely decorated with flags and the tables were placed in the grove.

While the sports and feasting were the chief attraction, S. D. Drake, as master of ceremonies, took opportunity to call the assemblage together and address them in a few words. He related his experiences as a clerk and them administered some wholesome political advice. He said if he had the power he would nominate James E. Martine for governor of New Jersey.

Following Mr. Drake's remarks Mr. Martine, himself, was introduced amid long applause. He said that to be even mentioned as fit for governor of the Commonwealth of New Jersey was an honor, but as he had come to eat and not to talk, he preferred to do the former. He took occasion, however, to pay a glowing tribute to labor and condemn the trusts, saying they were an enemy of the workingman.

The list of athletic events and the winners were as follows:

Baseball game, between butcher and grocer clerks team, won by the latter by a score of 10 to 3. Prize, silver cup, offered by S. D. Drake.

100-yard dash—Henry Angerbauer, first, George Herman, second. Prize, silver cup.

Four hundred and forty-yard dash—Henry Angerbauer, first; J. McMacMahon, second; George Herman, third. Prizes, first, silver hat brush; second and third, silver berry spoons.

One mile run—John Forman, first; Thomas Kelly, second.

One mile relay race between butcher and grocer teams; won by latter composed of Henry Angerbauer, Harry Raiden, George Herman and Joseph Plum. Prizes, gold cuff buttons to each man of team.

Tug of war—Won by Pond Tool Works' team. Prizes, gold watch charms to each member of winning team.

Those in charge of the festivities were: Races and games, Conrad Knoth; clambake and music, J. L Bennett; refreshments, Henry Angerbauer; manager and preparer of clambake, Jerry Foss.

President's Day at the Pan-American

THE CHIEF EXECUTIVE WILL VISIT THE BIG SHOW ON THURSDAY, SEPT. 5---CABINET OFFICIALS AND SUPREME COURT JUDGES TO BE PRESENT.

PRESIDENT WILLIAM M'KINLEY will be the guest of the Pan-American Exposition on Thursday, Sept. 5. The day will be known as President's day. The presidential party, including Mrs. McKinley, Mrs. Barbour, Dr. and Mrs. Rixey and Mr. Cortelyou, will go from the President's home at Canton by way of Cleveland, arriving in Buffalo in time to devote the day to the Exposition. The President and his party will be the guests of the Hon. John G. Milburn, president of the Pan-American Exposition Company. The President's Cabinet and the Supreme Court will also attend him while in Buffalo.

At 11 o'clock on the morning of the 5th an escort of United States troops will meet the President's party, the Cabinet and the Supreme Court at President Milburn's house and accompany them to the Exposition, entering at the Lincoln parkway gate, at the southern end of the grounds. Here they will be received by the director general of the Exposition, the Hon. William I. Buchanan, the board of directors and other officers of the Exposition and conducted to a reviewing stand in the Esplanade. All the ceremonies of the day will be within the Exposition grounds. A magnificent pageant will pass in review. From the reviewing stand the President and his party will go to the Stadium, where he will deliver his address. The Stadium will seat some 12,000 people, and a vast concourse will thus have the opportunity of hearing him.

At the conclusion of his address the President will be escorted to the New York State building, where his party, his Cabinet and the members of the Supreme Court and the foreign representatives at the Exposition will be the guests of the New York State board. Luncheon will be served in this building. From the New York State building the President will go to the main Government building, where a reception will be held in the rotunda. This building will be closed to the general public for the time being, admission being by card only. Invitations to meet the President will be issued by the Government board. At the close of this reception the President will be conducted to such buildings as he may desire to see, including a trip to the Electric Tower to view the Exposition from the lofty loggia.

There has been no time since the opening of the Exposition when a visit to the great show could be more delightful. Everything connected with the enterprise is at the zenith of its glory. Every night the magnificent illumination takes place; the fountains are everywhere active; the floral decorations and the exhibits of flowers are at the height of their perfection; the best of musicians are playing every day in the Temple of Music and in the various band stands; the military camps are alive with troops, which lend their share to the public entertainment by daily drills and parades; the Midway is gay and noisy every day and evening; the crowds are big and every day growing bigger. Indeed, nothing is lacking to make the Exposition complete, and its magnificence can never be adequately described.

In the various exhibit buildings everything is moving with most interesting regularity. The large number of moving exhibits in the 20 or more great structures devoted to exhibits give to these magnificent displays of merchandise a very keen interest. Never was American enterprise more perfectly exploited than here at the Pan-American. The variety is something particularly noteworthy. There is no tedious repetition of exhibits, but what is shown is intended to be and is typical of the particular industry to which it may belong.

One cannot see the Pan-American satisfactorily in a week. He should have at least ten days or two weeks and as much more as he can afford. Those who live continually at the Exposition do not tire of its festivity and grandeur, for every day presents a new programme and a new interest. To participate in this wondrous celebration of a century's achievements in the western world must be accounted by every one who has a proper sense of appreciation as a privilege to be valued beyond price.

Many important days have been announced for observance at the Exposition, among them the following:

Rochester Day, Sept. 7.

Rochester is to have a special day at the Exposition, and Saturday, Sept. 7, has been selected as that day. A train service will be arranged for that date that will comfortably accommodate 25,000 people, and specials will be run over the Central, Erie, Lehigh Valley and West Shore direct to the terminal station at the grounds.

The fare has been cut for that day to $1.15 for the round trip. An elaborate programme will be arranged by the Exposition officials in honor of the Flower City people.

Spanish-American War Veterans, Sept. 9.

The members of the Spanish-American War Veterans' Association are to hold a reunion at the Pan-American Exposition on Monday, Sept. 9, and the day will be known as Spanish-American War Veterans' day. Exercises of a patriotic character will be held in the Temple of Music. Many distinguished officers of the Army and Navy will be present. The music at the Exposition on Spanish War Veterans' day will all be of the patriotic order, and there will be dress parades and drills by Uncle Sam's fighting men who are at the show. The association has a large membership, and the majority will attend the reunion.

PRESIDENT M'KINLEY.

Rhode Island Day, Sept. 10.

Rhode Island's special day at the Pan-American Exposition occurs on Sept. 10, the anniversary of Commodore Perry's great naval victory on Lake Erie. Oliver Hazard Perry was a Rhode Islander, and the memory of his triumph is still green in the patriotic, enterprising and productive little state. There will be a reception in the Rhode Island parlors at the New England building and suitable exercises in the Temple of Music. The orator of the day will be Hon. Henry J. Spooner of Providence, a former member of Congress, a man of national reputation and one of Rhode Island's most eloquent public speakers. Governor Gregory and his staff will be present with an escort, which will include a crack cavalry command from the brigade of Rhode Island militia. State officials and distinguished citizens will accompany the official party. The programme in its details is now being arranged by the Hon. John S. Kenyon, president of the Rhode Island commission, who is heartily seconded by the directorate of the Exposition. A company of Rhode Island infantry will be visitors at the Exposition for the week which includes Rhode Island day, and also a number of famous New England Continental commands, with which, it is not at all unlikely, arrangements will be made for something of a military display in connection with the march to the grounds by Governor Gregory, his staff and military escort, the commission and invited guests.

Florida Day, Sept. 11.

Saturday, Sept. 11, has been set aside as Florida day at the Pan-American Exposition. A large number of Florida people will be present. Governor W. S. Jennings and his staff, escorted by three military companies and two bands from Florida, will enter the grounds at 11 o'clock and proceed to the Temple of Music, where the director general, Hon. William I. Buchanan, will deliver an address of welcome. The Governor—by the way, a first cousin of the Hon. W. Jennings Bryan, whom he is said to resemble—will speak on the resources of Florida. The orator of the day will be Charles Parkhill, Esq., of Pensacola, Fla., one of the finest speakers in the South. The presiding officer will be Colonel Thomas M. Weir of Tampa, special commissioner to the Pan-American Exposition for Florida. Appropriate music will be interspersed.

This programme may be elaborated if the Press Association of Florida, 500 in number, can attend on the date designated, Sept. 11.

Builders' Day, Sept. 11.

The National Association of Builders has arranged with the Pan-American Exposition to have Sept. 11 set apart as Builders' day. The idea in mind is that such a day will be the means of bringing together at the Buffalo Exposition builders from all parts of the country, who would naturally have a special interest in the buildings, as well as the Exposition itself, and who would also find much pleasure through assembling in fraternal fashion.

The National Association does not propose to hold any convention meetings, but advantage will be taken of this gathering to have one social affair, possibly a banquet, to which all builders present on the day indicated will be welcomed.

No attempt will be made to secure reduced rates of transportation especially for this occasion, as reduced rates may be negotiated for from almost every section of the country upon fully as favorable terms as could be arranged under any special plan. Associations and individuals are therefore recommended to make their own rates with their local transportation companies or agencies.

Headquarters will be at the Builders' Association Exchange building, corner Court and Pearl streets, Buffalo.

Polish Day, Sept. 12.

The Polish population in the United States is very large, and the special day at the Pan-American Exposition, Sept. 12, which has been fixed in their honor, will undoubtedly attract many thousands of them. Buffalo is one of the great centers of Polish population and many Poles are prominently identified with the industrial, business and political interests of the city. They are very active in creating an interest in the special day and are determined to make it one of the great successes of the Exposition.

New Jersey Day, Sept. 13.

New Jersey, one of the proud original States of the Union, has a building among the State and Foreign buildings of the Pan-American Exposition, and her great industries and splendid resources are displayed in a most comprehensive manner in the great exhibition buildings. The people of New Jersey have good reason to feel proud of the showing made by their State at the great New World's Fair, and they will manifest it in a high degree on Friday, Sept. 13, which has been designated as New Jersey day at the Exposition. Distinguished men have been invited to participate in the State day exercises.

Railroad Day, Sept. 14.

The railroad men of the America will be much in evidence at the Pan-American Exposition on Saturday, Sept. 13, which has been designated as Railroad day by the Exposition management. The special day will be for railroad men generally, and a large attendance is expected. A programme of exercises is being prepared for the occasion. Officials and employees as far as possible will take the day off and have a good time at the Exposition.

Indiana Day, Sept. 14.

Indiana day at the Pan-American Exposition falls on Sept. 14, the date having been selected with a view to giving the greatest number of people of that State an opportunity to attend, particular consideration having been given to the desires of those engaged in agricultural pursuits. Arrangements will be made for special excursions to the Exposition, where ceremonies will be held for Indiana visitors. The most distinguished men of the great State will participate. It promises to be a day of which Indianians may feel justly proud.

Vassar College Day, Sept. 14.

One of the appointed special days at the Pan-American Exposition which is looked forward to with bright anticipations is Vassar College day, Sept. 14, when the students and alumnæ of that famous and popular educational institution will meet for a season of sightseeing. There will be special ceremonies at the Exposition.

Honduras Day, Sept. 15.

Honduras has a handsome building, filled with its products, at the Pan-American Exposition. It is pleasantly situated in the Court of State and Foreign Buildings and is one of the most popular resorts for Exposition visitors. A view of the exhibits is a revelation to those who have not hitherto investigated the resources of the country. Honduras will have a special day at the Exposition, Sunday, Sept. 15, which is the anniversary of Liberty in that country. A programme appropriate to the occasion is being prepared. Many of the chief officials of Honduras will be present.

BICYCLE COSTUMES.

Some Timely Hints on How to Make Them.

To look well on a bicycle the skirt must be sufficiently full to fall on either side of the saddle and yet not be full enough to catch the wind. The front breadth of the skirt should therefore be narrow, with all the fullness coming from the inverted plait in the back. In cycling, as in riding, neatness is of the first importance, and any exaggeration in the way of hats, blouses and ties should be carefully avoided. There must be a certain amount of weight in the skirt to have it look well, and it is far better to have the coat and bodice to match. There is nothing so good as coarse hopsacking for a summer costume in a pretty shade of gray, which does not show the dust and yet has sufficient color to be becoming.

Black of course looks extremely smart, but it shows too much dust.

AUTOMOBILE COAT.

Navy and gray flannels are charming, and nothing is so neat as a bolero, provided, of course, the wearer has small hips. Stout women should never wear boleros; their coats should reach at least three inches below the waist. Quite fetching are the little linen coats in white ecru or gray, but they must be strapped, lined, stitched and weighted, and, above all, they should be made by a good tailor.

The picture shows an up to date automobile coat. The material is mouse gray covert lined with bright red. The upper half is made close fitting by being laid in fine tucks, but at about three inches above the waist this fullness is allowed to flare to the feet. A stitched strap of the cloth comes below the arms in the fashion of a bolero and the lapels are held in place by means of buttoned straps. The sleeves are made in the bishop style, with long tight fitting cuffs.

The automobile cap is made of mouse colored leather, with the band of black patent leather. JUDIC CHOLLET.

FASHION FORECASTS.

Russian Blouses Are to Be Seen a Great Deal This Winter.

The Russian blouse has returned, both in its ugliest and most alluring forms. Velvet coats will be made this winter with the single revers and long skirt belted in with a tucked belt of some fancy material. Already many of the separate waists are being made bloused back as well as front. This style is becoming to a slender and girlish figure, but it should never be attempted by a woman who has any tendency toward stoutness.

There will be a great deal of Persian trimming used in street suits this fall, and, in spite of predictions to the contrary, faint touches of gold and silver. The metallic touches, however, will be dainty and not used in the profusion of last winter. Jeweled lace is another novelty which is being now used abroad and which will be seen on many of the handsomer fall gowns.

A very dainty fall gown is made of pastel blue cloth, trimmed with narrow black soutache braid and little silver buttons. The waist is cut out in the Russian blouse fashion, with a single revers and a collarless effect, from which rises a plain chemisette and collar of the same cloth. The sleeves end at the elbow and are finished by long puffs of cream liberty silk. The skirt is ornamented by three clusters of the soutache braid, and perpendicular clusters of the same braid head the full flounce. The narrow belt is of black velvet. JUDIC CHOLLET.

CHAPTER XVIII.

The long wait for the coming of the big transports with the regulars was over. For the first time in history America was sending her soldiery past the pyramids and through the Indian sea, landing them, after 40 days and nights of voyaging, upon the low, flat shores that hem Manila bay, and shoving them out to the hostile front before their sea-legs could reach the swing and stride of the marching step; yet, to all appearance, as unconcernedly at home as though they had been campaigning in the Philippines since the date of their enlistment. This, to be sure, in the case of more than half their number, would have given them scant time in which to look about them, since raw recruits were more numerous than seasoned men. But no matter what may be his lack of drill or preparation the average Anglo-Saxon never seems to know the time when he doesn't know how to fight. So, with all the easy assurance of a veteran, our Yankee "Tommies" wriggled into their blanket rolls and trudged away to the posts assigned them; and once more the army assumed the aggressive.

There were changes in the composition of the forces even before the move began. The dudes and the "toughs" parted company; and the former, with Stanley Armstrong once more riding silent at their head, joined forces with Stewart's riddled regiment up the railway toward Malolos. Col. Frost had succeeded in convincing the surgeons that he would be as much out of place as his name itself in such a clime and climate, and was in daily expectation of an order home. Billy Gray, mending only slowly, had been sent to Corregidor, where the bracing breezes of the China sea drove their tonic forces through his lungs and veins, and the faintly rising hue of coming health back into his hollow cheeks. The boy had been harder hit than seemed the case at first, said the fellows of the —teenth; but the wise young surgeon of the "Second reserve" and a grave-faced colonel of infantry could have told of causes little dreamed of in the regiment—were either given to telling the half of what he knew.

That something most unusual had occurred in the room of Mr. Gray the day that the sad-faced, kind old general visited the hospital at least half a dozen patients could have told; for an attendant went running for one of the women nurses, and the doctor himself hurried to the scene. It was on his arm that, half an hour later, Mrs. Garrison slowly descended the stairs, her flimsy white veil down, and silently bowed her thanks and adieux as the doctor closed the door of her carriage and nodded to the little coachman. It was the doctor who suggested to Col. Frost that Manila air was not conducive to his wife's recovery, and recommended Nagasaki as the place for her recuperation until he could join her and take her home. The Esmerelda bore the White sisters over Hong-Kong way within a week; and they left without flourish of trumpet, with hardly the flutter of a handkerchief; for, since the battle of the 5th of February, neither had been seen upon the Luneta. Their women friends were very few; the men they knew were mainly at the front. The story got out somehow that Garrison had asked to be relieved from further duty as aid-de-camp and returned to duty with his regiment, and that Drayton would not have it. The general's manner toward that hard-working staff officer, though often preoccupied as of old, grew even kinder. He did not see the sisters off for China—he was "far too busy" was the explanation; but he offered Garrison a fortnight's leave and urged his taking it, and was obviously troubled when Garrison declined. "You need rest and the change of air more than any man I know," said he; but Garrison replied that change of scene and air would not help him.

There were two young fellows in khaki uniforms landed from the hospital launch on the back trip from Corregidor one warm March day. One wore the badge of a subaltern of the —teenth regulars, the other the chevrons of a corporal and the hatband of a famous fighting regiment of volunteers; yet the same carriage bore them swiftly through the sentineled streets of the walled city, and the guards at the Ayuntamiento sprang to their arms and formed ranks at sight of it, then dispersed at the low-toned order of its commander when it was seen that, instead of stopping at the curb and discharging an elderly general officer, it whirled straight by and held two youths in field uniform.

"One of 'em's young Gray, of the —teenth; he that was hit in the charge on the Panay road," said the officer of the guard to a comrade. "But who the devil's the other? He had corporal's chevrons on. Some fellow just got a commission, perhaps." And that was the only way the soldier could account for a corporal riding with a commissioned officer in a general's carriage. They had a long whirl ahead of them, these two; and the corporal told Gray, as he already had the general and Col. Armstrong, much of the story of his friendship for "Pat" Latrobe, of that poor fellow's illness at San Francisco and all the trouble it cost his friend and chum. There was a strong bond between them, he explained; and the blush of shame that stole up in the face of the narrator found instant answer in that of Billy Gray. Determined to see service at the front and not return to punishment in his regiment, never dreaming that, in quitting a corps doomed apparently to inaction at home, and joining one going straight to the enemy's country, he was committing the grave crime of desertion, "Gov" Prime had spoken to some men in Stewart's regiment and was bidden to come along and fetch his friend; for they were just as ignorant as he. Having still considerable money, "Gov" had bought civilian clothes and all the supplies they needed while about town, and hired a boat that rowed them, with certain items contraband of war, to the dark side of the transport as nightfall came; and they were easily smuggled aboard and into uniform, and then, during the few days' stay at Honolulu, were formally enlisted and no embarrassing questions asked.

And now poor Pat was gone and Prime's father had been cabling for him to return home; but there was that awkward matter about the desertion. Gen. Drayton was trying to have it straightened out at Washington, for he had been kindness itself the day of his visit to the hospital, where almost his first act had been to seek out the wounded young soldier who had been his beloved nephew's boon companion, and at one time sole support. The sentry was relieved of his surveillance, and Corp. Norton transferred to Corregidor to recuperate; and now that both lads were well on the road to recovery, Drayton had sent for them. Strictly speaking, some one should have seen to it that Corp. Norton, of the volunteers, was shifted back to Private Morton, of the —teenth, and the chevrons stripped from his sleeves; but no one had cared to interfere where the worsted was concerned, especially as the boy had won such praise for bravery at Concordia Bridge. So there the chevrons stood when the two were ushered into the presence of the gray-haired chief, and he arose, and, stepping forward, held out a hand to each.

"I want you, boys," said he, "to be ready to take the next transport home. The doctors say you need a sea voyage, Gray; so there is the order. The doctors say your father needs you, Prime; and the record will be duly straightened out in Washington—the charge of desertion, no doubt, will be removed. It's a matter of influence. To-night you dine with me here; and I have asked your good friend, Col. Armstrong, to come."

Again the blood rose guiltily to Billy's cheek. Not yet had he made his peace with his conscience and that valued counselor and invaluable friend from whose good graces he seemed to have fallen entirely. Not once had opportunity been afforded in which to speak and open his heart to him. As for writing, that seemed impossible. Billy could handle almost any implement better than a pen. But even in the few minutes left him in which to think he knew that now at least he must "face the music," like the man his father would have him be, even though it took more nerve than did that perilous dash on the Tagal works that Sunday morning. Billy would rather do that twice over than have to face Armstrong's stern, searching eyes, and hear again the cold, almost contemptuous tone in which the colonel said to him the day the doctor led his vanquished and hysterical charmer from the room: "Don't try to thank, man; try to think what you risk—what you deserve to lose—for putting yourself in the power of such a woman."

From that day until this, here on the banks of the swift-running Pasig, they had not met at all; and it seemed to Gray as though Armstrong had aged a year. There was a lump in his throat as he went straight up to the colonel, his blue eyes never flinching, though they seemed to fill, and bravely spoke. "Col. Armstrong, I have an explanation that I owe to you. Will you give me a few minutes on the gallery?"

"Certainly, Gray," was the calm reply; and the youngster led the way.

STORY OF TOUGH LUCK.

Southern Brothers Who Have Twice Missed Great Fortunes in Boring for Oil.

There are two men in Texas who are gritting their teeth, and swearing between grits, nowadays, says a Cincinnati Enquirer correspondent.

The two men are brothers, and they missed a fortune. They owned the land on which the famous Lucas gusher was struck at Beaumont, Tex., and gave it up only a short time before the fortunate owner struck his bonanza. They settled on the land about a year ago and drilled for oil. At a depth of about 700 feet they struck a flow of ten or fifteen barrels a day, and then sat down to rest and enjoy their income. Ten barrels a day wasn't much, and they finally got tired and went to Silver Lake to see if they couldn't do better. They gladly disposed of their Beaumont land for a small sum, and were highly pleased with the change of territory when they struck a little larger flow at Silver Lake. When they were busy congratulating themselves on their good luck the Lucas well was sunk on the former property to a distance of 1,400 feet, and the biggest gusher ever known was struck. If those two brothers had gone down 600 or 700 feet more they would have been worth millions to-day, instead of plugging along with a little old 20-barrel well.

That isn't their first experience, either. A few years ago they bought some land in West Virginia and cleared off the timber, making quite a tidy sum. They sold the land for a few thousand dollars and went to Texas to hunt for oil. Iron was discovered on the West Virginia land shortly after they disposed of it, and $1,000,000 wouldn't buy it now. These two men certainly have cause to bewail their luck.

MEXICAN GHOST STORY.

Woman Who Had Been Regarded as Dead for Five Years Confesses to a Priest.

A curious story comes from a small town in the state of Puebla, reports a Mexico correspondent of the Memphis Commercial Appeal. A missionary priest named Patre Pimentel, staying there, stated in a sermon he preached that he was visited by a youth named Daniel Diaz, who begged him to go to his house and confess his sister, who had been dead five years, "and who had appeared to him, beseeching him to call on the missionaries to assist her out of purgatory."

The padre says that, despite the fears which were aroused by this strange request, he determined to go, and took for his companions Mariano Melfado and two sacristanes. On reaching the house, which was a gloomy place, he was conducted to a cheerless room, where he seated himself, and immediately became aware of a floating vaporous figure, while at the same time he heard "creaking of bones." The wretched young woman made her confession, and, on being absolved, disappeared suddenly.

The padre states that the awful experience brought on a severe illness, but that since his recovery he has determined to make the fact known, that others may not be exposed to the same long durance in purgatory for want of absolution.

The news of this occurrence has spread like wildfire, and the missionaries have been the recipients of handsome contributions since it took place.

GIRL MANAGES BRICK YARD.

She Masters Every Detail of the Business and Makes Money at It.

Perhaps Owensboro, Ky., has the only young lady in the country who is engaged in the business of manufacturing brick and who can lay brick as rapidly as any man and do any kind of work in connection with the manufacture and use of brick that a man can do and perform it as rapidly. She is Miss Ida Hafner, and operates an extensive brick manufacturing plant in the lower end of the city. She has been known to dig and cart the clay for 3,000 bricks in a day and to wheel and set 10,000 bricks in a day. She is assisted by her mother and a younger sister, and many of the residences and business houses of the city were built with brick made by them.

About four years ago the husband and father, who had built up the largest brick industry in the city, died and left a widow and two daughters. Miss Ida took up the business where her father left it and has conducted it with marked success. She and her mother and the younger sister have built their own home, which is a handsome structure, and they are rapidly accumulating money and property.

The Pope's Weak Point.

The Paris correspondent of London Truth writes: "I said that Leo XIII., as presented by M. Benjamin Constant, was a vain man. The painter would like the judgment to be slightly softened. But he confesses that his holiness is not exempt from coquetry. When he was sitting, he from time to time asked to see how the portrait was progressing. It is said he whispered into the painter's ear: 'Do not try to make me look too old.'"

Hurts from Fish Fins.

In handling fishes it requires a certain amount of care to avoid being cut by the fins, which in some species are to some extent poisonous. The Key West fisherman has an unbounded horror of being bitten by almost any kind of fish, as he fears blood poisoning will set in, although according to those who have studied the question there seems to be very little foundation for this fear.

to a young man who would save a little money out of his salary is, "secure a policy of Life Insurance"—the cost is small, the returns certain.

SPORTING.

NATIONAL GAME SATURDAY.

Among the contests on the diamond Saturday were the Hope chapel and Stirling game and the St. Mary's and Garwood match. In both instances the local teams were victorious. A resume of the games follows:

HOPE, 5; STIRLING, 1.

Several hundred base ball enthusiasts witnessed the base ball game Saturday afternoon on the Sherman avenue grounds between the Hope Chapel and the Sterling nines. There were no features in the contest but Martin, the short stop of the Hope Chapel team, made a brilliant stop of a hot liner and caught his man at first.

Montross pitched a great game and completely demoralized the visitors. The twirler from Berkley Heights, who played with the Stirling club, was but little inferior to Montross. This game marks the sixth successive victory for the Hope boys.

Hope.....4 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 x—5

Struck out by Rogers, 10; by Montross, 16. Base on balls, Rogers, 2; Montross, 3. Hit by pitched ball, Smith, Long and Davis. Base hits, Stirling, 5; Bope, 9. Two base hit, Martin. Errors, Stirling, 4; Hope, 4. Umpire, E. Droll.

The batting order of the visiting team was as follows: Lindameyer, ss; Long, c; Davis, rf; Stevens, rf; Bolke, 2b; Huffmam, 3b; Annson, 1b; Cratzley, lf; Rogers, p; Powel, cf.

The batting order for Hope was as follows: Mague, lf; Smith, cf; Martin, ss; Hewitt, 2b; Hartfieder, c; J. Montross, p; Evans, 1b; Case, 1b; Feiring, 3b; H. Montross, rf.

ST. MARY'S 5, GARWOOD 1.

The baseball game Saturday afternoon between the St. Mary and Garwood A. C. teams, on the former's grounds, was one which would have made the heart of the most enthusiastic rooter leap for joy. It was a veritable pitchers' battle, coupled with good support on both sides, in which Doyle, of the locals, won out. The visitors made but one lone run, while five of the St. Mary players crossed the plate.

Following is the summary:

St. Mary	0	1 1	0 2 1 0 0 *—5 7 3

Struck out, by Doyle 14, by Hegeman 7 Bases on balls, off Doyle 0, off Hegeman 3 Two-base hits, Taylor (2) Haldy. Hegeman. Earned runs, St. Mary 5, Garwood 1. Double play, Watt, C. Hawkins, Haldy. Umpire, Daniel Guinee.

LONG ISLAND IMITATES JERSEY

ROBERT MEEKER TO BUILD GOOD ROADS AT SOUTHAMPTON.

Will Have As Many Miles Of Macadam Roads As This City—Cost $200,000—50,000 Tons Of Stone.

Southampton, Long Island has decided that she wants roads that equal those in this State. She realizes that if she would keep her summer visitors there must be good roads as an attraction.

In view of this Robert A. Meeker, of this city, has been engaged as supervisor and consulting engineer for this work, which will be started in the near future. It is the town of Southampton that has taken the initiative in the matter and the committee has decided to build nearly thirty miles of macadam roads, such as have made New Jersey famous. The roads at present are of a sandy and gravel nature and not well calculated for travel. The new road will run through Southampton and take in Sag Harbor and Eastport, also the famous Shinnecock Hills golf grounds. Southampton was founded in 1640 and was inhabited by sea captains and their families. Today there is considerable wealth in that section.

Mr. Meeker's many years of experience in road building makes him well adapted to supervise this work, the estimated cost of which will be about $200,000. It will require over 50 000 tons of stone to build the roads to be found on Long Island. Among those who are especially interested in this work is Charles J. Fisk, of this city, who has large interests in the vicinity of Southampton.

APPENDICITIS CAUSED DEATH

Miss Florence Beebe Died at Block Island Last Sunday Morning.

Miss Florence Chapman Beebe, the youngest daughter of Charles and Josephine Beebe, died at Block Island Sunday morning. At the time of her death, which was caused by appendicitis, her mother, sister and brother were with her. They returned to Plainfield with the remains Sunday afternoon.

The funerel services will be held at the residence of her parents, on Madison avenue, this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Rev. Dr. W. B. Richards will officiate. Interment will be at Fairview cemetery, Westfield.

PEACEABLY PASSED AWAY.

Miss Lily Gibbs Died at Scotch Plains After Lingering Illness of Four Months' Duration.

Miss Lily Gibbs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Gibbs, passed away after a lingering illness from lung trouble Saturday evening. The funeral services, which were private, were held from the parents' home this afternoon at 1 o'clock. Rev. Mr. Nelson, who is occupying the pulpit of the M. E. church during Mr. Beacom's absence, officiated at the obsequies. Interment was made in Hillside cemetery, Plainfield.

DOG DIES FROM APPENDICITIS

Autopsy Showed That as Unmistakably the Cause, Induced by Splintered Bones.

And now the dog is subject to appendicitis. At least Dr. William Cooper Eidenmuller, of this city, claims to have made a discovery to that effect while performing an autopsy on the remains of a favorite pet, reports the San Francisco Examiner.

"When the animal died," said the physician, "I was not satisfied with the cause of his taking off and made a careful autopsy. I was assisted by a veterinary surgeon, and we had not been long at our task when it became evident that death had resulted from acute appendicitis.

"The animal had been ill for a year, and in reviewing his symptoms I can see that they were identical with those of humans who suffer from recurrent attacks of this disease. Of course I did not at first think of a dog suffering from anything of this sort. There was no record of such a disease among animals.

"Splintered bones caused my dog's death, and while I am not a veterinary I have come to the conclusion that bones are not the best diet for canines.

Russia May Abolish Her Nobility.

At present the czar's subjects are divided into four general classes—the nobility, the clergy, the inhabitants of the towns and those of the country, says a St. Petersburg correspondent. The nobility is itself of two kinds, hereditary and personal. An officer acquires a life nobility in acquiring a certain rank in the army or navy. Those who attain the rank of colonel in the army and of captain in the navy become hereditary nobles. It is most probable that when the proposed reform of the Russian system of class organization takes place the nobility will cease to exist as a separate class in the nation.

MISS M. R. TEMPLIN WEDS.

BECOMES THE WIFE OF THOMAS M'DONALD.

Ceremony Is Performed At Bride's home—Rev. Mr. Nelson Officiates To Reside on North Ave.

Precisely at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon, a pretty wedding of the season took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Templin, of North avenue, when their daughter, Miss Mabel R. Templin, was made the wife of Thomas McDonald, of the borough. It was purely a home affair and was witnessed only by the immediate relatives of both families. Rev. W. C. Nelson, of the borough, was the officiating clergyman.

The parlor, where the ceremony was performed, was very prettily decorated with bowers of golden rod and cut flowers. The nuptial knot was tied while the bridal party stood beneath a floral arch of hydrangea and evergreens.

Miss Templin, who was unaccompanied, was attired in a becoming traveling gown of mode cloth and carried bridal roses. The groom's attendant was Edward C. Welsh, of German Valley, a former classmate at the Hackettstown Institute. The bride was given away by her brother, Harry E. Templin. While the words which made them man and wife were being pronounced, the Lohengrin wedding march was rendered by Miss May Randolph, of this city.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. McDonald took their departure for the railroad station amid a deluge of rice and old shoes, thrown by well-wishing relatives. They left for a two weeks' wedding trip, which will embrace stays at Philadelphia and Hackettstown. Upon returning they will reside on North avenue.

Both Mr. and Mrs. McDonald have many friends in this city and were remembered by appropriate gifts of silverware, cut glass, furniture and bric-a brac. The groom is a valued employe of the firm of Rogers, Peet & Co., of New York.

TRADES COUNCIL PROTESTS

Calls on Woolston & Buckle With Request to Withdraw the Workmen—Mr. Hooley Hires Non-Union Men.

Because E. S. Hooley, of Washington Park, engaged three carpenters, who are not union men, to do a little job work about his house, officers of the Trades Council called on Woolston & Buckle last week and asked that firm to call its men off the house, where a few rooms were being papered.

Recently, at a meeting of the Trades Council, it was decided that men doing jobbing work, such as that at Mr. Hooley's house, should not be the cause for calling union men off the job, where the trades do not otherwise conflict. Woolston & Buckle propose to complete their work at Mr. Hooley's house as soon as things are in readiness, and the present trouble will have to be adjusted accordingly.

Rev. Mr. Trebert Resigns.

At the Sunday morning service of the German Lutheran church, the congregation heard with much regret, that their pastor, Rev. W. B. Trebert, had received and accepted a call to the Middletown Lutheran church, at Narrowsburg, N. Y. Mr. Trebert gave as his reason that he has been a sufferer from malaria and that in all probability a change of climate would partially relieve him. Action will be taken on his resignation at a meeting of the trustees of the church to be held this evening.

COMMON COUNCIL MEETS IN MONTHLY SESSION

Street Commissioner, Building Inspector and Collector Present Their Reports.

SEWER FOR SOUTH AVENUE

OFFER RESOLUTIONS PROVIDING FOR BORROWING MONEY.

George O. Stevens, Assignee of Imperial Cafe, Wants License Transferred to Him—New Hydrants and Electric Lights Installed.

Contrary to expectations the regular meeting of the Common Council, held last evening, was devoid of special interest. All the members except President Dumont and Councilman Buckle were present. Councilman Coriell acted as president pro tem, while City Clerk J. T. McMurray, who has been away for several weeks, was back in his official capacity.

George O. Stevens, as assignee for Frederick W. Jones, late of Hibbard & Jones, asked the Council for a formal transfer of the license from Mr. Jones to himself, so that affairs may be settled. The petition was referred to the license committee and will be reported to the Council later.

William H. Blair, superintendent of the Watchung Water Company, of Dunellen, notified the Council that the hydrants near the city line are now installed and ready for service. He invited the Council to make a test of the same. He also forwarded contracts to be signed by the officials of the city, accepting the hydrants. The matter was referred to the fire committee.

Superintendent McClurg, of the Plainfield Electric Light Company, informed the Council that electric lights ordered by the members have been placed in position. Collector Smith's report showed that seventeen tax warrants were issued during the past month, and eight were returned. The sum of $113.20 was collected. Building Inspector T. O. Doane reported that ten permits were granted, and Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett reported that during June, July and August 29 sewer permits were granted.

On the recommendation of Mr. vanHerwerden, a request for a proper division of taxes on certain properties on West Fourth street was granted.

Mr. vanHerwerden offered a resolution providing for the borrowing of $4,000 on account of the general fund, $1,000 on account of the fire fund and $1,500 on account of the poor fund. Another resolution offered by the same member, provided for the borrowing of $5,000 for sewage improvement.

Mr. Lee offered a resolution providing for the insurance of the property at the City Industrial Home for a term of three years at a cost not to exceed $100.

Mr. Tolles called up the ordinance providing for the extension of the sewage system through South avenue, and it was adopted on its third reading. This concluded the business of the evening and the Council adjourned to meet Monday evening, Sept. 9.

JOHN TOBIN INJURED.

Fell From Bicycle and Fractured Knee Cap.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, September 4.—While participating in a bicycle road race at Rahway, Monday, John Tobin, a well-known amateur rider of the township, sustained severe injuries by being thrown. He was well in the lead with a number of other riders, when one of them ran into a dog. A spill followed in which several of the riders mixed up, but all escaped injury with the exception of Tobin.

Besides being bruised and skinned over the entire body, his left knee cap was fractured. He was placed in a carriage and brought to Westfield where his injuries were attended by Dr. Sinclair.

Much Frightened Animal.

A passing trolley car frightened a horse belonging to the New York Painting and Decorating Company, which was tied at the corner of East Fifth and Washington streets, yesterday afternoon, and it made mad endeavors to run away. The strap held fast, however, and in its struggles the animal became hopelessly entangled in the harness. It finally fell to the ground, cutting itself and breaking the shafts. It was released by the driver before any further damage resulted.

Miss Bessie Martin Gives a Party on Eve of Departure of Friends.

The home of Horace J. Martin, of Jackson avenue, was the scene of a very pretty farewell party last evening.

The affair was given in honor of the Misses Madge and Victoria Martin, of New York city, who have been the guests of Miss Bessie Martin for the last two weeks.

There were twenty-five friends present, who passed the time pleasantly in singing and dancing. The Misses Martin leave for their home today.

DOINGS AT THE NETHERWOOD.

MANY GUESTS HAVE ARRIVED TO SOJOURN FOR A TIME.

Orchestra Gave Customary Concert Saturday Evening. There Was Little Dancing—A Coaching Party.

Particularly because of the inclement weather and on account of the round of pleasure which had marked the week at the resort, the guests at the Hotel Netherwood did not avail themselves of the opportunity to dance Saturday evening, although it was the customary occasion for the weekly hop. The orchestra, however, rendered catchy selections throughout the evening, and again Sunday evening entertained the guests by giving a sacred concert of a high order.

A coaching party visited the resort Monday. In it were Dr. J. C. Young, Miss Young and Miss McKenyon, of Newark, and Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Young, of Boston. Those who have registered from New York recently include: Miss Ericsson, Mrs. J. T. Sisson, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Fuller, Miss Staples, Miss Fuller, the Misses Jeanette Fuller, Margaret Fuller, Caroline Fuller, Annie N. Fuller, Dorothy Fuller and Thomas Fuller, D. R. Tompkins, Mr. Bruen, Mrs. Alex. Brown, the Misses Alice Brown, Grace Brown, Edith Brown, and Floyd and Alexander Brown, Jr., Mrs. Tom Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Reed, Miss C. N. Norton, Mrs. A. B. Roome, J. M. A WORK OF ART.

Rare Painting Presented by Dr. Coles to the Newark Public Library.

Scotch Plains, Sept. 3.—Dr. J. Ackerman Coles, of Scotch Plains, has presented to the Newark Free Library a historical painting by R. Nechutrey, representing the saving of the city of Naumburg by the children July 28, 1432. The picture is thus described:

"Night is setting down on the city of Naumburg. The glimmering of camp fires is seen in the distance. General Procopius, clad in complete chain armor, surrounded by his body guard, has removed his helmet and is giving kind attention to the mute appeal of the delegation of children from the city, especially to that of a little kneeling boy, who, assisted by two little girls, is holding out to him a cushion bearing the key of the fortress."

The picture is to be hung in the children's department of the library, opposite the main entrance.

To Wed Shortly.

BOROUGH TAX RATE REDUCED TWO POINTS

Assessment Placed at 2.44 by The County Board of Assessors.

FRENCH HEAD OF BOARD.

RATE LOWER BUT FOR FREEHOLDERS APPROPRIATION.

Items Which Make Up Budget—$10,000 to be Used for Macadamizing by Freeholders—Property Valuation in Borough $2,402,825.

Following the annual meeting of the Somerset County Board of Assessors, which was held yesterday at the Court House, Somerville, Assessor Elston M. French announced this morning the rate for North Plainfield, which is $2 44 instead of $2 46, the rate for last year.

The following items make up the budget in the borough: State school, 17; county, 61; borough, 86; Board of Health, 02; special school, 78. By way of comparison last year's budget was as follows: State school, 26½; county, 56; borough, 85; Board of Health, 02½; special school, 7[illegible].

It will be noted that the county rate is increased five points, the special school reduced nine and a half points, the borough increased one point and the special school increased two points. If it had not been for the fact that the Board of Freeholders called for $10,000 more this year than last, the rate could have been reduced nearly nine points. The $10,000 is to be used for macadamizing roads throughout the county, and it is believed that the Board of Freeholders make a big mistake in attempting to pay for the work of macadamizing as it is done. That was the old-fashioned method and has worked a hardship on the people throughout the county. The present-day method of doing such work through the issuance of bonds seems to be more desirable, as in this way the coming generation will assist in paying for benefits they will receive. The old style has been the cause of severe censure on the part of the taxpayers, who believe that their taxes could and should be lightened considerable.

The total valuation for the county is $18,788,468, while the borough valuation is $2,402,825, and increase of $45,000 over last year, a substantial gain. The county valuation is an increase of $70,000 over last year.

It is interesting to compare this year's rate with that of 1898, when the rate was $2.20. In 1898 the items were as follows: State school, 26; county, 53; borough, 81; Board of Health, .09; special school, 58. It will be noticed in comparing the figures that the principal increase is the special school tax from 58 to 78. This is caused by the people who attend the school meetings voting more money every year. It is said that the increase is the highest in the county and is double the rate of any other township or borough with the possible exception of Bridgewater.

At the meeting yesterday, which was an all-day session, Elston M. French was for the third time elected chairman and Charles L. Voorhees the secretary.

PROFANITY COST $3.

John Slover Claimed a Right to Curse at His Wife and When Arrested Showed Fight.

Trying to stop his wife from procuring a warrant for his arrest led to John Slover being taken into custody yesterday afternoon much quicker than if she had succeeded. Mrs. Slover started for Justice Nash's office with her liege lord following in the rear, hurling all sorts of epithets at her. On Park avenue his actions attracted the attention of Patrolman McCarthy, who placed him under arrest. Slover objected on the ground that he had a right to swear at his wife. He was taken to police headquarters after a struggle. This morning in the City Court he paid $3 in preference to spending ten days at Elizabeth.

Farmers in Warren Township Fear Epidemic of Rabies Among Herds — Dog Has Been Killed.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Mount Bethel, September 4—Every farmer in Watren township is at present keeping a close watch on his cattle, fearful of an outbreak of rabies among them. Their alarm is due to the running amuck of a mad dog and the subsequent madness of the steer belonging to Robert Zerkiball. Every precaution is being taken to prevent an epidemic.

The dog made its appearance one day last week and visited many of the farms in the upper part of the township before it was killed. Zerkiball's steer, which was in a herd of forty cattle, was bitten, but at first showed no ill effects. Yesterday the owner went to the pasture lot and was surprised to see the creature tearing about the field in a frenzy, bellowing madly and pawing the ground. It would not let him approach and finally dropped down and stiffening out, gave every appearance of being dead.

Zerkiball secured the assistance of Jonathan Moore and Adam Sachs, two neighbors, to assist him in removing the carcass, as he thought, when the steer sprang to its feet and tore away. It was afterward captured and killed.

The trouble was unhesitatingly pronounced rabies and a search was made among all the cattle in the vicinity for the possible victims. While a number were found with possible bites, none of them acted strangely. Those that are thought to have been bitten have been separated from respective herds.

The Township Committee will reimburse Mr. Zerkiball for his loss, as a special dog tax provides for just such cases.

HAD NARROW ESCAPE.

Fatal Accident Narrowly Averted by Young Couple Taking Pleasure Drive Last Evening.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Sept. 3.—Edgar Smith, of South Bound Brook, and Miss Ida VanPelt, of this place, had a narrow escape from death last night. They were out for a drive, and just as they drove on the Lehigh Valley crossing at Hillsboro, shortly after 8 o'clock, they saw an eastbound passenger train bearing down on them. Smith jerked the horse around, but the engine struck it, knocking it loose from the wagon and killing the animal. The shafts of the wagon were broken and the axle bent. The occupants escaped without a scratch. It was the Buffalo express, which was forty-five minutes late and running at a high rate of speed. There are gates at the crossing, but they are not operated after 7 o'clock in the evening. The horse was hired from Liveryman Opdycke, of this place. The couple were brought to Somerville by parties passing. Mr. Smith intends to bring suit against the railroad company.

JUST A LITTLE PANICKY.

Elizabeth Coppers Hearing of Plainfield's Bluecoats Stunt Ask Postponement.

A report of the severe drubbing administered by the coppers' baseball team to the mail chasers' aggregation, Labor Day, reached the Elizabeth blue coats yesterday and consternation spread among the members of the ball nine, they being fearful lest they should receive the same dose in the game scheduled for today. A council of the leaders was immediately convened and after a brief debate it was unanimously decided to postpone the third game of the Elizabeth-Plainfield series for two weeks, in order that the former might have a little practice, and incidently be able to gather the team together. Captain Overbaugh received word to that effect yesterday and agreed to the postponement.

SCANDALOUS ARTICLE MAY PROMPT SUIT.

Dr. Boone Has Retained Counsel to Procure Retraction From Editor.

STATEMENT OF I. L. BRADY.

AN ALLEGED INTERVIEW PUBLISHED HAD NO FOUNDATION.

Plaintiff Physician Reputable and Not Mixed Up in Horrible Affair—What Mr Brady Says—Article Unsalled For.

The following communication was received today from Counsellor Craig A. Marsh, who has been retained by Dr. W. C. Boone to procure the retraction of a scandalous statement printed in an Elizabeth paper, intimating that he had been implicated with Dr. Tubbs, of Westfield, in operating upon Miss Lillian Thorn:

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—My attention has been called to the fact that in one of the Elizabeth newspapers, dated August 30 last, it was stated that Miss Thorn submitted to an operation on August 7, performed by Dr. Tubbs, of Westfield, assisted by Dr. Boone, and that on the following day the same newspaper printed the following, in what purported to be an interview with me:

"He said that no mercy would be shown the prisoner, but that he would get all that is coming to him. With regard to Dr. Boone, of Plainfield, who was called into the house for consultation by Dr. Tubbs, of Westfield, (Dr. Tubbs) who is also under bail for the Grand Jury on the charge of performing an abortion on Miss Thorn, would probably not be proceeded against."

I desire to say that Dr. Boone did not assist at the operation and had nothing whatever to do with it, and was not called in consultation by Dr. Tubbs, and was not present when it was performed, and had nothing whatever to do with it, directly or indirectly. He knew nothing of the girl's illness or of the operation or of its result until after the abortion had occurred.

Dr. Boone's reputation is so well established in this community that the false statements referred to can do him no harm among those who know him; but in the interest of justice I request that the foregoing facts be given as much publicity as was given to the publications of August 30th and 31st.

Dated Plainfield, N. J., Sept. 3, '01.
(Signed) Irving L. Brady.

The alleged interview mentioned in the above statement was printed in an Elizabeth newspaper Saturday afternoon. Nothing referring to Dr. Boone was contained in any other publication. In speaking of the matter this morning Mr. Brady said he was not aware that he was being interviewed at the time, and furthermore he had made no statements, whatever, in regard to the case or to Dr. Boone. The reporter asked a number of commonplace questions which he had no idea were to be worked into a sensational article. The statements, he said, in regard to Dr. Boone were a tissue of falsehoods.

The case is now in Counsellor Marsh's hands and unless a retraction is made he will bring suit against the paper in Dr. Boone's behalf.

FUNERAL OF MISS LILY GIBBS

OBSEQUIES HELD AT PARENTS HOME IN SCOTCH PLAINS YESTERDAY.

Rev. W. C. Nelson Delivered the Sermon—Many Floral Tributes—Interment at Hillside.

With only a few relatives and intimate friends in attendance, private funeral services were held yesterday afternoon over the remains of Miss Lily Gibbs, who died Saturday evening at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Gibbs, of Scotch Plains. Rev. W. C. Nelson, of North Plainfield, who was the officiating clergyman, delivered an impressive discourse in which he spoke true words of consolation to the grief-stricken family and sorrowing friends. In many ways he referred to the many excellent qualities and true Christian spirit possessed by the young woman all had loved in life. Several pretty floral emblems told of the esteem in which the departed had been held. Interment was made in Hillside cemetery.

Miss Gibbs, who was twenty-three years old, was one of the most popular young women residing in Scotch Plains, while in Plainfield she leaves hosts of friends who were grieved to hear of her untimely demise. While it was known she had been ill, no thought of a fatal termination was entertained and the comparatively sudden end shocked her many acquaintances.

The pallbearers were Samuel and William Hollingsworth, John Frazee, John Maguire, Herbert Mooney and Charles Wade.

MATTERS DISCUSSED BY EDUCATION BOARD

Annual Report of Custodian of School Moneys Show Receipts For Year to Be $112,500.06.

THE SCHOOL WATER SUPPLY

FRANK BERGEN FURNISHES FACTS AND FIGURES ABOUT WATER.

Fanwood Children Want to Attend City Schools—No Medical Examiner Appointed Last Night—Balance on Hand.

Although it was the first meeting to be held in two months, last evening's session of the Board of Education was not important, the matters transacted being of a routine nature. All the members were present with the exception of Secretary Lounsbury.

The tax collector's report for the months of July and August was read and it showed that a total of $1,030.05, including interest, had been collected and deposited with the custodian of school moneys. According to the report of the custodian a balance of $925.77 for the two months was on hand, after all disbursements had been deducted. The custodian also rendered the annual report, which showed the total receipts for the year to have been $112,500.06. The total expenditures were $110,971 19, leaving a balance of $1,528.87. By a comparison with last year's report it was learned that the present condition of the school finances is better than at the time the previous report was presented.

A communication was received from Clerk Nichols, of the Fanwood Township Board of Education, asking permission for the transfer of four children, Daniel, Elmer, Monroe and John Terry, of Willow Grove, to the Plainfield schools, the cost of tuition to be paid by Fanwood township. The matter was referred to Superintendent Maxson to make arrangements.

An interesting letter was read from Frank Bergen, of the Plainfield Water Supply Company, in which he quoted facts in regard to the amount of water consumed by the pupils of the local schools. His purpose in doing so was to explain to the Board how a saving in the cost could be effected. With the present system of drinking apparatus and closets, there is an unnecessary waste of water. It is paid for at metre rates, the present cost per pupil in one of the schools being seventy-seven cents per annum, while in another it is but two cents. By paying a flat rate and practicing economy this could be greatly reduced. Mr. Bergen offered a flat rate of $1.12½ per thousand gallons. At present, the cost is based on a graduated scale, the first 5,000 gallons being $1.88 per thousand, the next 10,000 being $1.50 and all over that $1.12½. The clerk reported that he had several changes of the water apparatus in view, which would in all probability lessen the amount of water consumed and until these were made he advised that no action be taken immediately. The motion was accepted and carried.

The matter of appointing a medical examiner in place of Dr. Murray, resigned, was suggested by President Probasco, but on motion of Mr. Lovell it was deferred until the next meeting.

The horse was captured shortly after without sustaining any injury to itself. The driver Robert Runyon, was unhurt.

Very truly yours,
REV. DR. MORRIS WECHSLER.

After having it carefully analyzed, we can state that Asthmalene contains no opium, morphine, chloroform or ether.

AVON SPRINGS, N. Y., February 1, 1901.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO.
Gentlemen: I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows on 130th street, New York, I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the first of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her Asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease.
Yours respectfully, O. D. PHELPS, M. D.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO. February 5, 1901.
Gentlemen: I was troubled with Asthma for 3 years. I have tried numerous remedies, but they have all failed. I ran across your advertisement and started with a trial bottle. I found relief at once. I have since purchased your full-size bottle, and I am ever grateful. I have family of four children, and for six years was unable to work. I am now in the best of health and am doing business every day. This testimony you can make such use of as you see fit. Home address, 235 Rivington street, S. RAPHAEL,

BRITISH TO BE SHOT

De Wet Issues a Threatening Proclamation.

BOTHA'S COMMANDO GIVEN A CHASE

Kitchener Reports Extensive Captures of the Enemy's Provisions, Horses and Cattle—Captain Willis and Men Taken In Ambush.

LONDON, Sept. 4.—"De Wet has issued a proclamation," says a dispatch to The Daily Mail from Cape Town, "that he will shoot all British troops found in Orange River Colony after Sept. 15."

Colonels Scobell, Doran and Kavanagh have chased General Botha into the Mortimer district. Nearly all of General Botha's horses are in an exhausted condition, and fully one-quarter of his commando is dismounted. General Botha, unfortunately for the British, captured thirty remounts.

The Boer invaders are threatening Zuurbrak pass, Cape Colony, which commands Swellendam. The place is well defended, however, and it is not likely that the Boers will attempt to enter the town.

Lord Kitchener telegraphs the war office, under yesterday's date, as follows: "Since Aug. 26 the columns report that during the week 19 Boers were killed, 3 wounded, 12 were taken prisoners, and there were 127 surrenders. The columns also captured 194 rifles, 144 wagons, 1,700 horses and 7,500 cattle.

"Lategan, the Boer commandant who has been operating in Cape Colony with a commando of eighty, has been driven north of the Orange river by General French."

A Pretoria dispatch gives particulars of the blowing up of the British train reported yesterday. About a hundred Boers attacked a Pietersberg train twenty-five miles north of Pretoria. They cunningly selected a deep cutting, mined the railway and blew it up with the Martini mechanism, which was placed between a rail. The man who made the connection did so prematurely and caused the explosion as a train of trucks was passing over the point. These trucks had been placed in front of the engine for the purpose of saving the train proper from just such an explosion. Little damage was done to the trucks.

As soon as the explosion occurred the Boers opened fire from the banks into the armored trucks, killing ten and wounding seventeen men.

Lieutenant Vandeleur gallantly stepped on a platform to direct his men and was shot pointblank and killed. A Dutch nursemaid was shot deliberately by a young Boer who knew her.

The Boers took all the passengers' valuables and money and even their boots and then burned the train.

The attack was made on a section of the line south of Pinaars which had never before been interfered with.

Captain Willis, with a patrol of twenty-five men from Oudtshoorn was taken in ambush near Meiring's Poort. He and two men escaped, three others were killed and four wounded, and the rest, who surrendered and took the oath of neutrality, were released.

A Big Electrical Trust.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 4. — The North American today prints a story to the effect that a union of all the electric railway and electric light companies owned by Philadelphia capitalists is now under way, with excellent prospects that the project will be carried to a successful conclusion. This combination will involve over $100,000,000. The principal companies to be merged are the Union Traction company, which owns all the street railway lines in this city; the new rapid transit companies recently chartered in this state, the Philadelphia Electric company, which controls most of the electric light plants in the city, and the Electric Company of America and the American Railways company, which owns electric street railways and electric light plants in many of the eastern states. The object of the combination, it is said, is for the purpose of operating the different companies on a more economical basis.

War College at Washington.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—General Gillespie, chief of engineers and acting secretary of war, has signed the order already referred to preliminary to the establishment of the War college at the Washington barracks. This order transfers the engineer school, together with the battalion of engineers now at Willetts Point, N. Y., to the Washington barracks, this city. Fort Totten, at Willetts Point, hereafter will be maintained exclusively as an artillery post. The transfer to Washington will be made as soon as necessary repairs and changes can be made in the quarters here. General Gillespie is of opinion that the engineer school will be in operation at the barracks before Dec. 1.

Pan-American Conference Assured.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—All doubt concerning the holding of an international conference of American states in the City of Mexico was removed when the announcement was made that Peru had appointed three of her most eminent men as delegates to the conference. This news was received with gratification at the state department, which has believed that much good will come from such a conference and did all it could to bring about an harmonious programme and to unite all the countries south of us in support of the conference.

The Last of Lawson's Yacht.

BOSTON, Sept. 4.—The yacht Independence practically went out of commission after she had raced over a course in Massachusetts bay and beaten a fleet of fishermen ten miles on a twenty-five mile course. The race was in almost ideal conditions, a twelve knot breeze in a smooth sea. She went out to make good Mr. Lawson's promise to Boston people that he would race the Independence off this port.

Earl Li Very Feeble.

PEKING, Sept. 4.—Li Hung Chang is becoming more and more feeble, and it is apparent to all his visitors that it is not probable that he will ever be able to act as chairman of the council of state.

Negro Shot and Burned.

TROY, Ala., Sept. 4.—Bill Fourney, alias Bill Hilliard, a negro charged with assaulting Miss Wilson at Chestnut Grove, was shot and his body burned by a mob near the scene of his crime.

Weather Probabilities.

Fair; variable winds.

GAINS FOR THE TRUST

Steel Officials Claim Early Resumption of All Mills.

AMALGAMATED LEADERS UNDAUNTED

They Say That Everything Is Progressing Satisfactorily and That Much of the Trust's Supposed Advantage Is Only Bluff.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 4.—Developments in the steel strike show decided gains for the manufacturers. The accession of thirty-two skilled men to the Star plant, the increased production at the Painter and the Lindsay & McCutcheon mills, the defection from the strikers' ranks of seventy-five machinists and pipe cutters at the Continental Tube works and fifty at the Pennsylvania Tube works, the importation of twelve men to the Monessen steel hoop mill and the installation of three mills on night turn at the Clark plant all point to an early resumption all along the line as viewed by the steel officials.

The Amalgamated officials, however, make the claim that everything is progressing satisfactorily and say that much of the supposed advantage of the manufacturers is bluff and cannot be made good. As an instance they cite the Lindsay & McCutcheon plant, where the company claims to have as many men at work as they can accommodate and turning out merchantable product. The Amalgamated people claim that James Hurley, vice president of the First district, visited the Lindsay & McCutcheon mill yesterday in the guise of a roller seeking work. He made an inspection of the mill, and, according to his report, there are thirty men at work, six of whom are skilled. The strikers also claim that at the Monessen plant the product turned out last week amounted to 250,900 pounds, whereas before the strike the daily output was 100,000 pounds.

It is reported that the strikers at Duquesne intend to make another effort to close that plant by getting the open hearth men out, but nothing definite on the subject can be learned.

At Wheeling the strikers are holding their own, and there is no indication of an attempt to start any of the shutdown plants.

Wellsville reports no change.

The report from Canal Dover is to the effect that although District Manager Cline promised that four mills would be fired up yesterday only one mill, a small thirty-four inch sheet mill, was fired. The strikers claim this was caused by the desertion of nine of the nonunion men, who returned to Vandergrift, from which place they came last Sunday. Manager Cline would make no statement except to deny that there were any desertions and to say that the situation was unchanged.

Mayor Black has issued a proclamation to "the workingmen of McKeesport." He says:

"The eyes of the country are on McKeesport.

"I have maintained all along that there would be no disorder and still have confidence in the workingmen. Use no undue zeal in keeping men out of the Demmler mill, for I have heard it will be started this week. The venal eastern press has exaggerated and distorted every trifling occurrence here into riot and injured the town. Any violence would be the signal for application of the infamous principle of government by injunction and would divorce the support of loyal laboring men outside of the Amalgamated association. Violence never won a strike. No right can be gained by lawbreaking. I feel no uneasiness, but issue this proclamation to keep you coolheaded. Use all caution possible to preserve order that the hotheaded element, if there be one, may be easily controlled.

"With the sanction of President Shafter."

Town Lots All Sold.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—The general land office has been informed of the completion of the sale of town lots in the town of Lawton, in the newly opened part of Oklahoma, which finishes the government sale in all the towns in that section. In Lawton there were 1,420 lots sold, the receipts from the sale amounting to $414,845, making the total receipts from the sale of town lots in the towns of Lawton, Anadarko and Hobart $736,033. The highest average price, $291 per lot, was secured in Lawton. The money accruing from the sales has been placed in the subtreasury in St. Louis to the credit of the secretary of the interior as trustee for the three towns. Under the law it will be devoted to improvements in those towns and in the surrounding country.

Alaska's Future.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—Dr. E. W. Allen, assistant superintendent of experiment stations conducted by the agricultural department, has just returned after a ten weeks' tour of inspection of the stations in Alaska. Dr. Allen reports that all the hardy vegetables are being grown there, and he predicts that the time will come when Alaska will grow a sufficient supply of them. He also says that wheat, oats, barley and rye have been matured at the stations, and he thinks it practicable to raise beef for the home market. He says there is considerable inquiry for land along the coast from people living in northern Europe, and he thinks the time will come when many of them will find more comfortable homes than they now have.

President at the Fair.

CANTON, O., Sept. 4.—President and Mrs. McKinley attended the county fair yesterday afternoon. It was children's day, and hundreds of little ones from all over the county were present. Preparations for the start for Buffalo made yesterday a busy day at the McKinley home. It is necessary to provide a sort of traveling executive office so that official business may be taken care of during the trip of nearly two weeks, and the special trunks prepared for this purpose were made ready. The president's time was occupied in clearing up business, and he saw no business callers during the day.

May Not Die Twice.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., Sept. 4.—Lud Madison, who was to have been hanged yesterday for murder, has been respited for sixty days to allow him to appeal to the United States supreme court. The clerk by mistake recorded his first respite as his execution. He contends now that he is legally dead and cannot be hanged twice for the same offense.

SEARCH FOR A MURDERER.

Authorities Trying to Find Slayer of Editor Castro In Cuba.

HAVANA, Sept. 4.—Official advices from Manzanillo say that the judge who is investigating there the murder of Marlin G. Castro, the well known Cuban newspaper man who published articles attacking the rural guard of Manzanillo, and who is also inquiring into other murder cases, has ordered the arrest of a captain and a sergeant, Ramirez, of the rural guard. Captain Grierson of the United States army, who sent the dispatch, says he has complete confidence in Ramirez and believes he should be released, as he is the only man capable of catching Mesa.

Acting Governor General Scott has sent the adjutant general of the rural guard, Avalos, to Manzanillo to investigate the matter.

Another murder which is being investigated is that of a man named Castillo, who was killed early in the year. It was claimed at the time that he was killed by the rural guard. Castillo was editor of the Tribuna, on which De Castro also worked.

Shooting at Sea Girt.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—The rifle shooters who represent the national guard of the District of Columbia are simply running away with the team matches at the Sea Girt (N. J.) rifle ranges so far. Yesterday they added two more victories to their credit by winning the interstate regimental and company matches. In the regimental match they were closely followed by the team from the Thirteenth Canadian infantry and Twelfth regiment of New York. Each of these teams had a total of 540, but the Canadians, having made the better score at the larger range, secured second place. The Canadians' score at the 500 yards range was an extraordinary piece of marksmanship. Private Skedden made a "possible," and he was closely followed by Major Mason and Lieutenant Ross, each of whom scored 49.

Venezuela Defiant.

CARACAS, Venezuela, Sept. 4.—The Republica, semiofficial organ of the government, publishes an inspired article on the crisis with Colombia, ending as follows: "The hour for notes has passed and the time for action has arrived. Diplomacy has laid before the world the just reasons which it has had and has for asking compensation for the grievances suffered. It has exhausted all the means at its disposal for settling threatening questions between nation and nation. We have waited enough. Now is the time for reprisals."

Philippine Medical Department.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—Colonel Forwood, acting surgeon general of the army, has received a letter from General Sternberg announcing his return to Manila from an inspection of the hospitals of the southern islands. General Sternberg writes that he found the medical department in first class shape. The Eighteenth infantry will sail from Manila Sept. 19 on the transport Kilpatrick for home.

The Sign of Health

Dizziness and headaches cannot be cured in any other manner than by getting at the root of the trouble and curing the cause.

The cause is almost invariably a disordered digestive system, or else a bad stomach and clogged bowels are responsible. Laxakola, the great Tonic Laxative, is an unfailing cure.

It works gently and painlessly and at the same time acts as a tonic to the bowels, stomach, liver and kidneys and builds up the system instead of weakening and irritating it as other laxatives do.

Its remarkable properties reach every organ—the liver, kidneys and stomach, nerve, heart and brain—and removes the cause of your debilitated condition. This is the only way to secure an absolute and permanent cure. Laxakola is the only medicine for babies, is purely vegetable and its action is gentle, speedy and effective. For coated tongue, simple fevers, colds, chills and languid feeling it is the ideal medicine.

It tastes good. ☞ Children like it and ask for it.

LAXAKOLA FOR WOMEN. It is a gentle and safe remedy to use during all conditions of health of the gentler sex whenever their peculiar and delicate constitutions require a mild and efficient laxative and tonic, and is invaluable in assisting to relieve obstructions which otherwise would lead to more or less severe pain or illness. It improves the complexion, brightens the eyes, sharpens the appetite, quickens the circulation, removes muddy and blotched condition of the skin and cures sick headache to a certainty by removing the cause.

To women suffering from chronic constipation, headaches, biliousness, dizziness, sallowness of the skin and dyspepsia, Laxakola will invariably bring relief. At druggists, 25c. and 50c., or send for free sample to THE LAXAKOLA CO., 132 Nassau Street, N. Y., or 356 Dearborn Street, Chicago.

PARALYSIS CURED.

Removal of Clot From Patient's Brain Works a Miracle.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—An unusual and delicate operation was performed at the J. Hood Wright hospital recently that is exciting comment among surgeons. It was the boring through of a man's skull and removal of a blood clot on the brain, with the result of curing paralysis of the left side, the right leg and the vocal organs.

The patient was George Joyce, twenty-six years old, a tinsmith, of 505 East One Hundred and Sixty-fifth street. On the afternoon of Sunday, Aug. 18, Joyce while attempting to alight from a southbound Amsterdam avenue electric car at One Hundred and Sixty-fourth street was hurled to the pavement, striking on his head. He was taken to the J. Hood Wright hospital unconscious. His entire left side and right leg were paralyzed, and he was in a comatose condition for eight days.

After examining the patient for some days Dr. Le Boutillier decided that the paralysis was caused by a clot of blood on the right side of the brain, and it was decided to operate on the patient. The surgeons bored a hole in the skull, the blood clot was discovered and removed, and then the patient was carefully watched night and day.

In a couple of days Joyce was able to move his limbs, and the paralysis gradually left the left side, but it was found that his vocal cords were paralyzed. He was kept quiet and Monday for the first time began to talk, but could not be understood. He gradually improved, and now something intelligible can be made out of what Joyce says. He is able to understand everything and to move his limbs freely. The physicians at the hospital say that if the improvement continues Joyce will be able to speak freely and plainly in twenty-four hours.

LUDLOW'S FUNERAL.

Last Honors In New York City Were Impressive.

NEW YORK, Sept 4.—The body of the late Brigadier General Ludlow, who died at Convent Station, N. J., on Friday last, was brought to this city over the Lackawanna railroad and conveyed to Trinity church, where the funeral service was read.

The funeral procession proceeded up Barclay street to Broadway, thence down Broadway to Trinity church. At Hoboken the coffin was met by three companies of engineers from Fort Totten, three companies from Fort Hamilton and three companies from Fort Wadsworth, all under the command of Colonel John I. Rodgers of the United States infantry. The streets from the ferry to the church were lined by police to the number of about 500, under the command of Inspectors Cross and Brooks.

Large crowds lined the route of the procession, drawn together by the unusual sight of a military funeral in New York. The attitude of those assembled was respectfully sympathetic, and heads were bared as the procession wended its way slowly along the streets.

A Big Yachting Wager.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 4.—The yachting wager of $400,000 between Walter J. Kingsley, representing an English syndicate, and a number of Pittsburgers was closed at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The money was placed in the hands of a prominent financier of this city who desires his name not to be made public. Mr. Kingsley turned over thirty-one £1,000 Bank of England notes, and Mr. Mustin gave a certified check for $250,000. Mr. Mustin's compensation for his share in the arrangement of the bet is 5 per cent of $250,000, which was paid to him as soon as the wager was consummated. The name of the stakeholder is the one closely guarded secret in the bet. The names of the men composing the syndicate also are kept from the public. "They are all well known Pittsburg gentlemen," said Mr. Mustin, "but for obvious reasons their names are being withheld. They are backing the American boat because they anticipate another victory for the Yankee skippers and look upon the matter with the eye of business men. However, if the Englishmen should take the cup away they would not turn a hair. They have the spirit of true sportsmen, every one of them, and if their quarter of a million should be taken they would be the first to say, 'Bully for Lipton!'"

Jamaicans Dissatisfied.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Sept. 4.—This island has been considerably agitated during the past month by the government valuation of properties over the whole island for the inauguration of a new system of taxation. The people openly threaten to cause trouble if any increase is made on the present oppressive rates. Governor Hemming and Colonial Secretary Olivier, who are going into the interior, are writing letters for publication in the newspapers in an endeavor to calm public feeling. The government is denounced for its extravagance and is held responsible for the unfortunate condition of the island's finances. Comparison is freely made with the prosperity of Cuba and Porto Rico.

Miners' Strike Postponed.

PITTSBURG, Kan., Sept. 4.—The threatened strike of the miners employed by the "Big Four" mines has been postponed until the national board of the United Mine Workers of America is heard from, and the men went to work under contracts dictated by the operators. The Central Coke and Coal company posted notices at its shafts stating that it would pay the 65 cent mine run price, and the eight hour day is to prevail, but it will not sign with the United Mine Workers of America.

Germany and Prince Chun.

BERLIN, Sept. 4.—"In official circles," says the Berliner Tageblatt, "there exists a feeling that it would be an error to insist that Prince Chun beg pardon for the murder of Baron von Ketteler, inasmuch as the German government never took the position that Emperor Kwang Su was responsible for it." The Boersen Courier says it learns that Count von Bulow dissuaded the kaiser from insisting upon the ceremony of prostration, arguing that mere externalities were worthless.

New Tax Law Exceeds Expectations.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 4.—Comptroller Knight reports that the total receipts from the operation of the new law taxing trust companies are $1,407,995. The period in which the tax for the first year was to be paid expired on Sept. 1. The amount of taxes collected is $7,995 in excess of the sum estimated would be collected under the statute for the first year of its operation.

THOUSANDS PERISH.

Terrible Floods Along the Yangtse River In China.

SHANGHAI SUFFERS IMMENSE LOSS.

New York Christian Herald Received Dispatches From Tientsin Saying That One-third of That City's Population Is Dead.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—The Christian Herald has received the following cable dispatch from the Rev. Arthur H. Smith of Tientsin, chairman of the famine relief committee, dated Chefu, Sept. 3:

"Terrible Yangtse floods. Dr. Richard and others approve Shanghai committee of Chinese and foreigners, embracing consuls, merchants, missionaries, distribute relief. If funds not all required in Shanghai, then transfer to Yangtse."

Several hours later a second cable was received, as follows:

"Dr. Duncan wires one-third population dead Shanghai. Forming Yangtse relief committee."

Dr. Klopsch of The Christian Herald cabled to Chairman Smith indorsing the decision of the committee to apply the unexpended balance of the famine fund in behalf of the Shanghai flood sufferers. The committee has power to extend its relief operations and will probably begin work at once in the city of Shanghai and other portions of the province of Kiangsu.

Shanghai is one of the principal ports of China and has a population of about 300,000, including the largest European and American element of any city in China save Hongkong.

There are British, French and German concessions at Shanghai, and there is a garrison of Anglo-Italian troops.

Diplomats Visit Buffalo.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—The members of the diplomatic corps left Washington today for Buffalo, where they will be the guests of the Pan-American exposition management. The following formed the party: The Japanese minister, Mr. Kogoro Takahira, and the chancellor of legation, Mr. Hayami; the Korean minister, Mr. Minhui Cho, and his secretary of legation, Mr. Sin Teh Moo; the Mexican embassador, Senor Aspiros, and his son and Captain Barron, the third secretary of the embassy; the Ecuadorian minister, Mr. Carbo; the Chinese minister, Mr. Wu, and Mr. Chung, the secretary-interpreter, and Mr. Ou, the second secretary; Minister Calve of Costa Rica and his two sons; the Peruvian minister, Mr. Calderon, and Mr. Pildo, the Venesuelan charge d'affaires. Secretary Wilson of the agricultural department and his daughter also accepted an invitation to accompany the party.

Monument Dedicated.

WILMINGTON, Del., Sept. 4.—At Cooches Bridge yesterday the monument marking the battlefield where it is claimed the stars and stripes were first unfurled in battle was unveiled. This is the anniversary of the engagement in 1777 between the troops of General Washington and General Howe, which was commemorated in the exercises. Chief Justice Lore, president of the Historical society of Delaware, presided. The monument was presented to the state by J. Wilkins Cooch and was received by Governor John Hunn. Addresses were made by Walter S. Logan of New York, president general of the National Society of Sons of the American Revolution; General James H. Wilson, U. S. A. and others. The monument, which is of granite, is six feet high. The stone is surrounded by four cannon presented by the government.

Murdered and Robbed.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—John Francesca Dura, a Mount Vernon (N. Y.) hotel keeper, was found murdered in the woods close to Yonkers. The discovery was made by John Vanderwanda, Jr., who, in passing along the road, noticed blood had been spilled and on further investigation of a path recently made by the breaking down of the birches found hidden in a clump of undergrowth the dead body. The man had been shot in the head and in the spine while in the road and his body then dragged to the place of concealment, where his clothing and two pocketbooks had been rifled. At least $300 is supposed to have been secured by the assassin or assassins. So far the police of Mount Vernon and Yonkers are at sea as to the murderers.

Pitiful Tales From Labrador.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Sept. 4.—Dr. Grenfell, superintendent of the mission to deep sea fishermen, now operating in Labrador, publishes a harrowing article exposing the medical deficiencies of that portion of Labrador which is under Canadian jurisdiction. He asserts that at Bradore he found an imbecile girl nine years of age tied in dog harness when her relatives were not able to watch her. He found people dying of cancer, dropsy and scurvy who had never seen a doctor. He found no hospital near, no regular steam service to Gaspe or Quebec and no means by which the people could procure medical or surgical treatment. He urges the Dominion government to take prompt steps to remedy these conditions.

Public Debt Statement.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—The monthly statement of the public debt shows that at the close of business Aug. 31, 1901, the debt, less cash in the treasury, amounted to $1,036,349,866, a decrease for the month of $5,460,597. The debt is recapitulated as follows: Interest bearing debt, $982,640,090; debt on which interest has ceased since maturity, $1,393,620; debt bearing no interest, $382,287,411; total, $1,366,321,121. This amount, however, does not include $780,033,689 in certificates and treasury notes outstanding which are offset by an equal amount of cash held for their redemption.

Melon Eaters Poisoned.

PITTSTON, Pa., Sept. 4.—Harry Bartholomew, his wife, daughter and mother-in-law included watermelon in their Labor day dinner, and shortly afterward all were taken violently ill. The daughter died in convulsions, and the parents are in such a precarious condition that they are not expected to survive.

Bernhardt Will Help.

PARIS, Sept. 4.—It was announced last night that Mme. Bernhardt had promised her services in support of a fete in aid of the antituberculosis propaganda to be given on the occasion of the czar's visit and under the patronage of the czarina. This indicates that her indisposition is not a serious one.

Congress of Good Roads.

It has become a custom in recent years for men to meet together for the discussion of a particular topic vital to the interests of the future as well as the present generations. When a body of men learned in any particular subject exchange ideas gathered by years of study and experience, the result cannot be other than beneficial. The diffusion of knowledge in such a manner frequently is instrumental in increasing the welfare, the comfort and the happiness of man. In this connection a meeting, arranged to be held at the Pan-American Exposition during the third week of the present month, will engage the attention of untold numbers in this country as well as abroad. It is the International Congress of Good Roads.

The defined purpose of this meeting is to discuss matters pertaining to the proper construction and maintenance of roads of every description. There is no question but that this subject has not been given the attention in this country, generally speaking, that it deserves. True it is that here in New Jersey considerable thought, labor and money have been expended in an effort to improve the streets and highways. As a result we have in all probability the finest roads in the United States, and the State has been well repaid for its outlays. This is not the case with the other States in the Union, where the subject has been unfortunately neglected. Hence this congress may be the incentive of impressing upon our sister States the need of improving their great highways and at the same time some valuable ideas in road construction may have been gained by the civil engineers and experts in road making.

Those who are arranging the details of this congress may be well assured that their labors will not be in vain, but that they are rendering a valuable public service. Were all the roads throughout the country of such a high standard as those to be found in this city and the vicinity there would be little need for such a meeting. Our streets have incited the interest of every careful observer who has visited this region, and many have been the inquiries from persons and places far distant concerning the methods here pursued in road construction and maintenance. If the interest awakened by the sessions of this congress should be crystallized into constant agitation hereafter, who knows but that the conditions presented here so far as street improvement is concerned, will not prevail generally everywhere in this broad land? The international Congress of Good Roads has a mission to perform.

The resignation of Rev. William Trebert as pastor of the German Lutheran church is to be regretted. There is a work to be done in the spiritual field of the German community in this vicinity, and undoubtedly something has already been accomplished in this respect by Mr. Trebert and his fellow-worker, Rev. George Hauser, pastor of the German Reformed church. It is perfectly evident, however, that two churches, looking after the welfare of the small German flock here, acts as a drawback rather than a help. They are divided and each one is struggling for existence. Neither congregation is prosperous, since the resources, numerically and financially speaking, are limited. Is it not an opportune time for consolidation between these two Christian forces? Why not lay aside minor matters of creed and unite for general Christian work? The uniting of Holy Cross and Redeemer parishes has been fruitful in having been the means of increasing the strength of the parochial force, and hence increasing the ability to cover the field to be cared for by the Christian workers. Would it not be well for the divided congregations, the German Lutheran and the German Reformed, to consider the benefits to be gained by co-operation? In union there is strength.

A couple of men were arrested and fined the other day for "shooting crap" in the station of the Jersey Central Railroad at Elizabeth. The fact is published as police news. When the Deutschland arrived, on its last trip from Europe, it was announced that nearly half a million dollars changed hands by reason of gambling transactions during the voyage. This fact was published as a society note. A man who corners the wheat market is a Napoleon of finance; but sometimes the man who steals a loaf of bread is stigmatized a scoundrel. Just what the distinction is it would be hard to define.

Tomorrow will be President's Day at the Pan-American Exposition. The Chief Executive of the Nation will be present and, in his capacity of supreme servant of a great people, he will be given a rousing reception. It is understood that the coronation crown of Edward VII will be worth half a million dollars, but such a cluster of jewels is a bawble when compared with that priceless crown, which belongs to a faithful servant of a free people, the esteem of his countrymen.

Medical authorities are advocating matrimony on the ground that it will minimize the number of cases of dyspepsia, which they say men contract by reading while eating and by "bolting" their food. These authorities steer clear of mentioning the susceptibility of men to indigestion just subsequent to marriage. The medical authorities in question and the manufacturers of patent remedies for indigestion ought to be able to stir up an argument in this matter.

In six States the organizations incorporated during the month of August represent capital amounting to $162,265,000. This includes increases in capitalization as well. Did you ever stop to consider what proportion the amount of money in existence bears to the aggregate amount of capital represented by the corporations which have been granted charters within the last decade?

Many of the dispatches emanating from Pittsburg relating to the situation in the steel strike, would warrant one in believing that there are some imitators of Weyler, so far as facts are concerned, located within the bounds of the Smoky City.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short and Gossipy Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

A party of Plainfielders, consisting of Fred Pope, J. Hervey Doane, R. A. Osmun, H. H. Coward, H. O. VanEmburgh and Ira F. Randolph, returned yesterday from a cruise at Barnegat. They were on a schooner, in charge of Captain John L. Dorsett, from last Saturday until Monday evening. The name of the schooner was Rosamond.

The glorious moonlight nights, accompanied by the sea breeze and entrancing music furnished by a male quartette, made the trip one long to be remembered. One morning about 2 o'clock, one of the party suddenly jumped from his bed and declared that he saw an automobile going by. It was difficult to convince him that such vehicles do not pass on the water in the night. He finally dropped off to sleep muttering something about rubber tires.

Another member of the party, a born fisherman, insisted on fishing day and night, and never a word would he say, even when all hands had abandoned the rod. Still another member, who learned all there is in seamanship, was soon heard giving orders to the captain. The appetite of another member was the occasion for much anxiety. Besides making way with four clam-fritters, as large as saucers, he ate a weak fish and many side dishes provided by the good-hearted captain. The party had several cameras and many fine pictures were taken.

Alvah TenEyck, formerly of this city, but now a conductor for the Pullman Palace Car Company, spent Labor Day in Plainfield with relatives.

H. M. Maxson, superintendent of the Plainfield public schools, will return from Alfred, N. Y., Friday, and at once make preparations for the reopening of the schools.

WHAT IT COSTS IN MONEY.

Probable Expenses of a Visit to the Pan-American.

Naturally most people who contemplate visiting the Pan-American Exposition desire to know what it will cost. I am going to assume that every one can learn the cost of a round trip ticket to Buffalo good for 15 to 30 days. I would advise every one to prepare for at least a two weeks' trip. Those who come on short limit tickets generally regret that they cannot stay longer to enjoy more fully this rare opportunity for pleasure and study, for I am safe in saying that never before has there been such an opportunity for the pleasure seeker or such a magnificent school of progress for those who wish to study what the world is doing in all lines of effort. No one who can possibly raise the money to visit the Exposition should for a moment think of denying himself this signal advantage.

The people of Buffalo have made ample preparation for the entertainment of all who come to the Exposition. In addition to the large number of hotels, where the rates are moderate, the private houses have been very generally thrown open for the entertainment of guests. Visitors may find comfortable accommodations as low as 50 cents a night for lodging, while better accommodations close to the Exposition can be secured for 75 cents and $1 per night. Breakfasts are served by many of the householders at 25 cents to 50 cents, and there is an abundance of good restaurants where meals can be had at very moderate figures. The cost of living in Buffalo should not exceed $2 or $2.50 per day for those who want the best. The admission to the Exposition is 50 cents. This includes admission to all the exhibit buildings and to all parts of the grounds, including the Stadium, where the athletic games and races, parades of live stock and vehicles take place. The Midway also is free, except where one chooses to enter the concessions. There are some 50 shows, ranging in price from 10 cents to 50 cents, all of them of unusual merit.

MARK BENNITT.

Brooklyn Day, Oct. 8.

Brooklyn will have a special day at the Pan-American Exposition, and Oct. 8 is the date selected. The committee on plan and scope, appointed by the president of the borough, is composed of prominent and influential officials, business men and manufacturers, and its work is being done with energy and enthusiasm. There will be a big popular excursion to the Exposition, where exercises appropriate to the occasion will be held. Dr. St. Clair McKelway, editor of the Brooklyn Daily Eagle, and other distinguished men will deliver addresses.

New York Federation of Women's Clubs.

Wednesday, Oct. 9, has been set aside as special day for the New York Federation of Women at the Pan-American Exposition. The annual convention of the Federation will be held in Buffalo Oct. 8, 9 and 10. Usually at the annual meeting several entertainments are given in the evening, but this year the entertainments will be limited to two, an opening reception given by the Women's Union and a closing reception to the Federation given by Mrs. Hamlin, president of the Women's Board of Managers of the Pan-American Exposition. The programme also contains but few subjects this year, the idea being to give more discussion to each subject and leisure to see the Exposition and to render the sessions less fatiguing than they were wont to be with many subjects.

National Grange Day, Oct. 10.

Excursions from all the important agricultural centers are being arranged for National Grange day at the Pan-American Exposition, Thursday, Oct. 10, and great crowds of visitors are assured for the special day. The different State granges will co-operate with the national body to make the day brilliantly successful. A programme of exercises appropriate to the occasion will be prepared. There is a handsome and commodious Grange building at the Exposition, and it will be used as headquarters and information bureau for the visiting Grangers. The agricultural and dairy exhibits at the Exposition are complete and of surpassing interest to agriculturists and dairymen. The United States Government agricultural exhibit is the most comprehensive ever made.

Atlantic City Day, Oct. 11.

Friday, Oct. 11, has been designated as Atlantic City day at the Pan-American Exposition. Prominent citizens of Atlantic City have interested themselves in the matter, and they propose to make their day one of the most important of the Exposition special days. The Associate Committee of Atlantic City Fraternals is doing excellent work in this direction. Owing to the fact that Atlantic City is a very popular resort, attracting many thousands of visitors daily, the committees having in charge the work of booming Atlantic City day at the Exposition will have an unusually good opportunity to advertise the event.

Bottlers' Day, Oct. 18.

Bottling of popular beverages has come to be an extensive and thriving industry. There are numerous large establishments in this country, giving employment to many thousands of persons. Several important associations have been formed among the employers and employees. It has been decided to have this year a gathering of those connected with the industry. This will be at the Pan-American Exposition on Oct. 18. The great attraction of the New World's Fair will serve to make the gathering a large one.

For a number of years I had the dyspepsia so bad I was almost dead with it. After I would eat I would swell up like a barrel, and have so much pain in my stomach that I would not know what to do. I tried everything I heard of and never got much relief, and one day a customer in the market told me to take Ripans Tabules and they would cure me. This was six months ago and I feel splendid now although I still take one Tabule after each meal and three on Saturday night after sitting all day in the market. Since I have used Ripans Tabules I am a well woman, and could not afford to be without them. I am sixty-one years old.

WANTED:—A case of bad health that RIPANS will not benefit. They banish pain and prolong life. One gives relief. Note the word RIPANS on the package and accept no substitute. RIPANS, 10 for 5 cents, may be had at any drug store. The family bottle, 72 tabules, 60 cents, will be mailed to any address for 5 cents, forwarded to the Ripans Chemical Co., No. 10 Spruce St., New York.

THE NEW WAISTS

A very quaint and old fashioned fashion is now being put forward as new, and that is the having of waists button up the back. This has its disadvantages and also its advantages. It allows an opportunity for the arrangement of a plastron of trimming across the upper part of the waist and the drawing in of the shape at the bottom in such a way as to give the quaint effect of 50 or 60 years ago. I expect that the next departure will be the shirring at the tops of the shoulders and at the bottom of the waist. I have a book which shows all these things, and it seems that we are always drifting around to the old styles.

The waist in question is but one of a thousand. It is certainly striking, and it is far from being ugly. Etamine is used for separate waists and obtains effects quite different from anything else. One is shown in the illustration with a square yoke, and this is filled in with pink silk veiled with chiffon. The front of the yoke is of the material, with a trimming of black lace run with chenille. The waist is lined with the pink and is tucked in clusters. It is of gray, and the pink shows through slightly. It is a very handsome waist.

Some really pretty effects in waists are found in having white serge or French flannel in white or cream and making the waist quite plain and without tucks. When the waist is otherwise finished, black velvet ribbon or fine soutache braid is put on either diagonally or in any way that may suit, and this is so that it resembles stripes set in different ways.

Full French waists are now more seen than the ugly full blouse of a season ago. Very little extra fullness is allowed in front, just enough to show a slight pouch down by the point in front. And nearly all waists are slightly pointed in front to allow for the new belts. Certainly half the belts are pointed. The buckles are really works of art with classic subjects. There are patent leather belts with little stars of gold, silver and oxidized spangles. Besides these there are elastic belts, wide ones and narrow ones, and each kind is ornamented in some effective way.

Buttons are to be a great factor in the trimming for everything. Silk crocheted ones are the favorites so far, but there are many other kinds. Still the black mohair and silk ones, like those used on men's garments, will be the best style. They will be used on skirts and on sleeves as part of the garniture. The list of novel effects in braids for trimming is "too great for utterance," as the public speaker says.

The new millinery is now ready and is unusually beautiful. There is no one set and particular style which we are all bound to adopt, for hundreds of shapes and varieties are seen. The general outlook is that the crowns will mostly be rather flat, and the shape of the wearer's face will in a great measure determine the form the hat ultimately takes. Milliners have a way of bending hats in all sorts of shapes to make them entirely becoming.

The beaver felt hats are the richest and most picturesque of all the Gainsborough shapes. There are at least a baker's dozen of shapes called by that name. Velvet hats of this style will be loaded down with black plumes, and so will the plain felts and the other shapes made of chenille in turban, toque or capote.

The ostrich plume will reign this year certain and sure. Many quills are seen and quite a number of whole birds, chiefly parrots, and no one ever complains when parrots are killed, whether on sentimental or sensible grounds. Many of these are dyed black, and they are cheaper than good ostrich plumes. Poor ones should not be put on a Gainsborough, for they destroy the effect.

Gray felt hats are seen oftener than anything in the rooms of the manufacturing milliners, and the main idea with them is elegant simplicity. They are intended for fall. A twist of some pretty and not too showy surah is brought around the crown. Some of them have only a silk cord and tassels. One way of trimming the Gainsboroughs is to have a rich cord around the brim and left to fall at one side after having been tied in a loose bow. There is a great deal of brown in the feathers, always excepting the ostrich plumes, and much of the other millinery is also brown, I remember—velvets for draping and chenille and plumes, but generally the made and dyed work. Chenille is so very much in evidence in everything where it can by any possibility be put that it deserves a special mention. It is interwoven with jet and also with flitter spangles.

The preference seems for small shapes, with the exception of the felt and beavers and the velvet Gainsboroughs. They must be big. The beaver hats are really beautiful in themselves, aside from any trimming, and they are so soft and pliable that they can be made to take any form to suit any face. In hats for runabout the flat form seems to be best liked, with the drapery and feathers, if any there are, drawn around the crown quite flat with a sort of swathed effect. The hat can be worn tilted to one side, which gives it a style peculiar to the face it shields. Lace over chiffon and with elegant chantilly sometimes strewn with tiny black spangles is employed in making evening bonnets, but it is just a little too early yet for the evening bonnets, yet the fact remains that they are to be light and small and rather flat than high. The materials will be of the finest, and in many cases the lace will be the real.

Color runs riot in the millinery, and red in several shades will be lavishly used, and when not all red it will be put with brown and black. Brown and red, when the right shades are chosen, are exceedingly rich together. Black and red make a good combination. Black and white are still the choice of the gentlewoman. Gray felts are trimmed with pompons in black and white.

The silks for fall and winter are very beautiful, some of the prettiest being the warp printed silks. These are in delicate colors, made still more dainty by the soft vagueness of the outline of the figures. This effect is obtained by printing the warp of the silk and then weaving the woof in. This is what blends the ground and the design so exquisitely. In old days this was called cheney silk, but it is made now in this country as well as abroad. All the solid color silks and black in peau de soie and rich grosgrain and also satin duchesse are in, and black and white combinations are also here. Velvets and velutina are to be exceedingly stylish this season.

WOMEN WITH SET NOTIONS.

They Make the Lives of Those Around Them Miserable.

Some women never change—they never want to change either their ways of thinking or of doing things. No amount of reasoning or of demonstrating modern methods will appeal to them. In fact, half the time they don't take the trouble to listen at all, secure in the belief that old ways are the best and that what their mothers and grandmothers did is good enough for them. Fortunately, this type of woman is getting rarer now that the sex in general is beginning to realize that conservatism is the chief stumbling block to its advancement. Still, there are enough of the standstill type left to cause considerable annoyance to those compelled to live with them.

If these women were to confine their notions to their own selves, all might be well; but, no—all beneath their roof must conform or take the consequences! There are set rules and ways for everything. If Bridget in dusting the parlor moves the chairs before she does the tables and ornaments, there is an immediate outcry from the woman with set notions, who is watching, catlike, for just such an occurrence. What if the room can be cleaned just as well that way? It makes no difference. Her former servants have always done it her way, and she isn't going to change now. It is the same with everything. She pries into the laundry, the kitchen and even the cellar to see if things are being done "right."

The woman with set notions makes herself old and wrinkled before her time. She is always so busy looking out that people don't break her many rules and regulations that she has no time to read, to broaden her mind or, indeed, to give herself any of the comforts of life. To her neighbors who express the fear that she will wear herself out she takes a melancholy satisfaction in shaking her head and replying, "Goodness knows how they'll manage things when I'm gone!" But the members of her family speak differently. They murmur among themselves, "Oh, if mother were not so set in her notions, how much easier it would be for her and for us!"

There is a nice little motto which the woman with set notions ought to hang up in her house in a conspicuous place—"There Never Was Such a Good Way of Doing a Thing but What There Is a Better." As an afterthought might come the suggestion, "Perhaps somebody else has the better way."

It was a broken story. It told of his desperation and misery through Canker's persecution, of his severe illness, then of the utter weakness and prostration; then her coming, and with her comfort, peace, reassurance, gradual return to health, and with that, gradual surrender to his nurse's fascinations. Then her demand upon him, her plea, her final insistence that he should prove his gratitude and devotion by getting for her those dangerous letters, and his weakness in letting her believe he could and would do so. That was the situation when they went on to Manila; and Armstrong knew the rest—knew that but for his timely aid she might have triumphed over his repentance; but Armstrong had come, had vanquished her and poor Latrobe's last wishes were observed. The fateful packet containing the three letters that were mostimportant was placed in his uncle's trembling hand.

"But how was it—what was it that so utterly crushed her?" asked Billy, when the colonel had once more extended his hand.

"The evidences of her own forgery, her own guilt," said Armstrong, gravely. "One was the order she wrote in excellent imitation of her husband's hand and signature, authorizing the changing of guard arrangements on the wharf the evening Stewart sailed. The other was a note in pencil, also purporting to come from him, directing old Keeny—you remember the general's Irish orderly—to search for a packet of letters that had come by mail, and must be in the general's tent, either about his desk or overcoat, and to bring them at once to room number so and so at the palace. Of course, neither the general nor Garrison was there when he arrived with them; but she was, and with all her fascinations. She got the Irishman half drunk, and told him a piteous story and made him swear he'd never tell the general or anybody. If questioned he could plead he had gone out, and —'got a little full with the boys.' She gave him money—a big bit, too; and he got more than full. The very vehemence of his denials made me suspect him," said Armstrong; "but he was firm when examined. The general never required him to remain at the tent at night. He could go to town any evening he wished; and to cover his appearing at the Palace where the general long had a room, and where he was well known, he could say he was only in to have a word with one of the housemaids, and to give Mrs. Garrison a handkerchief one of the ladies must have dropped. But one thing she failed in—getting the letter back. Keeny had left it at camp in the pocket of his old blouse, and when he sobered up and all the questions were asked he hung onto it in case the truth came out, in order that he might save himself from punishment. But it broke him—he got to drinking oftener, and the general had to send him to his regiment; and then when he heard of Canker's charge against you, I saw the way to wring the truth out of him. He worshiped your father, as did every Irish dragoon that ever rode under him; and I told him you were to be brought to trial for the crime. Then he broke down and gave the truth—and her penciled order—to me."

In the silence that followed the soldier of 40 and the lad of only 21 sat looking gravely into each other's face. It was Armstrong who spoke again:

"Gray, it was manly in you to tell me your story and your trouble. I could help you here; but—who can help you when you have to tell it—next time?"

"Next time?—father, do you mean?" queried Gray, a puzzled look in his blue eyes. "I hadn't thought, do you know, to worry dear old dad—unless he asked."

Armstrong's grave face grew dark. "You ought to know what I mean, Gray. This story may come up when least you think for, and—would you have it told Miss Lawrence before she hears it from you?"

"Miss Lawrence," answered Billy, flushing, "isn't in the least interested."

"Do you mean that you are not—that you were not engaged to her?" The colonel had been gazing out over the swirling river; but now, with curious contraction of brows, with a strong light in his eyes, he had turned full on the young officer.

"Engaged to her! Do you suppose I could have been—been such an ass if she would have had me? No! She—she had too much sense."

It was full a minute before Armstrong spoke again. For a few seconds he sat motionless, gazing steadily into Gray's handsome, blushing face; then he turned once more and looked out over the Pasig and the scarred level of the rice fields beyond. And the long slant of the sunshine on distant towers and neighboring roofs and copse and wall, and the unlovely landscape seemed all tinged with purple haze and tipped with gold. The blare of a bugle summoning the men to supper seemed softened by distance, or some new, strange intonation, and gave to the ugliest of all our service calls the effect of soft, sweet melody; and there was sympathy and genuine feeling in the deep voice as he once again held out his hand to Billy.

"Forgive me, lad, for I judged you more harshly than you deserved."

One lovely summer-like evening some five weeks later, in long, heaving surges the deep blue waves of the Pacific came lazily rolling toward the palm-bordered beach at Waikiki, bursting into snowy foam on the pebbly strand, and, softly hissing, swept like fleecy mantle up the slope of wet, hard-beaten sand, then broke, lapping and whirling, about the stone supports of the broad lanai of one of the many luxurious homes that dot the curving line of the bay to the east of Honolulu. Dimly outlined in the fairy moonlight, the shadowy mountains of the Waianai range lay low upon the western horizon. Eastward the bare, bold, volcanic upheaval of Diamond Head gleamed in bold relief, reflecting the silver rays. Here and there through the foliage shone the soft-colored fires of Chinese lanterns, and farther away, along the concave shore, distant electric lights twinkled like answering signals to the stars in the vault of blue, and the "riding lights" of the few transports or warships swinging at anchor on the tide.

From a little grove of palms close to the low sea wall came the soft tinkle of guitar, and now and then a burst of joyous song, while under the spreading roof of the broad portico, or lanai, the murmur of voices, the occasional ripple of musical laughter, the floating haze of cigarette smoke, told where a party of worshipers were gathered, rejoicing in the loveliness of nature and the night.

[TO BE CONT NUED]

To Run Road by Telephone.

General Superintendent Clarke, of the Lackawana railroad, made the announcement at Scranton, Pa., the other night that his road, in the course of a few months, will be operated by telephone, instead of by telegraph, as at present, at a saving of about 60 per cent. in the hire of telegraph operators. He says that the telephonic system has been placed on the Morris and Essex branch, where its use has been successful, and that it is being put in as quickly as possible on the Scranton branch. First, the telephonic system will be given a thorough trial on the branch lines, and if it proves successful there will come into general use on the main line from New York to Buffalo, totally superseding the telegraph.

Make War on Seasickness.

The Paris league against sickness at sea is organizing at Ostend an exhibition of methods for treatment. There will be six sections in the exhibition—first, apparatus to diminish the rolling of a vessel; second, an apparatus for cleansing the viscera; third, ventilation of cabins; fourth, apparatus, food and drink for preventing seasickness; fifth, specifics against seasickness, and sixth, literature on seasickness.

ROOSEVELT IN MINNESOTA.

Vice President Well Received In the Gopher State.

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 4.—The visit of Vice President Theodore Roosevelt to the Gopher State is over. It was a continued ovation from beginning to end, receptions, dinners and drives having followed in quick rotation during his stay.

His first appearance was at the Fourth ward wigwam, where he spoke to "the men who wear the buttons." His audience was not large, only a limited number of cards having been issued, but it lacked nothing of appreciation and responsiveness.

He spoke only briefly, perhaps a quarter of an hour at the most, and took his text largely from the lessons furnished by the courage, fortitude and patriotism of the men before him in the hour of the nation's peril, at times, however, falling into reminiscences of his own brief but eventful experience in war. He was frequently interrupted by applause.

The vice president probably will remember for some time to come the reception tendered him in the afternoon by the Minneapolis Commercial club. Colonel Roosevelt arrived at the clubrooms shortly before 2 o'clock and was introduced to the gentlemen of the club by Thomas H. Shevlin, whose guest he has been during his stay here.

Soon after 2 o'clock the doors were thrown open, and until nearly 5 o'clock a continuous stream of friends of the club members and admirers of the vice president filed through the clubrooms.

The vice president left for Chicago over the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul road at 6:25 p. m.

FILIPINO BANDITS PUNISHED.

Those Committing Outrages Against Natives Severely Dealt With.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—The outrages committed by armed guerrillas and bandits against innocent Filipinos continue to be rigorously dealt with by the authorities in the Philippines. The records in about twenty cases have been received at the war department. They show that the death penalty was inflicted upon thirteen murderers by military commissions and that five offenders were sentenced to hard labor of from fifteen to thirty years.

In the case of Simplicio Geromilla, who was sentenced to be hanged by a military commission of which Lieutenant Colonel Swigert was president for acting as a leader of an armed band of insurgents and firing upon and killing two American soldiers, although at the time living under the protection of the military authority of the United States as an amigo, General Chaffee disapproved the sentence and ordered the prisoner liberated. Says General Chaffee in his indorsement:

"The finding cannot logically be sustained. The killing of the deceased soldiers in an engagement with a regular detachment of the public enemy is not murder."

Shamrock II. Takes a Spin.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—The Shamrock II. returned to her mooring at 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon after a very successful trial spin lasting three and a half hours. Sir Thomas Lipton, Mr. and Mrs. Jameson, George L. Watson, Commodore Hilliard and Mr. Ratsey boarded the yacht at 5 minutes to 2, and at exactly 2 o'clock the moorings were slipped, and the yacht filled away on the starboard tack. At no time did the strength of the wind exceed five knots, and yet the yacht, with the wind abeam, traveled at fully a nine knot rate at times.

Mrs. Nation Defied.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—Carrie Nation went to Coney Island again yesterday. She made the trip on a trolley car. Just as she reached the Island she was met by a determined looking woman. "Say," said the woman, "are you Carrie Nation?" "I am," replied the hatchet wielder. "Well, I keep a saloon, and I want to say to you that if you enter it and attempt to smash anything I'll break your face." Mrs. Nation opened her mouth in astonishment, but all she said was, "Oh—oh!" Then she hurried away.

Hunt's Inauguration Sept. 16.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Sept. 4.—During the past two days William H. Hunt, the newly appointed governor of Porto Rico, has received hundreds of congratulatory messages and has been congratulated by the courts and a body of prominent citizens. Martin G. Brumbaugh, the commissioner of education, is planning the ceremonies for the inauguration of Mr. Hunt, which will occur Sept. 16.

New York Jails Overcrowded.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 4.—Secretary McLaughlin of the state prison commission reports to that body that the jails in Clinton, Franklin and St. Lawrence counties were overcrowded on account of recent commitments of a large number of Chinese to these jails charged with violation of the Chinese exclusion act by the United States authorities.

General Wood's Return.

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 4.—Governor General Leonard Wood arrived here yesterday and left at once on board the government yacht Kanawha for Cuba.

SPORTING.

ON THE DIAMOND.

After considerable negotiating on the part of Managers Thompson and Monahan, of the Hope and St. Mary teams, the final game in the series between the two will be played on the former grounds Saturday afternoon. Each team has one game to its credit, and, as they are evenly matched, a great game is expected.

With the addition of a number of former P. A. A. players, the Clinton Avenue baseball team has again entered the ranks of local teams and is striving for honors. Saturday afternoon the team went to Bound Brook and met defeat at the hands of the team at that place. Symons, of the local team, pitched an excellent game against such heavy hitters as Breame, Hurley and Fox. The score, 3 to 0, is evidence of the exciting game played. Labor Day morning the Clinton Avenue and the Scotch Plains nines crossed bats on the latter's grounds. The 'Plains team was defeated by a score of 8 to 3. The batteries were Albert and Allen and Squier and Matthewson. In the afternoon the Clinton Avenues went to Garwood where the Aeolian team defeated them by a score of 9 to 5. The feature of the game was a one-handed catch by Bolsterie which was roundly applauded. The batteries were Sullivan and Cushing and Squier and Matthewson.

AMONG THE STEPPERS.

A good many horsemen thought that D. C. Smalley should have driven Ned Davis harder in the 2:25 class Labor Day race. The reason for the easy driving was that Mr. Smalley did not expect to win, as his horse had not been a mile in less than 2:32 in several days. However, Ned couldn't be beaten down the home stretch, and made some very pretty finishes.

The judges at the Labor Day trotting and pacing meet were Albert Fairbairn, of Westfield; Nathan Bobbins, of Metuchen, and O. T. Waring, of Park avenue. E. McAfee, of New York city, made his first appearance as a regular starter, and gave surprisingly good satisfaction. Thomas H. Brantingham appeared at the track without a horse for the first time in years. His speedy and faithful mare, Myrtle Twig, was permanently injured by a bad fall last year, and his latest acquisition, Monarch Maiden, has been out to pasture, and is not in shape to race. Mr. Brantingham, however, gave excellent service as marshal.

ROD AND GUN.

James Day, Patrick Muldoon and Eugene O'Reilly spent yesterday fishing at Ross's dikes, near Florida Grove. They secured an excellent mess. The star catch was made by Muldoon, who landed one of the largest eels taken from Raritan Bay.

Boroughite Has Solution.

Thomas W. Morrison, formerly of North Plainfield, has an idea for eliminating the poisonous gases from the Park avenue tunnel, New York, and at the same time introducing cool currents of air for the comfort of the patrons of the road. A diagram explaining Mr. Morrison's ideas appeared in yesterday's New York World, together with a descriptive article. Experts are inclined to believe Mr. Morrison's plan a good one.

It is understood that Harry Clifford Lott, of New York, who has been tenor singer at the Crescent Avenue church for some time past, will shortly resign. It is said Mr. Lott will sign with a concert company for the coming season.

CAPT. LONG'S ADVENTURE.

An Interesting Tale of the Plains in Which the Boroughite Figures as a Captor of Outlaws.

In the last issue of the National Tribune, a weekly published at Washington, D. C., in the interests of Civil War veterans, Robert Morris Peck, contributes an intensely interesting story of rough riding on the plains in which Captain Eli Long, of the borough, is one of the principal characters. The narrative deals with the capture of a band of outlaws in the western wilds, through Captain Long's strategy, and their subsequent removal to Fort Lyon. It is true in all details and is of absorbing interest.

FELLED BY TROLLEY DEATH MAY RESULT.

John Harding is Knocked Down and Receives Injuries Probably Fatal.

WALKS INTO CAR FENDER.

VICTIM SEVENTY-1YEARS OF AGE AND VERY DEAF.

Story the Motorman Tells—May Have Been Attempt to Commit Suicide—Injured Man in Hospital.

An eastbound trolley car on the Plainfield-Elizabeth line at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon struck and severely injured John Harding, an aged man, on East Second street, near Johnston avenue. The fender hurled him to one side and for the time being he was rendered insensible.

The city ambulance conveyed the injured man to the hospital, where he now lays in a precarious condition. His injuries comprise a compound fracture of the right leg, a broken rib, a severely injured hip and general contusions about the entire body. Harding regained consciousness while in the ambulance and has since remained so. Last night he rested comfortably.

According to the story of Thomas Malone, the motorman of car 85, which struck Harding, the man deliberately walked into the fender, whether on account of becoming bewildered, or with suicidal intent, is not known. The latter theory is entertained by many, as it is said Harding attempted his life a few years ago by taking poison and of late he has been rather moody. At the time the accident occurred the car was bowling along at a fair rate of speed. Harding was walking along the road and Malone, after sounding his gong, continued on without slackening speed. When the car was within a few feet of him he turned suddenly and walked directly in front of it. Before the current could be reversed he was struck and thrown for some distance. The crew immediately reached his side and did all that was possible for the injured man, but it was seen his hurts were serious. Dr. Fritts was summoned and did all that was possible before the arrival of the ambulance.

Malone told a straightforward story of the occurence and was not held by the police. He will not be arrested unless Harding's injuries prove fatal. He is regarded by the officials of the company as one of the most careful motormen on the road, never having figured in an accident before during years of railroading.

Harding is seventy years old and quite hard of hearing, which latter fact is also advanced as being a possible cause for his walking into the car. He has been foreman of the city gravel pit for some time past and was on his way from there when struck. For some while he has been living with his son, Edward Harding, of Sprague street.

Heretofore only the one-color press has been a product at the works The new machines are considered to be the acme of mechanical ingenuity.

While awaiting the outcome of a two-color press, it was found necessary yesterday to lay off a portion of the working force. Nearly forty men are affected, but it is expected to be only for a very short time. There is every indication that the new press will prove successful and, if so, business at the works will be greatly increased.

While there are a large number of ornaments in the rooms which could be easily melted into silver or gold nuggets, nothing was taken beyond a set of foreign coins and a revolver. JERSEY'S GEOGRAPHY SHOWS MANY CHANGES

The Coast Line Differs Widely From What it Was Years Ago.

ENCROACHMENTS OF SEA.

SOME PLACES ALONG OCEAN EXHIBIT REMARKABLE CHANGES.

Real Estate Gained at Various Points Where Land is Valuable—Noticeable Instances Where Summer Resorts are Located.

The map of New Jersey is changing every day. If the reports of the surveyors are to be believed. Within the time of the present generation many alterations have been wrought in the geography of the State by natural forces. The shore line in some regions has been extended, while in numerous places it has been brought inward by the gradual encroachment of the ocean. The first survey made in 1685 and the latest one recorded present a marked contrast.

Surveys made recently, says the Newark Call, show that Sandy Hook has increased in length and in breadth, so that it now includes four times the area that it covered in 1685. The beach at Seabright has been very much encroached upon, the wear was at the rate of 200 feet every twenty years.

The bluffs of Long Branch have disappeared at a rapid rate, more so than at any point along the shore. There are evidences that the water line was at least a mile and a half out in the sea from the present time, and had not the present jetties and bulkheads been erected the entire ocean drive would have crumbled into the sea, and that within the past six years.

There has been little or no wear at West End, and down through Deal, one of the oldest points on the beach. Asbury Park and Ocean Grove have a narrow beach with considerable precipitation, caused by the encroachment of the sea, how much cannot be told; what it has now was made from observations made there some years ago to show old marsh at low tide. The upland between Deal Beach and Shark River Inlet is low, showing only five to six feet. There has always been wear and tear on the shore front between Shark River and Manasquan during the past fifty years of seventy-five feet or more.

Point Pleasant's improvements have removed the dunes that encroached inland. There are records of changes. Meadow sod with the hoof prints of cattle were discovered years ago on the beach at low tide near.

There is no doubt but that Long Beach was wider than it is now and that its loss of width has been on the ocean side and not on the bay side. At the point where the Barnegat light house stands there have been made and lost many acres of ground. The beach has been gradually working westward to Harvey's Cedars.

The Absecom Beach on which Atlantic City is located has a strange and fascinating history, made so because the loss and gain of beach land involved vast sums of money, for at the present time ocean front land is as expensive as Broadway property. Twenty years ago the wear and tear was at the head of Atlantic avenue. The Absecom Lighthouse was in so much danger that the Government had to erect jetties to save it. A hotel erected close to the low water mark and claiming the distinction of being nearest the sea, because of made beach, was a few years ago a block away from the sea, and even after being moved closer to the sea, the beach continued to move out, making and remaking valuable land for the owner.

WILL NOT PARADE.

Exempt Firemen, Not Having Purchased New Uniforms, Will Not Participate in Parade.

As the members of the Exempt Firemen's Association are divided on the question as to whether new uniforms should be purchased at this time, it is almost a certainty that they will not take part in the borough firemen's parade on Thursday, October 17. The expense of securing new uniforms would be more than a majority of the members feel like incurring.

SUCCULENT BIVALVES.

Open Season Now Open and Dealers Say the Dainty Morsels are Better Than Ever.

From present indications, the oyster season which opened in earnest yesterday, will be one of the most successful in years. After being deprived of the delicacy for three months, lovers of the succulent bivalve purchased them in large quantities and as a result the faces of the dealers were wreathed in smiles.

Jerry Foss, the Park avenue seafood dealer, said yesterday that in all his twenty-five years' experience he had never encountered oysters of such an excellent quality as what they are this year. They are large and juicy and of a delicate flavor. The Maurice River Cove oysters are particularly fine, especially for this season of the year.

RETURN AFTER MANY YEARS.

WILLIAM HASTINGS VISITING SCENES OF CHILDHOOD DAYS.

Born in Dunellen, He Left There at An Early Age and Has Long Been Mourned as Dead.

After being mourned for several years as dead, William Hastings returned Monday to the scenes of his childhood. It was thirty-three years ago that he was born at Dunellen, the son of John and Sarah Hastings. At a very early age he was taken away to another part of the State and in time he was separated from his parents. He wandered about the country and as years went by his relatives felt sure he was dead as not a trace nor a word could be learned concerning his whereabouts.

The young man's parents died, the mother being buried in the cemetery at Samptown, while his father was buried at Newark. In time he found his way to California, where he remained for several years, and while there he married. Though being far away from the place of his birth, Mr. Hastings often longed to re-visit his early home and find out whether any of his relatives were still living. Recently he came to New York, and then determined to go to Dunellen and inqutre for his relatives. Last Monday he made the trip and, after making inquiries among several families, he was informed that his aunt, Mrs. Samuel T. Hand, who is his mother's only sister, resided at 123 Elmwood place, this city, and he immediately came to Plainfield.

Mr. Hastings was directed to the home of David F. Stewart, 415 John street, and Mr. Stewart, who is a personal friend of the Hand family, accompanied him to where he wanted to go. When first Mr. Hastings and his aunt met, the latter did not recognize her nephew, and when he disclosed his identity she could scarcely believe what he told her to be true. Soon they were talking over the history of early days, and for the first time since leaving home, Mr. Hastings looked upon a picture of his mother, which is the possession of Mrs. Hand. The re-union was a delightful one and both rejoiced to know that they had found each other after so many years of separation.

IMPROVING SOMERSET STREET.

Trolley Company Raising the Tracks to Proper Level.

The Plainfield Street Railway Company started this morning to raise, straighten and repair its tracks on Somerset street. They are now working at the east end of the street. It is hoped by the residents along that thoroughfare that the low spot in front of the schoolhouse will receive the necessary raising and repairing. The borough authorities intend to remacadamize the street, and are waiting for the trolley company to finish its work.

TO ENTER NO DEFENSE.

Papers in Zimmer-Zimmer Divorce Proceedings Served.

Constable Weaver this morning served papers upon Mrs. Lizzie Zimmer in the suit for divorce brought against her by Phillip Zimmer. The case will be heard before Chancellor Magie, Monday, September 23. It is understood that Mrs. Zimmer, who is charged with desertion, will not defend the suit.

Safe Return.

A. V. D. Honeyman, who left this country June 13, with a party of tourists, returned home yesterday morning on the steamship Barbarosa, after a most delightful trip on the continent. There were twenty-five persons in the party and there was not a single accident to mar the pleasures of the trip. The weather throughout was perfect and just the kind for sight-seeing.

BAPTISTS PREPARING FOR CONVENTION.

Seventy-Second Annual Session Of The Denomination In This State Set For Oct. 28.

TO BE HELD AT FLEMINGTON

IMPORTANT MATTERS TO ENGAGE ATTENTION OF CONVENTION.

Mission Work To Be Discussed—Financial Question a Serious One—Talk Of Union Between Young People's Union And C. E. Society.

The seventy-second annual session of the New Jersey Baptist Convention will be held at Flemington, beginning October 28 and will last three days, and those who are interested in the affairs of the Baptists are now giving their attention to several matters of importance which are likely to come before that body. In connection with it the Baptist Education Society, the Baptist Young People's Union and the Baptist Pastors' Conference will hold their annual meetings.

It is expected that many Baptists from this city will attend the convention which promises to be one of the most important in recent years. There are also Baptists from this city who hold positions of prominence in the various committees and boards and they will no doubt take a prominent part in the sessions.

Probably a great deal of consideration will be given by the convention to its mission work in the State. There are now fifty of what are known as convention churches, but it is desired to keep on extending the work into new sections. Those already established also need attention and financial aid. This will readily be seen when it is stated that the average salary of the men who minister to them is only $346. Even with the assistance given by the convention many of them are compelled to make great sacrifices. But the annual reports from these small charges show gratifying results in growth of membership and the efforts they are making to become self-supporting.

As to the prospects for this year there is one discouraging feature and a very important one; that is the financial question. Attention is given to the matter in the current issue of the New Jersey Baptist Bulletin. Referring to the meeting of the Board of Directors held last month at Trenton it says:

"The treasurer's report was not encouraging. It showed a large number of churches falling behind their contributions of last year; in some cases the amount of decrease is only a few cents or dollars; in other cases the decrease is disheartening. On the other hand, quite a number of churches have materially increased their contributions. It is noteworthy that there is very considerable increase on the part of Sunday-schools. It is very certain that from now to the end of the year, October 15, only two and one-half months, there must be vigorous work done. Why not? First—Every church that has fallen behind its contribution of last year make a vigorous effort to supplement the contribution with another. Second—Every church that has not yet contributed determine beforehand that it will not give less, but more, than last year. Third—Every Sunday-school in the State determine to contribute to the Sunday-school department of the convention.

Undoubtedly some action will be taken by the Young People's Union to bring about a unity between the Baptist Young People's societies and the Christian Endeavor societies in the churches of the State. It has been suggested that this might be brought about easiest by changing the name of the union. Incidentally the question may revive the much-discussed plan for the unification of all the Baptist interests, but it is maintained by a large number that the proposition is practically dead.

Went by Default.

As the attendance at the meeting of Unity Lodge, No. 102, K. of P., last evening was small, the vote for Grand Lodge officers went by default. This is a matter that cannot be postponed, and therefore, the members lose their opportunity to vote. However, there was no particular choice in the matter and the officers chosen will probably be elected without dissent.

—Benevolent Council, Jr. O.U.A.M., will hold a regular meeting tomorrow evening.

—Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., will hold a meeting of importance this evening.

AT THE THEATRES.

Something About the Attractions Which Plainfield Theatre-Goers May Care to Witness.

There are eight very lively, pretty, attractive, typical English girls, somewhere on the broad Atlantic today, headed for New York. They style themselves "The Eight English Roses." They sailed from London September 2, under contract with B. F. Keith to appear at the Union Square Theatre, New York, September 9. The young women present one of the daintiest acts imaginable, teeming with mirth, melody and motion, and are sure to be as popular in New York as they have been in London.

Manager F. F. Proctor's four New York theatres are now open for the season. One of the features of Manager Proctor's plans for the season will be a revival of several of the plays made famous by the late Augustin Daly's Stock Company, and the first of the series will be brought forward Monday afternoon at the Fifth Avenue in a revival of "A Night Off."

The famously successful and old time favorite comedy, "The Jilt," will be offered as the chief dramatic feature at the One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street. The brief return of this old-school style of comedy will be much appreciated and will be a refreshing diversion. It proves that Manager Proctor has no intention to confine himself to any limitations, and the entire gamut of dramatic possibilities will be run by the Proctor Stock Company during the season. Of vaudeville there will be a diversified offering presented between acts and keeping the amusement continuous, save for a two-hour intermission after 5 o'clock each afternoon.

"The Widow Bedott," aptly styled "the funniest old lady in town," will hold forth at the Twenty-third Street, dispensing drolleries invented by the late Petrolium V. Nasby. The quaint humor of the piece and the multiplicity of trite sayings put into the mouth of Joseph Palmer, who plays the title role, have been greeted with roars of laughter at Manager Proctor's other New York theatres, and it is reasonable to suppose that the old lady will stir down town patrons of the Proctor plan to uproarious applause and an abundance of laughter. During the time the doors are open there is no break in the amusement, vaudeville being introduced between the acts of the plays.

—Henry Braydon, Harris, N. C., says: "I took medicine 20 years for asthma but one bottle of One Minute Cough Cure did me more good than anything else during that time. Best Cough Cure." L. W. Randolph.

—A cantata entitled "The Kingdom of Mother Goose" will be given at Bethel chapel Thursday evening, September 19, at 8 o'clock. The proceeds will be for the benefit of the chapel.

—Many physicians are now prescribing Kodol Dyspepsia Cure regularly, having found that it is the best prescription they can write because it is the one preparation which contains the elements necessary to digest not only some kinds of food but all kind and it therefore cures indigeston and dyspepsia no matter what its cause. To the Voice of Plainfield People.

If you will but listen to your friends and neighbors, they will tell you how the pains and aches of a bad back, the nervousness, the restlessness that come from kidney ills can be relieved and cured. Read what one Plainfield citizen says:

Mrs. R. Wortman, living with her daughter, Mrs. S. E. Cook, of 204 Somerset street, says: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills with good results for severe pains across my back and hips, which no doubt was caused by the kidneys being out of order. It was painful to stoop or bend forward and I could not sit ten minutes in one position, but had to be continually changing about. I used many different kinds of medicine recommended for kidney trouble, but I could not see that any of them benefitted me. Doan's Kidney Pills were procured for me at L. W. Randolph's drug store and it is the only remedy I ever used that gave me any relief. I always keep a supply of them on hand and would not think of being without them."

G. A. R. ENCAMPMENT.

The President Has Promised to Attend.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Daniel F. Kelley of Philadelphia, grand marshal of the G. A. R. encampment and naval parade in honor of Perry's victory on Lake Erie, to be held next Tuesday in Cleveland, who is in this city, announces that President McKinley has officially notified the executive committee that he will be in Cleveland Tuesday and Wednesday of next week and will participate in the events of the two days.

All the naval fleet of the lakes, United States steamers Michigan, Yantic, Hawk and Dorothy, and the revenue cutters Fessenden and Morrill will be in the harbor. A feature on the lake Tuesday afternoon will be a series of yacht races. In the evening the grand dog watch will be held near the Perry monument, on which occasion the president and his party and all officers and members of the G. A. R. will be the guests of the naval organizations.

In response to invitations acceptances have been received from the national guard of Ohio and the mayors of cities of that state, and also the National association and all naval organizations in the United States and the Association of ex-Prisoners of War. The president will review both the G. A. R. and naval parades. Admiral Dewey and Rear Admirals Sampson and Schley have received special invitations. Commodore G. W. Gardner will be in command of the yacht clubs.

Newport Horse Show Closed.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 5.—The horse show closed late yesterday afternoon in a blaze of glory after being most thoroughly patronized for three days by fashionable Newport. By hard work the judges succeeded in closing the list and disposed of fourteen classes during the afternoon. It was nip and tuck throughout, but Mr. Frank J. Gould succeeded in landing two of the championships. The Lawson stable won a number of prizes, while Mrs. C. H. Holcomb won the championship in the saddle class.

Cyclist Nelson Hurt.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—There was a bad spill in the second mile of the fifteen mile motor paced race at Madison Square Garden last night. One of the motor pacing machines collapsed, and Nelson was very seriously hurt. His chief injury is in the calf of his leg, the muscles being ripped and severed. It is not believed that he will be able to ride again this season, if ever. The motormen were only slightly hurt, and Michael was not hurt at all.

TO TRY A DESERTER.

Court Martial Awaits Howard, Recently Captured.

AN AMERICAN LEADER OF FILIPINOS.

Prisoner Denies That He Was Once a United States Soldier, but Is Identified by Members of Former Regiment.

MANILA, Sept. 5.—Lieutenant Hazzard of the Third cavalry has brought in here Arthur Howard, the American deserter, who was recently captured by the lieutenant while in command of some Macabebe scouts in the island of Mindoro. He was placed in jail and will shortly be court martialed. Howard denies that he was ever an American soldier. He claims he was born in Spain, that his father was English and his mother Spanish, but that he espoused the cause of the Filipinos. In 1896, after peace was declared, he says he went to Hongkong and returned in 1898 as Aguinaldo's chief of artillery. While in that position, Howard says, he made friends with many Americans before the insurrection, including General Green. He cast his lot with Aguinaldo at the time of the rupture with the Americans and says he brought in sixteen American prisoners under a flag of truce at Angeles in September, 1899. Howard denies that he commanded the force at San Mateo which killed General Lawton, though at the time he did not know who the conspicuous figure was. He speaks like an educated Englishman. Lieutenant Hazzard says he himself saw Howard at Angeles in 1899. Two former California volunteers yesterday identified Howard as a deserter from their regiment named Walley of Company A, who deserted in 1899.

The Philippine commission has established a bureau of public lands, an organization modeled closely after the one at Washington, with variations necessitated by the different conditions and with regard to the former Spanish land system. The commissioners also plan a general land survey, which will include the quality of arable land and the island's agricultural resources.

The newly arrived American teachers at a mass meeting have decided to cable to the president complaining that they were promised commissary privileges and that they now find their expenses are double what they were assured they might expect. They think they are badly used.

Philippine Provinces Pacified.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—The following provinces in the Philippines have been designated by the Philippine commission as in such a satisfactory state of pacification and sufficiently well advanced in all the details of civil administration as to warrant their passing under the jurisdiction of a civil governor: Benguet, Pangasinan, Bataan, Tayabas, Romblon, Oriental Negros, Antique, Leyte, Ambos Camarines, Marinduque, Cavite, Surigao, Pampanga, Tarlac, Bulacan, Masbate, Occidental Negros, Iloilo, Capiz, Albay, Sorsogon, Rizal, Nueva Ecija and Misamis. By the direction of General Chaffee the senior military officers in these provinces are directed to render all needful assistance to the civil authorities when disturbances arise beyond the control of the local municipal police. Wherever the assistance of the military arm is asked for the senior commanding officer is required to make full report of the facts of the attending circumstances, action taken and result thereof.

New Jersey Asylum Investigation.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 5.—The State Insane hospital investigation was resumed yesterday, with all the members of the committee except Governor Voorhees present. A large array of witnesses were in attendance to testify in behalf of Warden Hay. They were principally dealers who had furnished supplies to the institution. Before putting any of these witnesses on the stand some attendants were called. Faus and Emerick, two male attendants, gave the usual testimony concerning the food. Miss Edna Weber, a female attendant, testified that the food as a rule was all right and was as good as she had received at the institution at Danville, Pa., where she was formerly employed.

Charged With Stealing a Bond.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—Henry W. Supplee, twenty-four years of age, has been arrested on the charge of making away with $3,907 in cash and a bond of the Fort Worth and Denver City railroad valued at $1,200, belonging to Foulke & Co., stockbrokers, by whom the prisoner was employed as a bookkeeper up to last Saturday night. He admitted that he had taken more than $3,000 of his employer's funds and said the bond had been deposited with a New York banking firm. Supplee said he had been speculating and lost the money.

Death Rate High.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 5.—There were 12,298 deaths in this state during the month of July, according to the monthly bulletin of the state health commissioner. The bulletin says: The mortality was excessive, being above the average. The average temperature was several degrees above the normal, especially during the first few days, and the increase of mortality is chiefly due to its effects.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—The Rev. Dr. William H. De Puy of this city, for over twenty-five years associate editor of The Christian Advocate, the official organ of the Methodist church, is dead of paralysis at Canaan, Conn. He had been ailing for over a year. Mr. De Puy was one of the managers of the Methodist Sunday School union. He was seventy-two years old.

Nordica made her first appearance in Germany at the new Prince Regent theater in this city last night as Isolde in "Tristan and Isolde" before a brilliant audience, which included many Americans. CHUN MEETS KAISER

Expiatory Message Delivered by Chinese Mission.

CEREMONY COLD AND FORMAL.

Imperial Address Apologizing For the Murder of Minister Von Ketteler In Peking Delivered In Berlin.

BERLIN, Sept. 5.—Emperor William's reception of the Chinese mission of expiation, headed by Prince Chun, which took place yesterday at Potsdam, was marked with all the severity consistent with an audience nominally friendly. The Chinese imperial envoy on entering the palace was not accorded a salute by the garde du corps. The kaiser received him seated. The buttons and epaulettes of his majesty's white uniform were enveloped in crape.

Prince Chun bowed thrice on entering and leaving. Emperor William remained seated during the reading of the Chinese address. Afterward, however, he relaxed his stern demeanor and welcomed the envoy courteously, and subsequently, accompanied by his adjutant, he called upon Prince Chun at the Orangery. Later in the evening the emperor, Prince Chun and a dozen members of the expiatory mission took tea on an island in the Spree.

The emperor had evidently arranged the entire ceremony with a view of impressing Prince Chun with the feeling that the ceremony meant expiation for a foul crime and that only through expiation had Prince Chun acquired the right to be treated with princely honors. Not until after the ceremony did the atmosphere change. Then, the troops outside having saluted and the band having played, hussars escorted Prince Chun back to the Orangery.

The imperial envoy seemed deeply impressed with the solemnity of the occasion, and when summoned to the throne room he showed visible embarrassment. He bowed repeatedly while approaching the throne, and his voice was agitated while he was reading the imperial address.

The entire manner of Emperor William was calculated to impress Prince Chun with the solemnity of the ceremonial. He spoke emphatically and seriously, emphasizing particularly the word "civilized."

The ceremony lasted only ten minutes. In the meantime six Chinese dignitaries of the highest rank, who were halted in the anteroom, remained there perfectly motionless and speechless, awaiting Prince Chun's return with evident anxiety. Prince Chun retired backward from the throneroom, bowing profusely.

There was apparently but little public interest in the mission among the people of Berlin. A small but undemonstrative crowd watched Prince Chun driving in the park.

New Pittsburg Exposition Buildings.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 5.—Though fire on March 17 of this year completely destroyed the big main building of the Pittsburg Exposition society, two new buildings of magnificent exteriors and interiors have been constructed in the remarkably short space of four months, and the opening last night for the new season was brilliant beyond anything ever seen in this city. Fully 15,000 people wandered along the six grand promenades and listened to the fine music of Sousa and his famous band. In honor of the occasion Mr. Sousa had composed a new grand march entitled "The Pride of Pittsburg," which was received with genuine enthusiasm. The booths erected by Pittsburg merchants are all new without exception and excel in artistic beauty and costliness anything ever before attempted in this line in Pittsburg.

Large Sum For Charity.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 5.—John D. Lankenau, the well known philanthropist and member of the Drexel family, who died last week and was buried yesterday, left upward of $1,500,000 to be divided equally between the German hospital of this city and the Mary J. Drexel Home For Aged Patients of the Hospital. The estate is estimated to be worth a little more than $1,500,000. Paintings valued at $150,000 are bequeathed to the Drexel institute, founded by Anthony J. Drexel.

Crushed by a Steam Roller.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—A fifteen ton steam roller leveling asphalt at One Hundred and Twenty-first street and Madison avenue crushed Thomas Jennings to death beneath the massive wheels while his horrified fellow laborers looked on, unable to aid him. He was fifty-four years old, and it was the slowness of age that caused him to lose his life.

Columbia Won.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 5.—In a trial race between Constitution and Columbia, sailed in a fine twelve knot breeze over a fifteen mile windward and leeward course, the Columbia won by 17 seconds corrected time. PRESIDENT AT BUFFALO.

Screeching of Whistles and Booming of Guns Greet McKinley.

BUFFALO, Sept. 5.—President McKinley, in whose honor today has been set aside on the Pan-American exposition calendar, entered Buffalo last night through the portals of the Rainbow City. A few of the party left the presidential train at the Central station, but the president and Mrs. McKinley, the Misses Barber and Miss Sarah Duncan, the president's niece, and the members of the reception committee were taken at once to the north gate of the exposition grounds. The screeching of whistles and the booming of guns greeted the president's train as it passed along the lake and river fronts over the Belt line tracks to the grounds. As the train flashed past the front a salute of twenty-one guns boomed forth from Fort Porter.

A few minutes later President McKinley, with Mrs. McKinley leaning on his arm and surrounded by the reception committee, emerged from the entrance to the terminal station. A great cheer went up from the thousands who caught a glimpse of the party, and it was taken up and re-echoed by the others farther back, who, although they could not see the president, knew what the cheering meant. President McKinley, with Mrs. McKinley and Mr. John G. Milburn, president of the exposition company, entered the first carriage, which was drawn by four handsome bays. It was with difficulty that the police kept a passageway clear for the carriages, which proceeded slowly toward the Lincoln parkway entrance. Cheer after cheer went up from the vast throng. The president acknowledged the salutations of the crowd by bowing and raising his hat. Mrs. McKinley, who looked remarkably well after the tiresome journey, also smiled happily.

The carriages paused for a moment on the Triumphal bridge to give the members of the party a moment to take in the beauties of the grounds. They were then driven rapidly out of the Lincoln parkway entrance and up the parkway to Delaware avenue to the home of Mr. Milburn, whose guests President and Mrs. McKinley and the members of their party will be during their stay in the city.

The president remained quietly in the house during the evening, retiring at an early hour.

BOLD TRAIN ROBBERY.

Large Haul Secured From Cotton Belt Express.

TEXARKANA, Ark., Sept. 5.—A large amount of money was secured by robbers who held up the Cotton Belt passenger train No. 1 from this place. The robbery was committed by five masked men at Eylau, four miles south of here. The exact amount of the booty was withheld by the railroad and express officers, but it was known that a large shipment of money was made on this train.

The train was flagged by one of the robbers, who forced the fireman to go back and cut off the mail and baggage cars. He then returned and made the engineer give up the management of the locomotive. One of the robbers, who, it appeared, was an expert engineer, ran the locomotive, mail and express cars about a mile from the point where the first stop was made. The gang then forced the express messenger to open his car.

After securing the loot by blowing open the express safe with dynamite the robbers escaped on the locomotive, going south at full speed. The passengers were not molested.

The conductor and several passengers walked back to this city and reported the holdup, whereupon a posse was sent in pursuit of the robbers. The locomotive was caught running wild about thirty miles south of here. It is not known where the robbers left it.

Testing Polar Currents.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—Admiral Melville, chief engineer of the navy, has received a letter from Captain C. F. Shoemaker of the revenue cutter service in reference to the admiral's plan of studying polar currents by means of casks set adrift in arctic waters. Captain Shoemaker has entered with enthusiasm into Admiral Melville's project and has sent fifteen of the casks to the far north aboard the revenue cutter Bear. In his letter to Admiral Melville Captain Shoemaker quotes from a communication he has received from the commanding officer of the Bear, under date of Port Clarence, Alaska, Aug. 7, as follows: "Leaving Point Barrow, a run will, should circumstances be favorable, be made along the edge of the ice pack to land the Melville drift casks. When this is accomplished, return calls will be made at Point Hope and other points. I hope to reach St. Michael by Sept. 5."

Lindsay, Fifteenth cavalry, has been appointed recorder of the board.

SITUATION CRITICAL.

Colombian Troops and Insurgents May Clash at Any Moment.

COLON, Colombia, Sept. 5.—The United Fruit company's steamer Sunrise, chartered by Herr Beckman, the German consul at Bocas del Toro, has arrived here with a view of obtaining the presence of the United States gunboat Machias at Bocas del Toro, where fighting is expected to begin at any moment, the government troops having advanced within a mile of Provision island, where the insurgents are and now occupying a superior position. Herr Beckman failed to obtain the presence of the Machias at Bocas del Toro, as she is needed more urgently at Colon.

Tuesday night the Colombian government brought troops, artillery and ammunition by special train from Panama to Gatun, on the outskirts of Colon, owing to the threatening attitude of the rebels there.

One thousand troops have arrived at Baranquilla from Honda, destined for Rio Hacha, where General Pinzon, Colombian minister of war, has lately been busy mobilizing troops.

The local press has received a circular dated at La Negrita, near Panama, and signed by Victoriano Lorenzo, who claims to be the chief representative of the Liberal party on the isthmus, in which he deprecates the recent numerous raids upon Chinese and others, disclaims all connection with such marauders and urges the government to pursue them hotly and mercilessly.

It is said on good authority that Lorenzo served eight years in a penitentiary for the murder of two men.

ANNEXATION OF CUBA.

Havana Paper Says That Is the Only Solution.

HAVANA, Sept. 5.—The Avisador Comercial publishes an article on the economic situation, the substance of which is that it is useless for Cuba to ask concessions from the United States unless Cuba is ready to enter under the American mantle.

"The time has arrived," the paper says, "to speak clearly. A vast majority of the industrial and wealthy element see and wish for this solution, which is the only solution. The only people who will not see it are the Cuban politicians."

The Union Espanola says:

"A majority of the Americans wish for the annexation of Cuba. Also a majority of the Americans think that Cuba, if left alone, would become like some of the South American republics. This proves that Spain was right in denying independence to Cuba."

The paper asks why, if the Americans thought this, they destroyed a situation which guaranteed peace and order in Cuba.

The Discusion protests against the cabled statements that the Cuban constitution is to be rejected at Washington and says:

"If this is so, it is because the United States does not wish for the immediate establishment of the republic and not because the constitution is defective."

Gambling Stories Denied.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 5.—Mr. James A. Chambers, president of the American Window Glass company, whose name has been used in connection with the stories of gambling on the recent trip of the Deutschland and as a member of the Pittsburg syndicate which, as was alleged, bet $250,000 to $150,000 on the American cup defender, has issued the following statement: "With Mr. M. K. McMullin and several other gentlemen I was in Europe on business. We came back on the Deutschland and there met many Pittsburgers. Every day we had pools on the day's run of the ship. Twenty men were in each pool, which averaged $700 to $800. These were $5 pools. One day we had a $10 pool, which after the auction contained from $1,800 to $1,900. Another day we had one large hat or decimal pool. In this pool were ten men, who put in $25 each, making $250. All the other pool were for $5 each, or $50 altogether. Some of our party played more or less poker every day during the voyage, the limit of our game being $5. There was no such betting in the poker games as has been published. The largest pot on the entire trip did not exceed $100. Regarding the alleged wager of $250,000 to $150,000, said to be made by a Pittsburg syndicate of which I am supposed to be a member, I want to say as plainly and as distinctly as I can there is no such wager so far as Pittsburgers are concerned.

Senator Clark to Buy Daly Ranch.

BUTTE, Mon., Sept. 5.—The announcement is made that Senator W. A. Clark is about to become the owner of the famous Bitter Root stock farm, founded and brought to perfection by the late Marcus Daly. It is stated that Mrs. Daly is anxious to dispose of the property, and Senator Clark has sent a personal representative to examine the property. The ranch is famous as having been the former home of such noted horses as Hamburg, Tammany, Montana, Ogden, Lux Castata and many others. It consists of 123,000 acres, of which about 20,000 acres are under cultivation. Mr. Daly during his lifetime spent sums estimated in the millions in improvements upon the property. It is stated that Senator Clark's intention is to cultivate sugar beets on the ranch.

For a Texas Pipe Line.

FORT WORTH, Tex., Sept. 5.—James W. Swaine of Fort Worth and ex-Governor James Hogg, owners of the famous Hogg-Swaine oil syndicate of Beaumont, started for Europe today to organize a $25,000,000 pipe line company to establish a pipe line from Spindle Top to Port Arthur and Sabine Pass. Mr. Swaine says the company will have the products of sixty wells to draw from and expects to market 100,000 barrels daily. Operations are expected to begin Jan. 1, 1902.

Proclamation Has Little Effect.

PRETORIA, Sept. 5.—Lord Kitchener's proclamation has as yet had but little effect so far as the surrender of burghers is concerned, but in response to an earnest appeal the authorities have given permission to many wives of Boers in the field to go to warn their husbands of the futility and consequences of further resistance.

SECRET CONFERENCE

Steel Corporation and Labor Leaders Discuss Terms.

NO CONCLUSION HAS BEEN REACHED

The Meeting Held In New York Was Asked For In Behalf of Presidents Gompers and Mitchell. A Six Hours' Session.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Terms of peace in the steel strike were discussed at length yesterday at a secret conference in which sat officials of the United States Steel corporation, leaders of union labor and representatives of the civic organizations which have intervened. Unusual safeguards of secrecy were resorted to in order to preserve the privacy of the proceedings, but it was evident that no conclusion was reached and that the decision to either terminate or continue the strike must be made by the strikers.

The participants in the conference were President C. M. Schwab of the United States Steel corporation, President W E. Corey of the Carnegie Steel company, Veryl Preston of the United States Steel corporation, President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, President John Mitchell of the United Mine Workers' association, Secretary Harry White of the Garment Makers' association, Professor Jenks of the industrial commission and Ralph M. Easley, secretary of the National Civic federation. Several officials of the companies controlled by the United States Steel corporation were called to the conference chamber during the day.

The conference was asked for in behalf of President Gompers and President Mitchell, and the request reached President Schwab early in the day. He made favorable reply at once, and at 12:15 o'clock the two labor leaders, accompanied by the other intermediaries who had participated in the Pittsburg meetings of last week, reached the office of the United States Steel corporation.

The session lasted continuously for more than six hours. No statement as to the proceedings was made by any of the participants.

One of the steel officials made this brief statement: "Nothing was accomplished by the conference. The strike is just in the same position as before it was held."

STRIKERS UNEASY.

McKeesport Thrown Into Excitement by Arrival of Deputies.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 5.—Agitation and uneasiness prevail in the ranks of the strikers, caused by the apparently unfavorable developments of the day. The leaders, however, profess to be satisfied with present conditions and claim that ultimate victory will be theirs. Much was hoped for from the peace conference in New York, but the announcement of the failure to reach a decision put a damper on these hopes. Still, many hold to the belief that, the matter now being up to the strike leaders to accept or reject, whatever may have been the propositions made, a settlement will speedily be reached.

McKeesport was thrown into a state of consternation by the arrival of the force of deputies demanded of Sheriff William C. McKinley by the officials of the American Tin Plate company. At the first intimation that such a course would be pursued Mayor R. J. Black held a conference over the telephone with the sheriff. Later he went to Pittsburg, and on his return he was boiling over with indignation. He denounced the action of Sheriff McKinley in the bitterest terms. Chief of Police Patrick J. Morrissey volunteered to land every deputy at the police station if the mayor would only give the word, but the mayor cautioned him that such action would transcend his powers. The mayor gave out a signed statement shortly after the arrival of the deputies, in which he says:

"In view of the fact that Sheriff William C. McKinley, who under the statutes of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania is the paramount peace officer of Allegheny county, has seen fit, in the discharge of what he mistakenly conceives to be his duty, to send deputy sheriffs into that portion of the city of McKeesport occupied by the Demmler Tin mills, it becomes incumbent upon me to protest against such action. Probably there is no more peaceful spot on earth than that inclosed within our corporate limits. There is no disorder here. There is no menace of disorder here.

"It was at such a time as this and at the rounding out of so highly creditable a record as this that Sheriff McKinley gathered together some half hundred of hungry and unemployed heelers, many of them of bad records and more questionable character, and hurled them into the city. This little handful of men, armed with brief authority and legal weapons, constitute a vastly greater menace to the peace and good order of McKeesport than the more than twelve full regiments of law abiding citizens who are now on strike here.

"The insult to the city of McKeesport is as wanton and impolitic as it was ill advised. I know personally nearly all of the men who are here on strike. I know them to be good citizens, industrious, sober, peaceful and law abiding.

"I was not consulted by the sheriff of Allegheny county in this matter of encamping deputies within our municipal boundaries. Sheriff McKinley deemed it wisest to commit the discourtesy of ignoring the high official in the city and excuses his course upon the ground that he had been informed by certain trust officials that the destruction of the Demmler Tin mills was imminent and the property in dire danger every moment the presence of such deputies was delayed. This information, whoever its author may have been, is absolutely false and as malicious as it is untrue.

"I reiterate my ability, unaided by the county authorities, to prevent deeds of lawlessness, whether affecting the property of individuals or the United States Steel corporation. I have sworn in special officers of the law from among the business men of the city, not from the ranks of the strikers. I have taken every reasonable precaution against outbreak, though violence was never imminent.

"I now call upon the striking workmen of McKeesport to give the lie to the alleged necessity for the presence of these deputies. Stay away from the Demmler mills and let the officials fight their battle for resumption with incompetent assistance. Ignore their stealthy operations and remain quietly about your homes. You will lose nothing, and at the same time you will emphasize the falsity of vicious criticism directed at both yourselves and me."

COMING EVENTS

September 8—Men's meeting at Y. M. C. A. Hall at 4:15 o'clock. Bright, brief and breezy. Something new. Vocal and instrumental music.

August.

The career of the month which on the birth of September became a thing of the past was an eventful one in many respects. The weather conditions, which were remarkable, affected the crops to a great extent in many regions and hence had a much felt influence on the market. Shortage in crops sent up prices. During the fore part of the month New Jersey was blessed by heavy rainfalls, which was an absent feature to a marked extent throughout the great agriculture west. The rainfall here was within a small decimal of eleven inches during the entire thirty-one days. Unfortunately, however, the rain came too late and as a result the crops of this State were greatly injured by the droughts of the preceding two months.

Here in New Jersey there were no strikes of importance, but the country witnessed one declared that will take a place among the lists of the great strikes on record. This is the steel strike, which is not yet ended. The manufacturing industries at home have been booming and the commercial reports show that in the country at large the volume of orders for fall goods is unprecedented. An encouraging feature in this connection is that the grade of goods in demand is of a higher quality than it has been recently. In another respect the month has been notable. It is said that the patronage at the summer resorts of this State have been most encouraging. The hordes of visitors who have spent their money at the multitude of famous Jersey hotels, could not help but have a favorable effect.

As a whole the month of August has been a memorable one.

Borough Tax Rate.

The people of North Plainfield are no doubt pleased over the announcement that the borough tax rate has been fixed at 2 42, which is four points lower than it was last year. It was hoped that the reduction would be even greater; but the amount asked for the county, which is included in the budget, prevented this, but as it is the news of the reduction cannot fail to be welcomed by all taxpayers. The item for borough expenses is one point lower than that of last year, notwithstanding the important improvements being made, as well as those contemplated by the borough authorities. The special school tax is two points higher, while the item for the Board of Health shows a reduction. A reduction, amounting to almost ten points, has been made in the State school item, and this is largely responsible for the successful effort to decrease the total rate for the year. While the rate is comparatively a large one it shows an evident intention to bring down the tax by degrees as soon as possible, and it is not unlikely that the day is coming when the boroughites will not be compelled to pay more than they did in 1898, that is $2.20.

Hope Memorial chapel has suffered a loss by the departure of Rev. G. Kennedy Newell, who has been a faithful, energetic and devout pastor of that congregation for the last ten years. While we congratulate Mr. Newell upon his well-earned advancement to a broader sphere of usefulness, at the same time it is to be regretted that he has deemed it wise to sever the pastoral relation with the flock at Hope Memorial chapel.

At present, General Dan Sickles, who spent part of the summer months in this city, is a target for the friends of Pension Commissioner Evans, whose administration was severely attacked by the old general. Their weapon is a copy of a speech he delivered before the Civil War defending secession. People in politics must be prepared to battle with others having remarkable memories.

Carrie Nation, the "hatchetator," as she styles herself, stopped off at Hoboken the other day. Notwithstanding the fact that Hoboken has more saloons for its size than any city in the United States, the fanatical reformer did not get in any of her work. Too bad that she did not make a demonstration for it might have diverted attention from Paterson for a time.

After a while we will all be distinguished by clans, in typical Irish style, if these family reunions keep up. First it was a family by the strange name of Smith, then the Dickinsons and only yesterday the Mannings, who held their little confabs. Why not unite together as the Friendly Sons of the Original Adam? It would save expense and avoid friction.

Consumption has baffled the skill of eminent surgeons of all generations. It is encouraging to hear from time to time that rich men have bequeathed sums to defray the expense of studying the dread disease. The action of King Edward VII in appointing a distinguished surgeon to give his attention to the subject is a commendable one.

Prince Chun, brother of the mysterious Emperor of the Celestial Kingdom, having carefully avoided being beheaded during the recent disturbance in China, intends to visit this country. If his idea is to outshine Wu Ting Fang, he will probably find that he will get it in the neck, though not in scimitar fashion.

In justice to the other daily newspapers published in Elizabeth, it should should be said that the article in yesterday's issue of The Daily Press concerning an alleged libellous article reflecting on the honor of Dr. Boone, of this city, had reference to the Elizabeth Daily Leader.

The Daily Home News of New Brunswick got red headed Monday. Its issue came out with flaming letters of vermillion at the top of the first page, but at the same time the editor could not miss the opportunity to put a little green inside. Perfectly natural.

The officers elected by a military organization, which held its annual reunion Tuesday, all hail from Newark. When there is anything in sight worth having, the Newarkers are after it.

An Elizabeth woman died the other day leaving a large sum of money deposited in a trunk. A stranger might think that Elizabeth is a rural place.

I would think as soon of doing business without clerks as without advertising.—John Wanamaker.

Miss Alice Mehl, of West Fourth street, is spending a week with her uncle, D. I. Buckley, at Summit.

Arthur Crone, teller at the City National Bank, will leave Friday for Buffalo, where he will join his wife, who is visiting relatives in that city. Mr. Crone will spend most of his vacation at Buffalo.

LOST: A CONTINENT!

Mythology teaches us that at one time there existed a great continent lying between the shores of America and Europe. Upon this bit of mythology Cutcliffe Hyne has founded the plot of a stirring story entitled:

The Lost Continent

It is probably one of the most remarkable literary productions of current times, and is certainly one of the best works of this distinguished author. Competent critics pronounce it better than any of Verne's stories as a tale of unusual adventure. We have to this story, and by following it up have completed arrangements to publish the same in this paper. Our readers should watch for the opening chapters now soon to appear in these columns.

Dunellen, September 5.—The illness of Benjamin Carpenter, Henry C. Gaskill, Mrs. Emmons and the two Ryno brothers, who all have been, or still are suffering from typhoid fever, has lead to the conclusion that there is something the matter with the drinking water. The homes of all of the above mentioned victims are situated within a short distance of each other, and the drains from their house cellars all flow into the same outlet and it is possible that the water at each dwelling has become contaminated.

Benjamin Carpenter was taken to the hospital yesterday. Dr. Brakeley sent him there for treatment because of the lack of proper nursing at his home. He is suffering from the typhoid fever.

ON BOARD THE D. C. IVINS.

MANY PLAINFIELDERS ENJOYED TRIP UP THE HUDSON.

Where They Went and What They Saw—Got Glimpse of Yachts—Who Were in the Party.

One of the many pleasant Labor Day outings was that given by DeWitt C. Ivins, the lumber and coal dealer, of Watchung avenue, who provided a day of unlimited pleasure for his business friends. The party left Jersey City on the commodious tug, "DeWitt C. Ivins," which was in waiting to take the members up the Hudson.

A stop was made at Grant's tomb, giving the party an opportunity to view the beautiful scenery in that part of New York. The party then proceeded to Spuyten Duyvil Creek, viewing the Palisades and upper Manhattan Island. From there the tug found its way through the Harlem river, with its ever changing scenery, and the party were fortunate in being able to witness an exciting boat race. Then the boat made its way into the East river, passing Randall's and Blackwell's Islands and by the new East river bridge to the Navy Yard, where some of Uncle Sam's fighters were reviewed.

The boat continued its journey southward passing Governor's Island and entering the upper bay went through the Narrows, viewing Fort Wadsworth on the right and Forts Hamilton and Lafayette on the left, while in the distance was far-famed Coney Island. The objective point, Sandy Hook Point, was reached and here a set of resolutions were drafted and signed by every one present. The resolutions expressed the appreciation of all for the delightful trip and were presented to Mr. Ivins. After getting a good view of Shamrock I and Shamrock II, the party returned homeward reaching their pier at 5 o'clock, where a photograph of the party was taken while aboard the tug.

Those in the party included the following: Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Ivins and D. C. Ivins, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Wilson and son, Mr. and Mrs. James C. Manning, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Brokaw, Mr. and Mrs. E. New Brunswick Woman Keeps Up Courage Before Burglar.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, Sept. 5—Mrs. Thos. Gaven, of this city, was attacked in her home Monday night by a burglar, who thrust a pistol at her head and commanded her to produce the money which he declared he knew she had hidden. He declared he would kill her if she screamed.

He compelled the woman to go upstairs and menaced her with the pistol while she searched through a bureau drawer, finally finding two dollars, which she gave him. Then he compelled her to go ahead of him down stairs. She opened the door and let him out and then she fainted.

SPECIAL DAYS AT THE PAN-AMERICAN

THE week beginning Sept. 15 will be Lumbermen's week at the Pan-American Exposition. Thousands of wholesale and retail dealers in lumber from all parts of the United States and Canada will be at the great New World's Fair, and they promise to make the week a memorable one.

One of the organizations which will be well represented is the Concatenated Order of Hoo-Hoo, which has a membership of upward of 8,000.

The annual meeting of the Hoo-Hoo will be held at Norfolk, Va., from Sept. 9 to 13, and the delegates will go direct from the Southern city to the Exposition.

The Concatenated Order of Hoo-Hoo is essentially a lumbermen's order, being composed of lumbermen, timbermen, saw and planing mill machinery manufacturers, newspaper men and railroad men, being those engaged in the lumber trade and those allied industries which are so closely interwoven with the conduct of the lumber business as to make them practically a part thereof.

Mexico Day, Sept. 16.

Exceptional ceremonies are being planned for Mexico day, Monday, Sept. 16, at the Pan-American Exposition. Dr. Aspiroz, the Mexican embassador to the United States, will be there and will speak. In addition, it is proposed to have a famous and eloquent statesman and orator from Mexico make the address of the day. An effort is being made to secure the attendance of Chief Justice Justo Sirra of the Supreme Court of Mexico. It is proposed to bring the famous Mexican Artillery Band to the Exposition for the day. The Mexican commissioners to the Exposition are deeply interested and will strive earnestly to make their republic's special day a memorable one.

Illinois Day, Sept. 16.

Among other prominent speakers at the Pan-American Exposition on Illinois day, which will be Sept. 16, will be Secretary Lyman J. Gage, Senators Shelby M. Cullom and W. E. Mason, Comptroller of the Currency Charles G. Dawes, in addition to Governor Richard Yates. The First Regiment of Chicago will be in attendance, and the social features of the occasion will not be slighted, an informal hop at one of the large hotels in Buffalo being included in the plans.

Grand Army Veterans' Day, Sept. 17.

G. A. R. day at the Pan-American Exposition, Tuesday, Sept. 17, will be one of the truly great days of the season. It follows closely the national encampment, which is to be held at Cleveland, and many thousands of veterans and their families will embrace the opportunity of viewing the wonderful sights at the great New World's Fair. An elaborate programme appropriate to the occasion will be carried out. Numerous special features will be provided in honor of the visit of the veterans. Among the bands which will be at the Exposition on G. A. R. day are Brooke's Marine Band of Chicago, Nineteenth Regiment Band of St. Catharines, Ladies' Military Band of Boston and the John C. Weber Military Band of Cincinnati. Band concerts will be given forenoon, afternoon and evening. There will be a free organ recital by Seth C. Clarke of Buffalo in the Temple of Music in the afternoon. In the evening there will be one of the most magnificent displays of Pain's fireworks ever seen. The day will be one long to be remembered.

New York State Day, Sept. 18.

New York State day at the Pan-American is Sept. 18, and an effort will be made to eclipse all previous records for attendance on that day. Low railroad rates will be obtained from all parts of the State, and there will be a large gathering of public men, politicians, orators and distinguished citizens, besides members of the National Guard. The principal orator of the day will be the Hon. St. Clair McKelway, editor of the Brooklyn Eagle and one of the most brilliant orators of the State. It is expected that the guests of the day will include Senator Thomas C. Platt, Senator Chauncey M. Depew, Governor B. B. Odell and staff and the Adjutant General of the State, General George F. Roe. There will be a big military display, including probably all the National Guard regiments and companies of Western New York.

Welsh Day and Eisteddfod, Sept. 19.

The Eisteddfod at the Pan-American Exposition on Sept. 19, which has been designated as Welsh day, will be a very important musical event. The leading Welsh soloists and choirs will compete for prizes aggregating $1,000. The sons and daughters of Wales in this country are deeply interested in Welsh day and the Eisteddfod, and many thousands will visit the Exposition for the festivities. The Eisteddfod will be held in the magnificent Temple of Music of the Exposition, which contains the finest pipe organ in America.

The Welsh are pre-eminently musical vocally, and they are second to no other people for choral singing. Within easy radius of Buffalo there are thousands of Welsh singers. Half a dozen fine choirs will be organized to take part in the contests. This will furnish also a rare opportunity and stimulus to the Welsh choral community to show the people of all America what they can perform in the line of choral music. The chief competition will be "God So Loved the World" (Sir J. Stainer) and "We Never Will Bow Down" (Handel), $400; also male chorus contest, "Song of the Pilgrim" (Morris), and a female chorus contest "Lullaby" (Brahms) and "Bridal of the Birds" (Brinley Richards). The following will be the adjudicators: William Apmadoc, Chicago; Edward Broome, Montreal, Canada; John Lund of Buffalo, N. Y. The presidents of the day will be Rev. D. Rhoslyn Davias of Allegheny, Pa.; Hon. Ellis H. Roberts of Washington, D. C., and General Thomas L. James of New York. The leader of each winning choir will receive a silver loving cup.

St. Catharines Day, Sept. 20.

St. Catharines is an enterprising and progressive city in the province of Ontario, Canada, which has a splendid display of its natural and industrial resources at the Pan-American Exposition. The wide awake citizens have planned a special day for their city at the Exposition, and they promise to make it one of the most entertaining and liveliest of days. Friday, Sept. 20, has been designated as St. Catharines day. An excellent programme is being prepared.

Pennsylvania Day, Sept. 20.

Pennsylvania is represented with a State building and a comprehensive exhibit of the great resources of the State at the Pan-American Exposition, and great numbers of her people have visited the great show. A special day for Pennsylvania has been set aside, Friday, Sept. 20. Arrangements are being made for a grand observance of the day. There will be special excursions, starting from all important points in the State, and the indications are that many thousands will patronize them. A programme of exercises, in which the most distinguished statesmen and business men of the commonwealth will participate, is now being prepared by the State's commissioners to the Exposition.

Trained Nurses' Day, Sept. 21.

Trained nurses from all parts of the United States and Canada will gather at the Pan-American Exposition on Saturday, Sept. 21, which has been designated as Trained Nurses' day. During the week beginning Sept. 16 the International Congress of Nurses will be held in Buffalo.

The American Society of Superintendents of Training Schools For Nurses will hold its annual meeting Sept. 16 and 17. This society is composed of the superintendents of all the large nurse training schools of the United States and Canada.

The Nurses' Associated Alumnæ of the United States, which has now about 3,000 members, also holds its annual meeting the same days.

The International Council of Nurses, a branch of the International Council of Women, and composed of the leading women of the profession throughout the world, will hold a business session on the 16th. This council has called an International Congress, which will be in session for three days, Sept. 18, 19 and 20. The Order of Spanish-American War Nurses will hold its annual meeting that week, probably on Tuesday. These meetings will all be held in the Women's Union.

On Saturday, the 22d, a mass meeting of all these organizations will be held in the Temple of Music of the Exposition. Many of the old army nurses of the Civil War are expected to be present. The Surgeon General of the United States Army has appointed a delegate to represent the Army Nurse Corps. The Victorian Order of Nurses of Canada will also send representatives and all the nurses' clubs and alumnæ societies of this country and Europe.

Oregon Day, Sept. 23.

In Oregon everything that happens is on a big scale. Evidence of this is seen in the exhibition buildings of the Pan-American Exposition. The State's exhibit is one of the most complete and interesting at the New World's Fair. All who view it pronounce it highly creditable to the productive and progressive State. The plans for Oregon day at the Exposition are on a scale characteristic of the State. The chief officers of the State, representatives in the National Legislature and other prominent organizations will participate in the exercises. Sept. 25 is the day set aside for Oregon day.

Cleveland Day, Sept. 26.

The enterprising city of Cleveland will have a holiday on Thursday, Sept. 26, which has been designated as Cleveland day, at the Pan-American Exposition. Arrangements will be made for low rate excursions both by rail and water, and many thousands of the Forest City's citizens are expected to make the trip to the Exposition, where a programme of exercises appropriate to the occasion will be carried out. The Mayor and other city officials will deliver addresses. Distinguished Ohio statesmen will be invited to participate in the exercises. The arrangements for the event are in the hands of committees composed of Cleveland's most prominent and influential men, and success is assured.

Nebraska Day, Oct. 3.

Nebraska has a fine exhibit of its products at the Pan-American Exposition, and the State is to further distinguish itself by the observance of a special day at the Exposition. Oct. 3 will be Nebraska day, and a programme in which the most distinguished men and women of the State will take part is being arranged.

One day last August, while suffering terribly from indigestion, heartburn and nervous headache, I rushed into a drug store and asked the clerk to recommend some remedy. Among those that he mentioned was Ripans Tabules, and I concluded to try them, and from that day on I am like a new man. Ripans Tabules have worked wonders with me. I have introduced them to my relatives and friends and made them presents of the five-cent cartons. My wife thinks they are really grand. They have cured her of many a tough headache. NEW WAISTS.

Black and White Blouses Are Made From Dress Materials.

Separate waists are being made of dress materials. This is a welcome change from the omnipresent taffeta blouse. The new waists are without exception made of soft materials, and the necessary body is obtained by tuckings and shirrings. Crepe de chine leads in the popular favor, but grenadine all over lace and polka dotted silk muslin are also favorites.

No woman of fashion can afford to be without a black and white waist.

BLACK GRENADINE WAIST.

Great ingenuity is required in designing these so they will bring out the best lines in the figure. In all striking effects where black lace is used on white material or white on black the aim should be not to allow the eye to be attracted solely by the trimming, but to preserve a harmonious whole.

For a young woman a charming waist can be made of black china silk laid in lingerie tucks and bloused slightly both back and front, the collar and narrow cuffs being of ivory white venetian lace.

The charming black and white waist here pictured is made of silk grenadine over black taffeta and trimmed with yellow honiton lace. The deep yoke is laid in fine tucks, and the lower fullness is ornamented with two sloping bands of the honiton. Over the tucked yoke is placed a pointed lace collar. There is no standing collar, and the neck is simply cut in the ordinary round shape. The sleeves are tucked to within ten inches of the wrist, where the fullness is appliqued with the lace. JUDIC CHOLLET.

SEVERE COATS AND SKIRTS.

They Continue to Be Worn by Many Smart Women.

The severe tailor made will always be with us in spite of adverse prophecies. The reason is that there is a type of woman to whom this sort of dress is pre-eminent. I refer to the woman who does not look well in a fluffy waist or an evening dress. In spite of the craze for ornateness, the foremost tailors have made many skirts perfectly plain this season, with the exception of gored and fitted flounces. These flounces are put on so skillfully that often they could not be detected were it not for the added fullness at the bottom.

GRAY TAILOR MADE.

Black continues to be widely used, but a newer color is gun metal gray. This is seen in broadcloth, and it has a fine luster. Suits of this shade are often trimmed with strappings of black panne. Blue is a useful color for cheviot morning suits, and brown comes last of all in the public estimation, as it hardly ever makes a smart looking costume.

A perfectly plain steel gray broadcloth is here pictured. The jacket is made Eton fashion, with revers and collar of white broadcloth with three rows of black soutache braid. The front and lower edges of the coat are outlined with a deep band of black stitched panne. There is also a pointed effect of the panne over the top of each sleeve. The sleeves are made bishop style, with cuffs of the stitched panne. The skirt is cut with a wide gored flounce. JUDIC CHOLLET.

Clara—Jack proposed to me last night and asked me to give my answer in a letter.

Maude—Shall you do as requested?

Clara—Well, not exactly. I shall put my answer in the postscript.—Chicago News.

It was a reunited party, too, and in the welcome of their winsome hostess, in the soft, soothing influence of that summer clime, and through the healing tonic of the long sea voyage, faces that had been saddened by deep anxiety but a few weeks gone smiled gladness into one another now. A tall gray-haired man reclined in an easy lounging chair, his eyes intent on the clear-cut face of a young soldier in trim white uniform, who, with much animation, was telling of an event in the recent campaign. By his side, her humid eyes following his every gesture, sat a tall, dark, stylish girl, whose hand from time to time crept forth to caress his—an evident case of sister worship. Close at hand another young fellow in spotless white, his curly head bent far forward, his elbows on his knees, his finger tips joining, was studying silently the effect of his comrade's story on another—a fair girl whose sweet face, serene and composed, was fully illumined by the silvery light of the unclouded moon. "Coming by transport, via Honolulu"—"Gov's" cabled message had brought father and sister to meet him at these famed "Cross-roads of the Pacific," and whither they journeyed Amy Lawrence, too, must go, said they; and, glad of opportunity to see the land of perennial bloom and sunshine, and wearied with long, long months of labor in the service of the Red Cross, the girl had willingly accepted their invitation. Coaled and provisioned, the transport had pushed on for the seven-day run for San Francisco; but the recovering of his long-lost son and the soft, reposeful atmosphere of the lovely yet isolated island group had so benefited Mr. Prime that in family council it had been decided wise for them to spend a week or ten days longer at the Royal Hawaiian; and the boys had found no difficulty in "holding over," for the Sedgwick, that followed swift upon the heels of their own ship. Five joyous days had they together, and this, the fifth, had been spent in sightseeing beyond the lofty Pali of the northward side. The "O. & O." liner was coming in from Yokohama even as they drove away; and as they sat at dinner on the open lanai, long hours later, it had been mentioned by their host that the Sedgwick, too, had reached the harbor during the afternoon, and that army people were passengers on both liner and transport. Billy Gray, for one, began to wish that dinner was over. He was eager to get the latest news from the Philippines, and the Sedgwick left Manila full a week behind their slower craft.

"Did you hear who came with her?" he somewhat eagerly asked, "or on the Doric?" he continued, with less enthusiasm.

"I did not," was the answer—"that is, on the Sedgwick;" and the gentleman halted lamely and glanced furtively and appealingly at his wife. There was that embarrassing, interrogative silence that makes one feel the futility of concealment. It was Miss Lawrence who quickly came to his relief and dispelled the strain on the situation.

"I should fancy very few army people would choose that roundabout way from Manila when they can come direct by transport, and have the ship to themselves."

"Well—er—yes; certainly, certainly," answered the helpless master of the house, dodging now the warning and reproach in the eyes of his wiser mate at the other end of the table. The crack of a coachman's whip and the swift beat of trotting hoofs on the graveled road in front could be heard as he faltered on. The gleam of cab lights came floating through the northward shrubbery. "Except, of course, when they happen to be—er—already, well, you know, at Hong-Kong or Nagasaki," he lamely concluded.

There was an instant hurried glance exchanged between Gray and Prime. Then up spoke in silvery tone their hostess:

"Other officers, you know, were ordered home. We have just heard today that Col. Frost comes very soon. His health seems quite shattered, I believe—you knew—of them—slightly that is to say, Miss Prime, did you not?" But even with her words she cast an anxious glance along the dim reach of the lamai, for the pit-a-pat of footfalls, the swish of feminine draperies was distinctly heard. Two dainty, white-robed forms came floating into view, and, with changing color, their hostess suddenly arose and stepped forward to meet them. Just one second of silence intervened, then, all grace and gladness, smiles and cordiality, both her little hands outstretched, Mrs. Frank Garrison came dancing into their midst, her sister more timidly following.

"Dear Mrs. Marsden, how perfectly"—kiss, kiss—"delicious! Yes, this is the baby sister I've raved to you about. We go right on with the Doric; but I had to bring her out with me that you might have just one glance at her. Why! Mr. Prime! Why, what could be more charming than to find you here? And 'Gov' too—you wicked boy! What won't I do to you for never telling me you were in Manila? And Mildred!"—kiss, kiss—despite a palpable dodge and heightened color on the part of the half-dazed recipient. "And you, too, Miss Lawrence?" Both hands, but no kiss—one hand calmly accepted. "Ah, then I know how happy you are, Mr. Willie Gray!" beaming arched smiles upon that flushed and flustered young officer. Then, turning again to twine a jeweled arm about the slim waist of their hostess, to whom she clung as though defying any effort to dislodge, yet pleading for protection. "Who on earth could have foretold that we of all people should have met out here—of all places? How long did you say you had been out here? A week? And of course, dear Mrs. Marsden has done everything to make it lovely for you. I should have died without her." And so the swift play of words went on, the rapid fire of her fluent tongue covering the movement of her allies and drowning all possibility of reply. It was an odd and trying moment. Mrs. Marsden, well knowing, as who in Honolulu did not, of Mrs. Frank's devotion to the young lieutenant, barely six months agone, was striving to welcome the shrinking little scare-faced thing that blindly and helplessly had drifted in in the elder sister's wake. The introductions that followed, after the American fashion, were as perfunctory as well-bred women can permit. The greetings were almost solemn, smileless, and, on part of Nita, fluttering to the verge of a faint; and nothing but Witchie's plucky and persistent support, and the light flow of airy chat and laughter, carried her through the ordeal. The two young soldiers stood stiffly back, red-faced and black-browed; the father, pallid and cold, could hardly force himself to unbend, yet his lips mumbled the name "Mrs. Frost," as he bowed at presentation; Miss Prime stood erect and trembling; Miss Lawrence, with brave eyes but heightened color. To leave at once was impossible; to remain was more than embarrassment. Most gallantly did they battle, Mrs. Marsden and Mrs. Frank, to lift the wet blanket from the group and relieve the strain. Reward came to crown their efforts in strange, unlooked-for fashion. Hoofs, wheels and flashing lights were again at the entrance gate, even as Mrs. Frank, sparkling with animation, distributing her gay good humor over the silent semicircle, suddenly exclaimed: "Oh, if I'd only known you were here, I could have provided the one thing to make our reunion complete! If I were not going on at daybreak I should do it yet." Then hoofs and wheels and lights had come to a stop at the front of the house, and in measured, martial tread a man's footsteps were heard upon the lanai. Then, all of a sudden, with a cry of joy, Witchie burst in again: "Should do it?—I shall do it! Said I not I was the fairy queen? Behold me summon my subjects from the ends of the obedient earth!" And, waving her parasol as she would a wand, gayly pirouetting as she had that night in the tent at old Camp Merritt, she danced forward: "Sound ye the trumpets, slaves! Hail to the chief! See the conquering hero comes! Enter Brevet Brig. Gen. Stanley Armstrong!—though his arm is anything but strong."

AWAIT HIS RETURN.

Two Women Believe That Andree Is Still Alive.

Faith of the Explorer's Mother and Sister in His Safety—Have Faith That Their Prayers Will Be Answered.

Four years have passed since S. A. Andree started for the north pole in a balloon. The Swedish courts have declared that the explorer may legally be supposed to be dead. Andree's own extreme limit of time has passed, geographers agree that he is lost, his own brother has accepted the bequests made to him in Andree's will, yet his mother and his sister are still confident that he is alive and will return.

These two women live at Grenna in Sweden. They keep themselves ready to receive him any day or night and dust and clear every morning the rooms in which he made the plans for his expeditions. Say what you may, produce the most convincing proof that Andree must be dead, bring forth the strongest arguments in favor of your contention, the mother and sister will listen quietly and when you have finished they will simply say: "Han lefver och will otervanda." (He is alive and will return.)

It is not merely hope, not merely a strong desire, that makes these women so absolutely certain of the return of their son and brother. It is their belief that Andree went forth to seek the north pole and to find it in fulfillment of a mission given to him by God. "And the Lord has never yet forsaken one of his servants," is the way they explain it.

The mother, Fru Andree, says the New York Sun, is nearly 70, though her clear, ruddy face, her erect carriage and the continuous smile that plays around her face make her appear much younger. Her rather robust daughter, Fru Emeline Spanberg, is a lively, good-natured woman, and mother and daughter impress the visitor as a pair of the most intimate friends. The cottage they live in is a roomy, one-storied building, furnished simply. Most of the furniture is substantial oak and an etching or two relieves the somberness of the walls.

HERR S. A. ANDREE.
(Swedish Explorer Who Has Not Been Heard from Since 1897.)

They are devout women and Fru Andree invokes grace before each meal. "And, oh, Lord, keep Thy servant, my son, and return him safely," she has ended her prayer every day for these four years. "Amen! Amen!" responds Fru Spanberg.

It is impossible to describe the glow of pride and satisfaction which spreads over the kindly face of the mother when she exhibits the first shoe her son wore, when she points out the first prayer-book he used, when she holds up to your inspection the white tie he wore at his confirmation. And when she opens the drawer and takes out the various parchments which testify to the success of her son in high school and university, when she handles the various medals he received, when she asks you to read the flattering letters in which countless scientific societies notified him of his election as one of their members, then, indeed, you see in her motherhood glorified.

"Has there ever been a mother more blessed than I?" she asks, and it must be said that her face gives the answer. "From boyhood on my boy has felt that, like the apostles of old, he must go to parts unknown and preach the Gospel. Not in the same way as the regular missionaries. Oh, no! He was never much of a talker. But God gave him the capacity and opportunity to study, and that is also one way to make God's goodness known. Yes, he was to find the north pole, and by his discovery of this much-sought-after region to testify before the world of the greatness of our Lord."

Statesman and Fisherman.

M. Waldeck-Rousseau, the president of the French cabinet, is fond of sport. He likes yachting, particularly if there are congenial companions on board. But it is the good, old-fashioned sport of fishing that he likes best. He is a fisherman enrage. Ever since the fishing season opened every Sunday morning he starts off at sunrise for the fishing grounds of a friend at Juvisy, and there, in a linen coat and a penny straw hat, with his trousers well rolled up, he spends the day tramping up and down the banks of the pond, as happy as any schoolboy.

Relics of the Vikings.

A viking's ship has been found near Verden, in Hanover, where the dried-up bed of the River Aller joins the new course. It consists of a single tree trunk, 6.13 meters long and 62 centimeters broad. The ship is probably 1,000 years old.

TO SETTLE REDISTRICTING.

Matter of Changing Lines of Wards in Elizabeth to be Argued Before Supreme Court Prior to Election.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Sept. 5.—The certiorari proceedings in reference to the redistricting of this city are to be passed upon by the court before election to make the necessary appointment of election officers.

Chief Justice Depue, on granting the writ of certiorari Tuesday, recommended that the counsel unite in an application to the branch of the Supreme Court, comprising Justices VanSyckel, Fort and Garretson, for an immediate meeting so that the case could be decided and complications as to the elections in this city and Paterson avoided.

A letter was drawn up and signed by R. V. Lindabury, representing the applicants for the certiorari, City Attorney Connolly, representing the city, and Frank Bergen, as counsel for the commissioners. This letter, addressed to the branch court, was forwarded to the judges yesterday morning.

The writ is returnable September 10, but it will probably be about the 16th when the branch court will make its decision. Judge Garretson is in Europe and does not return until September 14. This will not affect the appointment of the election officers, excepting to delay the county board's action for a few days. The counsel say that the appointments can be made for filling vacancies at any time before the day for registry of voters.

CASE OF MISTAKEN IDENTITY.

CONFUSED NAMES LED TO RUMOR OF MISHAP TO J. R. JOY.

North Plainfielder Well and Happy—Man Who Killed Himself Resident of Cortlandt, N. Y.

A cablegram received in New York yesterday announced that a New York newspaperman named Joy had committed suicide on the Wilson Line Steamer Buffalo bound for Falmouth, England. While investigating the report a rumor was circulated in New York that the person supposed to have committed the act was James Richard Joy, of North Plainfield, and word came to this city to that effect.

The friends of Mr. Joy, who heard of the rumor, at once pronounced it untrue, and inquiries at the home in North Plainfield disclosed the fact that Mr. Joy was home Tuesday night and was at his business in New York yesterday. This set all reports at rest, much to the relief of friends.

This morning's New York papers state that the Joy who did commit suicide lived at Cortlandt, N. Y., and he left home several weeks ago to take an ocean voyage. The New York papers probably found J. R. Joy's name in the directory, and, as he is associated with newspaper work at the Methodist Book Concern in New York, it was taken for granted that he was the person intended.

PRETTY HOME WEDDING.

Miss Abbie Giles and Isaac N. Lines Married Last Evening at New Market.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Market, September 5.—In the presence of one hundred relatives and friends, the marriage of Miss Abbie Louise Giles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dewitt Giles, to Isaac Newton Lines, of New Market, took place last evening at the home of the bride's parents. Rev. Frank Fletcher, pastor of the First Baptist church, was the officiating clergyman.

The ceremony was performed in the parlor, which had been beautified with potted plants, palms and flowers, the bridal party standing before a floral bower. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss L. Giles, while Clarence Lines acted as best man. John Nelson and Walter Squires were the ushers.

Following the ceremony, the young couple were accorded a reception after which the guests partook of a bounteous collection. It is the intention of Mr. and Mrs. Lines to leave shortly for an extended wedding tour through the west. On returning they will reside in New Market.

Both bride and groom were handsomely remembered by their many friends with a profusion of presents.

SUCCESSFUL FESTIVAL.

Organization of St. Mary's Parish Accumulated Fund Through Delightful Affair Given.

With a very large number in attendance, the two nights' peach festival and social at the Lyceum of St. Mary's church, came to a successful close last evening. While dancing was the principal amusement, Miss Josie Murphy and William O'Keeffe contributed to the enjoyment of the occasion by rendering a number of mirth provoking recitations. They were longly applauded and were obliged to respond with encores each time.

The ice cream and cake and other refreshment stands enjoyed a thriving business, and the supply was not equal to the demand. The revenue from this source will amount to a considerable figure. Altogether the festival was one of the most successful held in some time, and the Sewing Society of the church, which made the arrangements, is greatly elated over the outcome of its efforts.

DANGEROUS SCAFFOLD

Men Employed Refused to Work on Patent Scaffold.

Owing to the danger of working upon a patent scaffold at the Jersey Central's new shops at Elizabeth, a large number of the workmen refused to resume work this morning. The scaffold has already killed one man and yesterday it fell, narrowly escaping falling on several others. A number of Plainfield workmen, who refused to ascend with it, returned home this noon.

Cubic Feet Not Gallons.

In yesterday's account of Tuesday evening's Board of Education meeting, a mistake was made in giving the import of Frank Bergen's letter in regard to the school water supply. The article stated that the rates were based on the consumption of water per thousand gallons. It should have been thousand cubic feet.

Justice Mattison.

There was a trial in a case on contract before Justice Mattison last evening. Who the parties to the suit were or what it was about could not be learned, for the Justice, in answer to inquires, told The Daily Press reporter that he would have to go elsewhere for information.

Y. M. C. A. Directors.

The Board of Directors of the Y. M. C. A. will meet in the association parlors this evening.

BOROUGH RATE STILL LOWER.

ANNUAL ASSESSMENT IS 2.42 INSTEAD OF 2.44.

Mistake Made By Assessor on Minor Item—Now Four Points Lower Than Last Year.

When Assessor Elston M. French, of North Plainfield, announced the tax rate yesterday, he relied on his memory for the amount to be raised for borough expenses. This morning he received from Borough Clerk Frank Bowley the official notice of the amount to be raised in the borough. This shows that the amount is $400 less for borough purposes than Assessor French estimated.

Consequently he has been able to reduce the borough expense rate two points, making it 84 cents instead of 86 cents. The aggregate rate will therefore be $2 42 instead of $2 44, as announced yesterday. This will be welcome news for boroughites. Last year the borough expense rate was 85, making this year's rate a reduction of one point over 1900.

VAN EMBURGH GETS CONTRACT.

Plainfielder to Survey Line for Construction of Railway.

Civil Engineer H. C. VanEmburgh, of this city, has been awarded the contract to survey a line for the construction of a steam railway, running from Annadale to Richmond Beach, Staten Island, a distance of several miles.

The line will connect with the Staten Island Rapid Transit road running from New York to Amboy. Richmond Beach is one of the best located summer resorts on Staten Island and the completion of the new line will greatly increase travel in that direction.

Mr. VanEmburgh will start Monday with a party of three engineers and several woodchoppers to clear the line for construction at once.

To Break Camp.

The Westfield Fresh Air Camp will close Sunday evening for the season. At that time special services will be held to appropriately mark the event. This season has been one of the most successful in the history of the association.

FINAL FAREWELL AFTER ELEVEN YEARS' SERVICE

Rev. G. Kennedy Newell Met Congregation Of Hope Chapel In Social Way.

GIFTS FOR PARTING PASTOR

AN IMPORTANT EVENT IN THE HISTORY OF PASTOR AND PEOPLE.

Words Of Farewell Were Spoken And The Pastor Personally Said Good Bye To The Members Of The Flock He Has Labored With.

In all his eleven years of ministering to the spiritual wants of the members of Hope Memorial chapel, there was probably no more momentous occasion to Rev. G. Kennedy Newell than that which took place last evening. His congregation, young and old, and many of his friends from distant parts and other churches united as one to bid him God speed upon his entrance to a new field of labor. It was termed a farewell reception but if anything it seemed to be a temporary parting, the prevailing impression being that the devoted pastor was leaving upon an important mission from which he would some day return, more beloved than before.

When the exercises began at 8 o'clock there was not a seat left vacant in the new church, while many late comers were compelled to stand. The pulpit was very prettily decorated with a profusion of flowers and plants. H. C. Squires, superintendent of the Sunday-school, was in charge of the exercises and delivered the opening address.

In a manner his remarks were of a reminiscent nature, dating back to the time when he first bade Mr. Newell welcome to the old chapel, then composed of a mere handful of attendants. In a general way he spoke of Mr. Newell's career, dwelling at some length on the pastor's marriage, which occasioned a pleasant reception on the part of the congregation at the time. In closing he mentioned as a future candidate for the pastorate of Hope chapel the name of G. Kennedy Newell, Jr., who is at present unable to speak for himself.

The speaker of the evening was then introduced as Rev. Dr. W. B. Richards, pastor of the Crescent Avenue church. In his address, Dr. Richards paid a well deserved tribute to Mr. Newell and his work in the chapel, without the least hesitancy crediting him with the greater portion of its prosperity. The time intervening between 1890 and 1901, he said, had been of much importance to the whole world, history in the eleven years having been practically turned upside down. There have been many events of national importance to engage the attention of governments, and there has also been a chapter enacted about Hope chapel which is just as interesting in the sight of God as those written of nations and sent broadcast over the land. It is a new world to what it was eleven years ago, new homes have been built about it, great perils escaped and God's blessing attained. In fact, the history pictured in books may be less important than that which has taken place in the homes of Hope chapel.

When God wishes a mission performed He sends a leader. In 1890, it pleased Him to send the right leader to Hope chapel, and though a boy in years at the start he has always performed a man's work. All the growth visible about the place, the extension of buildings, the increased membership, and the great good accomplished has all been done under the leadership of this one man. In closing, Mr. Richards said that he was not disposed to dispute with Mr. Newell in his decision to leave the chapel, as he believed it was for the best and that God's blessing would still rest upon Mr. Newell and upon the congregation.

Following Dr. Richards, remarks were made by I. W. Travell, assistant superintendent of the Sunday-school, John Doull Miller, teacher of the men's Bible class, G. S. Simons, of the women's Bible class, Judge William N. Runyon, of the Young Men's Association, and H. D. Thompson, of the Christian Endeavor Society. All extended to Mr. Newell, on behalf of those whom they represented, their heartfelt wishes for his future success and asked for God's blessing upon him during his labors in his new field.

When Mr. Squires again took the floor, the event of the evening came, the presentation to Mr. Newell of a magnificent leather covered rocking chair, representing the united efforts and devotion of the entire congregation. The astonished pastor who was also made the recipient of a check of generous proportions, the donors of which preferred to conceal his identity.

Summoning all his energies and composing himself as far as circumstances would permit, Mr. Newell heartily thanked the donors on behalf of himself and also Mrs. Newell who was made a co-recipient. He then took occasion to remark that although he had formally bidden his flock farewell, Sunday, he wished to state that there was nothing sinister in his going away, that he saw more ahead of Hope chapel than ever and that he knew his successor, who he may be, would be a good worker and should be given an enthusiastic welcome. He advised all to extend their aid and help him in every way possible and God would bestow a greater blessing than if the retiring pastor had remained. In conclusion he said that he would not say good-bye, as his heart would be with his former flock, his prayers would be for them and his new home would always be open to them.

The members of the Ladies' Aid Society then made themselves known and invited everyone to the old chapel, where they had prepared a bountiful spread. Everything of the best had been provided and, while the eatables were being disposed of, Mr. Newell went about and personally bid farewell to those with whom he had shared joys and sorrows, prosperity and adversity for the past eleven years.

The committee, which arranged the details of the reception, consisted of G. S. Simons, chairman, assisted by A. J. Gavett, I. W. Travell, John Doull Miller, Mrs. David Hall and Mrs. Robert Hangiter.

BICYCLE ACCIDENT.

Miss Phoebe Anderson Turned Into Keeley's Hack and Received Serious Injuries.

Miss Phoebe Anderson, of East Front street, while riding her bicycle, last evening, narrowly escaped serious injuries in colliding with a hack driven by John E. Keeley on Watchung avenue.

At the time of the accident, which occurred at 7 o'clock, Miss Anderson was riding towards North avenue and had just passed under the bridge when she turned suddenly to avoid a trolley car passing in the opposite direction. In doing so she collided forcibly with Mr. Keeley's hack and was thrown heavily to the ground.

Patrolmen Myers and Flynn rushed to her aid and conveyed her in Mr. Keeley's hack to her home. Miss Anderson's injuries consist of a gash over the right eye, a bruised and blackened left eye and a sprained shoulder. Her bicycle was badly damaged.

OVER BOLOGNA.

Suit in Justice Huff's Court Was Finally Settled.

The contract case of Theis against Block was tried this morning before Justice Huff. The amount claimed was $33.49 for bologna which the plaintiff sold the defendant. The latter claimed that some of the bologna was bad and that he returned it, but the plaintiff claimed that he never received any bologna from Block on the ground that it was unfit for use.

After considerable argument between "Count" VanNest, representing the defendant, and Wm. Newcorn, appearing for the plaintiff, the former agreed to settle the bill and thus end further dispute and trouble.

FOREST PRESERVES ARE PLANNED FOR JERSEY.

How Senator E. E. Stokes Would Cultivate and Improve Forest Lands.

WILL SOON PREPARE A BILL.

FIRST THING WILL BE TO SECURE LEGISLATIVE AID.

Believes That Large Income Could be Derived by Careful Care of Forest Preserves if Established in New Jersey.

A scheme to cultivate and thus render profitable the great forest lands of this State is now being considered by Senator E. E. Stokes, of Cumberland county, and it is probable that in a short while a plan for the establishment of forest preserves will be adopted. At the present time all the property is owned by individuals, and the claim is made that this forest land amounts to one-half the total area of the State.

As yet Mr. Stokes, who is one of the managers of the Geological Survey of New Jersey, has taken little more than the preliminary steps looking toward the accomplishment of his object. Legislative enactment, of course, is necessary in the acquirement of the desired territory, and Senator Stokes proposes to have presented a bill to the Legislature at its next session. Should the bill pass, as there is every likelihood of its so doing when the innumerable advantages to be derived from the plan are demonstrated, the required forest land will be condemned.

Once in the hands of the State, the rest will be comparatively easy. According to Mr. Stokes' idea, which is not operative in any other State where forest preserves are conducted, the State should manage the land on exactly the same lines as prevail in European countries. New York State has forestry reservations in the Adirondack Mountains, and there is also a wide expanse of them in Pennsylvania. But in neither instance does the State net one penny's worth of profit from the scheme. They are successful in that they prevent disastrous rainfalls, eliminate every possibility of tremendous washouts and build up mammoth forests from which is fed the surrounding streams by the moisture which exudes from the trees. But there is no financial benefit.

The origin of Senator Stokes' idea to reimburse the State treasury, while other accompanying benefits are being derived, occurred to him by reason of Germany's success in this respect. There are 10,000,000 acres of State forests in Germany, being entirely on land unfit for agriculture, estimated to be worth about $700,000,000. The annual net income therefrom is $20,000,000, representing the sale of the woodland. And the forests are more in the nature of a park than a wilderness. From the city of Ettendenstadt, of 6,000 inhabitants, in the Black Forest, one can in five minutes step into the deepest woods. And although New Jersey's available territory is much smaller, Senator Stokes confidently believes that fully $500,000 a year would revert to the wealth of the State as a result of the development of this territory.

The Highlands and the Kittatinny Mountains are among the tracts calculated to prove admirable subjects for the plan under way. And down among the pines of South Jersey, where the most magnificent tracts of land have been allowed to flourish wildly, there is abundant opportunity for development. The good that is wrought by forests cannot be overestimated. And for that reason Senator Stokes, who is practically fighting this battle alone, deserves the hearty cooperation of every resident of the State. The forest improves the climate, because the air is warmer in winter and cooler in summer than the air in the open country. It is a barrier to the cold north wind and to the hot south wind. Forest air, like that of the sea, is richer in ozone, and therefore healthier than the air of the open country. Furthermore, the forest holds moisture, and by the exudation of that moisture helps to maintain and equalize the water flow.

Scientific forestry is a study of which the vast majority are ignorant.

It takes eighty years on an average to raise a crop of pine trees on sandy soil. This is too long for individuals to wait for a crop, and if the business is to be undertaken extensively, it must be done by the State. Forestry is therefore a question which concerns the public. It should be remembered that there are at least 7,500,000 acres of idle land in Jersey which, if planted with pine and administered on forestry principles, would earn a net revenue of three per cent. per annum compound interest on the capital expended in the work.

Besides the money that would accrue from the growth and subsequent sale of the trees, there is also another means of revenue for New Jersey, should the plan develop. The transformation of the woods into attractive country would act as a magnet for scenery-loving visitors to the State, who would naturally leave here a large amount of money.

WARD STEPHENS COMES HERE

WELL-KNOWN MUSICIAN WILL TAKE UP RESIDENCE HERE.

Will Reside in W. T. Kirk's House on West Seventh Street and Have His Studio There.

Plainfielders are to have another musician in their midst permanently, one who has already endeared himself to the hearts of music-lovers in this city. Ward Stephens, organist and musical director of the Crescent Avenue church, has decided, after much consideration, to take up his residence in this city. By so doing he will escape the hum-drum of New York city life, and will have more time to devote to study unmolested.

Although Mr. Stephens is well-known in Plainfield as an organist, his solo instrument in the piano and the musical critics of New York believe him to be a pianist of rare accomplishments and one of the best in this country. After eight years of study and concert work in Europe, Mr. Stephens returned to this country to devote himself to the work.

While in Europe he concertized under the "nom de guarre" of "Stefanski" and made a tour of Russia in 1897 with "Mikita," a French songstress. For three years he was the assistant to "Massenet," the French composer, and coached opera singers for the Opera Comique in Paris.

Mr. Stephens made his debut as a pianist in Paris in 1896 in the "Salle Erard" and had great success. He was afterward in demand for drawing-room recitals, both he and Chaminade appearing together often. When Emil Sauer, the great pianist, visited this country two seasons ago, Mr. Stephens was selected to introduce him to the musical fraternity.

As a teacher he ranks very high and was for a time director of the pianoforte department of the Metropolitan College of Music in New York city. He has helped many singers in interpretations and altogether he is considered to be truly what the New York "Concert-Goer" says of him—"One of the most versatile men in the musical profession." He is also well known as a writer on musical subjects. Mr. Stephens will reside in W. T. Kirk's residence on West Seventh street and will have his studio there.

BELIEVES IT RABIES.

Parents Think That Little Jeremiah Coon Died Of The Dread Hydrophobia.

Jeremiah Coon, the year old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Coon, of East Front street, died last evening from what the parents assert was rabies, caused by dog bites.

While playing in the hallway of his home several weeks ago, during his mother's absence, he was bitten on the arm three times by a dog which entered the building with a visitor. The wounds were cauterized immediately, but shortly after the child was taken sick with symptoms resembling those of hydrophobia, which gradually grew more apparent.

At times the child gave low, whining moans, and in one of his conscious moments the sight of a pet dog threw him into a spasm. His death was expected for the past week, but he lingered until last evening.

The funeral services will be held from the parents' residence tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment will be made in the North Plainfield cemetery.

Taken Very Ill.

George E. Firstbrook, of Elmwood place, while visiting at the home of D. F. Stewart, of John street, was taken seriously ill with congestive chills. He rapidly grew worse and for a time last night his life was despaired of. Today if he recovers sufficiently he will be removed to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Firstbrook, of Liberty street.

A Penny Supper.

The members of Mizpah Lodge, No. 1, U. O. I. O. L., will give a penny supper this evening at the home of Mrs. David Bush, West Second street. The committee in charge has prepared a store of good things for the occasion and guarantee a supper worth more than the cost price.

READY FOR OPENING OF BOROUGH SCHOOLS.

Everything is in Readiness for the Beginning of School Tuesday Morning.

SOME REPAIRS WERE MADE.

ALL THE BUILDINGS PUT IN THE BEST OF CONDITION.

Some Changes at the Manual Training School—Teachers Will Meet New Pupils Monday—The Corps of Teachers.

With the ushering in of the fall season more or less attention is attracted to the customary annual opening of the schools in this city and in the borough. Tuesday is the day when the doors will be thrown open for the reception of every youth desiring to avail himself of the opportunity of a free education in the surpassing schools of either municipality.

In the borough schools the prospects are bright for a successful school year. Superintendent Homer J. Wightman is busily engaged at present attending to all the minor details which necessarily must receive attention before the school bell rings Tuesday morning. When seen by a Press reporter today he stated that things were now in shape for the opening. Mr. Wightman says that there will be at least 900 pupils enrolled at the two borough school buildings, the Somerset street and the Watchung buildings, the day school opens and this number will be increased to possibly over 1,000 within the first month. There will be no important changes in the curriculum at present, declares the superintendent, inasmuch as that feature of the work was given proper attention last year. In the manual training department, however, the course in wood working will be elaborated upon, by the addition of numerous patterns and designs. Outside of this there will be no change.

Both school buildings have been overhauled thoroughly and the interior as well as the exterior of each one presents a better appearance as a result. At the Somerset street building the exterior wood and tin work have been repainted. All the school rooms have been renovated. The floors have been coated with a preparation of oil which possesses disinfecting qualities. The desks and chairs have been treated to a coat of varnish, which brightens their appearance. A handsome new drinking fountain and wash basin has been placed at the head of the first flight of stairs to the east of the assembly room. The kindergarten room on the second floor has been transformed into a drawing or art studio. Here a person sitting at one of the various easels scattered about the room can get the full benefit of a flood of light coming in through the large windows.

Over in the Charles W. McCutchen Manual Training building many changes have been wrought. The cumbersome old-fashioned window sashes, which had been placed in the building by some oversight, have been supplanted by up-to-date adjustible swinging window sashes and shades have been added to the windows. In both stories metallic ceilings or an ornamental design have been placed in position. These ceilings prevent dust from dropping and also keep the rooms considerably warmer. In the room on the first floor formerly used as a drawing studio, a kindergarden class will find ample accommodations, whereas formerly the class has been considerably cramped for room. Between the two buildings a large covered shed has been erected.

The purpose of this is to permit the pupils passing from one building to the other, without being exposed to the inclement weather. It is light and airy and is a much needed improvement. Another change is the removal of the fence at the Vine street front of the school grounds.

At the Watchung school attention has been given the building both as concerns the interior and the exterior. Paint, varnish and oil have been applied without stint. The rooms have thoroughly cleaned throughout. An important matter connected with the opening of the schools is the subject of having in readiness the proper number of text books. Over 8,000 volumes in total are needed and the stock must be kept up for all demands. Paper and pencils are other requisites of the school stock. These matters are in charge of a teacher who acts as special custodian.

For the purpose of consulting with the pupils and their parents on all matters pertaining to school work and requirements for the ensuing year Superintendent Wightman will be at his office in the Somerset street building Monday from 10 o'clock in the morning until noon, and from until 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Heretofore there has been much inconvenience experienced by the superintendent and the teachers by reason of the large number of parents calling in the morning of the opening of the school. It is hoped that this will be avoided this year. According to arrangements the grammar and High School departments will open at 8:20 o'clock in the morning. The kindergarten and the fifth grade will convene at 9 o'clock as usual.

The complete teaching crops for the coming school year is as follows: The Misses Grace Anderson, Clara L. Atherton, Marion Bush, Elizabeth Claypoole, Mary Ege, Minnie L. Filkins, Rebecca Frazee, Delia Filkins, Minnie Green, Mabel Hare, Mary R. Hart, Anna L. Holcomb, Elsie Horton, Jessie M. Hill, Elizabeth Kiernan, Sarah E. Mackey, Myrtle M. Montague, Margaretta Paulding, Lizzie Southworth, Gertrude Snodgrass, Emma Tantum, Clara VanFleet, Enid Walker, Alberta E. Waterbury, Mary O. Weller, Bessie Taylor and Laura M. Sydenham; Charles L. Lewis, Robert Sander and A. P. D. Tobien; Miss Susie E. Glass, principal; Homer J. Wightman, superintendent.

FAMILY JAR.

Aired in City Court This Morning Where Judge Runyon Decided All Were Guilty.

From the testimony offered in the city court this morning by Mr. and Mrs. James Barry, of South Second street, and the latter's sister, Mrs. Thomas Newman, of West Third street, it was evident that there was a family jar at the Barry home Saturday evening.

Mr. Barry said that Mrs. Newman had called him names and had struck him in the face. Mrs. Newman said that Mr. and Mrs. Barry and their daughter, had knocked her down and kicked her and blackened her eye, while some one shouted, "bite her," Mrs. Barry said there had been considerable calling of names but her memory failed her in regard to the blows struck.

Mrs. Newman was arrested on her sister and brother-in-law's complaint, but her evidence made it clear that there had been a general mix-up. For this reason City Judge Runyon thought all were to blame in the matter and suspended sentence on Mrs. Newman.

CUPID IS ACTIVE.

Two Young Couples From Westfield Announce Their Secret Marriage.

CURTIS HELD IN BIG BAIL FOR GRAND JURY

Hearing Took Place Before Justice Moffet at Elizabeth This Morning.

BAIL WAS PLACED AT $1,000.

MISS THORN TOLD THE STORY OF THE ALLEGED CRIME.

The Hearing Took Place at 10:30 at the County Court—Several Witnesses Were Examined—Miss Thorn's Story.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, September 6—David L. Curtis, of Plainfield, the man accused by Miss Lillian Butts Thorn, of that city, of advising her to commit a criminal act, was today held in $1,000 bail to await the action of the Grand Jury. The accused, through his counsel, W. S. Angleman, had demanded a hearing and this was accorded him this morning.

The hearing took place before Justice Moffett, of Plainfield, and was held in the county court house in this city. All the harrowing details of the atrocious affair, as alleged by the young complainant, were vividly told in minute detail.

From the time Curtis met the young woman until his arrest for the high crime the relations between the pair was related by Miss Thorn who maintained extraordinary self-composure throughout the proceedings.

Promptly at 10:30 o'clock, the time set for the hearing, David Curtis appeared in the court room and was joined by his counsel. Prosecutor English at once addressed the justice and read the signed complaint, which in substance averred that the prisoner had advised the young woman to take medicine to relieve her of an existing condition.

The hearing was an extended one and the climax came when Miss Thorn took the stand and told an apparently well connected story. She swore that Curtis had recommended her to see E. S. F. Randolph, the druggist, and that in compliance with this she had called at the latter's pharmacy. There she obtained a patent medicinal preparation. Subsequently at the instigation of Curtis she accompanied him to the office of Dr. Wm. Ray Tubbs, at Westfield.

All that occurred subsequently was told by Miss Thorn unblushingly. In regard to the alleged criminal operation with which this physician is accused, the young woman wavered and finally changed the allegation of operation to examination.

Dr. W. C. Boone, of Plainfield, who attended the young woman subsequently told of the condition she was in and gave testimony of the probable cause. Other witnesses called included Mrs. Mary L. Dunham a nurse, who was called in by the family, and Mary Chamberlin, a neighbor who was present during the critical illness.

A cold blooded incident of the proceedings was an allegation by the unfortunate girl that Curtis had insured her life just prior to taking her to the physician, Dr. Tubbs, and subsequent to his knowledge of matters for which he is said to be responsible.

An endeavor was made by Mr. Angleman to examine her concerning her history, but this was not permitted by Justice Moffett.

The complaint filed was alleged to be insufficient by Curtis' lawyer and subsequently it was supplemented by another. The additional complaint, in substance, set forth that Curtis advised the young woman to submit to an operation as well as advised her to see the druggist named.

According to Miss Thorn's testimony, Curtis, it appears, did not recommend her to commit a criminal act, but merely to see Mr. Randolph, and in the second instance to see the physician, Dr. Tubbs. There was a lengthy legal battle over the technical point whether this advice constituted a crime.

The young woman in her testimony incidentally brought out much having a bearing on the case against Dr. Tubbs. She swore that the physician had stated that he declined to perform an operation and that he had made an examination only so far as she knew.

Dr. Tubbs and his counsel were present in the court room during the hearing and were attentive listeners to the proceedings.

Throughout the hearing Curtis maintained an unusual composure. Beyond occasional nervous motions of the hands he seemed undisturbed and several times smiled. Miss Thorn

The Peapack Smiths still hold their annual reunions on a New Jersey farm. How vast a territory would be required were it possible to assemble all the Smiths in the United States at a single place of meeting! AT THE THEATRES.

Something About the Attractions Which Plainfield Theatre-Goers May Care to Witness.

Flo Irwin is the great drawing card at Keith's New York Theatre this week. Assisted by Walter Hawley she is presenting "The Gay Miss Con," which is really very clever, and creates much amusement. The Three Marvelous Merrills, the comedy bicyclists, hold second place on the bill—and it is only right to say that their wonderful act justifies the title they have chosen. Others who are entertaining this week are George C. Davis in original monologue; Mlle. Ani, a wonderful European trapeze performer; Mignonette Kokin, chanteuse and danseuse eccentrique; Chevalier Scagnamillo, 'cello soloist; Rome and Ferguson in a comedy and dancing act; Edward Warren and Marguerite Hammond; Hughes and Anger, Hebrew comedians; Carmen Sisters, banjoists; Stephens and Myers, duetists; Clayton and DeShon, character change artists, and others.

On the announced bill for next week (September 9) are the Eight English Roses, a dainty and refined act of music and motion presented by eight beautiful English girls. Second on the bill are Crawford and Stanley, presenting their eccentric comedy and piano playing. Others are Smith and Campbell, conversationalists; Mlle. Chester and her wonderful dog; DeCourcey Bros., acrobats; Lew Simmons and Frank White in a negro sketch; La Belle Blanche, impersonator; Herbert and Willing, songs and dances; Fyne and Dandy, acrobatic comedy; Adelina Rosttino, soprano, and many others.

Colombia Desires Mediation by the United States.

TROUBLE WITH VENEZUELA SPREADS

The Outbreak at Bocas del Toro Is Due to Colombian Refugees From Nicaragua—Costa Rica Is Not Involved.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—The state department has received assurances from Senor Silva, Colombian minister at Washington, who is also Colombian minister of foreign affairs, that the government of Colombia will gladly take advantage of a present offer of mediation made by the United States in the pending troubles with Venezuela.

At the Colombian legation the arrival of 1,000 Colombian troops at Barranquilla is regarded as a move to strongly fortify the isthmus and prevent the disorder which has prevailed there. Up to this time the government has directed its attention to the disturbance in the interior, and only a few troops were sent to the isthmus, fifty men being considered sufficient to garrison Bocas del Toro. Now, however, the reports of trouble around Bocas del Toro have shown the need of a strong force along the isthmus, and troops are being sent from the south to Barranquilla. From this point they are within easy water communication with the isthmus, and the Colombian war boat General Pinzon is in that locality prepared to take forward large re-enforcements.

The outbreak at Bocas del Toro shows the wide extent of the disturbance, that point being at the extreme west of the isthmus adjoining Costa Rica and a part of Costa Rica until the recent award of President Loubet of France giving Bocas del Toro to Colombia. There is no reason to believe, however, that Costa Rica is giving any aid or comfort to this last demonstration, reports to the Colombian authorities here indicating that it is due to Colombian refugees from Nicaragua.

Considerable surprise is expressed at the news of the intention of Ecuador to invade Colombia as disclosed by the dispatch received from Cali, which is the most important of the cities of the department of Cauca, bordering on Ecuador. Senor Plaza, the new president of the latter country, who has just assumed office, heretofore has given evidence of his intention to observe strict neutrality between Colombia and Venezuela in their pending difficulties.

The impression prevails that the invading force is under the direction of the intervening party in Ecuador, which probably has a force of men near the border line and is taking an early opportunity to act before the new president can successfully interfere.

The real objective point is believed to be Panama, where the invaders may assist the Colombian revolutionists and those who may be brought from Nicaragua. Reliance is placed, however, by the Colombian officials on the presence of United States men-of-war at Panama to prevent any attack on the place. The battleship Iowa is expected at Panama in a day or two and with the Ranger now there will be able to land a considerable force of marines should this be necessary to prevent an attack.

From the acting governor of the state of Panama word was received in official circles yesterday that conditions on the isthmus are not serious.

Europe Will Not Leave.

LONDON, Sept. 6.—Editorially discussing South American matters today, The Standard says: "Europe will never march out of America, North or South, at the bidding of the Monroeists. In fact, Pan-Americanism in its widest sense is idle, but the necessity for the United States to become the predominant political and commercial power is decided by the economic need of finding an outlet for an ever increasing surplus of production."

Canadians Win at Sea Girt.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—The Canadian and American riflemen had a long session yesterday on the state rifle ranges at Sea Girt, N. J., in the contest for the American Centennial Palma trophy, emblematic of the world's championship, and the Canadians won by a margin of 28 points. The utmost good fellowship prevailed during the match, which was very close up to the last stage. Two of the members of the Ulster Rifle association of Belfast, Ireland, W. T. Braithwaite and Thomas Robertson, acted as coaches for the Dominion representatives, and the Americans had General H. W. Spencer, with some of his officers, attending to them in a similar capacity. The conditions of the contest called for the use of the national arm of the country represented by the teams, so that it was practically a duel between the American Krag and the English Lee-Enfield weapons. The Canadians used orthoscopic sights, while the Americans had service sights.

Railway Collision in Texas.

DALLAS, Tex., Sept. 6.—A Texas and Pacific freight train crashed through a Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe passenger train at the crossing of the roads in the eastern part of the city. The combination baggage and express car was cut in two, and the body of the mail clerk, A. E. Jackson of Waco, Tex., was found buried under the cab of the freight engine, which was overturned and badly wrecked. The two front cars, loaded with horses and mules, were demolished, killing between fifteen and twenty of the animals. The engineer and fireman of the freight narrowly escaped with their lives. None of the passengers was hurt. The cause of the wreck is not known.

Icefloes Block Labrador Coast.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Sept. 6.—Advices from northern Labrador show that arctic floes continue to blockade the coast. Such a state of things was never known before within the memory of the colony. The fishery is very backward—indeed, it is the worst on record in the more northern parts. Thousands of fishermen are doomed to a very poor return for the work of an arduous season. Numbers of bergs are floating southward past the strait of Belle Isle, forming a serious menace to ocean navigation.

Torpedo Boat Defective.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—Word has reached the navy department from Newport, R. I., that the torpedo boat Stringham had developed a defect in her shaft, making it necessary to defer her trial. The boat will be taken back to Wilmington, where she was constructed.

COLUMBIA TO DEFEND

New Yacht Constitution Not to Be Trusted.

LIPTON WILL MEET OLD ADVERSARY.

The New York Yacht Club, After Carefully Considering the Relative Values of the Boats, Decides as Above.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 6.—The challenge committee of the New York Yacht club announces that the Columbia will defend the America's cup against Shamrock II.

Commodore Lewis Cass Ledyard presided at the meeting of the committee. Rear Commodore Robinson, former Commodore E. M. Brown, C. Oliver Iselin, Archibald Rogers, Secretary J. V. S. Oddie and J. Malcolm Forbes were the other members present.

The good showing which Constitution made in Wednesday's race, when she went over the course of thirty miles in less time than Columbia and was beaten only through a time allowance which would not have been effective even at that had not Constitution burst her balloon jib about a mile from the finish and lost twenty-two seconds through her ill luck at the start, suggested to the minds of those partial to Constitution that the challenge committee might feel inclined to give the new yacht a further trial and see if she did not come up to the form of which her supporters think she is capable. The sentimental side of the matter was also one which appealed to many and which many thought might influence the challenge committee to greater leniency than might otherwise be expected.

Constitution is the new boat, and in the America cup races there has never come a challenger but American inventiveness has been able to devise a defender swifter than the previous one. It was a matter of patriotic vanity, if nothing else, therefore, for people to wish to see the Constitution surpass the old defender, however much regard they might have for the beautiful craft which succeeded so nobly two years ago in defending the cup. It was hoped, therefore, by many that faults of sails and rigging and seamanship might explain Constitution's previous poor showing and that if time were given she would redeem herself and prove the superiority of her lines.

But the challenge committee decided that the "Queen of the Zephyrs," as she has come to be called because of almost magic speed in light airs, had had her chance and failed to make the most of it and that Columbia, for her consistent good work and reliable behavior in all sorts of weather, was deemed the better boat. Had it been earlier in the year the decision might have been delayed, but it was doubtless decided that summer was too far gone to think of getting the new boat into perfect form when she had failed to come up to it after several months' trial.

Shamrock II Did Not Sail.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—After waiting three hours for a breeze Manager Jameson of the Shamrock II. held a consultation with Sir Thomas Lipton and Designer Watson, and they decided not to take the yacht out for a trial spin yesterday, but to unbend the mainsail and try another, one that has never been used and that needs stretching. This was done during the afternoon, and by sundown the yacht was all ready for a sail.

Odd Fellows In Session.

BOSTON, Sept. 6.—When Grand Master Dusseault called the grand lodge of Independent Order of Odd Fellows to order at their annual session here, representatives from over 200 lodges were present from all sections of the state. The morning session was devoted to the annual reports of the officers and other routine work. The session reconvened at 1:30 p. m., when E. Bentley Young, on behalf of the subordinate lodges, presented Past Grand Sire Alfred S. Pinkerton with a magnificent jewel valued at $600. Past Grand Sire Pinkerton was also presented with a costly past grand sire's regalia.

British Had Inferior Mounts.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—Had the British been astride of horses as serviceable as those which the Boers rode there would have been a different tale to tell in South Africa, according to a report made by Mr. Guerren, the undersecretary for agriculture in British South Africa, which Consul General Stowe has transmitted to the state department. The South African horse, it is stated, can live on much less food than his English brother; he does not topple into holes; he is sounder, more sensible, will stand without being hitched and is altogether better fitted for the purposes of warfare.

General Lawton's Monument.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 6.—The General Lawton monument will be located in the middle of the approach to the Delaware street entrance to the courthouse. It probably will be a full length bronze statue of the dead soldier, modeled by Sculptor French. The location of the monument on this site was assured when the county council authorized the $2,000 appropriation. This action complies with the conditions stipulated by the monument commission, that the county pay for the stone base and for locating the monument.

Plague Follows Russian Famine.

LONDON, Sept. 6.—"Russian newspapers are forbidden to refer to famine conditions in Russia," says the St. Petersburg correspondent of The Daily Mail, "because hunger typhus and scurvy have broken out in many districts, and hundreds are dying daily."

Holland Demands Satisfaction.

LONDON, Sept. 6.—"Holland demands satisfaction," says the Constantinople correspondent of The Daily Mail, "for the violation of the Dutch legation here by Turkish police, who forced an entrance Sunday while in pursuit of a man they wished to arrest."

Brigands Capture a Missionary.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 6.—Brigands have carried off an American lady engaged in missionary work and a lady companion in the district of Djumabala, vilayet of Salonika.

Negro Murderer Hanged.

MACON, Ga., Sept. 6.—Levi Carroll, a negro, who was convicted of murdering his father and a negro woman last February, was hanged in the county jail here yesterday.

STEEL STRIKE SETTLED?

Such Is the Belief—Nothing Positively Known, However.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 6.—The prevailing opinion in Pittsburg is that the great steel strike is practically settled, but absolutely nothing positive can be learned from either side to the controversy.

Yesterday was spent by the Amalgamated advisory board in secret conference behind doors that were guarded closer than ever before. The newspapet "dead line" was drawn most effectually. When the final adjournment for the day came at about 6:30 p. m., those who had been inside headquarters refused to say a word in answer to insistent questioners and volunteered no statement.

When the meeting was over, it was learned for the first time that President Shaffer had not been with his colleagues during the afternoon session, and his whereabouts are unknown. Secretary Williams also disappeared shortly after the adjournment, and he, too, cannot be located.

It is the belief of those who are familiar with the strike proceedings throughout that the two gentlemen have started on another unannounced and mysterious visit to New York city. It is believed that the session of the advisory board must have decided upon a plan by which President Shaffer could go to New York and complete the arrangement for peace which, it is supposed, was started by the conference on Wednesday between the steel magnates and the presidents of the several trades unions.

The only approach to a statement of the condition of affairs was made by Trustee John Pierce, who said it was impossible to accept the proposition made by the United States Steel corporation, as by doing so some of the members of the Amalgamated association would suffer. "It would be unjust to our members," said Mr. Pierce, "to accept such terms. We have made no counter proposition and still insist on the terms made and are willing to arbitrate the differences. The committee that visited President Schwab had no authority from the Amalgamated association to settle the dispute. The members were acting on their own responsibility. The strike is in the same position today as it was before the conference was held in New York. The local situation is practically unchanged, but it is in better shape than it was last week. We have made some gains and are still confident that we will win. It will be impossible for the combination to operate its plants satisfactorily without the aid of Amalgamated association men."

Boralma Was Defeated.

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 6.—A big audience at Charter Oak park witnessed the defeat of Thomas Lawson's celebrated gelding Boralma by C. J. Hamlin's Lord Derby. The race between these two was one of the finest of the year, and it was only after five heats had been trotted that the Boston favorite's colors were lowered. The betting on the race, the free for all trot, was very heavy. The starters were Boralma, Lord Derby and The Monk. As much as $90,000 went into the pool. Boralma was a tremendous favorite before the start at odds of three to one for the other two. His backers seemed to think he could not lose.

TEACHERS FIND FAULT.

Those In Manila Cable the President Regarding Their Wrongs.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—The cabled report from Manila to the effect that the newly arrived American teachers at a mass meeting decided to cable to the president, complaining that promised commissary privileges were denied them and that they found their expenses double what they were assured they might expect, attracted considerable attention at the war department.

The privilege of purchasing commissary stores at the government warehouses in the Philippines was taken away from all civilian employees by order of the secretary of war issued in June, and as that order was widely published it was presumed that the teachers who sailed subsequently to its issuance were aware of its existence.

The letters and circulars issued by the war department to applicants for these positions in the Philippines contain no direct statement upon the subject of commissary privileges, but the promise that they would have these privileges might have been assumed from some statements contained in a "manual of information relative to the Philippine civil service" which was published in Manila early in the present year and to which attention was invited by Colonel Edwards, chief of the division of insular affairs, in his circular to applicants. This pamphlet in setting forth the conditions in the islands for the information of Americans seeking positions in the civil service there contains the following regarding the purchase of commissaries:

"Many of the Americans secure rooms with private families and board in messhouses, the provisions being purchased from the commissary. The food obtained from the commissary stores is the best, and the average cost for room and board for those who live in this manner is about $35 a month.

"It is also proposed to establish stores similar to the army commissary stores for the benefit of civilian employees. The stores will be well stocked with provisions, groceries and other necessaries of life, and civilian employees probably will be able to purchase from these stores at about 10 per cent above the cost to the government."

The pamphlet containing the above statement was mailed to each of the teachers appointed, but attention was not called to the fact that the privilege of buying supplies at the government commissary had been discontinued. The government was compelled to cut off this privilege both to stop the frauds which were discovered to be due to its operation and also to satisfy the regular merchants on the islands, who were complaining bitterly that the furnishing of supplies by the United States was closing one of their main channels of revenue.

South African War.

CAPE TOWN, Sept. 6.—Sheepner's commando, consisting of 300 men and 600 horses, appears to have reached the limit of its southern raid and has turned to the northward, having gained some recruits. One hundred mounted men have been following, endeavoring to unite with Sheepner's commando, but have been unable to overtake it. An armored train was derailed at Taungs Station Monday last, three British being killed and five wounded.

A Mine on Fire.

MAHANOY CITY, Pa., Sept. 6.—A mine fire of extensive proportions is raging in the fifth lift of the Draper colliery at Gilberton, west of here. The fire is supposed to have originated from a blast. The heat in the lift became so great that the men fighting the fire had to retire, and the mine officials decided to flood the lift. This is now being done. The colliery is owned by the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company.

Kentucky Mining Troubles.

EARLINGTON, Ky., Sept. 6.—The tipple of the Carbondale Coal company was fired into at 1 o'clock yesterday morning, some thirty shots being fired. The shooting was done with Winchesters. These mines were closed for want of railroad connection.

Deutsch for a dirigible balloon.

M'KINLEY VISITS FAIR

Greatest Crowd of the Season Greets the President.

MAKES A CHARACTERISTIC SPEECH.

Reciprocity and Trade Expansion Favored—No Narrow, Sordid Policy Should Be Allowed—Exclusiveness a Thing of the Past.

BUFFALO, Sept. 6.—President's day at the Pan-American exposition dawned bright and clear, with the temperature sufficiently low to make the day all that could be desired.

What was probably the greatest crowd that ever assembled on the Esplanade at the Pan-American grounds greeted the president with ringing cheers as he entered the stand erected there. The Esplanade was crowded to suffocation, and the vast assemblage overflowed to the Court of Fountains. President Milburn introduced the president.

In the course of his address President McKinley said:

"My fellow citizens, trade statistics indicate that this country is in a state of unexampled prosperity. The figures are almost appalling. They show that we are utilizing our fields and forests and mines and that we are furnishing profitable employment to the millions of workingmen throughout the United States, bringing comfort and happiness to their homes and making it possible to lay by savings for old age and disability. That all the people are participating in this great prosperity is seen in every American community and shown by the enormous and unprecedented deposits in our savings banks. Our duty is the care and security of these deposits, and their safe investment demands the highest integrity and the best business capacity of those in charge of these depositories of the people's earnings.

"We have a vast and intricate business, built up through years of toil and struggle, in which every part of the country has its stake, which will not permit of either neglect or of undue selfishness. No narrow, sordid policy will subserve it. The greatest skill and wisdom on the part of manufacturers and producers will be required to hold and increase it. Our industrial enterprises, which have grown to such great proportions, affect the home and occupations of the people and the welfare of the country.

"Our capacity to produce has developed so enormously and our products have so multiplied that the problem of more markets requires our urgent and immediate attention. Only a broad and enlightened policy will keep what we have. No other policy will get more. In these times of marvelous business energy and gain we ought to be looking to the future, strengthening the weak places in our industrial and commercial systems, that we may be ready for any storm or strain.

"By sensible trade arrangements which will not interrupt our home productions we shall extend the outlets for our increasing surplus.

"A system which provides a mutual exchange of commodities, a mutual exchange is manifestly essential to the continued and healthful growth of our export trade. We must not suppose in fancied security that we can forever sell everything and buy little or nothing. If such a thing were possible, it would not be best for us or for those with whom we deal. We should take from our customers such of their products as we can use without harm to our industries and labor.

"Reciprocity is the natural outgrowth of our wonderful industrial development under the domestic policy now firmly established. What we produce beyond our domestic consumption must have a vent abroad. The excess must be relieved through a foreign outlet, and we should sell everywhere we can and buy wherever the buying will enlarge our sales and productions and thereby make a greater demand for home labor. The period of exclusiveness is past."

The president's progress through the exposition grounds to the stadium and thence to the various buildings and exhibits of Canada and the South American republics was one continuous ovation.

The presidential party arrived at the New York state building at 1 o'clock, where they rested for half an hour. At 1:30 the chief executive's 200 guests, including the diplomatic corps, a member of the cabinet, judges, officers and other prominent men, sat down to an informal luncheon. The floral decorations of the building were superb. President McKinley sat in the center of the main table. On his right were Senor Don Manuel de Aspiroz, embassador from Mexico; Duke de Arcos and other members of the diplomatic corps, and at his left were Hon. Daniel N. Lockwood, James Wilson, secretary of agriculture, and members of the New York state board.

Leaving the New York state building at 3:20, the president and his escort of police and cavalry crossed the Esplanade to the government building, where he was received by the federal troops. Chairman Brigham of the government board escorted the president and diplomatic corps through the buildings, calling their attention to the principal government exhibits, after which the president held a reception under the dome of the main building. Nearly 2,000 invitations had been sent out, and the president was busy shaking hands for twenty minutes.

An incident that brought forth a ripple of applause occurred while President McKinley was making the rounds through the main building. He had passed one of the navy exhibits when suddenly he noticed Captain Hobson standing at "attention." Halting, he turned and, walking briskly over to the hero of the Merrimac, grasped him cordially by the hand and chatted with him for a few moments.

At the conclusion of the reception the president and the members of his party again entered their carriages and were taken to the home of Mr. Milburn, in Delaware avenue.

The president visited the grounds again in the evening to witness the fireworks, returning to the house at 9 o'clock.

Today the president and about 100 invited guests will visit Niagara Falls.

Cause For Rejoicing.

While the fixing of the borough tax rate rests with a municipal officer, there is really nothing which the borough authorities can do to prevent the tax rate in North Plainfield from jumping either up or down. While the borough officials have all to say regarding the amount of the tax to cover their current expenses, the special and State school taxes and the county tax tend to make a decided difference in the general result.

The most significant fact, therefore, regarding the rate for North Plainfield, which has just been announced by Assessor E. M. French, is that the part, destined to raise funds to cover borough expenses, is less by a single point. Greater significance is attached to this when it is remembered that the total tax budget was fixed this year at the same amount as it was last. The other possible thing to affect it is the assessed valuation, and it was the jump of that amount some $43,000 which caused this reduction.

The borough is growing. This increase in the taxable valuation makes that fact plain. It is not, however, entirely responsible for the increase. The law, to secure the passage, of which the borough of North Plainfield took the initiative, which prevents from the swearing off of considerable valuable property, is also responsible. Without the substantial growth, however, the reduction of the rate would not be possible.

Every boroughite should rejoice in this sign of prosperity. Like individuals, cities and towns cannot stand still. They must either show progress or else fall steadily back. It is sometimes difficult to see such signs of material progress as are now visible in the borough, and it is a matter for general congratulation that they are so evident now. Let the good work go on.

Advertising is Essential.

Advertising is constantly creating new industries, says the Philadelphia Record. Printers' Ink maintains that without newspaper advertising the new products of inventive genius would never get themselves accepted and would never yield great fortunes to their promoters. Since newspaper publicity can create a demand for a new product, it is obvious that it can also increase the demand for established articles.

For a time it looked as if politics were going to play havoc with the best interests of the city of Elizabeth and prevent the establishment of a fire department adequate to the demands of the county seat. Each political party howled that the other was in the wrong and meanwhile the good law-abiding citizen found that the protection of his house against fire was far from the best. It looked bad but common sense appears to have triumphed after all. The troubles have been settled and the necessary funds provided for Elizabeth's new paid department which will be organized on lines very much similar to those of the Plainfield department.

The only act of importance done at the September meeting of the Common Council was the extension of the system of sewers out South avenue. As the city grows there is no doubt but that the present system of pipes will have to be considerably enlarged. That was expected when the pipes were first laid and provision was made toward that end. The only question was whether the time had arrived when the extension should be made out South avenue. The Councilmen appear to have answered the question satisfactorily, for little or no objection is heard to the action taken by them at Monday's meeting.

When the battle begins at Atlantic City Monday for the amateur golf championship of the United States, two of Plainfield's crack golfers will be in line. Plainfield has assumed such an important figure in State golf circles that it seems but right that this city should have a representative or two in the contest for National honors. Of course, it is not expected that they will win, but both are likly to make an excellent showing.

For a second time the Columbia will defend the honors of the land against England's speediest yacht. It is just fifty years ago that the America brought that famous cup across the water.

The vacation season is over. People are returning and the autumnal bustle is fast beginning. It is the wise advertiser who now begins his campaign.

It takes time but the day is not very far distant when Somerset street will become a decent thoroughfare.

Among the other things that the year 1901 promises to be noted is for particularly good oysters.

The days of the summer girl are nearly over. She soon will become only a pleasant memory.

Sunday will mark the close of one of Union county's most useful charities.

Seven Councilmen to be Elected.

There is likely to be a change in the Common Council this year. At the city election Tuesday, November 5, seven councilmen will be elected to take the place of Councilmen J. B. Dumont, J. F. Buckle, James Craig, William Gloak, Jan. vanHerwerden, C. B. Clifton and Robert Lee. The councilmen, whose term expires, have not expressed any opinion as to whether they desire a re-election or whether they desire to retire altogether from the city government.

Entertained on the Mountain.

In honor of a number of Plainfield friends, Mrs. Frances Bishop gave a house party yesterday afternoon and evening at her bungalow on the mountain near the Inn. Dinner was served on the lawn and the evening was spent in musical entertainment.

Neighbors Didn't Come.

William Conway appeared in the city court this morning, to answer a charge made by his neighbors that he had been disorderly at his home one day last week. As none of the complainants appeared, the case was dismissed.

LOST: A CONTINENT!

Mythology teaches us that at one time there existed a great continent lying between the shores of America and Europe. Upon this bit of mythology Cutcliffe Hyne has founded the plot of a stirring story entitled:

The Lost Continent

It is probably one of the most remarkable literary productions of current times, and is certainly one of the best works of this distinguished author. Competent critics pronounce it better than any of Verne's stories as a tale of unusual adventure. We have to this story, and by following it up have completed arrangements to publish the same in this paper. Our readers should watch for the opening chapters now soon to appear in these columns.

The trip was made by special trolley, arriving about 7 o'clock. From that time until an early hour in the morning the club and its friends enjoyed the tripping of the light fantastic toe. About midnight supper was served. During the evening's festivities pleasing solos were rendered by Mrs. Creed and Prof. Shepies. ANALYSIS OF WATER FROM WELLS AT HILLSIDE CLUB.

Made By Prof. W. S. Myers, of Rutgers College—Says They Are Nearly Normal.

State Dairy Inspector Robert A. Meeker, of this city, yesterday received from William S. Myers, associate professor of chemistry at the Chemical Laboratory of Rutgers College, State Agricultural College, New Brunswick, an analysis of the waters taken from a well at Hillside cemetery and another well at the farm house on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course.

The result of this analysis will be read with considerable interest by everyone, and will give those especially interested a clear and concise knowledge of the condition of the water. It will be noticed that the wells are designated "Farm House" and "Cemetery." The latter well is situated at the southwestern corner of the cemetery. The analysis is as follows:

	"Farm House" Parts per million.	"Cemetery" Parts per million.
Total solids in filtered	128.00	293.00
Total organic and volatile matter	75.00	120.00
Total salts, mineral matter	53.00	173.00
Chlorine	4.80	4.00
Free ammonia	0.09	0.10
Albuminoid ammonia	0.08	0.07
Nitrogen in nitrates	1.00	1.10
Nitrogen in nitrites	0.002	0.00

"Opinion—These waters are very nearly normal. "Farm House" would be improved by cleaning and free pumping. "Cemetery" is rather too full of total solids, but not dangerously so. I regard both waters as safe to use after free pumping. "Farm House" needs cleaning.

Topic For the Week Beginning Sept. 8—"Heavenly Helpers"—Text, II Kings vi, 15-17.

"And he saw, and, behold, the mountain full of horses and chariots of fire round about Elisha."

We see but a small part of what takes place in this world. It is not because we have never traveled much or spend much time in sleep that we see so little. Much occurs directly before our eyes, but we are gazing on something else and never behold it until some power touches us and we look and see. Some things can only be seen after long concentration of attention. But, once seen, these sights richly repay all the exertion and waiting. One cause why life seems so dull and monotonous is that we look almost wholly on the commonplace and rarely penetrate beneath the surface and behold the fascinating play of powers which move and mold life in all its infinite varieties of form.

We are closed in at many times by forces which seem resistless and which we know are antagonistic. We are helpless in any conflict with them. "Alas, how shall we do?" is our cry. Well for us in such an hour if we have some teacher of experience to pray for the opening of our eyes and to greet our fears with his faith. Happier still if some of his insight shall be granted us and as we look more intently at the beleaguering hosts we see beyond them the encompassing ranks of the chariots and horses of God.

How do these invisible allies help us? Most frequently their presence is unknown to us by any physical sign. We neither see their banners nor hear their bugle calls. The rumble of their chariot wheels and hoofbeats of their horses do not sound along our hills. We do not know when or where they close their battle lines around our enemies. Only in some rare moment of vision we catch the sight of the mountain camp, and forever after the surety of protecting guards abides with us. We know as we never realized before that "the angel of the Lord encamps around them that fear Him and delivereth them."

Our vision has not made the fact of divine protection more certain, but has increased our certainty of the fact. We saw only a glimpse just for a moment. Such sight is not sufficient data for a scientific conclusion. One instance cannot establish a general law in the realm of material things, but such a glance is all that is needed in the realm of grace to give firm assurance for faith, and we conclude unerringly from this one instant of revelation that we have had a momentary flash of recognition of an eternal reality. We ask no surer basis of confidence. "They that be with us are more than they that be with them." Faith in God's protection casts out fear of anything man can do to us. All dread of Syrian captivity vanishes, and with cool audacity we plan to capture the host of the enemy. Without bloodshed or panic we lead them to the very center of our own camp, feast them in all our capital cities and send them home unharmed and with all their weapons of war. And, lo! we have conquered, for "the bands of Syria come no more into the land of Israel."

Elisha conquered with the weapons of Christ and for allies had the divine Father's legion of angels.

If all the forces of hell are closing you round and it is night, you still need not fear. This is an opportunity such as you never before met to learn of God's heavenly helpers. Open your eyes and see against the background of mountains and midnight the chariots and horses of fire. Your faintness shall give way to faith.

Friendship of Christ.

Any man, any soul, may have the friendship or His words are without meaning. His heart aches with pity for our loneliness and for the poverty that we misname riches. He will listen to what we have to tell Him; He will take what we have to offer Him, however simple the story, however humble the fare, and He will give to us the heavenly food wherewith His earthly life was sustained—the meat that men know not of. They who have set wide the door of their being to Him have caught from the presence of this divine guest their first hint of the possible rapture of living; they have had in the face of Christ their first true glimpse of God.—Lucy Larcom.

Our Limitations.

The lesson of all true living in every sphere is to learn our own limitations. It is the first lesson in art to work within the essential limitations of the particular art. But in dealing with other lives it is perhaps the hardest of all lessons to learn and submit to our limitations. It is the crowning grace of faith when we are willing to submit and leave those we love in the hands of God, as we leave ourselves.—Hugh Black.

The Spiritual Life.

The spiritual life is a spirit led life. It has new impulses, new sensations, new deeds. It is a life which no longer goes its own way. It has surrendered its way to the spirit's better way. By submission to the spirit's direction it escapes the dominion of the flesh. The spiritual life is a life yielded fully to the control of the mighty spirit of God.—Episcopal Recorder.

My Portion.

To count no cost in time or will,
To simply try my place to fill,
To do because the act is right,
To live as living in His sight,
To try each day His will to know,
To tread the way his will may show,
To regulate each plan I make,
Each hope I build or hope I break,
To please the heart which pleases me
Through daily tireless ministry,
To live for Him who gave me life,
To strive for Him who suffered strife
And sacrifice through death for me—
Let this my joy, my portion be.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Sept. 8—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—Heavenly helpers.—II Kings vi, 15-17.

The Scriptural incident illustrating the topic is from the record of the great expedition of Benhadad, king of Syria, into the land of Israel, during which occurred the famous siege of Samaria in the time of Elisha, the prophet. The morning after the encompassment of the city Elisha's servant went out early to reconnoiter. When he saw the greatness of the besieging host, he was alarmed, and, having returned, said to his master, "How shall we do?" Elisha replied, "Fear not, for they that be with us are greater than they that be with them." He then prayed for the Lord to open his servant's eyes, "and the Lord opened the eyes of the young man, and he saw and beheld the mountain was full of horses and chariots of fire round about Elisha." And, later on, at the sound of this invisible host, the Syrian fled, and Israel was delivered. Thus Israel was helped by heaven helpers.

1. Heavenly helpers are real; these hosts of God were real, though invisible; Elisha's servant did not see them, nor realize their presence, but Elisha undoubtedly saw them by the eye of faith. By faith he was conscious of the presence of God's hosts, though he had not seen them, and what Elisha saw by faith the young man was allowed to see by sight. The reality of the spirit world cannot be doubted. It is a doctrine of God's word. "The angel of the Lord encampeth around about them that fear Him to deliver them." Human experience corroborates the testimony of Scripture. By faith men have seen and been helped by God's ministering angels. As they have been, so may we be.

2. Heavenly angels are a necessity. God's people are in constant conflict with His enemies—"the world, the flesh and the devil." These enemies are shrewd and powerful; man alone could not stand against them; he would appear in contrast with them as Israel appeared when compared with the army of Syria. Hence arises the necessity of help from God from the heavenly world. It should be our custom to depend upon this help and not upon our own strength in meeting the temptations of life. Our enemies are real; our weakness is great. Our need of divine help is imperative. Above all should we look unto Jesus for grace to help in time of need. He, above all others, is the best heaven helper.

3. Heavenly helpers help. Many so called helps in life are not very helpful. Some hinder and harm rather than help. Not so the help that comes from heaven. It actually helps. God's "grace is sufficient for us." We "can do all things through Christ, who strengtheneth us." The angels of God do encamp around about us to deliver us. Let us depend upon these divine helps more and upon ourselves less. "Look ever to Jesus. He'll carry you through."

THE PRAYER MEETING.

BIBLE READINGS.

Gen. xix, 1-3, 15-17, xxxii, 1, 2, 24-30; I Kings xix, 1-8; II Kings xix, 32-36; Ps. xci, 11, 12; Dan. iii, 19-30; Math. iv, 1-11; Acts xii, 1-11; Heb. i, 14.

Right Conceptions of God.

Right conceptions of God, then, are only to be gained in the manner in which God Himself has indicated and made possible. But when they have been formed the perplexing features of His character and government mostly fall naturally into place and find explanation. We see how He is compelled to maintain the dignity of His law because He loves us too much to expose us to the perils of a lawless life. Each of the different attitudes which He adopts toward us, as our conditions shift, is justified, and we learn, if we are willing to learn, to love and trust and obey Him. He who has an idea of God which is repellent may be sure that the trouble lies with him, not with the truth about God.—Congregationalist.

Enduring Peace.

The peace which the world gives is not enduring. Disease of body or new convictions of mind or a change in worldly circumstances may and generally does destroy it. But the peace which Jesus gives abideth ever and finds its full position only in the life to come. True, for loving and chastening purposes God often suspends the sensible enjoyment of this peace for a time, but it is only that our languishing love may thereby be rekindled and our communion with Him may become more close and confidential. This peace is founded upon the conscious love of God and is lasting as that love.—United Presbyterian.

Christian Life.

The more heart one puts into the Christian life the easier it is to live it. Most of our difficulties in connection with it arise from a half hearted practice and enjoyment of it. He who can sing when a burden is imposed upon him or can rise on faith's pinions when things seem dark or can find content when duties run against nature is sure to have a cheery, hopeful and blessed experience of the Lord's favor and service.—Presbyterian.

Too Short.

Life is too short to nurse one's misery. Hurry across the lowlands, that you may spend more time on the mountain tops.—Phillips Brooks.

The Comfort.

How long shall we go weeping loud
For dear ones laid away?
How long go mourning to the stars
And crying all the day?

Until in deep sincerity
We lift our hearts above
And say, "Thy comfort on us, Lord,
We trust Thy healing love!"

FOR EVENING WEAR.

Fashions In Jewelry and Hair Ornaments.

The summer low neck gowns call for necklaces. Strings of artificial pearls are now sold made in such a perfect manner that they defy detection when placed side by side with the real jewels. These strings of pearls are the prettiest things a woman can wear. They are ornamented with crystals or pearl pendants and art nouveau medallions. Pearls also look pretty in long ropes to be used as watch chains or simply allowed to hang carelessly after being wound twice around the neck.

The veil of the moment is of white chiffon with a black ring. The rings are rather large and are placed wide apart. Closely figured veils are no longer worn by fashionable women.

In regard to hair ornaments, flowers still lead. Huge black poppies spangied with rhinestone dewdrops are very effective, and so are black chrysanthemums, but the latter are extravagant to buy, as the petals soon lose their curl. Geraniums in all shades have to some extent taken the place of roses, which are now regarded as too common. Two of the latest artificial blossoms are morning glories and orchids.

A very smart evening gown is the subject of today's sketch. It is made of pink crepe de chine trimmed with dainty black embroidery and yellow lace. The blouse waist is laid in tucks and is trimmed through the center with a broad band of pink taffeta edged by the black embroidery. The V neck is finished by a bertha of lace. The skirt is composed of an overskirt and two ruffles edged with the black embroidery. The sleeves are long, the upper half laid in fine tucks so as to form an elbow puff.

Picture Hats of Lace and Flat Hats Equally Fashionable.

A smart golf hat is a simple panama with a black band of ribbon or velvet around it. The French sailor shape in the same light fabric is also charming and looks very nice when draped with a lace veil or a scarf of spotted foulard.

The flat hats are very smart on those to whom they are becoming, but they are not suitable for the pompadour coiffure. It is the girl with the madonna style of hairdressing who looks the best in this hat, which is quite charming in burnt straw or in the dead

Leghorn and panama hats are frequently dyed in pastel shades to match the different gowns with which they are worn.

A stunning hat for a young girl is made of many frills of cream lace sewed closely on a frame so that they form the entire hat. The trimming consists of a piece of black velvet ribbon brought around carelessly and tied in the back in a bow.

A smart hat is made of sunburnt straw with a high crown and a brim curving both back and front. Around the crown there is a band of black velvet ribbon, while at the left side lying carelessly the entire length of the brim a soft bow of pastel blue panne is fastened. This is passed through a rich gold buckle, and through this also is passed the end of a long black ostrich feather which curls around the left side of the hat.

Bowing gravely to the sprite in front of him, vaguely to the group in the shaded light at the edge of the lanai, and joyously to the little hostess, as almost hysterically she sprang forward and clasped his hands, the colonel of the Primeval Dudes stood revealed before them.

"Col. Armstrong! How—when did you get here? What does this mean? Is your arm quite well again? Why didn't you let us know you were coming?" were the questions rained upon him by Mrs. Marsden, immediately followed by the somewhat illogical statement that she was actually breathless with surprise.

"Shall I answer in their order?" said he, smiling down at her flushed and joyous face. "By the Sedgwick. This afternoon. That I wished to see you. Doing quite well. Because I didn't know myself until two days before we sailed." Then, as he stood peering beyond her, she would have turned him to her other guests had not Mrs. Garrison made instant and impulsive rush upon him.

"As fairy queen or fairy godmother I claim first speech," she gayly cried. "What tidings of my liege lord, and where is hers, my fairy sister's?" she demanded, waving in front of him her filmy parasol and pirouetting with almost girlish grace.

"Capt. Garrison was looking fairly the day I sailed," he answered, "and Col. Frost left for Hongkong only a few hours before in hopes, as we understand, of finding Mrs. Frost at Yokohama. Permit me," he added, with grave courtesy. "I have but little time, as I transfer to the Doric tonight."

A shade spread over the radiant face one instant, but was as quickly swept away. "And I have not met your guests," he finished, turning to Mrs. Marsden as he spoke and quietly passing Mrs. Garrison in so doing. The next moment he was shaking hands with the entire party, coming last of all to Amy Lawrence.

"They told me of your being here," he said, looking straight into her clear, beautiful eyes; "and I thought I might find you at Mrs. Marsden's. She was our best friend when we were in Honolulu. They told me, too, that you desired to go by the Doric, but feared she would be crowded," he continued, turning to Mr. Prime. "There is one vacant stateroom now. Its occupants have decided to stay over and visit the islands. There will be, I think, another." And drawing a letter from an inner pocket he calmly turned to Nita, now shrinking almost fearfully behind her sister. "The colonel gave this to me to hand to you, Mrs. Frost, on the chance of your being here. He will arrive by next week's steamer, and, pardon me, it is something I think you should see at once, as a change in your plans may be necessary."

It was vain for Margaret to interpose. The letter was safely lodged in her sister's hands, and with so significant a message that it had to be opened and read without delay. Gayly excusing herself, and with a low reverence and comprehensive smile to the assembled party, she ushered her sister into the long parlor, and the curtain fell behind them. There followed a few minutes of brisk conference upon the lanai, the Marsdens pleading against, the father and daughter for, immediate return to the hotel, there to claim the vacated rooms aboard the steamer. In the eager discussion, pro and con, both young soldiers joined, both saying "go," and promising to follow by the Sedgwick. In this family council, despite the vivid interest Armstrong felt in the result, neither Amy Lawrence nor himself took any part. Side by side at the snowy railing over the breaking sea they stood almost silent listeners. Suddenly there came from the front again the sound of hoofs and wheels, loud and distinct at the start, then rapidly dying away with the increasing distance. Miss Lawrence turned and looked inquiringly into the eyes she well knew were fixed upon her. Mrs. Marsden hesitated one moment, then stepped across the lanai, peered into the parlor and entered. It was a minute before she returned, and in that minute the decisive vote was cast, the carriage ordered.

"Oh, I ought to have known how it would be if I left you a moment!" she cried, despairingly, on her reappearance, a little folded paper in her hand. "But at least you must stay half an hour. We can telephone direct to the dock and secure the staterooms, if you must go on the Doric. Yes," she continued, lowering her voice, "they are not going farther until Col. Frost comes. Mrs. Garrison explains that her sister was really too ill and too weak to come out here, but she thought the drive might do her good. She thought best to slip quietly away with her, and bids me say good night to you all."

So, when next day the Doric sailed, four new names appeared upon the passenger list, and the last men down the stage, already "trembling on the rise," were two young fellows in white uniform, who turned as they sprang to the dock and waved their jaunty caps. "Join you in ten days at 'Frisco!" shouted the shorter of the two, gazing upward and backward at the quartette on the promenade deck. "Oh! beg a thousand pardons," he added, hastily, as he bumped against some slender object, and, wheeling about to pick up a flimsy white fan, he found himself face to face with Witchie Garrison, kerchief waving, beaming, smiling, throwing kisses innumerable to the party he had so lately left. The hot blood rushed to his forehead, an angry light to his eyes, as she nodded, blithely, forbearingly, forgivingly at him. "Dear boy," she cried, in her clear, penetrating treble, "how could you be expected to see anyone after leaving—her?" But Jov's arm was linked in his at the very instant and led him glowering away, leaving her close to the edge of the crowded dock, smiling sweetness, blessing and bliss upon a silent and unresponsive group, and waving kerchief and kisses to them until, far from shore, the Doric headed out to sea.

They were nearing home again. Day and night for nearly a week the good ship had borne them steadily onward over a sea of deepest blue, calm and unruffled as the light that shone in Amy's eyes. Hours of each twenty-four Armstrong had been the constant companion, at first of the trio, then of the two—for Mr. Prime had found a kindred spirit in a veteran merchant homeward bound from China—then of one alone; for Miss Prime had found another interest and favor in the eyes of a young tourist paying his first visit to our shores, and so it happened that before the voyage, all too brief, was half over Amy Lawrence and Armstrong walked the spacious deck for hours alone or sat in sheltered nooks, gazing out upon the sea. The soft summer breezes of the first few days had given place to keener, chillier air. The fog ahead told of the close proximity of the Farallones. Heavier wraps had replaced the soft fabrics of the Hawaiian saunterings. But warmth and gladness, coupled with a strange, new shyness in his presence, were glowing in her fresh young heart. One day she had said to him: "You have not told me how you came to leave there—just now," and it was a moment before he answered.

"That was the surgeons' doing. They sent me back from the front because the wound did not properly heal, and then ordered a sea voyage until it did; but I turn back at once from San Francisco."

She was silent a few seconds. This was unlooked-for and unwelcome news. "I thought," she said, "at least Gov. heard Dr. Frank say it would be four months before you could use that arm." She plucked at the fringe of the heavy shawl he had wrapped about her as she reclined in the low steamer chair; but the white lids veiled her eyes.

"Possibly," answered Armstrong; "but, you see, I do not have to use it much at any time. I'm all right otherwise, and there will soon be need of me."

"More campaigning?" she anxiously inquired, her eyes one moment uplifting.

"Probably. Those fellows have no idea of quitting."

Heron Nests in Maine Woods.

There are three known heron colonies in New England. One of them is on the plantation just to the north of Sebec lake. On a point of land reaching out into the pond is a growth of tall silver birches, and there are at least 100 nests in the tops of these trees. The trees are tall, without limbs for 40 feet or more from the ground. It is a well-known fact that herons never build a nest in a tree with limbs much less than 40 feet from the earth. The nests are constructed from small sticks, some up to an inch in diameter. The nest is at least two feet across, and the eggs are a trifle smaller than a hen's egg, and of a pale blue color. The old birds go long distances on their foraging trips, in some cases 40 and 50 miles. The birds of this species about Moosehead lake and around the ponds miles to the south all make their way to this particular colony at night. Standing on the point one can see the birds coming from all directions during the period in which they feed their young.—N. Y. Tribune.

The Gold of the "Dead Rivers."

Among the remarkable geological features of California are the gravelly channels of ancient streams, known to miners as dead rivers, which often contain gold in paying quantities. The rivers ran generally from north to south, and some have left beds more than two miles in width. Some of them, after their waters had disappeared, served as channels for lava, which hardened over and concealed the gold-bearing gravel. Particular attention is at present being paid to mining these deposits. In prospecting them, "melon-seeds" of gold, varying in size from minute grains to particles a quarter of an inch in diameter, are found. The gold was brought down by the vanished rivers from the mountain ledges.—Youth's Companion.

CAPTAIN FORSYTH EXPLAINS.

The Alleged Sampson-Schley Interview Denied.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—A reply has been received at the navy department from Captain Forsyth to the letter calling his attention to an alleged interview published on the subject of the Schley court of inquiry. The following statement of the character of the reply was made at the department:

"Captain Forsyth, while coming east, was detained over Sunday at Kansas City, Mo. He declined to talk with a reporter. It seems, however, that he fell into private conversation with some person in the hotel, with no idea that what he said would be repeated in any form. His remarks were distorted and were used to form the substance of the alleged interview.

"Captain Forsyth has made such a disclaimer and has so frankly avowed his deep regret at any indiscretion in the premises that the department is satisfied there was no intention on his part of violating the order of the department to refrain from public statement.

"No action will be taken by the department further than to inform Captain Forsyth that his explanation is satisfactory and that the incident will not be treated as affecting his excellent record."

Roosevelt In Vermont.

RUTLAND, Vt., Sept. 6.—Rutland yesterday had as its guest the vice president, Hon. Theodore Roosevelt. During the forenoon, under escort of Senator Redfield Proctor, the distinguished guest visited the marble quarries at West Rutland and the mill of the Vermont Marble company at Center Rutland. At the latter point Mayor J. Burton Hollister of Rutland and Henry C. Carpenter, president of the Rutland county fair, met Vice President Roosevelt, and with them he was driven about the city and to the fair grounds. The streets were lined with cheering people, and at the entrance to the fair grounds Company A, Vermont national guard, received the carriages. The vice president was given a hearty ovation. He made a short address. From the fair grounds Vice President Roosevelt was escorted to the private car of President Clements of the Grand Isle railroad and taken to Proctor, where he lunched with Senator Proctor. At 3:... p. m. he left for Burlington.

A Serious Train Wreck.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Sept. 6.—Four persons were seriously injured and fifty others slightly hurt in a wreck which occurred seven miles south of Elmira. Westbound D., L. and W. freight train No. 53 ran into a work train having on board over 100 laborers, many of whom were Italians. The workmen were hurled high in the air in all directions, the majority receiving minor injuries. The work train was supposed to have cleared for the freight, but for some reason it did not do so, and the freight crashed into it from the rear, demolishing several cars.

Train Robbers Still Free.

TEXARKANA, Ark., Sept. 6.—The six men who robbed the Cotton Belt train at Eylau Tuesday night are still at large. The bloodhounds which were taken to the scene were of no service, as the trail was dead. The trail of the robbers, however, was struck by W. H. Ward, a Texarkana newspaper man and a member of the sheriff's posse. Ward was accompanied by Yardmaster Taylor of the Cotton Belt. The men followed the blind trail until it entered the main county road, and it was shown that the horsemen headed for Texarkana.

New Piers and New Steamships.

JERSEY CITY, Sept. 6.—Pennsylvania railroad officials make public the fact that the company will soon replace its present piers at York, Grand and Sussex streets in this city with two modern iron piers. They will be 700 feet long and two stories high and will be used by the Red Star Steamship company, which is part of the Pennsylvania system. It was also announced that several new steamships are being built for the company. These, it is said, will be the largest vessels coming into New York except the White Star line steamers.

Wisconsin Town Scorched.

JEFFERSON, Wis., Sept. 6.—Fire which broke out in the plant of the Wisconsin Manufacturing company and which threatened to destroy the whole town was subdued last evening with a loss aggregating between $50,000 and $60,000, which is only partially covered by insurance. The Wisconsin Manufacturing company's loss is estimated at between $40,000 and $50,000 and is insured for $9,500. Help had to be summoned from several surrounding towns.

Chicago to Washington by Auto.

CHICAGO, Sept. 6.—Eight students of the Northwestern Military academy left Chicago for Washington last night in automobiles, the object being a test of those vehicles for war purposes. It originally was intended that the students should carry a message from Chicago to General Miles. Later it was learned that General Miles would not be in Washington at the time of the arrival of the automobile party, and the message plan was abandoned.

SPORTING.

ON THE DIAMOND.

The Clinton avenue baseball team will play the Metuchen A. C. on the latter's grounds tomorrow afternoon. The start will be made from this city by stage early in the afternoon.

The game at Westfield tomorrow will be against the crack Hudsons, of Hoboken. This team defeated Westfield early in the season, 4 to 1, and is coming reinforced with several minor league players to repeat the trick. Westfield has a clean sweep for August, defeating Roselle, O. N. T's, Alerts and Brooklyn Field Club. Van Zant will pitch tomorrow.

The outcome of tomorrow's baseball game between the St. Mary and Hope teams has been the one topic of conversation among rooters for the past week. Each team has its supporters who are willing to back their opinions with almost any amount. A bet of $50 to $35 was placed on the Hope team by a West Front street business man yesterday and he signified his intention of placing as much more. Other bets aggregating large amounts have been put up but in most cases it is even money.

The event of the season in the local baseball world will take place tomorrow on the Hope grounds, when the St. Mary's and Hope teams meet for the third time to decide their supremacy. Each team has now one game to its credit and the battle for the deciding game promises to be a hot one. The members of the respective nines have been shifted about and placed where they can work to the best advantage, while constant practice will be the rule for the remainder of the week. As yet the batteries have not been selected, but it is expected that Doyle and Montross will be the opposing batteries.

AMONG THE STEPPERS.

The regular Saturday afternoon matinee trotting and pacing will take place tomorrow afternoon. Admission will be free and the public is invited to be present.

The members of the Plainfield Driving Club have arranged to hold a matinee race-meet tomorrow afternoon. Admission to the grounds and grand stand will be free and a good programme will be presented.

The Fair Acres Driving Club, of Westfield, will hold its first annual meet Saturday, September 28. It will be an all day meet, with trotting, pacing, running, roadsters, high jumpers and breeding classes. Plainfielders who have already entered their horses are D. C. Smalley, Mayor N. B. Smalley, A. I. Smalley and Thomas Brantingham. Entry blanks can be had of Henry P. Condit, of Westfield.

GOLF.

The attraction at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course tomorrow will be the weekly competitions for the Mellick and Golf Committee cups. A week from tomorrow there will be regular play for the Flak cup.

The golf pairings for the amateur championship tourney at Atlantic City, September 9, have been completed. Frank O. Reinhart and W. C. Fownes are scheduled to start at 9 o'clock, while Frank C. Talmage and M. M. Singer will begin play at 11:36 o'clock.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

The foot race between Conrad Knoth and Henry Angerbauer, which was scheduled to be run at Trenton this fall, has been declared off on account of the illness of Mr. Knoth. The race will be run Thanksgiving Day, weather permitting.

CONDITION STILL SERIOUS.

No Apparent Change in Condition of John Harding, Victim of Trolley Accident.

No apparent change has been noticed in the condition of John Harding, the aged man who was struck by a trolley car on East Second street, Wednesday afternoon. He is still confined at Muhlenberg hospital and the authorities will venture no opinion as to his ultimate recovery. His relatives entertain but little hope that he will survive his injuries.

Edward Harding, son of the injured man, states that the trolley people were to blame for the accident and that it is his intention to sue for damages.

A FAVORABLE IMPRESSION.

MR. SHAW, OF BIG DRILL COMPANY, WAS IN TOWN YESTERDAY.

He Was Received by the Committee From Board of Trade and Shown Proposed Site.

John Shaw, the representative of the Ingersoll-Sergeant Drill Company, which contemplates moving its plant from Easton, visited this city yesterday for the purpose of viewing the Tingley farm near Dunellen, which was mentioned by the Board of Trade as a suitable location. He was received by the committee, appointed at the last meeting of the Board of Trade, composed of Chas. W. Runyon, J. T. Vail and J. C. Pope. Mr. Shaw was taken to the property and, after making a thorough inspection, was driven about the city.

He was greatly impressed with the local residential and educational features and stated that whether the plant was brought here or not, it was his intention to make his home in Plainfield. Every part of the city was included in the drive and at its conclusion Mr. Shaw had nothing but praises for Plainfield. A large number of projected sites in other cities have still to be inspected before the concern makes a selection.

was quiet and gave her testimony in a clear voice. Although she has recovered from a serious illness, her face gives evidence of much suffering.

When Justice Moffatt had announced his decision, the counsel for Curtis demanded a hearing under the supplemental complaint. Permission was given Mr. Angleman to cross examine the witnesses on points contained in the additional complaint.

When this was concluded Justice Moffett declined to reduce the bond and held the prisoner in $1,000 bail.

DISGUISE FOOLED MAYOR.

Mayor Arrests Constable Believing Him to be Burglar.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, Sept. 6.—Constable James Townsend, of Milltown, about three miles from here, was aroused late Tuesday evening by an excited villager who said that he had seen a suspicious character loitering about his house. The constable got his shotgun and went to the citizen's house, first disguising himself by putting on a false beard.

The excited citizen then summoned Mayor Stafford L. Rappelyea. The constable had already searched the scene and the Mayor did not recognize him in his disguise. Putting his revolver to the constable's head Mayor Rappelyea commanded him to come to the village lockup. The constable started to speak, but was quickly silenced.

At the lockup the constable in desperation tore off his false whiskers and blurted out to the Mayor, "Get durn it, Staff, I ain't no burglar." The Mayor was profuse in his apologies. It is believed that the suspicious character was a commercial traveler who had put up in town over night and was strolling about. Any stranger is a suspicious character in Milltown.

PRESIDENT IMPROVING.

Mr. McKinley Resting Easily And It Is Believed That He Will Recover.

DETAILS OF HIS CONDITION.

ASSASSIN LEON F. C. CZOLGOSZ HAS MADE A SIGNED STATEMENT CONFESSING THE CRIME.

The President Passed a Comfortable Night And Shows Signs of Improvement This Morning—Mrs. McKinley Is Bearing the Shock Well —Secretary Root There—Roosevelt Arrives This Afternoon—Assassin Says He Had No Confederate.

[From the Standard News Association.]

Buffalo, Sept. 7—The President is resting quietly and hopes are entertained for his recovery. Physicians are constantly at his side and every care and attention known to medical science is being given him.

The real name of the assassin is Leon F. C. Czolgosz and he comes from Cleveland. When taken in custody he gave his name as Frederick Nieman and his place of residence as Detroit. The true fact is that the dastard was born in Detroit, but recently has lived in Cleveland. He glories in his crime, and boasts that he is an Anarchist. "I done my duty," he says.

It is believed that the assassin had an accomplice in the person of the Italian, who shook hands with the President just before he was shot by the Anarchist. Czolgosz declares that he had no assistance in the plot and originated his mad purpose without any aid sometime ago. The assassin is under heavy guard at police headquarters.

Bulletins are being issued constantly from the home of John G. Milburn where the President lays. Dispatches are being received from every part of the country expressing sympathy and asking about the condition of McKinley. Dr. John Hammeter, of Baltimore, a specialist on stomach troubles, saw the President late last night. His opinion is that he will recover.

This morning a complete confession was made and afterwards reduced to writing and signed by the anarchist.

Buffalo, 11:55—Secretary Root arrived this morning from Southampton, L. I. Vice President Roosevelt will be here this afternoon. A special meeting of the Cabinet is to be called at once.

Mrs. McKinley bore the news of her husband's misfortune with great fortitude and is now calm. Her sister, Mrs. H. O. Barber, is hurrying from Cleveland.

Buffalo, 12:30—The last official bulletin from Mr. Milburn's residence states that the President is resting

PRESIDENT M'KINLEY.

BOROUGH COUNCIL DID BUT LITTLE BUSINESS

Adjourned For a Week On Account of the Great National Misfortune.

PASSED A RESOLUTION.

REGULAR SEPTEMBER MEETING CAME LAST NIGHT.

Resolution Introduced By Councilman Lee and Seconded By Councilman Northrop in a Stirring Speech.

The usual activity of the Borough Council meeting was absent at the session held last evening, for the shocking tidings of the great misfortune which has befallen the Nation had made a marked impression upon the members. In a grave manner the body commenced to perform the regular monthly business, which commanded its attention, but little had been accomplished before fitting recognition was taken of the sad event.

Councilman Charles L. Lee arose and offered a suitable resolution, which was speedily adopted by the councilmanic body. The resolution in detail is as follows:

"Be It Resolved by the Mayor and Council of the Borough of North Plainfield that in this hour of our National anguish and personal grief, occasioned by the dastardly attempt by some fiendish assassin upon the life of beloved President, this Council adjourn without further action to meet one week from tonight."

No sooner had Councilman Lee finished reading the proposed resolution than Councilman James P. Northrop engaged the attention of his fellow-members by delivering timely remarks in seconding the resolution. "This is the third time in our life," said he, "that a Chief Magistrate of the nation has been laid low by the hand of an assassin. Once at the close of the greatest warfare the civilized world ever knew; once at a time of hot fire of political passion, and once at the close of the greatest summer of national prosperity in the history of the country has the misfortune been visited upon us. It is a great calamity and I second the resolution offered that we adjourn."

During the few moments that the Council was in session a small amount of business was transacted. An invitation extended by the borough fire department to the Council to be present on the occasion of the department parade to be held Thursday, October 17, was accepted. A petition to accept and put into condition Howard and Dupont streets, Steiner place and that portion of Duer street extending beyond the intersection of Greenbrook road was referred to the street committee. The total amount of the claims presented, aggregating $6,500, was approved and ordered to be paid. Of this sum, $940 57 represents work and materials in connection with the underground storm sewer on Somerset street, and $2,500 is the amount of a note given some months ago, which falls due September 22.

Councilman Charles L. Nichols offered a resolution which in substance authorized the borrowing of $2,500 from any individual or corporation for a term of three months, and he also offered another resolution permitting the borrowing of $2,500 under the same conditions. Both of these were passed. Mayor Smalley notified the body that he had in his possession $85 raised by residents along Westervelt avenue for the purpose of partially defraying the expense of improving that thoroughfare. He recommended that the work be commenced and Councilman Clark, the chairman of the street committee, informed the Council that he had prepared the proper resolution for that purpose, but this was not presented inasmuch as the Council soon afterwards adjourned.

McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel, was the officiating clergyman. Interment was made in the North Plainfield cemetery.

CITY PUBLIC SCHOOLS READY FOR OPENING.

Busy Times Preparing For the Opening Day Which Comes Tuesday.

BIG ATTENDANCE EXPECTED.

A NUMBER OF CHANGES MADE IN CORPS OF TEACHERS.

While Few Improvements Have Been Made the Buildings All Have Received a Thorough Cleaning up.

The small boy and his big brother and the little girl and her older sister have but one more day to enjoy vacation, for Tuesday morning they will be called early from their slumbers to get ready for school.

As it is in the borough so it is in the city. The schools will open on schedule time Tuesday morning and, if any idea can be gained from the air of business pervading the office of the city superintendent, Henry M. Maxson, today, it is intended to get right down to the routine work.

All day yesterday Mr. Maxson was busily engaged at his desk giving orders, attending to minor details, receiving anxious parents of present and prospective pupils as well as attending to countless matters of a general nature.

F. B. Clark, the secretary of the Board of Education, is aiding Mr. Maxson and is especially giving his attention to the important factor of school supplies.

As can be judged Superintendent Maxson had few moments to spare when seen by a Daily Press reporter yesterday. He stated, during the short talk, that there would probably be from 2,400 to 2,500 pupils in attendance by the end of next week.

Last year, said he, there were 2,300 pupils enrolled in all departments at the opening of school, but at the close the number was 2,100. Many pupils, Mr. Maxson declared, do not stay to finish the course out.

No additions for the accomodation of the extra number of pupils have been made to the buildings. Quarters are cramped now, according to Mr. Maxson, who declares that in the High School building it will be necessary to use the hallway on the second floor as a class room.

"Are any steps contemplated to relieve this crowded condition?" was asked. In reply the jovial superintendent tersely said with a smile, "We hope to have a new high school building soon."

Few improvements have been made at any of the school buildings, although the Irving building has been repainted and a substantial fence encloses the grounds between the Franklin School and the Stillman High School. There has been, however, a general cleaning up and overhauling.

Tuesday morning the first session will commence at 9 o'clock in all the schools and thereafter at the regular appointed times. Almost all the teachers have returned from their needed vacations and are ready to take up the work to which they are assigned. While a large majority of the instructors who were in charge last year fortunately have been retained, there have been some changes due to the resignations of a number of teachers.

The new faces will include teachers from various points, all having more or less experience.

In the High School, Lindley Best, of Middletown, N. Y., a graduate of Hamilton College, will occupy the position of instructor in science in place of Albert B Meredith, who has resigned to accept the superintendency of the schools at Nutley, N. J.

Mr. McNabb, of Bridgeton, N. J., will teach the commercial branches in place of George Weeks Sandford, resigned.

The only change in the Whittier School is that caused by the resignation of Miss Ethel A. Haven. Her place will be taken by Miss Edith A. Whitney, of Woodbridge, N. J. Miss Whitney will teach English. The changes in the Franklin School are caused by the resignation of Miss Edith L. Gilbert and Miss M. B. McMaster. Miss Gertrude Huber and Miss Julia Jerome will fill the vacancies. Both the new teaches reside at Cortlandt, N. Y., and are graduates of the Normal School at that place.

Miss Mary T. Draper and Miss Elizabeth Coates are two new teachers in the Washington School. Miss Draper is a graduate of the Oswego State Normal School, and Miss Coates of the Oneonta State Normal School, of New York. The former takes Miss Louise Wood's place, Miss Wood being transferred to the Lincoln School. Miss Coates takes the place of Miss Charlotte E. Tennant, who will teach in the Wadsworth School. There will be two additional teachers in the Bryant School. They are Miss Frances E. Bryant, a graduate of the Cortlandt State Normal School, and Miss Cassie E. Brown, who is also a graduate of one of the New York State Normal Schools.

In the Lincoln School Miss Nancy Thomas' place will be taken by Miss S. Louise Wood, and Miss Louise Harrington's position by Miss Mabel A. Powell, a graduate of the Albany State Normal School.

The Misses Frances E. Cory, Florence M. Hughes and Louise Egan are the new teachers in the Irving School. Miss Cory substitutes for Miss Grace Teller and Miss Hughes takes the place of Miss Elizabeth Reynolds, who has accepted a position in a private school at Rochester, N. Y. Miss Egan, who is a graduate of the class of 1897 of the Plainfield High School, will fill the place of Miss Charlotte M. Beekman.

The entire corps for the coming year is as follows: Superintendent, Henry M. Maxson. High School—Principal, Ira W. Travell; teachers, Ellen E. Niles, Ellen K. Cumming, Alice M. Whitney, S. Lena Bass, Lindley Best, Mr. McNabb, Anna H. Prescott, Anna J. Bennett, Charles L. Lewis, Katharine F. Ball, M. Elizabeth Benedict.

Whittier School—Principal, Miss Annie M. Day; teachers, Alice W. Lansing, Flora Griffin, Elizabeth E. Moore, Edith A. Whitney, Eleanor T. Wilber, Anna E. Manktelow and Mabel W. Mitchell.

Franklin and Wadsworth Schools: Principal, Miss Noel J. Bullock; teachers, Jennie E. Davies, Charlotte C. Merrill, Clara J. Churton, Emma Force, Julia Jerome, Florence Churton, Lottie B. Strong, Charlotte E. Tennant, Caroline A. Barber, Elizabeth T. Angell and Gertrude Huber.

Washington School: Principal, Miss Millicent E. Humpston; teachers, Anna W. Booraem, Jennie Owen, Mary T. Draper, Margaret B. Cory, Louise Rawson and Elizabeth Coates.

Bryant School: Principal, Miss Emma V. Shattuck; teachers, Kate A. Bamer, Ariadne Gilbert, Cassie E. Brown, Frances E. Bryant, Jessie A. Browne, Sarah L. Chase, E. May Tennant, Emma M. Starr, Louise B. Runyon and Cora F. Cadmus.

Irving School—Principal, Miss Genevieve Petrie; teachers, Anna W. Watson, Frances E. Cory, Florence M. Hughes, Lottie W. Stillman, Alice A. Lee, Ada H. Clark, Lucy L. Brown, Louise Egan, Lucia N. Wood, Hattie Filmer, Mary N. Griswold, Susan Davies, Lillian T. Glen, Mary Buckle.

Lincoln School — Principal, Miss Emma V. Shattuck; teachers, Carolyn B. Lee, Mildred Titsworth, Alice Miller, S. Louise Wood, Agnes B. Freeman, Mabel A. Powell, Lillian T. DuCharme.

GRAND OFFICERS THERE.

Attended Session of Columbia Lodge, A. O. U. W., Last Evening—Delightful Time.

Columbia Lodge, No. 58, A O.U.W., at the meeting last evening, enjoyed a fraternal visit from several Grand Lodge officers. It was expected that Grand Recorder Lippincott, of Camden, would be present, but when other high officers appeared it was a great surprise to the Workmen. The members gave the visitors a cordial welcome and an evening of genuine sociability was the result. There were speeches by the visiting officers, in which the growth and advancement of the order in every department was shown to be most favorable. After a season of speeches refreshments were served.

Besides the Grand Recorder there were present District Deputy Grand Master Davis, of Elizabeth; Grand Master Workman Tussey, of Camden; Grand Overseer Cadmus, of Bayonne, and Grand Foreman V. W. Nash, of this city. The visitors remained in the city over night and left for their homes this morning.

Arranged for Meeting Night.

The members of Benevolent Council, No. 256, Jr. O. U. A. M., met last evening and received one application for membership. It was definitely decided to meet regularly every Friday evening in the Son's of Temperance rooms, Washington Hall building. At the next meeting the good and welfare committee will provide an entertainment for the members.

WAS WHEELMAN TO BLAME?

JUSTICE HUFF HAS TRIED TO SETTLE THE QUESTION.

Miss Grace Jackson Has Sued Lewis Grant For Damages—Trial Yesterday.

The case is tort of Miss Grace Jackson, of Garwood, against Lewis Grant, of Roselle, was tried yesterday before Justice Huff, and the whole afternoon was consumed in hearing both sides. Wm. Newcorn appeared for the plaintiff, while John T. Dunn, of Elizabeth, represented the defendant.

The action was brought by Miss Jackson for injuries received several weeks ago when the defendant, while riding a wheel, run her down while she was crossing the main street at Garwood. He was on the left side of the road. The plaintiff claimed that she was standing near the gutter and about to cross the street, when he ran into her. She was thrown about five feet, while Grant's wheel was not only damaged, but he was thrown a considerable distance. The damages claimed are $200.

The plaintiff called Dr. Sinclair, of Westfield; Dr. Zeglio, of the borough, and the Misses Lucetta English and Margaret Crane, as witnesses. The plaintiff's face was severely injured, while she received other injuries about the body. For over an hour after the accident she was in an unconscious state.

The chief point made by the defense was that if Miss Jackson had waited until the defendant had passed on his wheel, the accident would not have occurred. Mr. Dunn at the start tried to show that the court had no jurisdiction in the case, but this was disproved by the plaintiff. It was after 6 o'clock when the case was concluded and Justice Huff announced that he would reserve his decision until this morning when he rendered a verdict for the plaintiff.

WOMAN'S PERILOUS RIDE.

RUNAWAY THREW DRIVER OUT AND STARTED ON MAD CAREER.

Animal Thrown But Fair Occupant Escaped All Serious Injury.

Frank Irving, son of J. S. Irving, the well known horseman of Westfield, and a young woman from that place figured in a runaway on Watchung avenue last evening, which for a time looked as if it would end with serious results.

They were seated in a small runabout when their horse, a spirited animal, became frightened while passing beneath the railroad bridge. It started off at terrific speed and the wagon catching in the trolley switch at East Fourth street, swerved suddenly and threw Irving out.

The young woman fell to the bottom of the wagon, shrieking hysterically, while the frightened animal dashed down Watchung avenue as far as Webster place. At that point two boys turned it aside as it was about to dash into a tree, when the dangling reins became wrapped about the hub of a wheel. They drew taut and suddenly threw the horse to the ground. Before it could arise, a bystander seized and held it. The young woman was badly frightened, but alighted none the worse for her perilous ride.

Irving was out and bruised, but was able to go home. The vehicle was slightly wrecked.

STABBED HIS WIFE.

But She Has Refused to Make a Complaint Against Him for the Sake of Her Children.

A borough woman is at present confined to her home seriously injured from the effects of a brutal stab wound in the side, inflicted by her husband.

The woman in question attended an excursion recently contrary to his wishes. On returning home the husband was in a rage and upbraided her. He finally seized a carving-knife and hurled it at his wife, striking her and inflicting a deep wound. A physician, who was summoned, found it necessary to take eight stitches. For the sake of her children the woman has declined to enter a complaint and the chances are the man will go unpunished.

The evening was spent very pleasantly and profitably and no doubt the visit will be repeated in the near future.

HAD LIVED ALLOTTED THREE SCORE AND TEN

William M. Stout Passed Away at His Home Yesterday Afternoon.

NATIVE OF SOMERSET CO.

HE HAD RESIDED ON EAST FRONT STREET FOR FOURTEEN YEARS.

Was Engaged in the Grocery Business, Beginning When a Lad—He Leaves a Son and a Daughter.

William M. Stout, aged seventy years, died yesterday afternoon at his home, 701 East Front street, following an illness which started last February with an attack of grip. Of late Mr. Stout failed rapidly and his death was only a question of a short time. Up to within a few weeks ago Mr. Stout was able to go out in a carriage, but lately his condition was such that he was obliged to remain in his room. His death was the result of lung and liver troubles.

Mr. Stout was the senior member of the grocery firm of Stout, Spencer & Company, 303 Greenwich street, New York. He was born in the vicinity of North Branch, Somerset county, and when a boy he was employed by an old grocery establishment, which was succeeded by the firm of which he became a member. He was the office boy and started at a salary of $2 a week. By studious habits and faithfulness he gradually advanced until he became an important factor in the business. In time the old firm went out of business and then the firm of Stout, Spencer & Company was formed. The company is William V. Stout, son of the deceased, and he at present is dangerously ill at his home in Brooklyn.

Many years ago Mr. Stout lived on West Seventh street, but he afterward took up his residence in Jersey City, during which time he spent his summers at Long Branch. It was about fourteen years ago that he returned to Plainfield and purchased the Clarkson property on East Front street, where he died. Until it was physically an impossibility, Mr. Stout went to business every day and gave his personal attention to the management of the firm's affairs. While not actively engaged in any public affairs in this city, Mr. Stout will be greatly missed. He was a citizen of true worth and during his residence in Plainfield he made a host of friends. He was a member of the Crescent Avenue church, where he always attended services.

Mr. Stout leaves a wife, a daughter, Mrs. William See, of Jersey City, and a son, William V. Stout, of Brooklyn. The funeral services will be held from the late residence, 701 East Front street, tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. Interment in Somerville on Monday.

'TWAS TOO MUCH.

Even Warren Gave Up When The Two Men, The Shoes And The Jag Boarded It.

Corra Hetfield and his guardian, John Soden, of Dog Corners, came to town yesterday to purchase a pair of shoes. They got the shoes and also what is termed in police circles, a "jag." The two men, the jag and the new shoes proved too much for the wagon which was conveying them home and it broke down on East Front street, near Netherwood avenue. Corra and John were dumped in the road where they were found a short time afterward by Patrolman Myers.

In the city court this morning, Soden admitted the jag, but Hetfield was positive he didn't have one. His appearance in testimony afterward belied his statement, but City Judge Runyon thought both had been punished enough and suspended sentence.

A. G. Nelson, of New Market, has been troubled by the presence of rats in the cellar of his store for the past few weeks. Monday night he baited a large old fashioned trap with a generous slice of cheese and placed the trap in an inviting position in the infested cellar. Yesterday morning, when on a tour of investigation, he discovered a lively mass which proved to be a bunch of the four legged vermin. Upon counting them he found that there was fourteen half grown rats and two full grown ones. Mr. Nelson thinks that he is now rid of the pests.

A young but up-to-date couple from the vicinity of Greenbrook, who were out driving one night not many moons ago, had a thrilling experience at the Central Railroad crossing. A coal train was passing at that point, and the more or less spirited beast, which was being driven to a rubber-tire buggy, seemed to think that it was time to go on. Accordingly, the horse ducked under the gates, which were slightly raised, and dashed around the end of the train. The top of the wagon caught one of the gates and broke it off, narrowly missing the occupants. By this time the gateman was alive to the situation and raised the next gate, in time to let the wagon through without any further mishaps.

PRESIDENT SHOT.

McKinley Twice Wounded by an Anarchist.

ASSAILANT ARRESTED.

Exposition Temple of Music Scene of the Shooting.

CHANCE OF RECOVERY HOPEFUL.

President McKinley Had Just Returned From Niagara Falls and Was Holding a Reception in Temple of Music When the Attempt on His Life Was Made.

BUFFALO, Sept. 7.—Only a few hours ago the newspapers of the city blazoned forth in all the pomp of headline type, "The Proudest Day In Buffalo's History."

Now in sackcloth and ashes, in somber type, surrounded by grewsome borders of black, the same newspapers are telling in funereal tones to a horrified populace the deplorable details of "The Blackest Day In the History of Buffalo."

President McKinley, the idol of the American people, the nation's chief executive and the city's honored guest, lies prostrate, suffering the pangs inflicted by the bullets of a cowardly assassin, while his life hangs in the balance.

Out on Delaware avenue, at the home of John G. Milburn, president of the Pan-American exposition, with tearful face and heart torn by conflicting hopes and fears, sits the faithful wife whose devotion is known to all the nation.

It was a few moments after 4 p. m., while President McKinley was holding a public reception in the great Temple of Music on the Pan-American grounds, that the cowardly attack was made, with what success time alone can tell.

Standing in the midst of crowds numbering thousands, surrounded by every evidence of good will, pressed by a motley throng of polyglot peoples, showered with expressions of love and loyalty, besieged by multitudes all eager to clasp his hands—amidst these surroundings and with the ever recurring plaudits of an admiring army of sightseers ringing in his ears the blow of the assassin fell, and in an instant pleasure gave way to pain, admiration to agony, folly turned to fury, and pandemonium followed.

PRESIDENT M'KINLEY.

All night a surging, swaying, eager multitude thronged the city's main thoroughfares, choking the streets in front of the principal newspapers, scanning the bulletins with anxious eyes and groaning or cheering in turn each succeeding announcement as the nature of the message sank or buoyed their hopes.

While President McKinley was receiving in the Temple of Music late in the afternoon he was approached by a man with a dark mustache and with one hand covered with a handkerchief. As the man extended his hand to the president, apparently with the intention of shaking hands with him, he fired a shot which entered the president's right breast, lodging against the breast bone. Another shot was fired at once, which entered the president's abdomen.

The assailant was immediately arrested and was thrown to the ground, and quick as a flash twenty men were upon him. When rescued, he was covered with blood from a gash in his face.

Cries of lynching were heard in every direction, but the police managed to get the man out of the grounds and locked him up in a station house a short distance from the grounds. Later he was removed to the police headquarters.

Detective Geary was near the prisoner, and the president fell into his arms. "Am I shot?" asked the president. The officer opened the president's vest and, seeing blood, replied, "Yes, I am afraid you are, Mr. President."

The president was at once taken to the Emergency hospital, where the bullet which had lodged against the breast bone was removed. Later the president was reported as resting easily.

At 6 o'clock Dr. Roswell Parker, the well known surgeon, arrived at the hospital and after putting the president under an anaesthetic began probing for the ball in the abdomen.

The prisoner declares he is Fred Nieman of Detroit. When arrested, he was asked why he had shot the president and replied, "I am an anarchist and have done my duty." Later he denied to a police official that he was an anarchist.

Dr. Harrington, the police surgeon, at 6:45 p. m. announced for Drs. Wyeth, Parmenter and Mynter, who performed the operation, that the first bullet struck the sternum and glanced off, causing a slight flesh wound only. The second bullet perforated both walls of the stomach and has not yet been found. The bullet probably is in the stomach. The wounds are not necessarily fatal.

At 7:25 p. m. President McKinley was placed in an automobile ambulance and taken from the exposition hospital to the home of President Milburn on Delaware avenue, and a report soon after stated that the president was resting easily and the conditions were favorable.

Just after the arrival of the president at Mr. Milburn's house Mr. Milburn gave out a statement saying that while the president's condition was serious the wounds were not necessarily fatal.

Dr. John Hammeter of Baltimore, a specialist on stomach troubles, saw the president. He stated that he did not believe the wound would prove fatal.

Down at police headquarters, surrounded by stern faced inquisitors of the law, sits a medium sized man of commonplace appearance, with a fixed gaze directed on the floor, who presses his lips firmly together and listens with an air of assumed indifference to the persistent stream of questions, arguments, objurgations and admonitions with which his captors seek to induce or compel him to talk.

The would be assassin is a Pole named Fred Neiman 28 years old, stands 5 feet 9 inches high, weighs 160 pounds, has dark brown hair, blue eyes, smooth face, regular features, with prominent nose. He speaks very good English and has claimed to come from Cleveland, Chicago and Detroit, but has told so many stories that his home is still a matter of conjecture. It is not yet known whether he was born in this country or not. All the police reserves have been called into the central office to guard against possible trouble, and the police headquarters are roped off for a block distant in each direction.

It was just after the daily organ recitals in the splendid Temple of Music that the dastardly attempt was made. Planned with all the diabolical ingenuity and finesse of which anarchy or nihilism is capable, the would be assassin carried out the work without a hitch, and should his designs fail and the president survive only to Divine Providence can be attributed that beneficent result.

The president, though well guarded by United States secret service detectives, was fully exposed to such an attack as occurred. He stood at the edge of the raised dais upon which stands the great pipe organ at the east side of the magnificent structure. Throngs of people crowded in at the various entrances to gaze upon their well beloved executive, perchance to clasp his hand, and then fight their way out in the good natured mob that every minute swelled and multiplied at the points of ingress and egress to the building. The president was in a cheerful mood and was enjoying to the full the hearty evidences of good will which everywhere met his gaze. Upon his right stood John G. Milburn of Buffalo, president of the Pan-American exposition, chatting with the president and introducing to him especially persons of note who approached. Upon the president's left stood Mr. Cortelyou.

It was shortly after 4 p. m. when one of the throng which surrounded the presidential party, a medium sized man of ordinary appearance and plainly dressed in black, approached as if to greet the president.

Both Secretary Cortelyou and President Milburn noticed that the man's hand was swathed in a bandage or handkerchief. Reports of bystanders differ as to which hand. He worked his way amid the stream of people up to the edge of the dais until he was within two feet of the president.

President McKinley smiled, bowed and extended his hand in that spirit of geniality the American people so well know, when suddenly two sharp cracks of a revolver rang out loud and clear above the hum of voices, the shuffling of myriad feet and vibrating waves of applause that ever and anon swept here and there over the assemblage. Then came the silence that ensues after the discharge of a bombshell. The president stood stock still, a look of hesitancy, almost of bewilderment, on his face. Then he retreated a step, while a pallor began to steal over his features. The multitude, only partially aware that something serious had happened, paused in the silence of surprise, while necks were craned and all eyes turned as one toward the rostrum where a great tragedy was being enacted.

Then came a commotion. With the leap of a tiger three men threw themselves forward, as with one impulse and sprang toward the would be assassin. Two of them were United States secret service men who were on the lookout and whose duty it was to guard against just such a calamity as had here befallen the president and the nation. The third was a bystander, a negro, who had only an instant previously grasped in his dusky palm the hand of the president.

As one man the trio hurled themselves upon the president's assailant. In a twinkling he was borne to the ground, his weapon was wrested from his grasp, and strong arms pinioned him down.

Then the vast multitude which thronged the edifice began to come to a realizing sense of the awfulness of the scene of which they had been unwilling witnesses.

A murmur arose, spread and swelled to a hum of confusion, then grew to a babel of sounds and later to a pandemonium of noises.

The crowds that a moment before had stood mute and motionless in bewildered ignorance of the enormity of the thing now with a single impulse surged forward toward the stage of the horrid drama, while a hoarse cry welled up from a thousand throats and a thousand men charged forward to lay hands upon the perpetrator of the dastardly crime.

For a moment the confusion was terrible. The crowd surged forward regardless of consequences. Men shouted and fought, women screamed, and children cried. Some of those nearest the door fled from the edifice in fear of a stampede, while hundreds of others from the outside struggled blindly forward in the effort to penetrate the crowded building and solve the mystery of excitement and panic, which every moment grew and swelled within the congested interior of the palatial edifice.

Inside on the slightly raised dais was enacted within those few feverish moments a tragedy so dramatic in character, so thrilling in its intensity, that few who looked on will ever be able to give a succinct account of what really did transpire. Even the actors who were playing the principal roles came out of it with blanched faces, trembling limbs and beating hearts, while their brains throbbed with a tumult of conflicting emotions which left behind only a chaotic jumble of impressions which could not be clarified into a lucid narrative of the events as they really transpired.

But of the multitude which witnessed or bore a part in the scene of turmoil and turbulence there was but one mind which seemed to retain its equilbrium, one hand which remained steady, one eye which gazed with unflinching calmness and one voice which retained its even tenor and faltered not at the most critical juncture.

They were the mind and the hand and the eye and the voice of President McKinley.

After the first shock of the assassin's shots he retreated a step. Then as the detectives leaped upon his assailant he turned, walked steadily to a chair and seated himself, at the same time removing his hat and bowing his head in his hands.

In an instant Secretary Cortelyou and President Milburn were at his side. His waistcoat was hurriedly opened, the president meanwhile admonishing those about him to remain calm and telling them not to be alarmed.

"But you are wounded!" cried his secretary. "Let me examine!"

"No, I think not," answered the president. "I am not badly hurt, I assure you."

Nevertheless his outer garments were hastily loosened, and when a trickling stream of crimson was seen to wind its way down his breast, spreading its tell-tale stain over the white surface of the linen, their worst fears were confirmed.

A force of exposition guards were on the scene by this time, and an effort was made to clear the building. By this time the crush was terrific. Spectators crowded down the stairways from the galleries, the crowd on the floor surged forward toward the rostrum, while, despite the strenuous efforts of police and guards, the throng without struggled madly to obtain admission.

M'KINLEY'S LIFE IN BRIEF.

President McKinley was born at Niles, Trumbull county, O., on Jan. 29, 1843. He was educated in the public schools, Poland academy and Allegheny college. Before attaining his majority he taught in the public schools.

When the civil war broke out, young McKinley enlisted as a private in the Twenty-third Ohio volunteer infantry on June 11, 1861. His services on the field won him one promotion after another, until on July 25, 1864, he was made a captain.

He was brevetted major of United States volunteers by President Lincoln on March 13, 1865, for bravery in battle. On July 26, 1865, he was mustered out of the service.

Returning to civil life, he studied law in Mahoning county, took a course at the Albany (N. Y.) Law school, and in 1867, when he was admitted to the bar, he settled at Canton, O.

In 1869 he was elected prosecuting attorney of Stark county and served a term in that office.

In 1876 he was elected a member of the national house of representatives and for fourteen years represented the congressional district of which his county was a part.

As chairman of the ways and means committee he reported the tariff law of 1890, but in the November following he was defeated for congress in a gerrymandered district.

In 1891 he was elected governor of Ohio by a plurality of 21,511, and in 1893 he was re-elected by a plurality of 80,995.

In 1884 he was a delegate at large to the Republican national convention and supported James G. Blaine for president. He was a member of the committee on resolutions and read the platform to the convention.

In 1888 he was again a delegate at large from Ohio, supporting John Sherman.

In 1892 he was chairman of the Republican national convention which renominated Benjamin Harrison for president. At that convention 182 votes were cast for McKinley for president, although he had persistently refused to have his name considered.

On June 18, 1896, McKinley was nominated for president at St. Louis, receiving 661 out of a total of 905 votes.

He was elected president at the ensuing November election by a popular plurality of 600,000 votes and received 271 electoral votes as against 176 for William J. Bryan of Nebraska.

On June 21, 1900, he was unanimously renominated by the Republican national convention held at Philadelphia and was re-elected in November, the leading opposing candidate again being William J. Bryan.

President McKinley was inaugurated on March 4 of this year, so that he has served only six months and two days of his second term.

ASSASSINATIONS RECALLED.

The shooting of President McKinley naturally recalls the assassination of Presidents Garfield and Lincoln.

President James Abram Garfield was shot down by a half crazy man, Charles J. Guiteau, while passing through the waiting room at the Baltimore and Potomac depot in Washington on the morning of July 2, 1881, four months after his inauguration.

The president was about to set out on a pleasure trip. He was going first to attend the commencement exercises of his alma mater at Williamstown. He was accompanied by his secretary of state, James G. Blaine.

It was 9 o'clock. The president was leaning on the arm of Secretary Blaine. The train was due to arrive at any moment.

The assassin stepped up before the two men, turned and faced the president. Then he drew a revolver from his coat pocket and, aiming at President Garfield, fired. The bullet passed through the sleeve of the president's coat.

The assassin had already begun a hasty retreat. As he went he turned and fired a second shot. The bullet entered Mr. Garfield's back, fractured a rib and lodged deep in his body.

The president was carried to the Willett House, while his assailant was placed under arrest. Garfield's wound was recognized as fatal from the outset, but the best medical and surgical skill in the land was employed, and he was kept alive more than ten weeks.

Daily bulletins of his condition were displayed in every city, town and hamlet in America and in all the large cities of Europe.

On Sept. 6 he was removed to Elberon, N. J., and seemed to improve for a time, but on Sept. 15 blood poisoning intervened, and on Sept. 19 he died.

Abraham Lincoln was assassinated in the evening of April 14, 1865, six weeks after his second inauguration and five days after the surrender of Lee at Appomattox.

President Lincoln, accompanied by Mrs. Lincoln, Major Henry R. Rathbone and Miss Harris, a daughter of Senator Ira Harris of New York, attended a performance of "Our American Cousin" at Ford's theater in Washington.

In the midst of the play one of the actors, John Wilkes Booth, stealthily crept into the box occupied by the president and his party, entering by the door at the rear.

An instant later the audience in the body of the theater heard the crack of a pistol, and then Booth leaped from the box upon the stage. He held a knife dripping with the blood of Major Rathbone, whom he had stabbed. Brandishing the knife above his head, he shouted: "Sic semper tyrannis! The south is avenged!" Then he fled by the rear entrance of the theater, where a horse was in waiting for him.

The assassin had shot one bullet into the president's head. Lincoln was carried dying to the house of a friend close by. He survived only a few hours, dying there at 7:22 next morning, April 15, 1865.

THE NEWS IN LONDON.

Expressions of Sympathy Expressed on All Sides.

LONDON, Sept. 7.—All the newspapers this morning publish long accounts from Buffalo describing the attempt upon President McKinley's life; dispatches from abroad regarding the reception of the news, which excites renewed and anxious discussion of means to prevent anarchist outrages; references to previous attempts and the urgent need of the adoption of greater police precautions than ever in republics and the freest countries. The Daily Telegraph says editorially:

"It is with the profoundest regret that the world learns today that another distinguished name is added to the shamefully long list of rulers who have fallen victims to the insensate wickedness of the assassin. The most unfeigned and heartfelt sympathy will go forth from every family in Christendom to Mrs. McKinley in this hour of deepest sorrow and trial. Americans will acquit us of all suspicion of insincerity when we claim that the blow will be felt with almost equal severity in Great Britain as in the United States."

Referring to the sympathy displayed by America at the time of the death of Queen Victoria, The Daily Telegraph says:

"Sympathy can only be repaid by sympathy, though it is a mournful satisfaction that the debt we so gratefully discharge should have fallen due so soon."

The article concludes by dilating upon the inexplicability of the crime "committed in a free country at a time of its greatest well being on a most popular ruler" and the need of still further protection against insensate anarchists.

Anarchists Celebrate.

PATERSON, N. J., Sept. 7.—As a whole the anarchist group of this city express no regret at the shooting of President McKinley. On the contrary, there was a great gathering of the members last night at Bartholdi hall in this city, and Neiman, who shot the president, was toasted in beer time and time again. All of the talkative members of the group say Neiman is unknown to them. One of them said: "We do not know him, but he is one of us. He did what it was his duty to do, and we honor him, while personally thinking his effort might better have been employed across the ocean upon some crowned head."

President's Brother Notified.

DENVER, Sept. 7.—Abner McKinley, who, with his wife and two daughters, left here yesterday morning for Baileys, in South Platte canyon, in a special train over the Colorado and Southern railway, was notified late in the afternoon of the shooting of the president. He at once started for Denver. He reached here about 7:30 o'clock and at 10 o'clock left for Chicago over the Burlington. He will travel to Buffalo over the Lake Shore unless President McKinley shall die before he reaches Chicago, in which event he will go direct to Washington.

Panic In Wall Street Feared.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—J. Pierpont Morgan and several other prominent financiers held a meeting at Mr. Morgan's office last night to devise means to prevent a panic in Wall street today as the result of the attempt to assassinate President McKinley. Despite the efforts of the financiers who met last night a break in stocks is feared.

Strike Settlement Far Off.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 7.—In spite of the fact that the terms offered by the United States Steel corporation for a settlement of the steel workers' strike were limited to 6 o'clock Thursday night, the executive board of the Amalgamated association, after remaining in session all of yesterday, adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning without reaching a definite decision. The peace movement is regarded as practically dead. In the offices of the Carnegie building it was stated that the situation was simple. The Amalgamated association had rejected the terms offered by President Schwab and negotiations had terminated. The officials of the constituent companies had been instructed to start up all of the plants just as soon as possible and with nonunion men. Just what the proposition was that Mr. Schwab made to the Amalgamated association could not be learned.

The Duke of Cornwall's Plans.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Sept. 7.—The Duke of Cornwall and York has wired Governor Sir Cavendish Boyle from St. Vincent respecting the arrangements for the royal reception upon the duke's arrival at St. John's. He appoints the night of Oct. 23 for a state dinner at government house, to be followed by an official reception of the citizens and the presentation of addresses and gifts. On Oct. 24 the duke will give a state dinner on board the royal yacht Ophir.

The Attempted Assassination.

This great Republic appeared to be on the verge of a terrible calamity yestergay afternoon. All the world was shocked and horrified at the news of the attempted assassination of President McKinley. And when the word went forth that there was still hope that the great statesman might survive the injuries, the whole civilized globe rejoiced. Regardless of political belief, men heard the news with stern faces for this Nation's Chief Executive is a man greatly beloved and respected by all. His death would have been a national calamity.

And then came the word that the foul deed was the work of an Anarchist, one of a band who have respect for neither law nor order and whose supreme desire appears to be to bring about a state of complete chaos. Heretofore they have been allowed comparative freedom. The time has come for prompt and decisive measures against such enemies of commonwealth. The lives of the country's public men must be protected.

Only a few days ago, the Chinese Minister, Wu, commented on the immigration laws of the United States. He pointed out that the Chinaman was kept out while the hordes of the worst elements of the foreign lands were being dumped into this country by the shipload. Who are the Anarchists? Foreigners to a man, the scum of the European lands. It is time that Congress enacted such laws as will prevent a continuance of this wholesale immigration and also to prevent the public gatherings and parades of the Anarchists when all government is denounced and theories dangerous to the common weal propounded.

Of late, New Jersey has won an undesirable reputation for the activity of the Anarchists within its borders. If the municipal authorities of Paterson will not supress them, then it is time that Governor Voorhees and the Legislature acted. Such reptiles, men they cannot be called, are better out of the world than in it and every force of the national and State governments should be brought to bear to rid the land of such dangerous factors.

The Time to Act.

September is a week old and the hot weather is practically over. Hundreds of summer sojourners have returned to their homes and the vacation season can practically be considered over. This time finds Plainfield better equipped than ever before as a business and residental city. When all kinds of business pick up with the approach of cold weather, it is time that those who are interested in Plainfield's welfare should unite their efforts to bring further prosperity to this beautiful city.

It is yet a question as to where the factory of the Ingersoll-Sargeant Drill Company will be located. There is every evidence, however, that Plainfield has as good a chance as any other city to capture that coveted manufactory. The decision will not come, however, until the officers of the concern meet and consider the various propositions. Meanwhile it behooves the people of Plainfield to be up and doing.

Plainfield possesses some wonderful possibilities. The representative of the Ingersoll-Sergeant Drill Company was so pleased with it that he is quoted as having said that he would take up his residence here whether the factory was located here or not. The new general passenger agent of the Jersey Central Railroad has just selected Plainfield as his place of residence. There are undoubtedly countless other men who would make valuable citizens and who would select this city for their home if its advantages were properly presented.

There have been several ineffectual attempts to advance the city's interests along those lines. Now, however, the Board of Trade has acted with promptitude in trying to win the big drill company. Why should not the effort be continued and the autumn made a record breaker for the city in more ways than one. It is not as if the attractions did not exist. They are here and all that is needed is a mere statement of fact. There are many people who have heard little or nothing about the beauty and advantages of this place. Let them learn and there is nothing which will be able to withstand the prosperity which will follow.

Undoubtedly the greatest baseball game of the season, from the point of view of the local crank at least, will be played on the Sherman avenue grounds this afternoon. Twice before have the St. Mary's and Hope chapel teams met. The honors were divided. Those games came early in the season. Both teams have since showed decided improvement. Now they are to meet for the deciding game and every lover of baseball in the city, who can get away, is already hustling in the direction of the diamond where the two nines are to meet.

Vacation time in the churches as well as anywhere else is over. Several of the local religious organizations will resume services tomorrow after closing their places of worship for several weeks.

Tuesday will see the opening of the city and borough public schools after their long vacation.

DISTINGUISHING SIGNS.

Have Finally Been Put Up to Identify the Borough.

Residents of the borough can now rest assured that their municipality will not be confounded with this city. On each street leading into the borough has been placed in position a sign with the inscription, "North Plainfield." These placards are similar to those designating the streets.

The sign on Somerset street is suspended in mid air just at the border of the city. Other signs have been erected and placed on all the streets leading into the borough from Elm place to Washington avenue.

Gilt-Edged:

It would appear from a glance at the percentage columns that the Pittsburg Pirates are putting up a gilt-edged article of baseball. An examination of the stock of coal at the yards of the Consumers' Coal Co. will convince you that its enterprising members are putting out a gilt-edged article of fuel. They are not pirates, however.

Harvest Festival.

The harvest festival of the Salvation Army opens tonight and will be continued until Tuesday. Ensign and Mrs. McLeod will be in charge of all the services. The goods, which have been contributed by the many friends, will be offered for sale Monday and Tuesday. The hall has been nicely decorated and presents a very pleasing appearance.

Branch Office Opened.

Herring & Boston, the osteopaths, who for some time past have been located in the Babcock building, have opened a branch office at Morris avenue and Julian place, Elizabeth. Leonard Spangenberg, of this city, has been made secretary of the concern. An advertisement in regard to osteopathy appears in today's Press.

Distinguished Guest.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Rappleye and child, of Jersey City, are visiting at the home of F. M. VanEmburgh, of 44 Westervelt avenue, in the borough. Mr. Rappleye is one of the editors and half-owner of the Jersey City Journal. Should Plainfield air be beneficial to his wife's health, he and his family may become residents of the city or borough.

W. C. T. U. Meeting.

At the meeting of the W. C. T. U. at their rooms on Madison avenue, Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Seely Eisall will be the speaker. Good singing. All are welcome.

NEWS IN WASHINGTON

Tremendous Sensation at the National Capital.

CROWDS THRONG THE NEWS CENTERS

The Workday Was Over When the Sad News Reached the Executive Departments — Officials Were Generally Notified.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—The news of the shooting of President McKinley caused a tremendous sensation throughout the city.

So frequent have been rumors of this sort, often put afloat in recent years for stock jobbing purposes, that the general disposition at first was to withhold full acceptance of the story of the shooting, but when it was confirmed a feeling of deep gloom and profound sorrow spread over the city, for Mr. McKinley's delightful personality had endeared him to citizens of Washington, apart from the official class, in a degree that rarely has been equaled.

It was some time before the full force of the blow was appreciated. The people were stunned, and they could not respond at once and fully comprehend the extent of the great disaster that had fallen upon the country and themselves.

Crowds of people began to gather from all quarters of the city around the newspaper bulletin boards. The telephone system of the city was simply paralyzed for a time, and so many were the calls upon the news offices and upon the officials who might be supposed to have knowledge of the details of the shooting that the operators were overwhelmed.

A reporter carried to the White House the first bulletin announcing the shooting of the president.

The executive mansion was reached about 4:25, and at that time all its few inmates were in total ignorance of the tragedy in which their chief had just played so serious a part.

Inside the White House there were few to receive the news, the most prominent personage there being a telegraph operator, Assistant Secretary Pruden, who has been in charge of the White House, having left his office for the day, as had his subordinates. The telegraph operator, two watchmen at the doors, the policeman on guard outside and the faithful colored servant, Uncle Jerry, were the only persons about the mansion.

They recalled with great satisfaction the fact that when the president left Washington he was in most robust health and excellent spirits and that he bade all an affectionate farewell. It was recalled also that Mrs. McKinley said this circumstance had much to do with the president's own condition later on. When he left here, he was accompanied by Mrs. McKinley, Secretary Cortelyou, Dr. Rixey and Mrs. McKinley's nurse.

The force at the White House since the president's departure has been in constant communication with him, and while he has conducted most of the business of his office at his home in Canton the majority of the papers with which he has had to deal have been prepared in Washington and forwarded through the White House clerical force. All reports received from him by officials here were cheerful and high spirited.

The work of the official day was done when the news of the great calamity arrived here, and the great executive departments had generally emptied themselves of their human workmen, and very few of the officials were to be found at their desks. Mr. Adee, the acting head of the state department was caught at the station as he was leaving for his country home near Laurel, Md., and returned at once to the state department. He waited for official confirmation of the news, and it was not until he received a copy of the bulletin issued by the physicians through Secretary Cortelyou that he undertook to acquaint officially the governments of all the nations of the world with the facts of the shooting.

In the navy department Mr. Hackett, the acting secretary, who had also quitted the building, was speedily recalled by Captain Cowes, the acting head of the navigation bureau, and he immediately put himself in readiness to take any official action that might be necessary to meet the emergency. At Buffalo in the exposition grounds the navy had a splendid representation in the shape of the marine battalion under Captain Leonard, and this force will be immediately available if it is desired by the persons about the president that a guard is necessary near his person.

At the war department General Gillespie, chief engineer of the army, was acting secretary in the absence of Secretary Root, who is ill at his summer home in Southampton, on Long Island, and Assistant Secretary Sanger, who is away on leave. He also had quitted the building, but he had not been gone half an hour before word reached him, and he hastily returned to his desk. He immediately sent messages to the secretary of war and to General Brooke, commanding the department of the east.

General Gillespie finally got into communication with Secretary Root and Assistant Secretary Sanger, and as a result of the telephonic talk he proceeded to use some of the forces at his disposal. He telegraphed an order to Fort Foster, N. Y., to have an officer, a physician and a squad of men proceed immediately to the hospital where the president is lying to act as a guard.

President McKinley and his household have long been annoyed at sensational publications of assassination plots, but until recently the president has had no fear. Mr. McKinley himself has insisted that he was in no danger and deprecated the presence of secret service men save when in a big crowd.

Chief Wilkie of Washington received an anonymous letter last October warning him that two Italians and a tall soldierly looking man would soon be on the way to Canton, intent on killing the president. These anonymous warnings were often received, and all were given attention and investigated.

President McKinley himself knew nothing of the system that guarded him, and all newspaper rumors of assassination were kept from him if possible. He saw one of them by accident recently and threw the paper down with the ejaculation, "Pooh!"

This was the only reference he made to it. So thorough was the system of protection about the president that no package or note could be delivered into his hands without inspection.

I have used Ripans Tabules and was more than surprised at the effect they had on me. I had the headache every morning, bad taste in my mouth, dyspepsia and heartburn, so that my food did me no good, and then I would have to go to bed and would be sick enough to die for two or three hours. I was told to try Ripans Tabules. I bought one small bottle and they helped me, and then I bought a box of them and have taken them all, and I feel like another woman. I keep the Tabules on hand, and take one every morning the first thing when I get up. I had previously tried everything I heard of, but nothing has done me any good except Ripans Tabules, and I shall always recommend them to my friends.

WANTED—A case of bad health that Ripans Tabules will not benefit. They banish pain and prolong life. One gives relief. Note the word Ripans on the package and accept no substitute. R-I-P-A-N-S for 5 cents, may be had at any drug store. A sample vial, one thousand testimonials, will be mailed to any address for 5 cents, forwarded to the Ripans Chemical Co., No. 10 Spruce St., New York.

FOR THE FLUFFY GIRL.

Jaunty Street Gowns Take the Place of the Severe Tailor Made.

There are many women who cannot wear the plain tailor made. For these fashion has devised soft, careless effects in both jackets and skirts. The blouse and Eton, without the postillion back, are most becoming to such women. The little blouse can be tucked in a multitude of ways, and some of them are even strapped with heavy lace applique. The Etons also can be softened by means of figured vests, sailor collars and soft belts which are allowed to show three or four inches.

FANCY STREET COSTUME.

A pretty shirt waist hat for this same style of girl is made in fine straw and trimmed with a soft Indian scarf, with the fringed ends falling over the left side of the brim. The prevailing style of trimming on the edge of the brim is particularly suited to her. A broad, soft style of headgear is also more becoming than a narrow, set model, no matter how smart.

Lavender, cadet blue and crushed strawberry or old rose tints are particularly stunning shades when made up into these semitailor made costumes. A touch of black should, however, invariably be introduced to make the toilet thoroughly up to date.

A very attractive street gown is here pictured. Heliotrope novelty goods are the material. It is made with a short Eton laid in deep folds and having bishop sleeves. There is a wide collar of black moire edged with lace. The skirt is perfectly plain, with the exception of a deep flounce all laid in folds.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

DAINTY COLLARS.

What the Up to Date Damsel Is Wearing.

Never before has there been such a variety in neckwear as this year. The openwork collar is no doubt the novelty of the season. It is made of black or colored satin bands, between which there are strips of white or colored netting or chainwork. These collars owe their stiffness to skillful boning. A pretty stock worn by smart girls is of taffeta or lawn tucked or corded for a space through the center and worn twisted twice around the neck with a single loose knot in front. Gold and jeweled slides are often used to hold these ends. The handsomest of these ornaments are on the art nouveau order representing flowers or leaves.

TAFFETA WAIST.

A chic white pique stock has a narrow colored tie fastening to the left with two ends and a square buckle. Stocks and butterfly bows made out of madras handkerchiefs are all the rage. Postillion collars of plaid figure finish in front with two long tabs laced with gold cord and tiny gold buttons.

For very dressy occasions openwork collars of lace are very smart.

A simple and yet dainty waist is the subject of today's sketch. It is made of pale blue taffeta. The yoke is laid in fine tucks and is trimmed below the bust with a broad, diamond shaped insertion. The lower half is strapped perpendicularly with narrow blue satin ribbons. The little collar of lace is finished with a black velvet tie. The sleeves are elbow length and terminate in a plaited frill.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

A Feminine Deduction.

"I believe in making hay while the sun shines," said the vivacious lady, who had just cashed her alimony check.

"Naturally," smiled the sarcastic spinster. "Being a grass widow, one would expect that of you."

Another interval of silence. The long, lazy, rolling swell of the Pacific had changed during the day to an abrupt and tumultuous upheaval that tossed the Doric like a cork and made locomotion a problem. The rising wind and sea sent the spray whirling from her bows, and Mildred's young man, casting about for a dry corner, had deposited his fair charge on a bench along the forward deck house and was scouting up and down for steamer chairs. Armstrong had drawn his close to that in which Miss Lawrence reclined, her knitted steamer cap pulled well forward over her brow. His feet were braced against a stanchion. His eyes were intent upon her sweet face. He had no thought for other men, even those in similar plight. His gaze, though unhampered by the high peak of his forage cap, comprehended nothing beyond the rounded outline of that soft cheek. Her eyes, well-nigh hidden by her shrouding "Tam," saw the searching son of Albion and told her his need. The best of women will find excuse for interruption at such moments when sure of the devotion of the man who sits with a fateful question quivering on his lips; and, even when she longs to hear those very words, will find means to defer them as a kitten dallies with a captured mouse or a child saves to the very last the sweetest morsel of her birthday cake. Not ten minutes before, when Hon. Bertie Shafto had started impulsively toward the vacant chair by Armstrong's side, a firm hand detained him, and Miss Prime had hastily interposed. "Not on any account!" said she, imperiously. "Can't you see?" And Mr. Shafto, adjusting his monocle, had gazed long and fixedly and then, transferring his gaze to her, had said:

"You have not told me how you came to leave there."

"Eh—eh—yes. It's not ours, I suppose you mean."

But now Amy Lawrence was beckoning, and he made a rush for the rail, then worked his way aft, hand over hand. Every movable on deck was taking a sudden slant to starboard, and the sea went hissing by almost on level with the deck as next she spoke. "Surely a soldier needs both arms in battle, and you— Oh, certainly, Mr. Shafto, take that chair," she added. Armstrong glanced up suddenly.

"Oh! that you, Shafto? Yes; take it by all means."

Anything, thought he, rather than that they should come here. The young Briton stepped easily past between them and the rail—behind there was no room—and, swinging the long, awkwardly modeled fabric to his broad shoulder, started back just as a huge wave heaved suddenly under the counter, heeled the steamer far over to port, threw him off his balance, and, his foot catching at the bottom of her chair, hurled him, load and all, straight at Amy's reclining form. One instant, and even her uplifted hands could not have saved her face; but in that instant Armstrong had darted in, caught the stumbling Briton on one arm, and the full force of the shooting chair crashing upon the other, already pierced by Filipino lead.

When, a moment later, she emerged, safe and unscratched, from the confused heap of men and furniture, it was to cut off instantly the stutter and stammer of poor Shafto's apologies, to bid him go instantly for the ship's doctor, and, with face the color of death, to turn quickly to Armstrong. The blow had burst open the half-healed wound, and the blood was streaming to the deck.

Both liner and transport turned back without Stanley Armstrong, Doric and Sedgwick sailed unheeded, for the highest surgical authority of the department of California had remanded him to quarters at the Palace and forbidden his return to duty with an unhealed wound. He was sitting up again, somewhat pallid and not too strong, but with every promise, said the "medico," of complete recovery within two months. But not a month would Armstrong wait. The Puebla was to start within the week, and he had made up his mind. "Go," said he, "I must."

They had been sitting about him, the night this opinion was announced, in the parlor of the suite of rooms the Primes had taken, Billy Gray had gone with his father to the club, Shafto had been hanging about in the agonies of an Englishman's first love. Gov disappeared a moment and came back with tickets for the Columbia, bidding Mildred get her hat and gloves at once, and whispering to Shafto that he had a seat for him. As the little mantel clock struck eight Amy Lawrence, lifting up her eyes from the book she was trying hard to believe she meant to read, saw that Armstrong was rising from his easy chair, and, springing to his side, laying her white hand on his arm, she faltered: "Oh, please! You know the stipulation was that you were not to stir."

But then her heart began to flutter uncontrollably. The blood went surging to her brows, for all of a sudden, as through impulse irresistible, her hand was seized in his—in both of his, in fact—and the deep voice that had pleaded at her behest for the cause of Billy Gray was now, in impetuous flow of words that fell upon her ears like some strain of thrilling music, pleading at last his own. Ever since that day in the radiant sunshine of the park she had learned to look up to him as a tower of strength, a man of mark among his fellows, a man to be honored and obeyed. Ever since that night at the Palace, when she saw his glowing eyes fixed intently upon her, and knew that he was following her every move, she had begun to realize the depth of his interest in her. Ever since that day when the China slipped from her moorings, with Witchie Garrison singling him out for lavish farewell favors, she had wondered why it so annoyed and stung her. Ever since the day she read the list of killed and wounded in the first fierce battling with the "insurrectos" she knew it was the sight of his name, not Billy Gray's, that made her for the moment faint and dizzy and taught her the need of greater self-control. Ever since that moonlit night upon the Marsdens' lanai, when her heart leaped at the sudden sound of his voice, she had realized what his coming meant to her, and ever since that breezy day upon the broad Pacific, with the sailors' song of Land, ho! ringing from the bows, and he, her wounded soldier, had sprung to shield her from the crash of Shafto's hapless stumble, and the deck was stained with the precious blood from that soldier's reopened wound, shed for her—for who so revered him—she had longed to hear him say the words that alone could unlock the gates of maidenly reserve and let her tell him—tell him with glad and grateful heart that the love he bore her was answered by her own. Hovering over him only one minute, her lips half parted, her eyes still veiled, her heart throbbing loud and fast, with sudden movement she threw herself upon her knees at the side of the low chair, and her burning face, ever so lightly, was buried in the dark blue sleeve above that blessed wound.

THE END.

The American Cotton Crop.

For many generations after the first bale of cotton raised in the United States was sent to market most of the cotton plantations of the country were east of the Mississippi. But now nearly one-half of the entire American crop of cotton comes from the territory west of the river.

China's Sugar Cane.

The sugar cane of China is said by botanists to be an entirely distinct species from that of India, and this fact is supposed to indicate that the development of sugar cane was carried on independently by two different nations at the same time.

Simply Another Name for It.

Miss Weary (listening to the steamboat whistle)—I wish that dreadful noise would stop. It makes me feel nervous.

Mr. Borem—Is that so? Do you know, I don't think I have such a thing as a nerve about me?

"Indeed! What do you call it, then, gall?"—Harlem Life.

A Flavored Stick.

Pearl—Freddy is so original.

Ruby—In what way?

"Why, he had the head of his cane flavored with wintergreen and blood orange. Now he has such a pleasant taste after holding it in his mouth awhile."—Chicago Daily News.

Poker in the West.

"So he died with his boots on?" interrogated the man on the coach.

"Yes, stranger," responded Amber Pete, "he had a little habit of slipping aces in them an' the boys didn't give him a chance to take them off."—Chicago Daily News.

Sorry He Lied.

De Garry—You are the only woman I ever loved.

Madge—In that case I can't be your summer girl. I don't want any amateu.—Judge.

Up-to-Date Game.

Ted—Was the game close?

Ned—Close? I should say so. The crowd was just pouncing on the umpire when the police reserves arrived.—Judge.

TRADE CONDITIONS.

Failures For August Make an Unsatisfactory Showing.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Commercial failures during the month of August were 803 in number and $9,458,866 in amount of liabilities. In manufacturing there were 193 defaults, for $4,611,807; in trading 575, owing $4,174,107, and in other lines not properly included above and exclusive of banks there were 35 failures, for $672,894. Compared with the same month last year the statement is most satisfactory, as failures were then only 735 in number and $7,523,903 in amount.

Mitigating circumstances must not be overlooked, however, and the fact that August was the best month in 1900 by nearly $2,000,000 of liabilities makes the comparison less odious. Moreover, the drought and strikes in July unsettled conditions among many small traders with little credit and also retarded business operations at a stage when losses could not be avoided. The effects were not fully felt until August, and if the two months share the burden together it is found that liabilities were $600,000 smaller this year than in some months of 1900.

Actual sales of many iron and steel products are recorded at material advances, and the tone throughout is hardened by vigorous demand. There is much difficulty in naming representative quotations, as on rush orders fancy premiums are charged.

Although unsettled in tone, little alteration occurred in the principal cereals. Trading was restricted, and there was an apparent disinclination to assume an aggressive stand on either side of the market. Wheat was supported by exports from the United States of 3,891,489 bushels against 2,506,386 in the same week last year and 3,408,336 in 1899. On the other hand, the movement is much lighter than in recent preceding weeks, and each day makes it more certain that the current yield will far surpass any previous crop in the country's history. Interior receipts since July 1 exceed those of the two preceding years to date by a large margin. Domestic milling is heavy, the only interruption being for repairs to machinery.

Corn is held about 20 cents higher than the average price of the two previous years at this date. Even if the yield is extensively reduced there is little reason for phenomenal prices in western receipts of 3,538,953 bushels against 2,987,926 last year or Atlantic exports of 691,356 bushels compared with 2,923,079 in the same week of 1900 and 3,051,569 in 1899.

YELLOW FEVER REPORT.

Investigation of the Caldas Serum Made Public.

HAVANA, Sept. 7.—Acting Governor General Scott has received the report of the yellow fever board presided over by Major Havard, chief surgeon in Cuba, which was appointed as a special commission to investigate the Caldas serum. The conclusions are:

First.—That Dr. Caldas has kept his alleged discovery from the study of other scientists.

Second.—That the claim made by Dr. Caldas that the pathogenic agent of yellow fever is found only in the intestinal tract is in direct opposition to the evidence furnished by the mosquito inoculations and direct blood inoculations made by the board presided over by Surgeon Major Reed.

Third.—That the attempt made by Dr. Caldas to immunize an individual against yellow fever by means of the vaccine prepared by him has failed.

The commission therefore recommends that further experiments with the vaccine serum of Dr. Caldas be discontinued.

Dr. Caldas said the man who was inoculated by him with the serum and was subsequently bitten by a mosquito did not have yellow fever, but suffered from putrid fever caused by the bite of the mosquito, but numbers of other physicians who saw the case in addition to the members of the commission all agreed that the patient had yellow fever.

Venezuela Revolution Extending.

COLON, Colombia, Sept. 7.—The revolution in Venezuela is extending over the whole country. President Castro is reviving the recruiting movement and has concentrated troops in the states of Tachira and Zulia. A division under General Arjona, starting from Rio Hacha for Goagira, encountered Aug. 22 a force of rebels under General Castillo. The latter were defeated, losing 200 in killed, wounded and prisoners. Among the killed were Generals Socarras and Pibal Ruiz. The invading force consists chiefly of Venezuelans, many of whom are distinguished by hats bearing ribbons marked "Battalion Cipriani Castro." It is said that important correspondence has been captured compromising the Venezuelan government.

New Liner In Port.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—The handsome new twin screw transatlantic liner La Savoie of the Compagnie Generale Transatlantique has arrived in this port from her maiden voyage after making a splendid passage in six days and eleven hours exactly. La Savoie left the port of Havre at 11 a. m., Aug. 31. The total distance of 3,002 knots was covered at the hourly average speed of 19.36 knots.

comfortably. No alarming symptoms have as yet developed, The bullet in the groin has not yet been located. His poise is 120 and, if it lowers before to night, probing will be resumed.

Buffalo, Sept. 7.—1:45 o'clock—Condition of McKinley not as favorable as it was this morning. Temperature 102, pulse 136 and respiration 28.

THE DAILY PRESS BULLETINS

Truthfully Told Story of the Attempted Assassination of the President.

Immediately after the dreaded news of President McKinley's attempted assassination reached this cith, a bulletin announcing the fact was displayed in front of The Daily Press office. It was at once surrounded by a startled, dazed crowd, which elbowed and crushed each other in an effort to read of the terrible act, to most of whom it seemed belief.

On every side were heard of expressions of regret while more than one in the vast throng gave vent to a sob. There were no thoughts as to the cowardly shocter's fate. Men looked in each other's faces and read the all important query, "Will the President live?"

The Press, with its excellent news service, sought to keep the inquirers in touch with all details of the shooting and its after results. At frequent intervals reports were placed on the bulletin boards, giving the latest possible facts. While from other sources rumors emanated saying the foremost man in the country had passed away, The Press' despatches gave nothing but truthful statements, which at the critical moment counted for everything.

Telegraph and telephone offices were besieged, but at no place in the city was the crowd so dense as on North avenue. There was no lessening of numbers until late in the evening when the first reassuring bulletins were placed in view. Many of the crowd still lingered and even at midnight, when the Press's last report was displayed, a score of men were about the building.

Today the placing of bulletins was resumed and the passersby were enabled to learn of the President's condition within a few moments after the official reports were given out from President Milburn's home at Buffalo.

WANTED TO KILL H M.

Man Said it Was a Good Thing and Narrowly Escaped Death at Hands of Crowd.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Lebanon, September 7—When the news of McKinley's misfortune reached this place many gathered at the local hotel to hear the details of the occurrence. One man in the crowd exclaimed that it was a good thing. It took some effort to restrain the bystanders from mobbing the man, who was hurried away.

Osteopathy.

"Osteopathy is based upon the proposition that a perfect circulation of pure blood is health, and disease is always accompanied by general or local disturbance of blood. A contracted muscle or ligament, a displaced bone or cartilage may be the cause of disturbed circulation. Undue pressure on minute vessels shuts off the blood stream to some extent, and when the blood is deficient, or in excess, disease follows as surely as poor crops follow drouth or an overflow. It is the work of the osteopath to locate and remove the real cause of the trouble. The cause being removed nature will do the work of curing. Many diseases which were thought to be incurable by the old system yield readily to the new system. And while the new system is complete and treats all diseases, both acute and chronic, its application for the most part has been directed more to those diseases of a chronic nature. Diseases that do not seem to yield to medicine from the different standpoint of treatment have been cured by osteopathy in great numbers all over the land where osteopathy has been properly practised. This fact accounts for the better understanding among practitioners of the old and the new schools. The family doctor's work is for the most part with acute cases, whereas the osteopath finds his greatest field in chronic troubles. The old and the new when rightly understood have each a field of labor that does not affect the other. Many medical doctors are now studying the new system in order the better to prepare themselves for chronic troubles, and this is proof that the schools cover different fields and also that the medical man finds the new school teaches something he did not get when at college and also something that is worth his time and money to learn."

SMALL CROWDS PRESENT AT LOCAL GOLF CLUBS.

D. H. Barrows and Miss vanHerwerden Won Day's Honors at Hillside.

NO REMARKABLE SCORES.

J. O MCKELVEY AND H. S. ROGERS TIED AT PARK CLUB.

Arthur H. Serrell and Wm. R. F. ber Split Third Honors—How the Various Club Competitions Now Stand.

Although Saturday was a delightful day for golf and both of the local courses were in the best of condition, the attendance was not as large as usual. It was undoubtedly due to the news of the President's critical condition as many did not feel like participating in anything when the fate of the Nation's Chief Executive hung in the balance. The regular weekly competitions were the only events scheduled for the day. D. H. Barrows and Miss vanHerwerden won first honors at the Hillside Club while J. O. McKelvey and Herbert S. Rogers divided first place over at the Park Golf Club.

HILLSIDE GOLF CLUB.

There was little doing at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course Saturday, and the weekly competitions for the Mellick and Golf Committee cups, the only events, attracted a small number of contestants. There is no doubt but what the attack on and condition of President McKinley was responsible for the light attendance, and out of respect for the Chief Executive many remained away from the course.

Miss Lida vanHerwden, Miss Mary Tracy and Miss Margaret Tracy began play in the morning for the Mellick cup, but Miss vanHerwerden was the only one to complete the round. She made a net score of 108, and it is supposed that she will receive 3 points for the trophy, giving her a total of 27½ points. Some of the members who have been contesting for the Mellick cup are away and have been unable to continue play. Miss vanHerwerden's score is as follows:

	G.	H.	N.
Miss vanHerwerden	112	4	108

The standing for the trophy is as follows:

	Points.
Miss vanHerwerden	27½
Miss Daisy Elsberg	14½
Miss Maud VanBoskerck	6
Miss Adelaide Ball	5½
Miss Margaret Goddard	5
Miss Margaret Tracy	5
Miss May Holly	2
Miss May Evans	1
Miss Mary Whiton	1

There were less than a dozen members on the course in the afternoon to contest for the Golf Committee cup, and there were no sensational features to mark the event. Dudley H. Barrows won first honors with an 80 net. F. A. Clark and Walter Peterson were tie for second honors with a net score of 84, while J. A. Machado, Townsend Rushmore and E. T. Barrows were tie with 85 net for fourth place, but they do not receive any points. Clark and Machado each receive a point and a half. Dudley H. Barrows, who received three points, now has a total of 6 5 6 points and takes second position.

As C. Wesley Abbott did not play he did not improve his position. He still leads with 10½ points. Peterson with 1½ points is now tie with Mrs. Rogers with 6 points for third position, while Clark who had 1½ points now has a total of 2¾ points, thereby improving his position a little.

The scores for the Golf Committee are as follows:

	G.	H.	N.
Dudley H. Barrows	95	15	80
F. A. Clark	100	16	84
Walter Peterson	97	13	84

PARK GOLF CLUB.

With the course in good condition, a fair field turned out Saturday afternoon for the regular weekly competition for the President's cup at the Park Golf Club. First honors were divided between Rev. J. O. McKelvey, a new comer in the contest, and Herbert S. Rogers, who had half a point to his credit. Arthur H. Serrell, one of the winners of the week before, split third honors with Wm. R. Faber and advanced from twelfth to seventh, for which place he is tied with five others.

Senator Charles A. Reed still remains in the fore with H. D. Hibbard a close second. The latter finished fifth in the day's play with the best gross score of the day. He made a 99 and was the only one to go below the hundred. Serrell was next best with 103. Senator Reed was way off his game.

The standing for the cup is now as follows:

Charles A. Reed	9
H. D. Hibbard	8
Joseph H. Howell	6
H. G. Phillips	6
George T. Rogers	5½
Allan B. Laing	5½

In last week's competition for the Hooley cup, Miss Harriet Shreve scored the point necessary to give her the lead. Miss Laura Long, who was second, took second honors and tied with Miss Harriet Shreve with ten points. Miss Daisy Elsberg is third with nine while Miss May Shreve advanced to fourth place with eight by winning first honors for the day.

There was nothing phenomenal about the scores, Miss Laura Long making the best gross score, 86 There were four competitors in the event. The scores were:

	G.	H.	N.
Miss May Shreve	90	40	50
Miss Laura Long	86	31	55

TO SAVE THE CHURCH.

Workers of Calvary Baptist Church Are Kept Hustling Now.

Rev. Scott Wallace, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church, and the members of his congregation, are making efforts to raise funds to pay the second mortgage on their edifice. Clubs have been organized and cards are being distributed for the purpose of securing contributions. The outlook at present is very encouraging and it is hoped to pay off the church indebtedness by the end of the month.

Endeavor Business Meeting.

The Endeavor Society of the First Baptist church will hold their regular monthly business meeting Friday evening.

Spoke on the President.

A brief address on the dastardly attempt to kill President McKinley, was made at the 8:30 o'clock mass yesterday morning by Rev. Father Miller, at St. Joseph's. The priest also referred to the subject at the other masses and asked the congregation to remember the President in their prayers.

WILLIAM M. STOUT WAS LAID TO REST.

Funeral Services Were Held From Residence on East Front Street Yesterday.

MANY PAID LAST RESPECTS

REV. DR. RICHARDS AND REV. EDWIN SEE WERE IN CHARGE.

Several Solos by Charles L. Lewis—Beautiful Floral Wreaths—Interment in Somerville—Some of Those Present.

The funeral services of William M. Stout were held yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock from the late residence on East Front street, and were largely attended by friends and neighbors, as well as by many from the New York house of Stout, Spencer & Co., where for many years Mr. Stout was the senior member of the firm.

Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, pastor of the Crescent Avenue church, conducted the services, assisted by Rev. Edwin See, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., of Brooklyn. Before Dr. Richards read the Scripture selections Charles L. Lewis sang "Crossing the Bar." Dr. Richards then read extensively from the Scriptures, after which he spoke of the deceased.

He referred to his patience in suffering and of the fact that he had gone to be at rest. He said that the departed must have learned the Apostolic injunction to "be diligent," and to "work while it is day," for he gave his undivided time and attention to business, as long as possible. Then the weakness of the body brought another burden to bear, another victory to win. Dr. Richards referred in eulogistic terms to the Christian character of Mr. Stout and of his love for Spiritual things and the House of God. Now he had at last laid his burdens aside to enjoy that rest which comes as the crowning success to a life well spent.

Mr. Lewis then sang "Asleep in Jesus," after which Rev. Mr. See offered prayer. Another solo, "I Would Not Live Always," by Mr. Lewis, preceded the benediction by Dr. Richards.

The floral tributes were many and beautiful, including several wreaths and bunches of roses from the employes of Stout, Spencer & Company. There was a pillow on which was inscribed "At Rest." These flowers surrounded the casket, while directly back of it were placed several beautiful palms. The interment took place today at Somerville.

Among those from the house of Stout, Spencer & Company, who attended the services were F. G. Spencer, a partner; J. A. Pierson, head buyer; Wm. M. Campbell, cashier; M. Berdu, Charles Patterson, A. W. Pierce, James Kelly, Charles Christopher, John Deveau, A. A. Romaine, W. A. Earle, A. Romaine, Henry Steffens, James Markey, James Dillon, and the following salesmen: S. B. Allen, of Ossining; J. C. VanDyke, of Plainfield; James Turnbull, of Somerville; W. G. Faotz, of Elizabeth; Judge S. H. Hilton, of Jersey City; also the following well-known customers of the house: John Reeve, P. H. Wyckoff, C. M. Decker, Mr. Alpaugh and Mr. Rutt, of the firm of Alpaugh & Rutt, F. P. Lobdell, G. W. Moulton, F. B Littell, F. Littell, Major D. H. Holbrook and Frank Marsh.

D. H. THICKSTUN IS DEAD.

ONE OF PLAINFIELD'S OLDEST DENTISTS PASSED AWAY SATURDAY.

Death Came After Illness of Many Months—Was a Native of This City.

After lingering for many months with a complication of troubles, death came quietly Saturday evening to Dr. Daniel H. Thickstun, one of Plainfield's oldest and most widely known citizens. He had been in poor health for the past two years, but it was only recently that he was compelled to take to his bed. Death occurred at the home of Miss Gill, of Central avenue, where he had been staying for a short time.

Mr. Thickstun was born in this city in 1840 in a house at the corner of Third street and Central avenue. He was educated in the public schools and afterward taught for some time. Not finding a teacher's work congenial he dropped it and became one of a chocolate manufacturing concern with headquarters in New York city. He remained in this for several years, and then becoming interested in dentistry, adopted it as his profession. He never practiced anywhere outside of this city and built up a lucrative which he enjoyed until the time ill health compelled him to retire.

He was always of a retiring disposition and mingled but little with organizations or in municipal affairs. He was very fond of travel and spent many months touring the United States, California generally being his objective point. He visited there three times, the most recent being from November to May last.

He is survived by a wife, one sister, Miss Mary Thickstun, and one son, William D. Thickstun, all of whom reside on Central avenue.

The funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock from the residence of his son, Wm. D. Thickstun, of Central avenue. Interment will be at Hillside.

HOPE CHAPEL LOST THROUGH POOR BATTING

Deciding Game Between Hope Boys And St. Mary's Played Saturday Afternoon.

THE SCORE WAS 5 TO 4.

FULLY A THOUSAND PEOPLE WITNESSED THE CONTEST.

Both Teams Played Well In The Field But The Stick Work Of The Hope Boys Wasn't Up To The Standard.—The Summary.

Nine heart-breaking innings, comprising the most intensely exciting game of baseball played on a local diamond this season, ended Saturday afternoon with a score of 5 to 4 in favor of the St. Mary team. The opponents, the Hope chapel team, played in excellent form and their defeat was no disgrace. The game was witnessed by 1,100 people, among whom there was a generous proportion of the fair sex. For weeks prior to the contest it was a topic of conversation among baseball rooters and the amount of money which changed hands on the result will reach hundreds of dollars.

The Hope team without any difficulty can trace its defeat to a lack of batting. Time and again, with men on bases a good single or even a sacrifice hit would have tallied a run, but the batsman seemed lost. While this was partly caused by Doyle's superb work, there were times when the Hope batters struck blindly at balls high in the air, which there was not the slightest chance of their reaching. Out of thirty-seven times at the bat, the Hopes secured a total of but five hits, all singles.

In the field the Hopes' work was just the opposite. Every member played in faultless style and spoiled numerous probable singles, doubles and even triples pounded out by the St. Mary's. The team's latest acquisition, Shortstop Martin, had the confidence and plaudits of the spectators. He made numerous plays which gave evidence that he is familiar with every point of the National game. He was the only player on the losing side to make two hits, one of which brought in the first run.

Montross, the Hopes' twirler, was not in good form and struck out only three men. In the fourth inning Hewitt was substituted and did much better. While the Hopes are credited with but five errors, they were made at vital stages of the game and were instrumental in causing the final result.

The St. Mary's team put up the game of the year, both in fielding and stick work. Doyle made the remarkable record of striking out sixteen men. He received excellent support from every member of the team. As usual Angleman and Keen came to the fore at the bat, with Mack, making the only three doubles in the game. The St Mary's secured a total of seven hits and made five errors.

The large attendance and the unbounded enthusiasm of the rooters during the entire game demonstrated that Plainfielders relish an exciting, clean baseball contest, such as Saturday's game was, and for that reason the managers of both teams are negotiating for another date. As each nine has its supporters, who are anxious to learn their relative merits, the contest will no doubt take place in a short time, probably the last Saturday of the present month. In the event of the Hopes winning, it will credit each team with two victories and a decider ing game will have to be played in October.

SCOTCH PLAINS 3; SPRINGFIELD, 1.

Scotch Plains, September 9—The baseball enthusiasts were treated to another fine exhibition of the national game Saturday afternoon when Manager Johnston's men crossed bats with the strong and hard hitting team from Springfield, on the Westfield avenue grounds. The two teams had met earlier in the season and Springfield won. Since then the Scotch Plains team has been greatly strengthened and all were anxious to wipe out the stain of the previous game.

At 3:30, when the play was called nearly two hundred anxious rooters were gathered along the rope line to encourage their favorite The Springfield players, by reason of their easy victory in the previous game, went to the bat confident but when they faced Harvey, who was filling the pitcher's box for the home team, they found that it was one, two, three and out order.

In the second inning Springfield brought one man across the plate on a wild throw to third. But this was evened up by a similar error in Scotch Plains' second. The home team did some very nice bunching of hits and clever base running in their third inning and were enabled to tally two runs which gave them a pretty safe lead.

After this it settled down to a pitchers battle between Harvey of the local and Reeves, who filled the box for the visitors. Both pitched a fine game and were well supported in the field. Several times it looked as though the visitors would tally but Harvey by cool head work kept the batsmen guessing and they were unable to connect with the ball at critical stages of the game.

The score by innings is as follows:
Scotch Plains..0 1 2 0 0 0 0 0 x—3

WIFE STOOD BY HIM.

So the Police Could Get No Direct Evidence That Dorgan Had Been Beating Her.

"I think you're a perfect brute and a disgrace, and if I could get direct evidence against you I would give you a heavy sentence" were the words City Judge Bunyon addressed to John Dorgan, Sr., of West Fourth street, in the city court this morning.

The man had been arrested, Saturday evening, by Patrolman Vanderweg who was attracted to the Dorgan home by piercing screams. He found Mrs. Dorgan, a bent and feeble old woman, cowering in a corner while her husband was raging about the room. She informed the patrolman that the man had been beating and abusing her.

In court, however, she flatly contradicted the patrolman's story and claimed Dorgan had never touched her. The court thought otherwise and informed the prisoner to that effect in the scathing terms quoted. Sentence was suspended with the warning that he would get the full penalty on his appearance in court again.

PRAYED FOR PRESIDENT.

Prayers Were Offered For Him at All Services at St. Mary's Church Yesterday.

Invocation of the Divine assistance for the speedy recovery of the President was offered at the several masses said at St. Mary's church yesterday morning. The members were urged to pray unceasingly for the Chief Magistrate and for the Nation.

At all the masses the priest from the altar drew the attention of the congregation to the terrible calamity, and, at the 9 o'clock mass, Rev. Father Smyth made an extended address on the subject, dwelling particularly on the goodness of Mr. McKinley and the awful blow to the people of the country.

JUSTICE MARRIED THEM.

Quiet Wedding Which Took Place a Week Ago in Plainfield.

Justice Mosher found time outside of his legal duties, a week ago Sunday evening, to tie the nuptial knot for two young people who called at his home and made the request. They were James Barr and Miss Bertha Fulmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fulmer, of South aveaue. The justice performed the ceremony with becoming dignity and to the satisfaction of both parties. Mr. and Mrs. Barr have taken up their residence at the home of the bride's parents.

Mrs. Geo. W. F. Randolph, of West Front street, left today for Cleveland, Ohio, where she will visit her sister, Mrs. N. E. Martin, 32 Wood street.

E. S. HOOLEY REACHED NEW YORK ON TIME

But it Required a Wild Ride in a Special Train to Get Him There.

CAME UP FROM BARNEGAT.

HAD TO BE ON HAND FOR OPENING OF STOCK MARKET.

Attempted Assassination of the President Upset Everthing and His Presence Was Urgently Required—A Wild Trip.

The attempted assassination of President McKinley wrought many exciting and peculiar experiences throughout the country, but none were more exciting than those experienced by Elwin S. Hooley, of Washington Park, the well-known broker in Wall street. Mr. Hooley was at Barnegat, enjoying a vacation, when he received a telegram the from New York house informing him of the sad affair. The telegram was received Friday night after the trains had stopped running.

It being very necessary that Mr. Hooley should be at his office bright and early Saturday morning, steps were at once taken by him for a special trip. At first it looked as though he would not be able to reach New York before 10 o'clock Saturday morning, but hard pressure was brought to bear on the railroad officials and they finally consented to make up a "special" for him.

There were no extra engines at Barnegat, and it was necessary to send to Red Bank to get a drill engine. This was attached to a single coach and the special left Barnegat at 2:10 o'clock Saturday morning for Jersey City. The trip was an exciting one throughout, as the engine broke down several times under the heavy pressure, and once or twice it looked as though another engine would have to be secured to complete the trip.

Finally the special reached Jersey City at 6:59 o'clock in time for Mr. Hooley to reach his office and look after matters before the stock market opened. Mr. Hooley was accompanied on the trip by his man, and neither one will ever forget that wild night run between Barnegat and Jersey City.

CIGARS TO BLAME.

It Was to Them That William Tallamy Ascribed the Cause of His Unsteadiness.

Inveterate cigar smokers, and especially those whose finances do not allow the purchase of guaranteed Havanas, should take warning from the experiences of William Tallamy, who was charged in the City Court this morning with being helplessly drunk on Liberty street Saturday evening.

Tallamy ascribed his plight to smoking two weeds, for commercial purposes termed cigars, which he had bought in the West End, and not to some wine which he had imbibed. Heretofore he has confined his smoking operations to a pipe, and the sudden extravagance resulted, as he termed it, "in making his head spin around" and rendering him helpless.

City Judge Runyon administered some fatherly advice in regard to the selection of cigars, und on condition that Tallamy return to his pipe for recreation and not mix it with wine, sentence was suspended.

THE PHILIPPINE TARIFF.

Public Will Now Examine the Schedules—Important Surrenders.

MANILA, Sept. 9.—Genuine anxiety is felt by everybody here regarding the condition of President McKinley.

The new tariff schedule arrived by the transport Kilpatrick. Copies will be issued to the public immediately for thorough study and discussion. The public desires the Philippine commission to hold open sessions on Wednesday and Thursday, when the changes proposed by the merchants will be considered, as will also the time when the tariff shall become effective.

The insurgent leader Angeles has surrendered in the Camarines, with nineteen officers, forty-two men, a number of rifles and a quantity of ammunition. Numbers of other small surrenders occur daily. The only active forces now operating with any number of men are those of Malvar and Lukban. The capture or surrender of the former is expected at any time. The latter, the Filipinos believe, will hold out as long as he is able to get ammunition. His brother, a doctor in Manila, says Lukban will never surrender.

The commission has passed a law providing that in future appointments the appointee's contract with the United States shall provide penalties where the appointee shall resign within two years. These penalties shall include the loss of pay due and the recovery of money paid while in transit. It has frequently happened recently that persons appointed have quit their positions shortly after landing here.

Steel Workers at Odds.

MILWAUKEE. Sept. 9.—The Bayview meeting, after a stormy session, broke up in a row. The radical element left the hall, and the remaining members, not quite half of those in attendance, voted to return to work and did so today when the mills started up. The question of returning to work was debated at length, and after every member had had his say President Joseph D. Redfern ordered a secret ballot to be taken. An appeal was made. The appeal was referred to the vice president of the lodge, whose duty it is to act. The result of the meeting will undoubtedly be a split in the organization of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers in this city.

H. O. Armour Dead.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 9.—Herman O. Armour of New York city is dead of apoplexy at his summer cottage here. Mr. Armour, who had been in comparatively frail health for some time, was able to ride out once or twice a day and appeared to be gaining strength. Yesterday forenoon, accompanied by a coachman, he took his regular drive and on his return stated he felt much refreshed, as the weather was beautifully clear and invigorating. Shortly afterward he was seated on the porch of his North Broadway cottage conversing with friends. Suddenly he ceased talking and immediately expired.

Irish-Canadian Shooting Contest.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—The Canadian and Irish rifle shooters will have a chance of determining their relative merits today and tomorrow on the long ranges at Sea Girt, N. J., in two contests especially arranged for their benefit by the New Jersey State Rifle association. Teams of six from each side, the members of which have not as yet been named, will have their points counted in the two days' results, and a special prize will be given to the man making the highest score on the winning team and another will be awarded to the leading marksman on the losing team.

Killed In a Runaway.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 9.—Miss Jennie R. Ewing, head of the hosiery department of Boggs & Buhl and prominent in church work, met almost instant death in a runaway accident here. Miss Ewing and Miss McIlwaine were guests of Selwyn M. Taylor and wife for a drive. At Bellefield avenue the horses took fright and dashed toward Fifth avenue at breakneck speed. Miss Ewing jumped and alighted on her head, fracturing the skull. Before a physician could reach her she was dead. The horses broke loose from the carriage, and the other occupants escaped uninjured.

Judge Noyes to Answer Charges.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—Judge A. H. Noyes of the Nome judicial district in Alaska, against whom have been preferred charges of corruption and irregularities in connection with mining claims, has arrived here. A severe attack of asthma compelled him to call in a physician shortly after his arrival, and he was unable to see visitors. He expected to report today to the attorney general to confer over the charges filed against him. The latter, however, is in Buffalo, a fact of which Judge Noyes has not yet been apprised.

Forest Fires In Newfoundland.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Sept. 9.—Forest fires are ravaging the country and threaten several large lumbering districts. Twenty-three houses have been destroyed in the settlement of White Bay, and it is feared that other villages have also been burned. It is impossible to cope with the fires, and unless a heavy rainfall extinguishes them the loss to timber interests will be very great.

Severe Storm on Lake Huron.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—Dispatches received by the life saving service indicate that a very serious storm has raged on Lake Huron. These dispatches report a number of disasters to lake craft and show that all told fifty-six seamen were rescued at different life saving stations on the lake.

Fire at Coney Island.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—In a $15,000 fire at Coney Island the Oriole bathing pavilion, at Tilyou's walk and Beach street, was destroyed. The steeplechase was saved only by prompt work on the part of firemen and volunteers, who formed a bucket brigade.

Schley Court May Be Postponed.

BUFFALO, Sept. 9.—A rumor is current that in view of the attack upon the president and the presence here of the chief officials of the country that the Schley court of inquiry be postponed. No official information on the subject is obtainable yet.

Former Russian Cabinet Officer Dead

FRANKFORT-ON-THE-MAIN, Sept. 9.—Dr. Johannes von Miquel, former Prussian minister of finance, was found dead in bed here yesterday morning. Apoplexy is believed to have been the cause of death. He was born Feb. 21, 1829.

REBELS ARE ACTIVE

Late Advices Tell of Fighting at Bocas del Toro.

COLON THREATENED WITH ATTACK.

Colombia Sending Troops to Meet the Enemy—Government Said to Be In Extreme Straits Financially.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Sept. 9.—The Royal Mail steamer Para, from Colon, reports rebel activity in the neighborhood of Panama and Colon. She also reports that fighting has taken place at Bocas del Toro. The government of the latter place failing to repulse the Liberals, the rebels have given notice of their intention to attack Colon within a fortnight. The government is continually moving troops to meet the rebel advances. Trade continues almost paralyzed.

A dispatch from Colon, dated Sept. 6 and refused by the censor and forwarded by steamer to Kingston, says that Colombia's financial straits are extreme, and she is pushed to the last point to obtain funds. The Colombian paper peso is now worth less than 3 cents, and gold continues to depreciate. Seventy or 80 per cent of the people of the country sympathize with the revolution and are opposed to the present government, largely, it is asserted, on account of the government's exaction of taxes and imposts and other vexatious efforts to raise money.

A decree, dated Bogota, July 18, practically disrupts the country and deprives the Bogota government of the power to take national action in which the various departments could be expected to take a responsible part. It is almost impossible to expect Colombia to take concerted action on an international matter because of the weakening effect of the decree in question.

The future contains no promise of financial betterment, and the people become daily more burdened. Forced loans are common, and their daily recurrence is expected. In some cases customs receipts have been hypothecated months in advance as security for these loans, and in other cases no security is given. The continuation of such governmental impositions increases the Liberal ranks, and the prolongation of the present situation will, it is believed, increase the Liberals' chances of success.

The government is holding the army, which it is making strenuous efforts to pay and which, with the official employees, seems strong enough to prolong the present situation, but unable to end the revolution a crushing, effective blow. Time will strengthen the rebels' position throughout the country, but in the isthmus district they notably lack leaders. The government today owes the 7,500 troops on the isthmus $45,000 in gold in back pay.

It is expected that the return to the isthmus of General Alban, commander in chief of the Colombian forces, will be attended with stringent measures and forced loans in order to raise money to pay these troops.

The Iowa at Panama.

COLON, Sept. 9.—The United States battleship Iowa arrived at Panama Saturday. The residents of Colon are rejoiced to learn that hopes are entertained of President McKinley's recovery.

Steel Strike Situation.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 9.—If the plans of President Shaffer were for the executive board to go to New York and confer with President Schwab of the United States Steel corporation, these plans were abandoned. The entire membership of the board was in Pittsburg yesterday with the exception of Vice Presidents Morgan, Jenkins and Larkins, who went to their homes for Sunday and who are expected to return to Pittsburg today. President Shaffer was not at home all day, and it was stated at his home that it was not known where he was or when he would return. While the members of the board did not say so, it was intimated by those in close touch with them that they had plainly told President Shaffer that a settlement of the strike was imperative and that he had better put himself into communication with President Schwab and have a plain understanding at once.

Watching Anarchists.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9.—Acting upon orders issued by Director of Public Safety English the police visited every hall available for an anarchistic meeting yesterday and notified the persons in charge not to rent their rooms for any such meetings. It was reported that the local anarchists would hold a meeting at Industrial hall at night, but no attempt was made to open the hall. The police are keeping a close watch upon the known anarchists and their gathering places.

Bishop Garvey Consecrated.

SCRANTON, Pa., Sept. 9.—Mgr. Eugene A. Garvey of Pittston was yesterday consecrated bishop of the new diocese of Altoona at St. Peter's cathedral in this city with the most solemn and imposing ceremony, except the investure of a cardinal, that is performed in the Catholic church outside of the Roman curia. The consecrating bishop was Cardinal Martinelli, the apostolic delegate.

Weather Probabilities.

M'KINLEY BETTER

Bulletins From President's Sickroom Give Hope.

A BRAVE FIGHT FOR LIFE

A Quiet and Restful Day and Night Passed by Chief Executive.

ASSASSIN'S BULLET STILL IN BODY

Eminent Physicians Watching Constantly at Bedside of Distinguished Sufferer Note Only Hopeful Symptoms—Public Knows the Worst—Messages of Sympathy From All Parts of the World.

BUFFALO, Sept. 9.—Through the quiet, peaceful Sabbath and during last night every word that came from the big vine clad house in Delaware avenue, in which the stricken chief magistrate of the nation lies battling for life, was reassuring, and the chances of his recovery are so greatly improved that all of those who have kept the patient vigil at his bedside feel strongly that his life will be spared. The developments of these critical hours were dreaded, but hour after hour passed, and the distinguished patient, struggling there beneath the watchful eyes of physicians and trained nurses, showed not an unfavorable symptom.

Five times during the day the eminent doctors and surgeons assembled for consultation, and each time the verdict was unanimous that what change had occurred was for the better. Not the slightest premonitory symptom of peritonitis appeared, and the fresh hope born with the morning grew stronger and stronger as the day advanced until toward evening the confidence expressed in the president's recovery seemed almost too sanguine.

Dr. Charles McBurney, the famous New York surgeon who had been summoned in consultation, after a thorough examination, in which he said he had found not a single unfavorable symptom, joined in the last afternoon bulletin, which declared that the president's condition was satisfactory to all the physicians present. It is not strange, therefore, that the vice president, the members of the cabinet and other distinguished visitors who called came away with lighter hearts and buoyant tread and gave expression to the most optimistic sentiments, and the joyful tidings went out beyond the blue coated picket lines to gladden the hearts of the silent throngs gathered there.

CZOLGOSZ, THE ASSASSIN.

The news spread over the exposition city with lightning rapidity, and unnumbered thousands came in carriages, in street cars and afoot to learn for themselves of the faith and confidence that existed about the Milburn house. The brightness of the day, with its flood of yellow sunshine and its cool, bracing atmosphere, only added to the general cheerfulness, and when a score of newsboys darted into the crowd about 6 o'clock shouting "Extra! The president will live!" it was with difficulty that they could suppress the shouts of thanksgiving that rose in their throats. And the newspaper men, many of whom have been at their posts for forty-eight hours continuously, remained steadfastly throughout the day in the little white walled tents across the street from the house where the country's patient lay and flashed the news over land and sea to inspire the hearts of waiting millions.

And yet, despite all this optimism, the president of the republic is by no means out of danger. Not one of his physicians, not one of his advisers who is admitted to the inner councils, has the temerity to go so far as that. But if the president continues to improve for one more day the danger of peritonitis, which is most dreaded, will have practically disappeared. That disposed of, still other complications may arise. Blood poisoning might set in or an abscess from where the bullet is imbedded in the muscles of the back. Thus far the ball of the assassin, which is still in the body, gives the physicians no anxiety. But if the slightest inflammation appears in the region of the lead it will be immediately extracted. No difficulty is anticipated in this regard. One of Edison's best X ray machines and the most skillful and trusted operator, Dr. H. A. Knolls, have arrived. The batteries were charged, and the machine is ready for instant use. With it the physicians say there is not the slightest doubt that the ball can be located perfectly for an operation. They do not deem it advisable to sap any of the president's strength at this time. All the president's reserve force is needed now to resist the danger of peritonitis and septic poisoning. Besides, if inflammation does not set in around the bullet it will soon become encysted.

The president's mind was perfectly clear during the time that he was awake yesterday, and for the first time he enjoyed natural sleep. Between 9 and 4 o'clock he had the solace of natural slumber for about four hours, and the physicians stated unofficially that his sleep had been "quiet and reposeful" and had helped the sufferer a great deal. Yesterday also for the first time nourishment was administered. It was in liquid form and was injected hypodermically to avoid the possibility of irritating the walls of the stomach, where the sutures are healing. The exterior wound was dressed in the morning and is progressing satisfactorily. All day the members of the cabinet and others associated with the president in public life came solicitously and went away almost jubilantly, all reflecting the hopeful outlook at the Milburn house. Vice President Roosevelt received the earlier bulletins and after going to church hurried to the residence. There he was joined by Senator Hanna. They came away together and gave expression to the most confident and encouraging sentiments. The vice president not only shared the cheerful feeling, but was extremely optimistic. Both gentlemen took occasion to announce in unmeasured terms the statements gaining circulation in some quarters that the doctors were not frank in their communications to the public. They maintained that the president's favorable condition was even understated by the physicians through motives of conservatism during the seventy-two hour period.

Later Secretary Cortelyou took occasion to emphasize this very point by issuing an official statement assuring the public of the complete trustworthiness of the bulletins sent out by the physicians.

Secretary Cortelyou's statement was as follows:

"The public will be kept fully advised of the actual condition of the president. Each bulletin is carefully and conservatively prepared and is an authoritative statement of the judgment of the physicians as to the most important features of the case at the time issued. The facts will be given."

Secretary Root has taken up quarters immediately next door to the Milburn house and was in frequent consultation with those inside. He and Secretary Gage, Secretary Hitchcock and Attorney General Knox called together about noon, and, indeed, there was no time during the day when some member of the cabinet was not in the house where his stricken chief lay. Even those most prominent in public life did not see him, as the doctors would not relax the ironclad rule they have laid down to prevent the least drain upon his energies and vitality. Those who came and went moved silently and reverently, receiving the latest statements from the doctors and departing with visible evidences of elation over the prospect.

After 5 o'clock there was a period of comparative quiet about the Milburn house. The members of the cabinet and other distinguished officials who had been coming and going throughout the day now withdrew, as it was understood no further bulletin would be issued until 9 p. m. As the twilight deepened into darkness the lights appeared in the upper chambers of the Milburn house, and the eyes of the watchers outside were turned with anxious interest to these shimmering tokens of the watch in and about the sickroom. All through the day great crowds had gathered on the streets converging at the Milburn house. A steady line of men and women came up to the ropes to make anxious inquiries. Shortly before 8 o'clock Vice President Roosevelt, accompanied by Mr. Wilcox of Buffalo, called at the Milburn residence and remained for a short time in conversation with Secretary Cortelyou and those near the president. There was little additional information to give them beyond the 4 o'clock bulletin, and they came away with the same hopeful and confident expression.

The entire cabinet is in the city with the exception of Secretaries Hay and Long. The former telegraphed that he would start from Newberry, N. H., today. Secretary Long also signified by wire that he was coming, but did not specify the time. The cabinet officers feel it to be their duty to be here in this crisis to meet any emergency. They are holding no formal meetings, although there are some matters of public business which they daily discuss informally, and the possible contingencies should the president grow worse are also thoroughly canvassed. They do not believe that there is the most remote possibility that Vice President Roosevelt will be called upon to exercise the functions of chief magistrate under the disability clause of the constitution while the president lives.

Vice President Roosevelt would not hear of such a course. Still, in the event of grave international complications an emergency might occur, and the question has arisen in their minds as to who should proclaim the disability provided for by the constitution. That instrument is silent on the subject. There is no precedent to follow. During the protracted illness of President Garfield before his death Vice President Arthur was not called upon to act. The consensus of opinion among the members of the cabinet is that should the occasion arise they themselves would have to decide and proclaim the existence of the disability. The supreme court, they say, could not do so, as there would be no way in which the question could be raised before that tribunal.

Vice President Roosevelt's attendance at the morning service of the First Presbyterian church gave occasion for a heartfelt expression of the sorrow universally felt over the calamity and the detestation of the assassin's methods. A fervid prayer by the pastor, Dr. Mitchell, invoked the sternest reprobation of anarchy and asked that the temples of public life be scourged of men willing to temporize with the madness of anarchy.

The interest in the president's condition was such across the Canadian border that the press was asked to furnish a bulletin to be read in the churches in Quebec and Montreal, and many requests of a similar character came direct to Secretary Cortelyou from different parts of the United States. The messages of sympathy from all over the United States—and all over the world, in fact—have fairly overwhelmed Secretary Cortelyou. Two more White House stenographers have been sent for, and upon their arrival some of the more important messages will be made public. Almost every government in the world has been heard from, most of the crowned heads of Europe sending personal messages. Among the latter are King Edward VII., Emperor William, the kings of Portugal, Italy and Sweden and the sultan of Turkey. President Loubet of the republic of France has also cabled his sympathy direct. One of the most touching messages thus far received was from Mme. Labori, the wife of Maitre Labori, who defended Dreyfus in his famous trial at Rennes.

Mrs. McKinley continues to bear up bravely, and her fortitude under the circumstances is regarded as remarkable. One of her dearest and closest friends, Mrs. Rand of Washington, has arrived here and will probably remain with her during this trying period.

Secretary Cortelyou, in whose hands the management of everything seems to be, has been able to take little rest since the tragedy. His capacity for work is marvelous, and he seems an utter stranger to fatigue. The great confidence which the president has in his faithful secretary could not have been more strikingly illustrated than at the Exposition hospital when he was about to be placed upon the operating table. The president realized that the sooner the operation was performed the better, and he was perfectly willing to submit himself to the knife.

SCENE OF THE SHOOTING.

His only solicitude was as to the competency of the surgeons who were to perform the operation. Just before he was placed upon the table he called Secretary Cortelyou to him and asked whether the surgeons were all right. Mr. Cortelyou assured him that he had made inquiries and that they were reputed to be among the most skillful in their profession. The president accepted the assurance instantly and immediately announced that he was ready.

The members of the cabinet are doing everything in their power to prevent the sensational exploitation of Czolgosz, both because he undoubtedly craves notoriety and because his fellow anarchists throughout the country love it. They do not desire to place any stone in the path of the authorities who are laboring to unravel the plot, if any plot existed, and all the machinery of the government secret service will be used to aid the state authorities in the prosecution of their investigations. But by the direct request of Secretary Root, on behalf of his colleagues, the district attorney and the police will not permit the prisoner to be seen or interviewed, nor will they discuss the methods or the results of their efforts to discover the originators of the plot. All that has leaked out from the jail shows that he is vain and boastful of his crime and would if given an opportunity fill the newspapers with columns of his vaporings.

The latest bulletin issued after the patient was seen by all of the physicians and surgeons who are treating him is favorable. They find his general condition to be unchanged, and their examination did not disclose anything of an unfavorable nature. They believe that the president is in a serious condition and that the crisis will not be passed for another forty-eight hours. Popular opinion continues to grow more optimistic, but the circle of professional men and officials that surround the wounded statesman remain in the shadow of doubt as to the outcome. They hope for the best, and until the case has run through the doubtful days and the period of convalescence has come they will not be reassured.

Last night, like its predecessor, was very cold, and the guards and watchers assembled about the Milburn home were garbed as for winter. The weather conditions are regarded as very favorable for the president, as there has been no very warm weather and the temperature of the room he occupies has been regulated with ease.

Abner McKinley, brother of the president, reached here at 12:20 a. m. He was admitted to the house at once.

England Feels Relieved.

LONDON, Sept. 9.—Genuine relief pervades England over the encouraging reports regarding President McKinley's condition and the prospects of his recovery. His personality continues to absorb the country's sympathy and interest. Were King Edward lying wounded popular feeling could scarcely be stronger or deeper. Prayers for the recovery of Mr. McKinley were offered up in hundreds of British churches yesterday, notably St. Paul's, Westminster abbey and Canterbury cathedral. At the Rev. F. B. Meyers' church in London, where there was a large attendance, including many Americans, the congregation rose and passed a resolution of sympathy. The prayers offered in little country churches, such as that at Beaconsfield, where Mr. Henry White, secretary of the United States embassy, resides, lacked none of the sincerity and impressiveness of those delivered in the great edifices before large congregations.

The following telegram from King Edward, at Fredensberg, to United States Embassador Choate was received last evening: "I rejoice to hear the favorable account of the president's health. God grant that his life be preserved."

Anxiety In Paris.

PARIS, Sept. 9.—A great feeling of relief is manifest among the Americans in Paris in consequence of the reassuring cablegrams from Buffalo regarding President McKinley's condition. The official advices received by Embassador Porter and Consul General Gowdy and the information reaching other Americans here are very meager, and the bulletins are perused with the keenest interest and have aroused hope that Mr. McKinley will recover. The Temps, in an interesting article referring to President McKinley and Vice President Roosevelt, says, "McKinley is not a Lincoln, and it can confidently be said that Roosevelt under no circumstances would be a Johnson, whose presidency became a governmental civil war after the military civil war had come to an end." Today brings confirmation that the Buffalo outrage has stirred the police here into action, particularly in relation to the czar's visit.

A CRIME WITHOUT REASON.

Significant Utterance In the President's Washington Church.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—"The exigencies of life are such that no man living can count upon the continuance of existence for any length of time. Among these exigencies are disease, accident and the bullet of the assassin, such as we have heard of in the past forty hours. That occurrence at Buffalo indicates that no man is safe from the shaft of death. It is very difficult to get away from it, and while I have ever been loyal to the law and have ever contended for its strict enforcement I must say that the affair of 4 o'clock Friday has almost converted me into an advocate of lynch law. Surely there was no occasion, no reason, for that dreadful deed, and whether the work of a sane man or a lunatic there can be no justification for it."

The above extract from the sermon of Dr. H. R. Naylor, presiding elder of the Washington district, was the only direct reference made in the regular sermon preached at the Metropolitan Methodist Episcopal church, which is the church President McKinley attends when in Washington. The sermon was brief, and the service was converted into a gathering of sympathy for the president. Of the several prayers all were supplications for the early restoration to health of the president, of praise for his personality and admonition to Mrs. McKinley to stand firm in this trying time. When the regular service had been concluded, the congregation, which was large, transformed itself into a mass meeting and upon motion of Judge T. H. Anderson of the District supreme court by a standing vote directed that the following expression of the sense of the congregation be sent to the president:

"The board of the Metropolitan Methodist Episcopal church and congregation assembled extend to you and your devoted wife the deepest sympathy and earnestly pray that God in his great mercy may comfort and sustain you and spare your valued and useful life to the church and nation."

The message was signed by all the members of the official board.

Anarchy and Treason One.

WATERTOWN, Mass., Sept. 9.—Special services with reference to the attempt on the life of President McKinley were held yesterday in nearly all of the churches. At the Phillips Congregational church the following petition was circulated among the congregation and will be placed in public circulation: "To the Hon. Samuel P. Powers, representative to congress from the Twelfth Massachusetts district.—We, the undersigned, citizens of Watertown, respectfully and earnestly request you as our representative to indorse, advocate and urge in congress a bill to declare as treason and to prohibit under extreme penalties the holding of meetings by persons known or proved to be anarchists, or the teaching of the doctrines of anarchy, or the circulation of its literature, the aim of this bill being the better protection of society and state against a form of lawlessness of surpassing recklessness and fraught with peril to the public weal and civil service."

Sympathy From Pope and Queen.

LONDON, Sept. 9.—Queen Margherita upon hearing the news of the attempt upon the life of President McKinley, says the Rome correspondent of The Daily News, with tears in her eyes said, "These things come hardest on the women, and at least poor Mrs. McKinley should in her state of health have been spared." The pope, The Daily News' correspondent says, also displayed deep emotion, exclaiming: "Oh, how earnestly I pray that he may escape with his life! These violent crimes are the curse of our days. I can only offer the afflicted victim and his poor wife my humble prayers."

Poles Denounce Czolgosz.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—An indignation meeting attended by about 500 Poles, of which, it is estimated, there are 80,000 in New York city, was held at the Church of St. Stanislaus, and bitter words of denunciation of Czolgosz and his crime were uttered, while the expression of sympathy for the president and those belonging to him was warm and universal. Doubt as to the nationality of the would be assassin was expressed, and it was decided to send a delegate to Cleveland and Toledo at once to look into his ancestry and to prove to the American people he is not a Pole, but a Russian, by descent.

Death Should Be the Penalty.

CUMBERLAND, Md., Sept. 9.—In discussing the attempted assassination of President McKinley Congressman George A. Pearre of Maryland said: "I will offer a bill in the next congress of the United States amending the constitution so as to make an unsuccessful attempt upon the life of a president of the nation treason and the penalty death. The man who strikes at the nation's head is a public enemy and should be treated as such."

An Austrian Tribute.

VIENNA, Sept. 9.—The Vienna newspapers express themselves very strongly in denunciation of anarchism. The Neues Wiener Tagblatt says, "The country in its bitterness will probably take energetic measures to destroy the nursery of anarchism in the United States." The Wiener Tagblatt says that President McKinley is the first statesman of America and perhaps the greatest and most influential in the world since Bismarck.

Sympathy In Canada.

QUEBEC, Sept. 9.—Ministers and priests of this city yesterday offered prayers for the recovery of President McKinley and paid befitting tribute to his character as a man and executive. Resolutions of sympathy by Americans were forwarded to Buffalo. Sympathy for the stricken chief is universal.

Lipton Declines.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Sir Thomas Lipton, replying to a proposition of Thomas W. Lawson to race the Independence against the Shamrock II. in Massachusetts waters for two handsome cups or in English waters for $100,000 after the America's cup race is finished, said, "Regret impossible arrange race Shamrock II. against Independence."

Adventist Convention Closed.

OSWEGO, N. Y., Sept. 9.—The annual convention of the New York state Seventh Day Adventists closed here yesterday. Five thousand people witnessed the baptism in Lake Ontario of twenty-five converts.

It Will Be Murphy.

The Essex county Republicans opened their campaign headquarters Friday evening and invited a number of prominent politicians of the G. O. P. to assemble with them. The most important feature of the meeting, however, was the statement made that Major Carl Lentz and his workers would stand by Franklin Murphy for the gubernatorial nomination.

When United States Senator Sewell went away at the first part of the summer he remarked that Mr. Murphy appeared to be sliding gracefully into the nomination. That was taken generally for a sign that the great Republican leader favored his nomination. When the Senator returned he remarked that he saw no reason to change his opinion. That served to strengthen the opinion that there would be no opposition to Mr. Murphy on the part of General Sewell.

The only possible opposition was looked for from Mr. Murphy's home county, Essex. It was generally understood that Major Lentz was not wildly enthusiastic over Mr. Murphy's nomination. However Major Lentz may stand, it was made public Friday evening that the Essex men would support him when the State convention comes late this month. That settles any doubt about Mr. Murphy's nomination, and only the very unexpected can now make any change in the programme for the State convention.

Political festivities, which were planned by Republicans and Democrats alike previous to the beginning of the strenuous activity of the campaign, are likely to be postponed on account of the President's serious illness. All the programme prepared for the opening of the Essex county Republican headquarters Thursday evening, was given up on that account and the Franklin Murphy Association is seriously considering the advisibility of giving up its outing. Unless the President speedily inproves, the Union county Republicans will probably decide to do the same.

The experience of a heavy advertiser whose home office is in Buffalo, N. Y., in the working up of a great business in proprietary medicines is not essentially different from that of others, says the Philadelphia Record, To a reporter he said that he had depended almost exclusively upon the leading daily newspapers of the large cities for publicity. For many years he put 80 per cent. of his gross receipts into newspaper space, and this year his appropriation for such newspaper advertising is "so large as to stagger belief."

One of the best baseball games of the season was witnessed on the Hope chapel field Saturday afternoon when the Hope chapel and St. Mary's nines met in a decisive contest. Although a large crowd of interested spectators witnessed the game, it was entirely free from the slightest suggestion of disorder. Such games serve to advance the cause of the national game. It is to be hoped that the managers of the two teams will agree on a continuation of this very interesting series.

It is only when the time for parting comes that the full extent of attachment and affection is evidenced. While all knew that Rev. G. Kennedy Newell was greatly beloved by those among whom he worked, the full depth of that love and respect was not realized until the time came to say the final word of parting. There are few men who leave Plainfield with such a host of friends and so few enemies.

There are few of New Jersey public men who appear to take any more real interest in the welfare of the commonwealth than State Senator E. E Stokes. There is no doubt but that his suggestion of forest preserves for this State is aimed to advance the interests of all. He has thought deeply on the subject and the State will now get the benefit of his well-directed efforts along those lines.

The speedy justice which was meted out to the men who stole the copper wire at Lincoln was a striking contrast to the usual Middlesex county methods. As it happened, the officers who captured the men were not from that county so perhaps Middlesex county couldn't help it.

The time is drawing near when the water bills will come again. They will be as large as ever. Isn't it almost time that the people demanded the general installation of water meters?

Little Dan Cupid appears to find Westfield a very good ground for secret matrimonial alliances. Think of the excitement of springing two such tales in one day.

Hardly a day passes but we hear further details of that big gathering of firemen, scheduled to take place in the borough some day next month.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May Be Of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

Several of the rural counties of New Jersey have already been heard from in happy appreciation of a condition that is going to make more of a figure in this fall's election than some people as yet imagine. The tax bills are going out, and it is found that there are substantial reductions owing to the operation of the "Stokes law" under which the State gives a large amount of its surplus revenue, derived from the taxation of corporations to the taxing districts, to be applied to the diminution of the onerous school tax. This is going to be a Republican argument that will appeal to the pocketbook of every taxpayer, and such arguments are of the most practical and effective kind, discounting sentimental politics by a large majority.—Paterson Press.

Senator Sewell's declaration on his return home that "I said before I went abroad that Mr. Murphy was sliding gracefully into the nomination for Governor, and I have not changed my mind," ends all talk of another candidate for the Republican nomination. Whatever early political excitement there is, therefore, will be among the Democrats. Ex-Senator Smith is non-communicative, and it is not positively known that he will take the field against Mayor Seymour. But whether he does or not the party primaries will be savagely fought. Newark's chief executive has his friends and his enemies, and has plenty of both. Both sides are getting ready for the struggle, particularly here in Essex.—Newark Advertiser.

* * * *

There is a vast difference in the work cut out for the Republicans and the Democrats in their approaching State conventions. The Republicans have pacified the Pitneys, Bairds, Gummeres, Johnsons, Stokeses and other aspiring statesmen with good, fat berths, or promises of them, and all that is left for the faithful to do is to make the best of an unpopular job and whoop it up for Franklin Murphy for all they are worth. On the other hand the Democrats are confronted by an array of talent such as is rarely presented at a convention. Scarcely a county but has a favorite son, and the difficulty in making the selection will be enhanced by the fact that nearly all are eminently fitted for the position and the delegations of each can furnish plenty of reasons why their man can be easily elected. From present appearances the Democrats will have all sorts of trouble at their convention and the Republicans will run into theirs later on.—Somerville Messenger.

DARING STOP.

Watson Terrill Held Up a Runaway on Front Street Yesterday.

With a daring that won the admiration of the onlookers, Watson Terrill, the young son of Moses Terrill, made a heroic capture of a runaway steed yesterday morning. The horse, which was attached to a buggy, started down Somerset street at a quick pace and swung wildly around to East Front street.

The maddened animal had but reached the intersection of Park avenue when young Terrill leaped to the horse's head and hung on to the bridle, until the beast could be brought to a standstill. Subsequently the horse and rig were turned over to the owner.

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence.)

Dunellen, September 9.—One trouble which was experienced by the borough firemen in extinguishing the fire at Isaac Giddis' house a few days ago, was that the hose became clogged up with stones at three different times This made it necessary to detach the nozzle and knock the stones out thus losing many valuable minutes. A boroughite who knows says that any future trouble of this kind can be averted by occasionally blowing out the fire plugs. The company will be out for a drill Thursday, and every member is requested to be on hand.

Scotch Plains, Sept. 9.—Manager Johnston, of the baseball team, has one open date to be filled before closing the season. The local cranks would like to see it filled by a Plainfield team, the St. Mary's preferred, or with a picked nine from the several clubs of Plainfield. Such a game would cause a great deal of enthusiasm and settle the question as to which is the better club. The date is open.

Football will soon be the leading sporting feature in town. As soon as the baseball season closes an eleven will be organized and regular practice begun. There is good material for an eleven that would be a credit to the town, and it is hoped that the game will be supported as well as the ball games have been during the season.

INTERURBAN TROLLEY.

Scheme Planned to Connect Northern Counties of This State by High-Speed Electric Railroad.

A scheme to connect the northern parts of the State, by a high speed, electric railroad, is on foot, and H. C. Raynolds, of Morris county, who is engineering the movement, is endeavoring to enlist the financial aid of capitalists.

The plan is to construct a modern interurban railroad with improved facilities for carrring freight and express as well as passengers. According to Mr. Raynold's ideas connection will be made with the existing traction and steam roads in a number of counties. These connections will be made principally in Essex, Hudson, Union and Passaic counties and new lines will be extended across Morris and Essex counties. Adjoining counties will also be covered, as the intention is to run the road from the western border to the Delaware river.

A remarkable feature of the road will be that no highways are to be touched, the entire route covering private rights of way. All important traction companies in Pennsylvania, along the eastern border, will be touched by this system.

Complete surveys of a greater part of the line are on file. Mr. Raynolds, who resides at Whippany, desires to communicate with interested parties along the route.

LOST $40.

Dunellen Man Robbed This Morning While He Worked in the Barn.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, Sept. 9—William Henry Smalley was robbed of $40 this morning between the hours of 7 and 8 o'clock.

Mr. Smalley was working in the barn at the time and had left the money in a vest hanging in the house. A hired man who disappeared this morning is suspected. Constable Polhemus is looking for him.

PRAYED FOR PRESIDENT.

His Serious Condition Was Mentioned in Local Churches Yesterday.

At the various services in all the churches yesterday special prayers were offered for the speedy recovery of the President and for Mrs. McKinley and the Nation in their affliction.

During the course of the services in the majority of the churches appropriate remarks were made by the pastor concerning the dastardly attempt to end the life of the Chief Magistrate.

is the time to begin reading that great story which we have been promising you. It is written by Cutcliffe Hyne, and is entitled

The Lost Continent

A stronger story is seldom written. Of its kind we might truthfully say "there is none stronger." It savors of the style of Verne, but is stronger than Verne. The opening chapters appear in this paper

TO-DAY.

Read this much of the story with us, and we have no fear but that you will stay to complete it. It is sufficiently fascinating to hold the attention of all who once begin it.

English by Creoles.

The intelligent struggles of the Cuban teachers with English have furnished us with a good many pretty stories. One day not long ago the teachers were invited to some sort of an evening function at the Longfellow house on Brattle street. It happened that shortly before the hour for the assembly some ladies who were in front of that house were politely approached by a group of male Cuban teachers, who, with their hats in their hands, stood bowing. "If you please, dear madams," said their spokesman, "we are invited at this house to-night. We wish to attend. We were been on an excursion to the distance, and have not the time to go to our house. So that we wear, as you see, our day dress. Perhaps you can tell us if it would be permitted us to go to the reception in our day dress? If it would not, then certainly shall we take the time to go to our home and put on our night dress." The ladies assured them that they would do much better to go as they were than to put on their night dress, and they bowed gravely and gratefully and withdrew.—Detroit Post.

A Nelson Relic.

An interesting piece of history hangs around the section of the foremast of Nelson's flagship, the Victory, which King Edward has just presented, together with other relics, to the museum of the Royal United Service institution in Whitehall. The mast in question, the one against which the great admiral was leaning when he received his fatal wound at Trafalgar, was originally erected in a small temple in the grounds of Bushey lodge, then occupied by William IV., to whom it was presented. While there a pair of more than ordinarily aggressive robins built their nest in the shot-hole which went completely through the mast, and reared a brood of young ones, to which his majesty and Queen Adelaide were greatly attached. Subsequently the relic was removed to the dining-room, where it supported the famous bust by Chantrey; and upon the death of George IV. it was placed in the guard chamber at Windsor castle, with the inscription: "Auspice Gulielmo IV."—London News.

Did China Have a Noah?

A London paper has discovered a Chinese picture that represents—or is supposed to represent—Noah's ark resting on the top of Mount Ararat. The picture is of great antiquity. As is well known, the religious literature of almost every nation and race contains an account of a deluge, but a Chinese manuscript recently unearthed follows very closely the story as recorded in the Bible. It is particularly interesting in that the roof of the Chinese ark is of the gable variety associated with the Noah's arks which prove such entertaining toys for our youngsters. The Chinese picture, however, shows a double-storied vessel, and, so far from there being only one window in the roof, there are windows in every possible space.—Chicago Record-Herald.

A Record for Red Tape.

According to a Vienna correspondent, a fire recently broke out at Hermannsreuth, an Austrian village near the Bavarian frontier. A Bavarian fire brigade, which was stationed only three miles away, hastened to the rescue, but the Austrian custom-house authorities refused to allow the fire engines to pass the frontier before the usual tax on imported machinery was paid. The Bavarian firemen naturally turned back, and half the village was burned down before the nearest Austrian fire brigade was on the scene.—Detroit Free Press.

Girls and Boys in the Orient.

While the birth of a girl is not mourned over in France, as in certain oriental countries, still it certainly does not call forth the triumphant joy caused by the advent of a boy. The tiny outfit has been tied up with blue ribbons in expectation of the hoped-for boy; should a girl be born these are changed for pink.—Ladies' Home Journal.

United States Under Obligations to Exercise Police Control Over the Isthmus . . .

Trouble in Panama

French Engineers and Laborers Still at Work on the Canal Planned by De Lesseps . .

REVOLUTIONS in Central and South America are of such frequent occurrence that they attract very little attention in Europe or the United States, unless international interests or property are jeopardized. Just at present the two little South American states of Colombia and Venezuela happen to be in a state bordering both on warfare and rebellion, and the government at Washington has dispatched several war vessels to the scene of the threatened conflict for the purpose of protecting the Panama railway and preventing any interruption of traffic. The United States is bound to perform police duty of this sort by the treaty of 1848, which not only provides protection of the railway, but also protection of the sovereignty of Colombia and neutrality of the isthmus. The Panama railway connects the Atlantic with the Pacific. It was built by American engineers, with American money, but soon after its completion passed into the hands of European capitalists. Several times in the past threatened raids upon the railway have been prevented by American marines and guns, and the commercial nations of the world have always looked to the United States to keep the road open for traffic. The only compensation we have received for exercising such expensive paternal care over Colombia is the guarantee that vessels flying our flag shall receive the same privileges in the ports of the isthmus as those allowed the vessels of Colombia.

BIG DREDGE NOW AT WORK ON PANAMA CANAL.

It is not generally known that the famous Panama canal, which has swallowed up millions of French money, is being constructed under this same treaty; and should the stupendous engineering work planned by De Lesseps ever be completed it will be under the direct protection of the United States. An impression has been abroad for several years that the French canal project has been entirely abandoned. Such is by no means the case, however, for there are at the present time 4,000 laborers and engineers hard at work upon the gigantic waterway; and the men back of the enterprise claim that with the expenditure of $125,000,000 more the canal can be completed by 1910.

Active work on the canal was begun in 1881, and continued until 1889, when the company headed by De Lesseps was forced to go into liquidation. The enormous sum of $260,000,000, obtained by the sale of shares and bonds, mainly to the middle classes, and finally by lottery drawings, authorized by the French government, had been absorbed when the collapse came, and only about 14 miles of the ditch had been so far finished as to be navigable, this distance not including the six crossings of the Chagres river and the piercing of the Central Cordillera.

In 1894 a new company was formed to purchase the old one and complete the work. It began operations at once and just about one-half of the total distance of 46.2 miles is now completed. The new company has rejected the sea level plan, advocated by De Lesseps, and substituted a system of locks by which vessels are to be raised over Culebra hill. The Chagres river is to be utilized for filling the locks of the canal above the sea level (550 feet), and this will be done by creating two reservoirs or lakes, one across the valley of the Chagres at Bohio, the other at Alajueldo. These lakes are to be large enough to hold any ordinary flood, but in case of their being flooded the waters can be carried off by other channels than the canal.

Progressive Engineers Positive That the Single Track Saves Time and Wear and Tear

Electric Monorailroads

For Rapid Passenger Service the Behr System Seems to Be Without an Equal . .

THE science of engineering, like other technical and professional callings, numbers among its exponents many conservative leaders who look askance at any proposition or invention calculated to revolutionize theories dear to the heart of old fogyism.

Because railroad trains have ever since their introduction been run on two tracks, the wiseacres of the past and present have fought the monorail with a vindictiveness, the vigor of which almost equaled its lack of logic. They have evidently forgotten the lesson learned in the technological school days that a thing is not intrinsically bad simply because it calls for the employment of new ideas, new materials and a change in the established order of things.

The monorail idea was originated by Mr. F. B. Behr, a European engineer of note. It does away with the two-rail track and substitutes for it a single elevated track. The center of gravity of the train is brought beneath the point of suspension. The monorail itself is a stout metal, borne at the apex of transverse A standards, upon which the wheels sit. On each side of the standards run supplementary guide rails, which engage corresponding rollers on the car frame. Thus the vehicle is kept upright and prevented from swaying unpleasantly when going around curves. The standards are bolted down to sleepers of the ordinary pattern so that the permanent way is one long, low metallic viaduct.

STEAM MONORAIL TRACK AND ENGINE AT BALLYBUNION.

The monorail has passed successfully through the experimental stage. A short English line, known as the Ballybunion & Listowel Light railway, has been in successful operation for some time, and a longer line has been operated in Belgium, carrying both freight and passengers. Both are operated by steam, but a proposition is now before the British public for the immediate construction of an electric monorail line between Manchester and Liverpool, which is to develop a speed of between 110 and 120 miles per hour.

Some years ago it was proposed to build a monorail air line between Chicago and St. Louis, but the project was allowed to die out. Should the English line prove a success, however—and there is no scientific reason why it should not—the world would have to adopt the monorail system for rapid passenger service, in spite of the croakings of the hidebound conservatives. The public has ample reason to be interested in the monorail, because the saving in the cost of original construction and subsequent maintenance would make elevation not only possible, but advisable. It would do away with grade crossings and the killing of men and cattle, with coal smoke and dust, and promote communication between points that now seem far distant from each other.

By monorail express one could travel from Chicago to New York in eight hours; from Chicago to Milwaukee in 45 minutes; from Chicago to St. Louis in three hours. And what is quite as important, cars could be run at frequent intervals. An electric road has to have power distributed along its entire line, and it would be nearly as cheap to run 48 trains of one car each per day as 12 trains of four cars each. The only extra expense would be the wages of a few extra motormen and conductors, a mere trifle in the operation of a first-class railroad.

The monorail idea is based on correct principles, and that is why it will survive all attacks from interested sources, and monorail electric passenger service is an improvement that is bound to come, sooner rather than later.

A Woman Of the South

The selection, eminently fitting, of Miss Kate Gordon as secretary of the National American Woman Suffrage association recalls the public services she and some brave comrades rendered to their home city, New Orleans. The old Creole City was founded in 1717. It changed hands from French to Spanish and from Spanish back to French again, and, whichever race had it, the sanitation seemed a little worse than it was under the preceding rule. The lack of drainage and sewerage continued even after the city became part of the United States under the Louisiana purchase.

Louisiana, however, some years ago took a step forward. That was the passing of a law permitting women property owners to vote on all propositions to raise public revenues by levying a tax on real estate. This law was the redemption of New Orleans and the means of making it a beautiful, well drained and sewered modern city. The women did it, and their head and leader was a lovely, eloquent and accomplished young lady, Kate Gordon, who is now the secretary of the N. A. W. S. A.

"A PARLOR MEETING."

Miss Gordon's father and mother were both equal suffrage advocates and believed that a woman's home interests included also the sanitation, morality and good government of the city in which she lived. Miss Kate inherited these public spirited ideas as a duck inherits the knowledge how to swim.

The fight that meant, if successful, the cleaning up and rendering healthful of the whole ancient city was a great fight. The party of progress was headed by the mayor of New Orleans, Mr. Flower. It was desperately opposed by a large number of persons. Perhaps they thought they would take cold if their city got a housecleaning. It was odd, too, but the very hunkers who opposed the tax levy for sewering the city were the same hunkers that had opposed the women property owners' voting law. Conservative in one thing, conservative in all things, the case seemed hopeless, for the levy could not be carried without the ballot of the women and they—well, the very thought of voting was a specter of horror to them.

Then it was that Kate Gordon, a shining young St. George on the woman's side, entered the lists against the great dragon, Old Fogy. She herself called a mass meeting of citizens—men who were citizens and women who were half citizens. Mayor Flower presided, and some of the most influential gentlemen of Louisiana were upon the platform to encourage by their presence the girl speaker. She made an address which is talked of to this day in New Orleans, an address ringing, powerful. She said:

"I am going from house to house. I shall hold parlor meetings in every home that is opened to me to urge women to vote in favor of this tax. I shall tell them that the health—yes, the lives—of their children and families depends on the proper sanitation of the city."

Mrs. Waring, wife of the lamented sanitary writer and worker, George E. Waring of New York, sat on the platform too. She had never made a speech in her life, but, moved by the eloquence of Miss Gordon that night, she rose to her feet and spoke strong words for the good cause.

Kate Gordon was as good as her word. She went from house to house arguing, instructing, urging with all a girl's enthusiasm the necessity of at last putting New Orleans on a level with civilized cities elsewhere. Today she gave an oration in the splendid mansion of a new rich with a long purse. Tomorrow in the old French quarter it was a talk to conservative ladies with a long descent, and wherever she went this resourceful girl with the winning tongue and the earnest purpose brought the ladies over to her side. There are 15,000 women property owners in New Orleans. They turned out magnificently on election day and their vote carried the tax levy. Without their vote it would have been lost, and New Orleans might still have been in the condition of Manila and Havana before the American occupation. JANE STORY.

The Lost Continent

By CUTCLIFFE HYNE.

Published by Harper & Bros. Copyright, 1900, by Cutcliffe Hyne.

This story of "The Lost Continent" is the translation of an ancient manuscript found in a cave in the Canary Islands. It was written upon a peculiar substance, each sheet made up of two parts. One side resembled talc, and over the other side was spread a coating of dark coffee-colored material that resembled wax. A liberal translation gives the following story:

CHAPTER I.

MY RECALL.

The public official reception was over. The sentence had been read, the name of Phorenice the empress adored, and the new viceroy installed with all that vast and ponderous ceremonial which had gained its pomp and majesty from the ages. Formally, I had delivered up the reins of my government; formally, Tatho had seated himself on the snake-throne, and had put over his neck the chain of gems which symbolized the supreme office; and then, while the drums and the trumpets made their proclamation of clamor, he had risen to his feet for his first state progress round that gilded council chamber, as viceroy of the Province of Yucatan.

With folded arms and bended head I followed him between the glittering lines of soldiers, and the brilliant throng of courtiers, and chiefs, and statesmen. The roof-beams quivered to the cries of "Long live Tatho!" "Flourish the empress!" which came forth as in duty bound, and the new ruler acknowledged the welcome with stately inclinations of the head. In turn he went to the three lesser thrones of the lesser governors—in the east, the north, and the south, and received homage from each as the ritual was; and I, the man whom his coming had deposed, followed with the prescribed meekness in his train.

It was a hard task, but we who hold the higher offices learn to carry before the people a passionless face. Once, 20 years before, these same fine obeisances had been made to me; now the gods had seen fit to make fortune change. But as I walked bent and humbly on behind the heels of Tatho, though etiquette forbade noisy salutations to myself, it could not inhibit kindly glances, and these came from every soldier, every courtier, and every chief who stood there in that gilded hall, and they fell upon me very gratefully. It is not often that the fallen meet such tender looks.

Then, one behind the other, the new viceroy and the old, we marched with formal step over golden tiles of that council hall beneath the pyramid, and the great officers of state left their stations and joined in our train; and at the farther wall we came to the door of those private chambers which an hour ago had been mine own.

Ah, well! I had no home now in any of those wondrous cities of Yucatan, and I could not help feeling a bitterness, though in sooth I should have been thankful enough to return to the continent of Atlantis with my head still in its proper station.

Tatho gave his formal summons of "Open ye to the Viceroy," which the ritual commands, and the slaves within sent the massive stone valves of the door gaping wide. Tatho entered, I at his heels; the others halted, sending valedictions from the threshold; and the valves of the door clanged on the lock behind us. We passed on to the chamber beyond, and then, when for the first time we were alone together, and the forced etiquette of courts was behind us, the new viceroy turned with meekly folded arms, and bowed low before me.

"Deucalion," he said, "believe me that I have not sought this office. It was thrust upon me. Had I not accepted, my head would have paid forfeit, and another man—your enemy—would have been sent out as viceroy in your place. The empress does not permit that her will shall ever be questioned."

"My friend," I made answer, "my brother in all but blood, there is no man living in all Atlantis or her territories to whom I had liefer hand over my government. For 20 years now have I ruled this country of Yucatan, and Mexico beyond, first under the old king, and then as minister to this new empress. I know my colony like a book. I am intimate with all her wonderful cities, with their palaces, their pyramids, and their peoples. I have hunted the beasts and the savages in the forests. I have built roads, and made the rivers so that they will carry shipping. I have fostered the arts and crafts like a merchant; I have discoursed, three times each day, the cult of the gods with mine own lips. Through evil years and through good have I ruled here, striving only for the prosperity of the land and the strengthening of Atlantis, and I have grown to love the peoples like a father. To you I bequeath them, Tatho, with tender supplications for their interest."

"It is not I that can carry on Deucalion's work with Deucalion's power, but rest content, my friend, that I shall do my humble best to follow exactly on in your footsteps. Believe me, I came out to this government with a thousand regrets, but I would have died sooner than take your place had I known how vigorously the supplanting would trouble you."

"We are alone here," I said, "away from the formalities of formal assemblies, and a man may give vent to his natural self without fear of tarnishing a ceremony. Your coming was something of the suddenest. Till an hour ago, when you demanded audience, I had thought to rule on longer; and even now I do not know for what cause I am deposed."

"The proclamation said: 'We relieve our well-beloved Deucalion of his present service, because we have great need of his powers at home in our kingdom of Atlantis.'"

"A mere formality."

Tatho looked uneasily round the hangings of the chamber, and drew me with him to its center, and lowered his voice.

"I do not think so," he whispered. "I believe she has need of you. There are troublous times on hand, and Phorenice wants the ablest men in the kingdom ready to her call."

"You may speak openly," I said, "and without fear of eavesdroppers. We are in the heart of the pyramid here, built in every way by a man's length of solid stone. Myself, I oversaw the laying of every course. And besides, here in Yucatan, we have not the niceties of your old-world diplomacy, and do not listen, because we count it shame to do so."

Tatho shrugged his shoulders. "I acted only according to mine education. At home, a loose tongue makes a loose head, and there are those whose trade it is to carry tales. Still, what I say is this: The throne shakes, and Phorenice sees the need of sturdy props. So she has sent this proclamation."

"But why come to me? It is 20 years since I sailed to this colony, and from that day I have not returned to Atlantis once. I know little of the old country's politics. What small parcel of news drifts out to us across the ocean reads with slender interest here. Yucatan is another world, my Tatho, as you in the course of your government will learn, with new interests, new people, new everything. To us here Atlantis is only a figment, a shadow, far away across the waters. It is for this new world of Yucatan that I have striven through all these years."

"If Deucalion has small time to spare from his government for brooding over his fatherland, Atlantis, at least, has found leisure to admire the deeds of her brilliant son. Why, sir, over yonder at home, your name carries magic with it. When you and I were lads together, it was the custom in the colleges to teach that the men of the past were the greatest this world has ever seen; but to-day this teaching is changed. It is Deucalion who is held up as the model and example. Mothers name their sons Deucalion, as the most valuable birth-gift they can make. Deucalion is a household word. Indeed, there is only one name that is near to it in familiarity."

"You trouble me," I said, frowning. "I have tried to do my duty for its own sake, and for the country's sake, not for the pattings and fondlings of the vulgar. And besides, if there are names to be in every one's mouth, they should be the names of the gods."

Tatho shrugged his shoulders. "The gods? They occupy us very little these latter years. With our modern science, we have grown past the tether of the old gods, and no new one has appeared. No, my Lord Deucalion, if it were merely the gods who were your competitors on men's lips, your name would be a thousand times the better known."

"Of mere human names," I said, "the name of this new empress should come first in Atlantis, our lord the old king being now dead."

"She certainly would have it so," replied Tatho; and there was something in his tone which made me see that more was meant behind the words. I drew him to one of the marble seats, and bent myself familiarly toward him. "I am speaking," I said, "not of the new viceroy of Yucatan, but to my old friend Tatho, a member of the priests' clan, like myself, with whom I worked side by side in a score of the smaller home governments, in hamlets, in villages, in smaller towns, in greater towns, as we gained experience in war and knowledge in the art of ruling people, and so tediously won our promotion. I am speaking in Tatho's private abode, that was mine own not two hours since, and I would have an answer with that plainness which we always then used to one another."

The new viceroy sighed whimsically. "I almost forget how to speak in plain words now," he said. "We have grown so polished in these latter days, that mere bald truth would be hissed as indelicate. But for the memory of those early years, when we expended as much law and thought over the ownership of a hoybyre as we should now over the fate of a rebellious city, I will try and speak plain to you even now, Deucalion. Tell me, old friend, what is it?"

"What of this new empress?"

He frowned. "I might have guessed your subject," he said.

"Then speak upon it. Tell me of all the changes that have been made. What has this Phorenice done to make her throne unstable in Atlantis?"

Tatho frowned still. "If I did not know you to be as honest as our Lord the Sun, your questions would carry mischief with them. Phorenice has a short way with those who are daring enough to discuss her politics for other purposes than politely to praise them."

"You can leave me ignorant if you wish," I said, with a touch of chill. This Tatho seemed to be different from the Tatho I had known at home—Tatho my workmate, Tatho who had read with me in the college of priests, who had run with me in many a furious charge, who had labored with me so heavily that the people under us might prosper. But he was quick enough to see my change of tone.

"You force me back to myself," he said, with a half-smile, "though it is hard enough to forget the caution one has learned during this last 20 years, even when speaking with you. Still, whatever may have happened to the rest of us, it is clear to see that you at least have not changed, and, old friend, I am ready to trust you with my life if you ask it. In fact, you do ask me that very thing when you tell me to speak all I know of Phorenice."

I nodded. This was more like the old times, when there was full confidence between us. "The gods will it now that I return to Atlantis," I said, "and what happens after that the gods alone know. But it would be of service to me if I could land on her shores with some knowledge of this Phorenice, for at present I am as ignorant concerning her as some savage from Europe or mid-Africa."

"What would you have me tell?"

"Tell all. I know only that a she, a woman, reigns, where, by the ancient law of the land, a man should rule; that she is not even of the priestly clan from which the law says all rulers must be drawn; and that, from what you say, she has caused the throne to totter. The throne was as firm as the everlasting hills in the old king's day, Tatho."

"History has moved with pace since then, and Phorenice has spurned it. You know her origin?"

"I know only the exact little I have told you."

WICKED-LOOKING WEAPON.

Description of the Mauser Pistol That Is to Be Used by United States Cavalrymen.

"The new Mauser pistol, with which our cavalry is about to be armed, is a horrible looking piece of machinery," said an esthetic sportsman the other day. "It doesn't resemble a firearm at all, but looks like some strange scientific instrument, such as one might see in a laboratory. Imagine a cigar box japanned black, with a handle at one end and a short tube at the other, and there you have it. The box contains the mechanism and the tube spouts bullets. The cavalryman of the past was a dashing figure. He wore a steel cuirass and a helmet with nodding plumes, and while he carried a brace of pistols in his holsters, his real weapon was his trusty saber. Do you remember the splendid fellows who are galloping past Napoleon in Meissonier's '1807'? Since then science has gradually sucked all the poetry out of war and the Mauser pistol is the last work of brutal utilitarianism. The cavalryman of the future will carry nothing but a small black walnut box, and will closely resemble a surgeon going out to operate for appendicitis. When he gets to the right spot, designated by the engineer corps, he will dismount, open the box, take out his hideous Mauser machine, hook the case to one end, so as to form a shoulder rest, spray a few quarts of projectiles in a given direction and go home again to rest after the fatigue of the fray. If the calculations of the range finder are all right his bullets perforate somebody a mile away. That will be war a la mode. In some respects it is a great improvement on the old style, but it will inspire no poets. Imagine Tennyson writing the 'Charge of the Light Brigade' about a cavalry regiment armed with Mauser automatics."—Chicago Chronicle.

THOMAS J. PHILLIPS.

Democratic Nominee for Governor of Iowa Is a Business Man of High Standing.

T. J. Phillips, of Ottumwa, democratic nominee of Iowa, was born in Myrtherville, South Wales, February 9, 1841. He emigrated to America with his parents in 1848 and settled in St. Louis. Later he removed to the coal fields in northern Missouri, where he was employed as a miner.

After reaching manhood his employers, recognizing him as a leader of men and as an expert in the coal-mining business, made him superintendent of the works. This position he held for some years until called to the service of the White Breast Fuel company as superintendent of the mines at Cleveland, Ia., in 1880. From that time his rise in the coal business has been rapid. He was advanced from one position to another until he was made general superintendent of the company's business, which position he now holds.

Mr. Phillips was twice elected mayor of the city of Ottumwa on the democratic ticket. He succeeded himself in 1899 and was defeated for a renomination by the present mayor, T. J. Pickler, a democrat. His popularity was such that he was urged to make the race on an independent ticket, but refused, preferring to stay by the party. Factional differences contributed to his defeat in the city convention.

Mayor Phillips ran things on a liberal scale, taking the ground that municipal needs were served the better in that manner. He knows a majority of the coal miners in the state, of whom there is no inconsiderable number, by name. His standing with them is of the best. He is known as the friend of the laboring man and is a public-spirited citizen, as attested by his action in working for the erection of the $50,000 Carnegie free public library as against determined opposition among the leaders of his own party in Ottumwa.

As a speaker Mr. Phillips lays no claim to distinction. He is a business man and has made a success at it. He has a charming wife who aids him in his ambitions.

CATHOLIC ACTIVITY.

Many Churchmen Expect the Calling of Another Plenary Council in the Near Future.

It is thought to be more than likely that Cardinal Gibbons will soon announce the date for another plenary council. Important questions await action by such body, among them the salaries of priests, the relations of seculars and regulars, advanced education and province divisions. There is, also, a large matter not capable of being legislated upon. It is the employment of the church in America as a base for restoring Catholic prestige in Europe. The pope has had this thought in mind more than any other one in all of his interviews with American archbishops and bishops who have visited him during the past five years. He is known to have mentioned it to Archbishops Corrigan and Ireland when they last saw him, and it was one of the considerations which brought Archbishop Keane back two years ago to labor for the Catholic university. The church in Cuba and the Philippines is not giving the Vatican any marked concern. Interests there are small when compared with interests in Italy and the other Latin countries, especially in France. Whatever Cardinal Gibbons chooses to give out, Catholic public opinion expects to see things in America so shaped during the next decade as to make Catholic prosperity here help Catholic interests across the Atlantic.

A Floral Weather Prophet.

The marigold is a little weather prophet. If the day is going to be fine the flower opens about five or six o'clock in the morning; but if wet weather is in store the marigold does not open at all.

SPORTING.

AMONG THE STEPPERS.

Because of the attempted assassination of President McKinley and the consequent sorrow which is felt by all Plainfielders, there was no racing at the Plainfield Driving Park Saturday. Eight of the local horses were there and did only enough work to keep them in good condition. The few spectators who were present appreciated the situation and were not disappointed.

Great preparation is being made for the all-day meet to be held at the Fair Acres Driving Club's half mile track in Westfield Saturday, September 28, and it is expected there will be horse owners from all sections of the county in attendance to compete for prizes in the several events of the day.

The programme will include a three-quarter mile race, open class. A show class for trotters, horses to count 60 per cent., equipage 40 per cent., a show class for pacers as above. The entrance fee will be $2. First prize, $20; second prize, $10.

There will be an open class for jumpers, the horses to jump in front of the grandstand. Entrance fee. $3. Prizes, $25 and $10. There will be an exhibition of brood mares with foal at side, open to all. Entrance fee, $1. Prizes, $15 and $5. Also a stallion class kept for service. Entrance fee, $2 Prizes, $15 and $10. Breeding conformation and ring manners are to be considered.

The Æolian Band has been engaged for the occasion. Entries in the several events close the 21st inst., with Harry P. Condit, at Westfield.

GOLF.

Frank O. Reinhart, who is entered in the amateur championship tourney at Atlantic City, visited the course Wednesday for the first. He made a round in 79, within one of the record of the course at that time. It is predicted that he and Talmage will qualify for play in the tournament.

The regular play for the Fisk cup will be the attraction at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course next Saturday afternoon. This cup is given by Mrs. Charles J. Fisk and is for women, competition for active, associate and junior associate members, to be played for each month, except August, until October, the four winners to play off at (handicap) match play, no one being allowed to score more than one preliminary win for the cup.

ON THE DIAMOND.

The St. Mary team took part in a game of baseball yesterday at Elizabeth defeating the Y. M. C. L. A. by a score of 22 to 19. The St. Mary battery was Hewitt and Barry.

The Clinton Avenue baseball team journeyed to Metuchen Saturday afternoon and defeated the representative team of that place. It was a very exciting game and ended in a score of 8 to 6. The Clinton Avenue battery was Squier and Matthewson.

GOOD MUSIC.

Geo. E. Hall and Male Quartette at Wilson Memorial Chapel.

The service at the Mary E. Wilson Memorial chapel last evening was largely attended and much interest was manifested. The speaker was George E. Hall and his remarks were very interesting. During the service a number of well rendered selections were given by a quartette composed of E. Maxwell Honeyman, first tenor; Harry Yeager, second tenor; Sydney B. Titsworth, first bass; and Henry Baldwin Drake, second base. The hymns, "I Am a Stranger Here" and "Homeland" were especially pleasing.

Millinery Exhibit.

Adams & Chapman announce their first exhibit of fall and winter millinery, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, September 10, 11 and 12. Miss Chapman has spent much time in New York getting up very stylish patterns, which they will be pleased to show on the above mentioned day.

Becomming Acclimated.

The new horse purchased for the fire department is gradually becoming use to this climate and is recovering from a severe illness. It is a Western horse and when brought East was very ill. It is believed that when it gets well it will make one of the best horses for fire department work.

TESTIMONIAL TO ORCHESTRA.

SUBSCRIPTION HOP AT GIVEN NETHERWOOD SATURDAY EVENING.

Was a Brilliant Affair and Largely Attended—Selected Concert Given Last Evening.

The testimonial dance at the Hotel Netherwood Saturday evening surpassed the expectations of the committee of arrangements in the success it achieved. Fully three hundred people from social sets in the metropolis, this city and elsewhere, made up the brilliant gathering and every one was enthusiastic over the affair.

For some time past the guests at the resort have desired to demonstrate in some way the appreciation felt for the musical treats given by William Stanton's Orpheus Club Orchestra during the season. This desire crystalized in the form of a subscription hop, which took place according to the announcement made a short time ago. L. deL. Cammann, Ricardo Struller and H. L. Baich took charge of the festivities and spared no pains to make it an event of the season.

In the large and well waxed ball room the walls were adorned with American bunting interspersed with the National flag. Naturally the tasty arrangement of the decorations were a feature of the affair. Throughout the evening the dance floor was taxed to the utmost capacity.

Few musical programmes have been so well selected as the one rendered on this occasion. Catchy popular airs, college song selections and operatic music constituted the bill. "Coon, Coon, Coon," "Tell Me Pretty Maiden" as well as pieces from "Floradora" and "San Toy" caught the attentive ears of the assemblage and brought forth considerable applause. In all eighteen selections were given during the evening and it was midnight when the music ceased.

Another entertainment of an entirely different nature was given yesterday evening. It was the customary weekly sacred concert. An enjoyable programme was effectively rendered by the orchestra and a large number of guests shared the benefits of the pleasing selections. Bizet's composition of the "Agnus Dei" and Flotow's "Prayer from Stradella" were among the many numbers.

PROMOTIONS ON THE CENTRAL

JOHNK. LARGE ADVANCED TO CHIEF CLAIMS AGENT.

William J. Dougherty Appointed Chief of Railway Police—His Rapid Rise in Five Years.

Deserving promotions of two well known officers of the New Jersey Central Railroad, to both of which are attached local interest, were announced by Acting General Superintendent W. W. Wentz, Jr., Saturday. One of the rewards belongs to John K. Large and the other to William J. Dougherty, of Dunellen.

Mr. Large, who for a number of years has filled the position of chief special officer, has been advanced to the office of chief claims agent. In this capacity he will have charge of the settlement of all damage claims, arising through negligence, causing injury or loss of life, as well as all claims of a civil nature.

The honor which comes to Mr. Dougherty is his selection to fill the position of chief of police. On the retirement of Mr. Large, the office of chief special officer was abolished and in its place was instituted the position of chief of police. It will be Mr. Dougherty's duty to control the policing of the entire road. From New York to Scranton and Wilkesbarre and over the Long Branch Railroad his jurisdiction will extend.

The rapid rise of Mr. Dougherty attests the fact that he is an efficient police officer. Eight years ago he was elected a constable in Middlesex county and, after filling that position creditably for three years, he accepted a situation as a special officer of the railroad. He has been an incumbent of this position for the last five years and hence is ably qualified to discharge the duties of the office to which he has been advanced. The honor came unsought and naturally Mr. Douherty appreciates the compliment paid to him by his superiors.

Planning For Winter.

The members of the Plainfield Camera Club are planning to give a series of "lantern-slide" entertainments during the winter, similar to those given last year.

Benefit Entertainment.

An entertainment will be given in Bethel chapel Thursday evening, September 19, for the benefit of the chapel.

APPOINTED BANK CASHIER.

E. H. BONNELL CHOSEN TO IMPORTANT POST IN ORANGE.

Appointed Cashier of Second National Bank—Will Move to Orange Shortly.

Elias Herbert Bonnell, of East Fifth street, has been appointed cashier of the Second National Bank, of Orange. He entered upon his new duties last week and will shortly remove to that city. The Orange Journal, Saturday evening's edition, publishes an excellent cut of Mr. Bonnell with a sketch of his life.

Mr. Bonnell, who succeeds Charles H. Ely, is descended from the distinguished French-Huguenot family of that name (originally spelled Boinell) 400 years ago) who settled in this State early in the seventeenth century. They came to this country owing to the persecution incident to the revocation of the Edict of Nantes, settling first on Long Island. Nathaniel Bonnell, (or Bonnel) according to Ricord's History of Union county, removed to Elizabethtown in this State and became one of the first company of "Elizabeth Town Associates." The forefather of Mr. Bonnell was the first mayor of Elizabeth and the first mayor elected in New Jersey. The family became influential, particularly in Morris and Union counties. Jonathan Crane Bonnel, who was born in Chatham in 1790, was one of the projectors of the Morris and Essex Railroad, negotiating the purchase of the right of way for the line from Newark to Morristown and partly the purchase of the right of way for the road's extension from Morristown to Easton, Pa.

Elias Herbert Bonnell was born in Springfield, Union county, his father, David Oliver Bonnell, at that time owning a good deal of the land between Springfield and Elizabeth. The old homestead between Elizabeth and Springfield, where his great grandfather was born, still stands. Mr. Bonnell was educated at DeRosset Academy in Short Hills. On leaving school he entered the Garfield National Bank, as a floating clerk and in two years succeeded in being promoted to the place of teller. Since then he has filled every place in the bank up to the officers of the bank, having gained the fullest respect and confidence of the president and directors of that institution. During that time he resided in this city.

Mr. Bonnell is a bachelor and is fond of out-door sports and is especially devoted to horseback riding. He has traveled extensively over this country having visited every place of interest in it. He will take up his residence in Orange shortly. In the meantime he is making rapid progress in becoming acquainted with the customers of the bank.

Mistaken Identity.

August Holtberg was arraigned in the City Court this morning charged with insulting a woman on Watchung avenue last evening. As the defendant claimed it was a case of mistaken identity and the complainant was not present to press the charge, the case was dismissed.

Mrs Russ was born in Germany and has lived in Plainfield twenty-nine years. She was a faithful member of the German Reformed church. Two daughters, Mrs. Andrew Brown, of Newark, and Miss Katy Russ, of this city, and five sons, William, James, John, Peter and Christopher Russ, also of this city, survive her.

CAMP WOOLFE ENDS THIS YEAR'S ACTIVITY.

Farewell Meeting Was Held at Westfield Fresh Air Camp Last Evening.

MANY ENDEAVORERS THERE.

IMPRESSIVE SERVICE CONDUCTED BY A. N. PIERSON.

A Number of Addresses Were Made and There was Rousing Singing by the Endeavorers—Substance of the Remarks.

A farewell service was held last night at Camp Woolfe, Westfield, on the occasion of the closing of the fresh-air mission work for the season. The camp guests had nearly all returned to New York, but Miss Curry, matron of the camp, was present, and there was a considerable attendance of interested workers from Elizabeth, Plainfield, Rahway and other towns, as well as from Westfield.

As one trolley car after another brought a new company of Endeavorers, the young people scattered through the grounds, some of them amusing themselves with the children's roller toboggan slide, the cars of which presented a weird appearance rushing through the darkness; others visited the various buildings that have been a pleasant home to so many tired and sick New York women and children.

The ringing of the dinner bell announced the beginning of the meeting, which was led by Arthur N. Pierson, of Westfield, first vice-president of the Union Fresh Air Mission Association.

After a short service of song, which included "America" and Mr. McKinley's favorite hymn, "Lead, Kindly Light," prayer was offered by Rev. Ernest L. Fox, of the East Eleventh Street Mission, New York.

The treasurer's report was presented by Lawrence A. Clark, of Westfield, and stated that the total receipts for the year, chiefly gifts from young people's societies, had been $1,779.59, and the disbursements $1,674.50, leaving a balance of $105.09, which would fully cover the closing expenses.

D. M. Torrey, of Westfield, told of the helpful Sunday meetings held during the summer, and Miss Sara Curry, the matron, spoke briefly of the blessed experiences of the year, and thanked all the workers for their kindness and help. John T. Sprowle, of the Essex County Christian Endeavor Union, had something to say of the fresh air work carried on in that county, and urged the Union county Endeavorers to do their very best in carrying forward God's work.

Testimonials of gratitude, in the shape of handsome books, were presented to some of the women who have assisted Miss Curry at the camp, and the meeting closed with a roll-call of the societies in the association, each society responding with a consecration verse.

FAREWELL SERMON.

Preached by Rev. William Trebert at St. Peter's German Lutheran Church.

A farewell sermon was preached at St. Peter's German Lutheran church Sunday morning by the retiring pastor, Rev. William Trebert. He spoke touchingly of his relations as pastor to the congregation and wished the flock all possible success.

After the service the clergyman bid good-bye to the members personally. This morning he left for Narrowsburg, a suburb of Middletown, N. Y., where he has accepted a call as pastor of St. Peter's Lutheran church of that city.

NO SUCCESSOR CHOSEN.

Pulpit of Hope Chapel is Stil to Be Filled.

As yet the Session of the Crescent Avenue church has selected no one to fill the vacancy at Hope chapel, caused by the resignation of Rev. G. K. Newell, and in all probability none will be for some time. The members of the Session are desirous of securing a pastor who will be the unanimous choice of the Hope chapel congregation. In the meantime the pulpit will be occupied by various divines.

No Stone Walk Yet.

As yet a stone walk has not been laid on the west side of Madison avenue between Front street and the bridge. It is now some time since Madison avenue was opened into the borough, the street macadamized and the bridge built, but no efforts have been made to place the proper kind of a walk on the west side of the avenue.

QUIET WEDDING IN DUNELLEN

MISS JENNIE L. REEVES MARRIED TO HARRY HAYES, OF BROOKLYN.

Ceremony Took Place at Bride's Home Yesterday Afternoon—Ceremony Was a Pretty One.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, Sept. 9—Miss Jennie Lee Reeves, of this town, was quietly married to Harry Hayes, of Brooklyn, N. Y., at the home of Mrs. L. W. Clark, by Rev. L. K. Moore, pastor of the Methodist church of Jamaica, N. Y., at four o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The bride was becomingly gowned in white lace trimmed with white ribbons. She carried a beautiful bouquet of bridal roses. The bridemaid was Miss Grace Tripp, who was gowned in pink point d'esprit, over pink silk. She also carried pink roses. The best man was Dr. J. R. Hayes.

A romance is woven about the life long courtship of this couple who consumated their troth by this marriage. The wedding day was also the anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Reeves and that of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hayes, all of whom are intimately connected with the young couple.

Mrs. Hayes was gowned in black crepon over white silk and a Persian yoke, while Mrs. Reeves wore black silk.

Mrs. Carpenter played the Mendelssohn wedding march, while during the ceremony "The Voice That Breathed on Eden" was played.

The parlor in which the marriage took place was tastefully decorated with white clematis.

The wedding supper was served at 4:30 o'clock, after which Mr. and Mrs. Hayes left via the New York Central for a secret destination about which many mysterious hints were heard.

The guests were Dr. and Mrs. Richardson, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Thompson, of New Market; Mrs. W. F. Clark, of Connecticut; Mrs. A. Dwenger, of Brooklyn; Mrs. Henry, of Newark; Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Reeves, of Brooklyn; the Misses Helen and Edna Reeves, Mr. and Mrs. A. VanArsdale and Miss Sadie Tripp.

There were many presents, the value of which testified to the popularity of the young recipients.

Mr. and Mrs. Hayes, after returning from their honeymoon trip, will reside at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hayes, of New Market.

NO ANNIVERSARY.

In Place Of The Usual Anniversary Celebration—There Will be Reading Of Reports.

The Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church held its regular business meeting last evening. The president, Edgar F. Sheppard, occupied the chair. The report of the prayer meeting committee showed an average attendance for the month of August of fifty-seven.

In response to an appeal to help the famishing Chinese, the society voted to give $5 from the treasury for this object. The executive committee of the society at a recent meeting thought it would be a good idea not to have the usual anniversary celebration of the society this year, but simply to prepare and read annual reports at that time.

President Sheppard appointed A. L. Force, Fred E. Smith, E. P. Wheeler, Miss Mary M. Pugh and Miss Anna Searing a committee to nominate officers for the ensuing year. The committee will report at the October business meeting.

BADLY BEATEN BY ROWDIES.

INTOXICATED MEN SET ON PATRICK BREEN AT TROLLEY TERMINUS.

Winfield Chase, Jr., And Thomas Wearren Accused Of Being Among The Assailants.

Patrick Breen, of West Third street, appeared in the City Court this morning as complainant against Winfield Chase, Jr., and Thomas Wearren, two young men who live in the vicinity of the Eight Row, charging them with committing an assault upon him near the Dunellen trolley terminus, last evening. Both pleaded not guilty and they were released on their own recognizance to appear for trial Saturday morning.

In his complaint, Breen alleges that he was waiting for a car in company with his family, and that the accused and several other young men were making themselves obnoxious in the trolley station. He remonstrated with them and was rewarded by being set upon and badly beaten. Chase and Wearren were the only ones of his assailants whom he says he recognized and both were arrested and locked up.

It is alleged that numerous complaints have been made to the police in regard to the rowdyism which goes on at the terminus station and steps will be taken to put a stop to it.

SAW THE STRUGGLE.

Pial fielders Were On The Scene When Attempt Was Made.

Henry Unrhan, of Somerset street, and David Lawson, of New Market, returned home Saturday evening from a weeks visit at the Pan-American Exposition. The former was at one of the entrances to the Temple of Music when President McKinley was shot and witnessed the exciting incidents which followed. Both were witnesses of the proceedings attendant upon the removal of Czolgosz from the building, when the crowd attempted to stay the progress of the carriage.

Fired at Prowlers.

The watchman at the Pond Tool Works extensions, discovered at 10 o'clock Sunday evening, what he thought to be lumber stealers, skulking about the yards. He fired four shots at several shadowy figures which immediately disappeared. The shooting attracted the attention of the neighborhood and also Patrolman Saunders, who assisted in making an investigation, but no prowlers were discovered.

W. C. T. U. Annual Meeting.

COUNCIL OPENED BIDS FOR STREET WORK.

Bids For Extension of Storm Sewers Were Also Received and Opened.

AWARDS TO BE MADE LATER.

C. M. MEEKER THE ONLY BIDDER ON THE MACADAMIZING.

License Transferred From F. W. Jones to George O. Stevens, Assignee—No Other Business—Will Meet Again in a Week.

President Dumont and Councilmen Clifton, VanHerwerden, Tolles, Buckle, Mellick and Gloak were present at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council held last evening. Aside from the reception of bids for building storm sewers and macadamizing certain streets about the city, little else was done.

In accordance with a motion by Mr. Tolles the regular order of business was suspended to receive the bids for extending the storm sewers. There were four bids as follows: Harrison Construction Company, of Newark; C. M. Meeker, of this city; Patrick J. Plunckett, of Jersey City; John Discoll, of Orange. The chief items in the bids were for eighteen and twenty-four-inch pipes and the prices ranged from seventy-six cents to $1 for eighteen-inch pipe and $1.36 to $1.75 for twenty-four-inch pipe. C. M. Meeker was estimated to be the lowest bidder, it being considered that his bid was nearly $800 below the other figures submitted.

The totals will be figured by the street committee after which the committee will decide whether to extend the sewer according to the provisions of the ordinance, or do a part of the work this year. The bids were submitted on that basis, that is part or all the work would be done.

There was only one bid received for macadamizing streets as specified in the ordinance recently adopted, and that was from C. M. Meeker, of this city. His bid for First, Second and Third places was fifty-nine cents per running foot. The bid for West Sixth street was sixty cents, Orchard place, sixty-two cents, and Carlton avenue, fifty-nine cents. The street committee estimated the cost of the work on a basis of sixty cents, and Mr. Meeker's bid is considered most favorable.

Mr Gloak reported back the petition received from George O. Stevens, in which the latter asked the Council to transfer a liquor license from Frederick W. Jones to himself, so that the business can be finally settled. The request was granted, and Mr. Stevens, who is the assignee, will now proceed to follow out the directions of the court.

There was no other business to consider and the Council adjourned to Monday evening, September 16, when several matters will be brought up.

AWHEEL TO THE LAKE.

After Sundry Adventures With Fish and Mosquitoes, They Returned.

Vincent B. Miner, of Lafrande avenue, and Fred VanAuken, of East Sixth street, returned awheel Saturday after a trip to Lake Hopatcong. When they left here Friday they were accompanied by Lawrence Whitall, of East Fifth street. They found the wheeling delightful, but a hoodoo seemed to hang over VanAuken and he had no end of trouble with his wheel. It finally broke down and so he returned on Whitall's, the latter bringing home VanAuken's disabled steed on the train. They camped out on the shores of the lake and have some wonderful stories to relate as to fish and mosquitoes.

JUST TO MAKE A NOISE.

As That was Only Object of Italian's Fusilade Sentence was Suspended.

Sentence was suspended on Georgia Dissipoto, of Paradise Alley, in the City Court this morning after he had been found guiltless of any intentional wrongdoing by shooting off firearms Sunday evening. He brought the revolver, which was of a small calibre, and a number of blank cartridges which he offered as evidence that he meant no harm. He was allowed to depart, after being warned to wait until the Fourth of July before rousing the neighborhood with pistol shots.

VERY YOUTHFUL VILLAINS.

FOUR SMALL BOYS HALED BEFORE JUDGE RUNYON.

Charged With Ill treating Little Girls—Boys Confessed To The Truth Of The Charges.

For downright depravity and youthful villainy, the record of a group of small boys who appeared before City Judge Runyon this morning, exceeds anything yet recorded in local police annals. At the present pace two are following, they will arrive at States prison before they are out of knickerbockers.

The culprits were Oliver Vitella, aged twelve, familiarly known as "Shoe strings", William Connett, aged eleven, Thomas Murphy and James McGrath, aged eight. Ben Hill and John Cavanaugh appeared but acted only as witnesses. The four were charged by Henry Liefke, of West Front street, with ill-treating and abusing his two little nieces, who were in the habit of playing along the banks of Green brook in the rear of their home.

Several times within the past few weeks the boys have caught hold of the girls and, after taking turns hugging and kissing them, tore their clothes and ill-treated them. The last occurrence took place Friday and was witnessed by Hill and Cavanaugh who told of it in court. None of the quartette, who could hardly be seen by the Judge over the top of his desk, denied the charges. In fact, from mutual accusations, it came out that Vitella and Murphy made a practice of seizing little girls and abusing them. Vitella, in particular, who was not the least abashed after spending the night in a cell, declared that he thought as much of colored girls as those of his own race.

On account of the extreme youth of the culprits, the Court could do nothing but administer a stern reprimand to all hands, giving Vitella and Murphy the brunt of it. Both have been in court several times on serious charges and, despite their tender ages, have secured a police record. The police were instructed to watch the twain for all offenses in the future.

ANNUAL OUTING.

Employes of Eastern Bottling Company Entertained by Frank Linke Sunday.

The members of the Eastern Bottling Company's Outing Club, held their annual clam bake Sunday, at Frank Linke's rest, near Smalleytown. They left this city early in the morning and on their arrival engaged in all kinds of games. One of the exciting features was a race between James O'Shea and three of Mr. Linke's pigs. The porker won out by two yards.

At noon, dinner was served consisting of blue fish, roast duck, chickens, clams and other edibles. It was in charge of Mrs. Frank Linke, assisted by the Misses Mary O'Shea, Bessie O'Sea and Annie Kane. After dinner, dancing was taken up, music being furnished by Professor John Winzenreid. The party returned home early in the evening, thoroughly tired but happy and thankful to Mr. and Mrs. Linke for the curteous treatment extended them.

Among those present were Frank Linke and family, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cleig, Mr. and Mrs. A. Bohren, William, Pangborn, Rudolph Kersting, Patrick Guinee, John Carney, James McEvoy, James O'Shea, William Mottley, Van Brown and Frank Runyon.

KEEP JUSTICE BUSY.

Another Plainfield Couple Wedded By Justice Mosher Sunday.

Another young Plainfield couple, with a desire to be made one, called at the home of Justice Mosher Sunday afternoon and requested him to do the honors. They were Joseph Harkins and Miss Etta VanNest, both of Watchung avenue.

The Justice complied with alacrity and tied the nuptial knot hard and fast. There was no one present beyond the needed witnesses. Both young people are very well known and have a large circle of acquaintances. They will take up their residence with the groom's parents on Watchung avenue.

Will Wait Further Action.

It is not generally believed that the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital will attempt to make any move concerning the new hospital until the next regular meeting, Monday, September 30. By that time all the members will be home from their vacations. As yet some of the members have not had an opportunity of seeing the plans submitted.

CITY AND BOROUGH SCHOOLS ARE OPEN.

Boys and Girls Gathered at the Public Schools After Long Vacation.

BIG ATTENDANCE AT ALL.

TWO NEW INSTRUCTORS AT CITY HIGH SCHOOL.

There Will be Over Three Hundred in City High School—Large Turnout in the Borough—Changes in Manual Training School.

From every direction this morning there seemed to come the boys and the girls wending their way towards the school houses, all prepared to take advantage of the Republic's greatest institution, free public instruction.

The countless numbers, which made their appearance in the vicinity of the various schools throughout the city and borough, would lead one to believe that it was a circus and not study that formed the incentive for the coming men and women to gather so early.

Smiling countenances and merry laughs reigned everywhere. In small groups at the many schools the pupils related to one another how the vacation had been spent, and likewise discussed the expectations of serious school works. The teachers were not lost sight of in the crowds. They seemed to be everywhere; greeting the pupils and mapping out their work at one and the same time.

At the City High School the scene was one of activity. Gathered in the assembly room, together with the prospective pupils, were the majority of the class of '01. Some new faces were to be seen and a few of them were among the teaching corps. Lindley Best, who succeeds Albert B. Meredith as instructor in science, and J. D. McNabb, who fills the vacancy caused by the resignation of George W. Sandford as instructor in the commercial branches, were there.

Principal I. W. Travell called the pupils to order at 9 o'clock and made a few introductory remarks after some formal exercises were finished. Mr. Travell welcomed the pupils and made reference to the gold en tie of friendship which binds the teacher and pupil.

After dwelling on the joy of the occasion, he introduced Superintendent H. M. Maxson. Mr. Maxson made a happy address of a seasonable character. Speaking of the past he referred to the absent faces and of the future the new ones, which took their places.

The relation of teacher and pupil and the importance of the task assigned to each were brought out in a pleasing and instructive manner.

An undoubtedly unintentional, but impressive incident, was the chorus singing of the hymn, "God of Our Fathers." The reference to the President in one of the stanzas, asking God to give him "sustaining trust and discerning sight," made all turn their minds to the unhappy condition of the Chief Magistrate now at Buffalo, and many sent up secret prayers for his speedy recovery.

Mr. Travell announced that as soon as possible the self-government plan would be again established in the High School.

There were 280 pupils present in the High School and it is expected by the principal that the number will be increased to over 300 before September elapses. Last year there were 275 pupils. In the entering class there are now ninety pupils, all told. This increase is common to all the schools in the city and borough.

Over in the borough the opening of the schools was marked by an unusual increase in the attendance. In fact, there exists an overflow in the number of pupils, particularly in the grammar department and second primary class.

Homer J. Wightman, the superintendent, was busily engaged during the entire morning making the necessary arrangements for the accommodation of the pupils. At last it was found that the capacity was taxed to its utmost, and some in lower grades, especially in the grammar, had to be turned away temporarily. The superintendent believes that it will be necessary to engage extra quarters for some of the pupils temporarily.

Never before were there so many applications for admission to the grammar and the kindergarten departments. The additional room fitted up in the Charles W. McCutchen Manual training building is already filled by the little youngsters. In the High School there are considerably

Does barbers in Philadelphia have established a rule in their establishments against "tipping" by customers. It is a good rule and should be enforced in restaurants as well as barber shops. In many places where tipping is practiced the proprietors pay low rates of wages, with the understanding that the employe can make up a fair wage out of his tips. This practically means that the customer must contribute to the expenses of the proprietor's business besides paying him a profit on the service given. The custom of "tipping," borrowed from Europe, has become wellnigh universal in American cities. It is un-American and should be abolished.—Newark Advertiser.

Many Democrats and several not well informed Republicans for several months have been asserting and reasserting that Major Carl Lentz, the chairman of the Essex County Republican committee, was opposed to and would never indorse the proposed nomination of Franklin Murphy for governor. The truth is that it has been as well known as any reasonable assurance could make it for a long time that Major Lentz was in favor of the nomination of Mr. Murphy, and would so declare himself at any time that he might consider an opportune moment. The report upon which the unauthorized spokesman for Major Lentz based his opposition to Mr. Murphy was that the latter had declined to assure the Major that he would, in the event of his election, appoint him as prosecutor of the pleas for Essex county. To men who know Mr. Murphy it is unnecessary to say a word in contradiction of this silly report. To others it ought to be sufficient to point to the fact that Major Lentz made one of the majority of the Essex County Republican committee that voted unanimously in favor of the nomination of Mr. Murphy.—New York Tribune.

CUBANS' DISTRUST.

General Wood Assures Them That Plans Are Unchanged.

HAVANA, Sept. 10.—La Lucha says the statement of Governor General Wood that the United States government has not changed its intention, but intends to establish the Cuban republic, must settle all doubt on the subject, although it supposes that the electoral law will have to go to Washington. "No one can prevent the United States," remarks La Lucha, "from establishing the republic, although the republic will not be a success if the proper elements are lacking. This time alone will show."

El Mundo says: "We do not wish to doubt Governor General Wood, although we have ample reasons for not believing in promises. We are accustomed to see hydra's teeth on all sides, and we cannot believe in anybody absolutely."

The Nuevo Pais observes, "The economic condition of Cuba is very bad, and there is liable to be trouble in the rural districts unless something is done to relieve the distress caused by the high duties levied upon Cuban sugar and tobacco in the American market."

It is expected that the government will require eight months for the work of establishment. The electoral law nominally calls for 137 days from the time of promulgation to the final consummation. There are several different elections, the last three lots coming at intervals of fifteen days. This period is thought a short time for the allowance of protests, the counting of votes and the settling of disputes, especially having regard to previous experience of elections here.

Probably the constitutional convention will dissolve as soon as the electoral law is promulgated and will not supervise the elections nor provide for the handing over of the government, as some delegates have desired. These matters General Wood says he intends to have carried through with the greatest care.

Mrs. Nation Convicted.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—Carrie Nation, the saloon smasher of Kansas, was before Magistrate Furlong in the Coney Island police court yesterday upon a charge of disorderly conduct because last Saturday night she destroyed a cigar stand in the Steeplechase. She said she was 55 years old and lived at 1284 Kansas avenue, Topeka, Kan. She was convicted of the charge of disorderly conduct, but sentence was suspended, and she was allowed to go. Magistrate Furlong in setting Mrs. Nation at liberty said, "I believe that the majesty of the law has been upheld now that you stand convicted." When Mrs. Nation got outside of court, she said Coney Island was a vile place.

Fisheries a Failure.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Sept. 10.—The Labrador steamer Home, which has arrived here, confirmed the report of the failure of the fishery along the northern section of that coast. A large number of fishing vessels are now returning, having abandoned the voyage, and several schooners have gone ashore, although there has been no loss of life. Forest fires in Newfoundland are growing extensive. Many houses in different parts have recently been destroyed, and the new lighthouses in the Bay of Islands narrowly escaped destruction.

Austro-Hungarian Crops Light.

BUDAPEST, Sept. 10.—The final official estimate for the season's crops in Austria-Hungary just issued shows the yield of wheat to be 34,500,000 metacenters, rye 11,500,000, barley 10,500,000 and oats 9,800,000. This represents a decline as compared with the yield of last year of 3,640,000 metacenters in wheat, 1,500,000 in barley and 500,000 in oats.

New York Port Duties.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—Reports received at the treasury department show that the amount of duties collected on personal baggage arrived at the port of New York during August was $103,290. Last August the amount was $34,930. For the last six months the amount was $404,938 as against $101,281 for the corresponding period last year.

REFORMS FOR CHINA.

Latest Imperial Edict Indicates Liberalism.

GREAT GOOD WILL PROBABLY RESULT

Minister Conger Reports Departure of Mr. Rockhill, the Protocol Having Been Signed—His Work at Peking Meritorious.

PEKING, Sept. 10.—The imperial edict issued recently providing for reform of the examinations seems to indicate that the Liberals are in control at the court, and its importance, if enforced, is difficult to overestimate. It provides that the examinations must include western history, western sciences and industrial methods. It abolishes the traditional eight part classical essays and verbatim reproductions of the classics, proficiency in which have been the chief qualification for officeholding. It relegates the classics to the background, requiring only expositions of their meaning.

General Yuan Shi Kai's troops are entering Peking and are assuming the work of policing the city.

Rockhill Leaves Peking.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—The following cablegram from Minister Conger was received at the state department, dated Peking, Sept. 9:

"Protocol signed Sept. 7. Rockhill left 8th."

Mr. Rockhill has been trying to start home from Peking since Aug. 15. He was authorized to leave then by Secretary Hay; but, naturally desiring to complete the important work he had undertaken in connection with the preparation of the protocol, he remained until the finishing touches had been added and the document signed. Mr. Rockhill has added greatly to the esteem in which he was held at the state department and in diplomatic circles by the skillful manner in which he conducted the negotiations for the United States under conditions that antagonized him with some of the most adroit diplomats of the world. He will now hasten home to be present at the pan-American congress in the City of Mexico next month.

The Chinese Plague.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—The marine hospital service continues the publication of letters from missionaries and others in China describing the progress of the plague. Rev. Jacob Speicher, Baptist missionary, writing from Kityang says: "The plague made its first appearance at Swatow about seven years ago and has since then spread in all directions along the coast and inland. Three years ago the large district city Changyang, ten miles south of Swatow, had a very bad spell. It is stated that over 20,000 persons died in that one city. Many villages between Canton and Lio, seventy miles inland from Swatow, have lost one-third to one-half of their inhabitants. When the plague appeared in Kityang, I suggested that the roof of every plague house be taken off and rebuilt after six months, but the officials would not listen to such a measure. In this benighted country nothing is done, the plague will have its run for years, and many overpopulated districts may be thinned out considerably. I have received word that the district city of Huilai, about thirty-five miles south of Kityang, has had an awful visitation this year."

Disastrous Chinese Floods.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—Under date of Shanghai, July 25, Consul General, Goodnow reports to the state department that the most disastrous floods are prevailing in the valley of the Yangtse river. He understands that they are the worst known by Europeans in that valley. All the towns in the neighborhood of Wuhu and Kiukiang are to a large extent under water. The farms, especially in the rice growing region about Wuhu, are so completely flooded that there is no hope for the crop this year. In addition to this, thousands of lives have been lost and unknown numbers rendered homeless by the overflow. The stoppage of trade is very serious. The destruction of the crops in the fields and particularly the probable loss of the rice crop in the region of Wuhu, the great rice exporting center, will probably add famine in the Yangtse valley to the other difficulties besetting the empire.

Shamrock Out For Trial.

SANDY HOOK, N. J., Sept. 10.—Shamrock II. went out for another trial spin yesterday afternoon. She carried a new mainsail, jib and club topsail and, beating around the Hook, made for the open sea to stretch them. A fair sailing breeze was blowing, and all conditions were favorable to a good tuning up. On board the green yacht were Sir Thomas Lipton, Mr. and Mrs. Jameson, Commodore Hilliard and Mr. Ratsey. Following close behind the challenger were the usual consorts, the steam yacht Erin and the tugs Unida and James A. Lawrence.

President's Recovery Seems Now to Be Assured.

PHYSICIANS GIVE HOPEFUL REPORTS

Mr. McKinley Himself Is Cheerful and Expresses Confidence of Ultimate Recovery—All Danger Is Not Yet Passed, However.

BUFFALO, Sept. 10.—"God's contribution to the American people will be the sparing of the president's life." As the evening shadows were falling last night John G. Milburn, president of the Pan-American exposition, reverently uttered these words as he stood before the house in which the nation's patient was fighting so bravely with death, and all who have been at the Milburn residence reflect the view that the battle will be won and the prayers of the world will be answered. Since Sunday night not an unfavorable symptom has appeared. Every hour has been a victory. Faith in the outcome grows stronger and stronger, and hope mounts higher and higher until in the minds of some the danger of all future complications is brushed aside and hope has become conviction. Indeed, many of the president's friends seem possessed with a sort of superstitious confidence in the president's recovery which nothing but an absolute change for the worse can shake, and the basis for the confidence that is expressed is solid. There has been nothing but improvement, gradual and slow, but steady improvement. Every bulletin, every private and public word of the physicians in attendance, breathes encouragement. The reports the physicians have given out are facts as they exist from a scientific standpoint unmixed with sentiment. Still, that the president is by no means out of danger is the verdict of each of them. Not one of them will risk his professional reputation with a statement that the president will live. All they will say is that with every hour the danger of complications from peritonitis or blood poisoning decreases. Dr. McBurney, the most eminent of the physicians in attendance, expresses the opinion that if the improvement continues it will be a week yet before the president can be pronounced out of danger and convalescent, and some of his colleagues, like Dr. Mann, place the limit of danger still farther away.

The following bulletin was issued by the president's physicians at 9:30 p. m.: "The president's condition continues favorable. Pulse, 112; temperature, 101; respiration, 27."

The president himself is cheerful and has expressed confidence in his recovery. Yesterday he asked for a morning paper, but this, of course, had to be denied him. It is with some difficulty that he can be restrained from talking, and Colonel Myron T. Herrick of Cleveland is quoted as authority for the statement that he has spoken at intervals of several things he proposes to do in the future.

Once he asked to be allowed to move his position, and when permission was given before the attendants could move him he changed to the position he desired to assume without difficulty or pain. This speaks much for his general strength and spirits. Mrs. McKinley saw him again yesterday for a brief visit, and Secretary Cortelyou was admitted for the first time. No one else was allowed to see him, although he inquired several times who were below stairs. He was given nourishment in the form of eggs beaten in milk administered through the rectum. The water, which has heretofore been given cold, did not appear to agree with him, and since Sunday night very hot water has been taken into the stomach through the mouth with splendid result.

So relieved are Secretary Gage and Attorney General Knox at the steady improvement that they have returned to Washington feeling strongly that their chief would recover, but with the assurance of the physicians that if a change for the worse should come it would be gradual and that they would have ample time to return. In the case of Secretary Gage there was also a public reason why he should be at his post. New York financiers have appealed to him to relieve the situation in the money market by increasing deposits in national banks, and he feels that he can hardly act at this distance from the scene if he finds that action is desirable. Secretary of State Hay has arrived and will remain with the other members of the cabinet at least for a day or two. The devotion of the members of the cabinet to their chief is touching. All of them desire to remain near him until the crucial period is passed, and Secretary Hitchcock and Secretary Wilson avow that only absolute and imperative public business will induce them to depart before the president is pronounced out of danger. Senator Hanna will also remain until the physicians give absolute assurance that Mr. McKinley will live.

Vice President Roosevelt has occupied a peculiarly delicate and trying position since the event which threatened the president's life, but he has borne himself throughout this ordeal in such manner as to win the admiration and respect of all. It has, moreover, added a new bond between the vice president and those intimately associated with the president, and the latter are warmest in their expressions of the manner in which he has met every requirement of the situation. Not for a moment has he permitted the idea to be entertained that there was need for considering the constitutional disability of the president and the exercise of executive functions which this would impose on him. On the contrary, Mr. Roosevelt has been one of the most positive in the conviction that the president would recover.

During the long period of Garfield's illness nice distinctions arose as to what constituted the disability of the president within the meaning of the constitution—whether when the physical faculties were benumbed while the mental faculties were unimpaired there was any disability as meant by the constitution. But fortunately there has been no such issue presented on this occasion, and the vice president himself has been primarily responsible for the avoidance of any thought of the temporary exercise of executive functions by him. Nor has there been any occasion for the exercise of executive authority, for such minor routine matter as it comes can readily be left until the present emergency has passed.

Twice during the day and again last evening the vice president called at the Milburn residence to inquire as to the president's condition. During the afternoon call he met several of the cabinet officers and Senator Hanna and spent a short time with them in informal discussion. On the streets Mr. Roosevelt has been a center of respectful attention, but he has met this with dignity and composure. Despite senseless remarks that he was going about guarded by secret service men, he has positively declined to have anything like a guard near him. One of his remarks, in speaking to two laborers who greeted him, struck a popular chord. They had suggested that he might be afraid to be stopped.

"No, indeed," he replied. "You men are our protection, and the foul deed of Friday will only make you more vigorous in protecting those whom you elect to office."

Emperor Nicholas gave happy expression to the worldwide solicitude over the president in a message addressed to the president, and after expressing his happiness at the president's improvement adds that he joins with the universal world in wishing a speedy recovery.

Dr. McBurney was asked to compare the Garfield case and its treatment with that of President McKinley. He smiled as he replied that to do so would be to give the whole history of the progress of surgery during the last twenty years. "Besides," said he, "the cases are utterly different. Garfield's wound was an extremely unfortunate one in every way. It was difficult to handle. It was impossible to get at the bullet, while the wound of President McKinley is in many respects a lucky one. No comparison is possible."

Turning to the press correspondent, Dr. McBurney said: "You can assure your clientele that all goes well. The president's condition could hardly be more satisfactory. Furthermore, you can impress and emphasize the fact that the bulletins issued state the truth."

Dr. Mann said that the president was not out of danger. He said that some nourishment had been administered through the rectum, and he had taken water in the stomach. It was found that cold water did not agree with him, and instead water as hot as the president can bear it is now being administered. The president's bowels have moved freely, and this is considered an excellent symptom.

Dr. P. M. Rixey, one of the president's attendant physicians and also the private physician of the president and Mrs. McKinley, says regarding the distinguished patient:

"I am not a specialist in abdominal surgery, but from a general knowledge of gunshot wounds I can say that the only possibility of complication was by blood poisoning or peritonitis and that I consider both now a very remote probability. Peritonitis might set in as a result of the two apertures in the stomach, but up to this time, a time beyond the usual standard record, not the slightest symptom is manifest. There is also not the slightest evidence of blood poisoning. As to the bullet not yet extracted, I do not believe we need worry about that. The presumption is that it is lodged somewhere in the muscles of the back. Pursuing natural courses, it would now be incrusted and cut off from possible harm. There will be no attempt to extract the bullet at present. Neither will there be any operation for its removal at present. I see no reason why the president will not recover rapidly."

Dr. Herman Mynter, one of the consulting physicians of President McKinley, says:

"I have always made it a point not to prognosticate in serious cases, for you know man proposes and God disposes. I consider the president's case a serious one, and so I do not predict, but I may say that at this stage of the occurrence the condition of the patient is quite remarkably favorable, and personally I cannot anticipate anything but recovery."

Dr. Eugene Wasdin says:

"I, too, am averse to making predictions, but I agree that the president's condition is one that strongly favors complete and rapid recovery."

CZOLGOSZ'S PUNISHMENT.

President's Assailant May Get Thirty Years.

BUFFALO, Sept. 10.—Despite the publication of several more or less sensational stories about alleged interviews with Czolgosz in his cell and alleged acts of petty spite toward him on the part of the police nothing of an unusual nature has occurred to him during his imprisonment. He is treated well, and he gets whatever conduces to his health and comfort. In fact, he is treated as any other prisoner would be, and the police have made it a point, at the suggestion of Secretary of War Root, to let nothing arise in the treatment of Czolgosz to cause him to think that he is in any way an exception to his fellow prisoners or a hero. His meals are plentiful and healthful, and he is permitted to smoke. The newspapers are denied him, however, but in that particular he is no exception.

The prisoner's health is good. He appears to have suffered no nervous strain since his arrest. His callers say that his manner is that of one who accepts his position as the natural consequence of what he has done, that he shows no signs of fear and that he seems satisfied that his deed was right.

District Attorney Penney has not questioned Czolgosz since Saturday night. Mr. Penney is authority for the statement that when Czolgosz is put on trial six separate counts against him will be included in the indictment and that he will be convicted on each count and that the total for the several offenses will aggregate a very considerable number of years' imprisonment. The counts in the list include two separate assaults upon the president, for which, it is said, twenty years' imprisonment can be inflicted; a charge of threatened assault against each of the three men who bore Czolgosz to the ground and captured him after the shooting of the president and last the charge of carrying concealed weapons. The penalties that can be inflicted upon conviction on the four charges named last are largely at the discretion of the court. They will aggregate something more than ten years, which raises the probable sentence to more than thirty years, a more fitting punishment for the crime than ten years, which was at first said to be the only punishment that could be administered.

Czolgosz, the assailant of President McKinley, went through another long examination at the hands of the police officials, but emerged from it without having added anything material to their knowledge of the case. The chief effort of the detectives was to draw from the prisoner some admission as to his accomplices, but he persistently stuck to his denial that he was assisted in any way in the commission of his crime. Every possible device was resorted to in the effort to obtain the information, but the prisoner maintained his position and could not be shaken.

Mail Carrier Loses His Job.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—Second Assistant Postmaster General Shallenberger has summarily canceled the contract of a mail carrier for expressing satisfaction over the shooting of President McKinley. The name of the person who was thus dealt with is Charles F. Cortright, and he had a contract for carrying the mail between Homer, Cortland county, N. Y., and Spafford, in Onondaga county, the same state. The information concerning his offense came to the postoffice department through the postmaster at Homer, who inclosed affidavits from four citizens of the place confirming his report. It appears that when Cortright first received announcement of the news of the attempt upon the president's life he remarked, with an oath, that he was "glad of it" and added that the president should have been killed years ago. Hearing of this remark three citizens of the town called upon Cortright and asked him if the report was correct, and he replied that it was. Upon receiving this information, duly supported by the oaths of the citizens who had heard this statement made, General Shallenberger took prompt steps to cancel Cortright's contract upon the ground that a person capable of such sentiments is not a fit custodian of the mails of the government.

Mr. Bryan's Sentiments.

BUFFALO, Sept. 10.—William J. Bryan telegraphed The Times as follows: "Free governments may be overthrown, but they cannot be reformed by those who violate the commandment, 'Thou shalt not kill.' Under a government like ours every wrong can be remedied by laws, and the laws are in the hands of the people themselves. Anarchy can be neither excused nor tolerated here. The man who proposes to right a public wrong by taking the life of a human being makes himself an outlaw and cannot consistently appeal to the protection of the government which he repudiates. He invites a return to a state of barbarism in which each one must at his own risk defend his own rights and avenge his own wrongs. The punishment administered to the would be assassin and to his co-conspirators, if he has any, should be such as to warn all inclined to anarchy that while this is an asylum for those who love liberty it is an inhospitable place for those who raise their hands against all forms of government."

Hunting For Emma Goldman.

BUFFALO, Sept. 10.—Emma Goldman, anarchist leader, whose writings and speeches inspired Czolgosz, her friend and companion, to try to murder President McKinley, is being searched for by the police of every city in the United States. The woman was with the would be assassin on Monday. She went from here to Pittsburg, thence to Cincinnati and from there to St. Louis. The police believe that she was directly involved in the plot to kill the president. They are positive that she was the friend and confidant of Czolgosz and was aware of his determination to assassinate Mr. McKinley. The United States secret service holds the theory that she was the prime mover in a widespread conspiracy which contemplated a series of crimes of which the murder of the president was only the beginning.

Germans Take Great Interest.

BERLIN, Sept. 10.—Public interest in the condition of President McKinley continues very keen. The papers print a vast amount of matter on the subject, which is the chief topic of conversation. Expressions of sympathy on the part of the people are heard on all sides.

The Constitution Out.

BRISTOL, R. I., Sept. 10.—Bare of flags and sails and out of commission the Constitution has arrived from Newport in tow of the tender Mount Morris. Although being towed, the new boat used her jib and fore staysail on the way up, thereby taking advantage of the strong southwesterly wind. The headsails were taken off just as she was about to enter the harbor, the boat rounding to and dropping anchor near the boat shops. The craft came here to be dismantled. She was hauled alongside the wharf to have her boom and gaff taken out with a derrick. Then the mast will be unstepped. Captain Rhodes sent the lighter sails ashore. On board the Constitution were a portion of the crew only, the rest having been discharged on Saturday at Newport.

Sixty Thousand Out of School.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—Eighteen new schools were opened yesterday in the various boroughs of Greater New York, but even with the increased accommodations thousands of children were without seats. Many applicants were turned away, and it is estimated that before the registry is complete nearly 60,000 children will have been disappointed. The new classrooms will only accommodate 15,500 pupils, while even in June there were 52,321 children in part time classes owing to the want of seating capacity. Of the 60,000 children that cannot be accommodated in the regular classes a large part will receive only instructions of three hours in part time classes. Thousands, however, will get no instruction at all.

Canadians Outshoot Irish.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—The Canadian and Irish riflemen met on the long ranges at Sea Girt, N. J., in a special contest between teams of five men each. They shot over the 800, 900 and 1,000 yard ranges, the Canadians using the English military rifle and the Ulster representatives shooting with Mannlicher guns. In consequence the Canadians received an allowance of 8 points each, or 40 points for the team, and the honors went to Canada by 13 points on the gross score. The net scores were: Canada, 593; Ulster Rifle association, 620.

PEACE EFFORTS FAIL

Amalgamated Committee Adjourns Without Date.

STRIKE MUST GO ON AS BEFORE.

The Steel Corporation Has Put In Operation Seventy-six Mills During the Trouble—More to Be Opened.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 10.—The last effort to settle the steel strike has failed. The general executive board of the Amalgamated association has adjourned without date and without either accepting any of the peace propositions which have come indirectly from the United States Steel corporation or making any counter propositions, according to the official statement.

The semiofficial report is that the proposition secured for the Amalgamated association through the intervention of the representatives of the National Civic federation was unsatisfactory and that the entire matter of arranging for a settlement was left with President Theodore J. Shaffer. The board in its session of three days has been clamoring for a settlement, but satisfactory terms and means were not at hand, and the sessions resolved themselves into an informal discussion of the situation.

At the close of the meeting of the national executive board last evening President Shaffer declared that he had no statement to make, but subsequently said: "The board has adjourned, and the out of town members will probably leave for their homes. No peace proposition has been received and none made."

The meeting of the board did not adjourn in high good feeling, yet the members of the board were averse to making statements supplemental to that of President Shaffer.

It was stated by some of the members of the board that the adjournment had left matters practically as they were before the meeting had been called and that the strike must go on as before, leaving arrangements for a possible settlement through a coveted direct conference with the representatives of the United States Steel corporation with President Shaffer.

Yesterday completed the first thirty days since the American Sheet Steel company, the American Tin Plate company and the American Steel Hoop company began their attempt to start the union plants of the country in the face of the Amalgamated association strike. Aside from the Clark plant of the steel hoop company and the Upper and Lower Union mills of the Carnegie company, where the attempt to render the strike effective was never a success, the three companies have during the month succeeded in placing in operation seventy-six mills in the union plants, single turn. Indications are that the number will be doubled within the next ten days if the strike is not settled before that time.

While the tin plate company has put up the most aggressive fight of the three the steel hoop company has been most successful in the eastern district, and in the west the sheet steel compay has met with the larger success. With the results known in these preliminary skirmishes at a few chosen points all three companies have now prepared to carry the fight into every union plant without further delay.

At McKeesport last evening the strikers, following up their advantage of the morning in keeping the workmen from entering the National Tube works, gathered about the gates of the plant in great numbers and warned the few men who came out not to return to work. It is generally believed the company will appeal to the sheriff or governor within forty-eight hours for protection.

Venezuela Consul Threatened.

COLON, Colombia, Sept. 10.—On the publication of the report in Panama that a Venezuelan squadron, consisting of four ships, was bombarding Rio Hacha, on the Caribbean sea, a lawless, irresponsible mob proceeded to the residence of Senor Cardoze, the Venezuelan consul at Panama, shouting, "Down with the government of Castro!" Cardoze, who is a Danish subject and a native of St. Thomas, immediately took refuge in the palace of the governor of Panama, where he was received with open arms. The local officials deplore the regrettable incident. The mob was eventually dispersed, and quiet was restored.

Hill Climbing For Autos.

PEEKSKILL, N. Y., Sept. 10.—The hill climbing test for automobiles at Nelson Hill was won by David Wolfe Bishop, who reached the top in 2m. 13s. The hill is 2,372 feet in length, and there is a rise of 226 feet from the base to the summit. It was a hard trip up the steep incline, and many of the contestants met with mishaps. Some of the autos gave out altogether and had to be dragged up to the top of the hill by horses.

The Pope Against Anarchy.

LONDON, Sept. 10.—"The pope has been so impressed by the attack upon President McKinley," says the Rome correspondent of The Daily Mail, "that he intends to take the initiative in joint action by the Christian powers against anarchism. He is writing an important encyclical on the subject, which will be published next month."

The Public Schools.

The long vacation is over. This morning the children of the city and borough tramped to their respective school houses and began anew to receive their education. Partially from the fact, perhaps, that they are no new thing, the excellence of the school system in both city and borough is scarcely appreciated by the people of these two municipalities. If they would stop long enough to investigate and compare, however, they would find that Plainfield and North Plainfield are now provided with schools the equal of which few cities can boast.

The borough boasts today of one of the very few manual training schools in the State. It was made possible through the generosity of Charles W. McCutchen. It enables the children of borough residents to secure instruction in branches not heretofore taught but which are nevertheless of great value. The practical instruction in cooking has found wonderful popularity and promises to make some well equipped housewives of the borough young women.

In the city schools, there is an evident lack of accommodation. Everything is crowded and Superintendent Maxson and his corps of assistants have to plan very carefully to provide at all for some of the classes which are particularly crowded. Nevertheless, the instruction given is far above the average and the schools are conducted on lines which are the admiration of educational authorities all over the land.

This crowding of schools is a sign of the need of another school. The day is not far off when a new high school building will be erected here. If constructed on the proper lines, there will be no objection to it as the people of Plainfield realize that the present accommodations are too limited and that a new building is only a question of time. The new high school will probably come as soon as the Board of Education succeeds in finding out exactly what the law means so that the city shall not be involved in any lengthy and expensive legal tangle.

The public schools are here and the public is respectfully invited to inspect them. If more of the people knew what good schools Plainfield possessed, they would find less fault with those in charge.

The article on Plainfield homes, which appeared in the Sunday issue of the Newark News, is bound to be of advantage to Plainfield. The correspondent who furnished the material to The News rendered material aid in the work of bringing to the public notice the advantages of Plainfield. It is undoubtedly true that there are times when the local correspondents of New York and Newark newspapers have cast needless and false reflections on this city. If articles similar to the one which appeared in The News were more frequent, it would be of a decided benefit to Plainfield. There is credit due the man who sent the article in question. He is Henry J. Talford, the regular corresponpent of the Newark News in this city.

The time is not far off when Plainfield will have to be redistricted. The present wards are getting so large as to be almost unwieldy and the day is not far distant when a fifth ward will be a necessity. When the time comes, Plainfield may expect no end of fun for the politicians will have their hands full in trying to prepare a satisfactory arrangement. It might be well to begin thinking about it.

Plainfield was no exception to the rule. All over the land, there were prayers offered Sunday that the greatly beloved President of these United States might recover from the injury inflicted in such a dastardly manner. And it looks as if those prayers were to be granted.

According to Elizabeth reports, Hamilton Fish Kean is to be chairman of the Union county delegation to the Republican State convention. Does that mean another factional fight?

Only a united stand on the part of the patrons of the Plainfield Water Supply Company will result in the installation of water meters. It should be done before the new water bills come in.

A continuation of the games between the baseball nines of Hope chapel and St. Mary's is now assured and the lovers of the National game will await the next meeting with much interest.

There is lots of talk of new trolley systems. If they all materialize the map of New Jersey will look like a spider's web. Parts of it are assuming that appearance already.

The effects of "Jersey lightning" are not unknown, but unsteadiness of navigation caused by those things commercially known as cigars is a new trouble.

It is a good sign. The employes of the Pond Machine Tool Works are compelled to work over time. Prosperity appears to be coming this way again.

It is a dangerous thing these days to speak disparagingly of the President. Several citizens of this land have discovered that fact at considerable cost.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short and Gossipy Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

The friendly relations existing between a merchant and his regular customer were rudely severed Saturday evening by a little episode of the assassination of McKinley. The merchant expressed his sorrow over the affair, when the customer commenced a tirade of abuse against the afflicted President. Matters ended by the merchant roundly scoring the villifier and ejecting him from the store.

* * * * * * *

A traveling son of Sunny Italy, in charge of a street piano, struck an unexpected bonanza on Park avenue Friday evening. He wheeled his instrument in front of a store and was about to commence mangling the latest operatic selections when F. A. VanNest requested to do the grinding. This was granted by the tired Italian and while VanNest did stunts with the handle, A. G. Vogeler seized a hat and took the customary collection. The crowd which gathered responded liberally and the proceeds were turned over to the surprised and delighted Italian.

TAKEN HOME.

But It Will Be a Long Time Before Little Catherine Kane Is Able to Be Out Again.

Catherine Agnes Kane, the little daughter of Alex. Kane, of Fillmore avenue, who was severely injured last Labor Day by getting caught in a wheel of her father's wagon, has been removed from Muhlenberg Hospital to her home. Her condition is still very serious and in all probability she will have to be taken back. It will be several months at least before she will be able to use her right leg, if in the mean time it is not amputated.

The accident which injured the little girl was a very peculiar one. She attempted to climb into her father's wagon, when she slipped between a wheel and the body. Her right foot went between the spokes and she was wedged in tightly with her head pinned against one of the body springs. It was necessary to remove the wheel before she could be extricated.

Sprained His Ankle.

S. E Frazee, of West Front street, while attending to his duties as a brakeman of the New Jersey Central Railroad, severely sprained his ankle a week ago. Mr. Frazee at the time of the accident was assisting in making up a train at Jersey City when he fell from a car twisting his ankle. After being laid up for the past week, Mr. Frazee returned to work today.

"As to the coming yacht race," said Mr. Sezzit to his wife, "I think it will be found that there is many a slip between the lip and the slipton."

"What?" inquired Mrs. Sezitt.

"I mean there will be many a slip between the lip and the slipton—there will be many a clip from the slip to the—confound it, I mean there will be many a lip between the cup and the slipton—no, that isn't right—there will be many a slap from the clip to the cupton—er—that is—there will be a captain from the slip—blame it, Maria, you always get me confused! What I want to say is that there will be many a sip from the lip to the scupton—what the dickens are you laughing at, anyhow? That's the way with a fool woman. Wonder to me any man of sense ever tries to talk to them."

"Why, my dear, what is wrong with you this evening?"

"There isn't anything wrong. I was going to say that there will be many a slip between the lup and—well, I hope we lose the race, anyway, just to teach you to respect your husband more when he tries to entertain you."—Baltimore American.

Writer and Reader.

A good and perhaps an old story comes from the Persian. A man went to a professional scribe and asked him to write a letter.

"I cannot," said the scribe. "I have a pain in my foot."

"A pain in your foot? What has that do with it? I don't want to send you anywhere."

"No, sir," said the man, "but whenever I write a letter for anyone, I am always sent for to read it, because no one else can make it out."—Youth's Companion.

Neatest Town in the World.

Broek, in Holland, is far-famed as the "neatest town in the world." It is so fastidious that until a few years ago horses were not allowed in the streets, and the entire town is as scrupulously kept as a man-of-war. It is a village of 2,700 inhabitants, the main industry of which is the making of Edam cheese.—Boston Transcript.

Emperor's House Cleaning Help.

A good story of Emperor William is being told in Berlin. When he informed Herr von Buelow that he was now imperial chancellor, Herr von Buelow expressed his delight, but said that he had just chanced to think of his wife. She had nothing against the chancellorship, but a great deal against the chancellor's palace, for, while her present home was a regular little jewel box, the great cleaning down in the chancellor's palace would not be completed before this time 12 months. "Give my greetings to the countess," his majesty replied, jocularly, "and tell her I will contribute my part toward the cleaning down." A few days later a very bulky parcel was left at Countess von Buelow's by the emperor's orders. It contained a hundredweight of soap, the promised contribution toward the great cleaning down.—Chicago Record-Herald.

His Hit.

It was Charlie's first game of golf. His patient friend had taken him sadly around the 18 holes and watched him hack the ball into small bits and cut up the green as though it had been plowed by shrapnel. After the game Charlie and his patient friend were talking to a few of the golfers on the clubhouse veranda.

"That was a beautiful shot you made this afternoon, Charlie," said the patient friend.

Charlie brightened up and flushed happily, while the young women looked at him admiringly. "Which one?" he asked, eagerly.

"Why," said the patient friend, "the time you hit the ball."—Baltimore Herald.

Good Yacht Sailors Scarce.

Those who have studied the art of preparing cup defenders for their work are aware of the immense amount of care needed to properly tune the yacht long after she has sailed her first race. The most scientific part of the work of the handlers of a cup defender is in the perfecting of her rigging and her various gear, so that everything will carry harmoniously upon the big 90-footer. Here is where the really fine distinctions of yachting occur and there are actually but few men in the world who are capable of handling such problems successfully. Certainly not 200 men on earth are able to decide these matters with accuracy and success.—Baltimore Herald.

Original.

As the farmer entered the town a courtly man drew near with a view to swindling him.

"You can't sell me a gold brick!" said the farmer, at once.

"How original you are!" said the man.

"Yes," said the farmer, "I am a mark, of course, but I am no mere ditto mark, I tell you those!"

The man started violently at this. And had it not been for the other's pure, limpid David Harum dialect, he would have had his suspicions.—Detroit Journal.

Worse and Worse.

"'Cordin' t' th' statoots," began Judge Wayback, as he stood up, "I'll hev t' giv' y' ten yeres t' th' penny-tenchury."

"But," exclaimed the lawyer for the defendant, jumping to his feet, "there are extenuating circumstances."

"They is?" cried the judge in alarm. "Ef I thought thet, durned ef I wouldn't giv' 'em fifteen yeres."—Columbus (O.) Journal.

No Standard of Distance.

In China there is no regular standard of distance. Standards vary in the different provinces of the empire, the chih, or unit of length, varying from nine to sixteen inches in different provinces. A Chinese mile may be from a quarter of an English mile to a mile and three-quarters, according to the province.—London Mail.

The Name That Was Not Real.

A Philadelphia captain of detectives tells of one of the Malaprops of his force, who, despite his deficiency in education, is a clever operator. Responding to an inquiry, he explained to a friend the possession of two names by a prisoner by saying: "Jim Henry is his real name; Percy D. Klyne is his ananias."—Argonaut.

Progress.

Mrs. Wrencher—I suppose you have learned a great deal since your marriage?

Mrs. John Newbird—Oh, yes. I have! I know now that it isn't at all practicable to send John off in the morning with ice cream in his lunch basket.—Harper's Bazar.

Road Building Methods in Western Mountains

The Crude Trails of the Rockies Are Gradually Giving Way to Well Built Highways

AS THE center of population travels westward, as the western states become more densely peopled, and especially as the farm becomes more and more the foundation of western prosperity, and the mining interests, great as they have been in the past, and are yet, become of secondary importance in the development of the mountain states, the demand for good roads through the mountains increases.

This increasing demand for passable roads is but history repeating itself. The demand began to grow in this country first in the east, and the demand has traveled steadily westward with the advance of population, until to-day it has reached the foot of the Rocky mountains, and the crude trail over which adventurer, explorer, pioneer, prospector and miner have been wont to drag with laborious toil their small belongings, must give way to the wagon roads demanded of a populous and prosperous people.

It may be stated as a general proposition that practically every mountain road west of the Missouri river has been built to meet a need arising in some way from the existence of mineral deposits. The prospector, with his crude tools, blankets, and simple food packed upon his faithful burro, goes ahead. In his business neither roads nor trails are necessary or specially desirable. He finds the mineral; the news gets abroad, and others flock to try their luck in the newly-explored region. Then comes the trader with supplies, men to buy, and miners to work the new finds. The freighter with his mule team furnished transportation, and for his use are built the first mountain roads. The motto is: "Get there and get there quickly." The first desideratum seems to be a route over which vehicles on four wheels can travel without tipping over. It is often so steep in places that wagons can only be pulled up with blocks and tackle, and descend with wheels rough locked and dragging a heavy log behind.

Next came roads to particular mines, toll roads, county and state roads, each case usually affording ample latitude and scope to the actual ignorance or bad judgment of men of all grades of supposed road cunning. There is not a mining county or a mountain county (the terms may be considered synonymous) from the eastern base of the Rocky mountains to the Pacific coast where the money squandered in traveling over bad roads would not in five years build new ones intelligently located and properly constructed.

But the saving to existing enterprises would be only a small part of the advantages to accrue to any region from such a betterment of its road system. The expansion of the mining industry everywhere is due principally to the development of ore bodies of low grade but abundant quantity, where processes involving the strictest economy and most careful saving at every step yield in the aggregate a slight margin of profit. Hundreds of thousands of tons of ore are mined and treated where this margin is less than one dollar a ton. The saving of a few cents a ton on ore down to the mills, and a corresponding saving in freight charges on fuel, lumber, provisions and other supplies up to the mines means in the freight item alone a very considerable percentage on a large capital to companies producing hundreds of tons a day.

Throughout this great region thousands of deposits now lie idle, which, with roads properly constructed, will become available, furnishing a new, vast market for labor, mining machinery and farm products, and benefiting directly or indirectly every industrial and financial enterprise in the United States.

The keynote to road construction, whether it be in the mountains of the west or in the New England hills, is grade. That must be kept to the minimum, and the lower the minimum is the greater will be the benefits accruing to the community for which the road is built. The heavier the loads to be hauled, either up or down, the lighter the grades should be. James W. Abbott in a pamphlet issued by the agricultural department says of this subject of grade in road building:

"Experience in heavy freighting has shown that wagons can be actually and satisfactorily controlled in all weathers on 12 per cent. grades, but that they cannot be thus controlled on steeper grades, and that where much heavy freighting has been attempted on steeper grades it has almost invariably been attended with terrible accidents. In freighting on any grade the weight and number of wagons will depend upon the proportion between material to be hauled up and freight back. On a properly constructed dry road four animals, averaging 1,300 pounds each in weight, will haul 6,500 pounds, total weight, distributed between wagons and contents, up a 12 per cent. grade at the rate of about 1½ miles per hour. Descending, the four animals will haul all that a wagon can hold up, but in practice this amount rarely exceeds 16,000 pounds on a single wagon or 20,000 pounds on a lead and trail, and the average is probably not much in excess of 10,000 pounds on one wagon or 14,000 pounds on lead and trail. When roads are icy heavy wagons tear up a roadbed badly.

"But while a 12 per cent. grade is admissible as a maximum, roads of lighter grade are so much more efficient and satisfactory in every way that only the gravest necessity should ever determine the maximum at 12 per cent.

"Mountain roads are routes of travel between points of different altitudes. The most common, as well as the most serious, mistake made in their location is the attempt to cover this distance by too short a line. On a 12 per cent. grade every pound of freight going up is elevated 12 feet for each 100 feet of horizontal distance traveled. On an 8 per cent. grade it is elevated 12 feet in 150 feet of horizontal distance traveled, while on a 6 per cent. grade it is elevated the same amount in 200 feet of horizontal distance; or, in other words, the distance required to get a 12 per cent. grade must be increased one-half for an 8 per cent. grade and doubled for a 6 per cent. grade. Tables have been published giving the comparative weights which a horse can pull on different gradients; but no actual statistics have ever been compiled which show what would be the difference in performance in actual freighting between good roads of different gradients. The limit of load which a team can pull on any road is determined by the steepest place in that road. It is rare that a mountain road is built on which the maximum gradient is less than 12 per cent. It is also true that there are very few places where mountain roads have been constructed that it was not feasible to secure a maximum under 12 per cent. The extra length that would be required is generally much less than one would at first suppose. Roads built on a continuous uniform grade are very rare. Many seem to go up steep places just for the sake of going down again, thus giving a grade adverse to the heaviest traffic, which ought never to be compelled to climb a foot in descending a mountain. So far as the writer's study and observation have extended, 99 per cent. of all roads built for heavy mountain traffic might have had a maximum under 12 per cent. It is putting it very moderately to say that a team will haul up 50 per cent. more load in the same time between two given points on a road with an 8 per cent. maximum than it could haul on one of similar surface with a 12 per cent. maximum.

The doom of the old-time mountain road in the west has been sounded, and the new roads that will replace them will be built upon scientific rules. The change may detract considerably from the picturesqueness and excitement of a stage ride through the Rockies, but it will add to the wealth and prosperity of the mountain country.

A lady of Bucks Co., Penn., declares that Ripans Tabules are the best medicine for young and old that one could possibly use. After an attack of the grippe several years ago (she says) I was troubled more than ever before with bad feelings when first waking in the morning, being numb and stiff and my brain dull and aching. A Ripans Tabule taken at night did not seem to stop the morning trouble. Some time ago I thought I would take a Tabule in the morning when first waking, so one morning when I felt too miserable to rise, I had a Ripans Tabule handed to me. I took it and after a few minutes was surprised to find that I felt able to rise and was soon about doing my daily work. Now I always keep the Tabules on a stand at my bedside and use them whenever I wake feeling dull and out of sorts, and they have never failed to act like a charm. This lady's daughter finds that Ripans Tabules act well on her children, also. One little one, two years old, who is cutting teeth, suffers from fevers and stomach troubles. One-third of a Tabule three times a day settles her stomach, sweetens her breath and stops the fever.

WANTED—A case of bad health that RIPANS will not benefit. They banish pain and prolong life. One gives relief. Sold by druggists. The word RIPANS on the package and accept no substitute. RIPANS, 10 for 5 cents, may be had at any drug store. For sample and one thousand testimonials, which will be mailed to any address for 5 cents, forwarded to the Ripans Chemical Co., No. 10 Spruce St., New York.

THE FRENCHWOMAN'S CHIC.

How, Whether She Is Rich or Poor, She Manages to Obtain It.

We may deny the beauty of the Frenchwoman and speak of her sallow complexion as compared with that of the American girl, but we can't deny that she is one of the most graceful and well dressed bit of femininity in existence. There is something indescribable about the gown of the Parisienne, something which we look for in vain elsewhere. Yet these same gowns when seen away from her dainty person are often plain in the extreme and would attract no attention whatever if worn by any one of another nationality.

The Frenchwoman from her very girlhood studies herself. She finds out which colors, even which shades of certain colors, flatter or bring out her principal characteristics in the way of complexion, hair, etc. She has things even down to a finer point. She finds out what tints she should adopt when she is in certain moods, when she is surrounded by the glare of electric lights, in the bright sunlight or under gray clouded skies, and so sympathetic is her taste that she never wears the wrong shade at the wrong time.

SHE CULTIVATES HER FIGURE.

Next she studies her figure; more than that, she cultivates it, not by lacing it unmercifully, as would her American and English sisters, but by having specially made corsets and carefully fitted lingerie which artfully conceal its bad points and bring out its good ones. She discovers by these means what lines are flattering to her, and she is faithful to them.

It is the same with the perfume she uses and her method of hairdressing. She finds out what is most suitable to her and adopts it regardless of changing fads and fancies.

They have a saying on the other side that an American girl will buy anything if it looks pretty. How many times have you yourselves heard women in the shopping district remark: "Oh, isn't that sweet? Don't you suppose I could wear it?" That's just the difference. The Frenchwoman never tries to force things. She knows immediately whether a thing is "her style," and if it is not she doesn't even waste time looking at it.

THE NURSERY.

Some Novel Ways In Which It Can Be Furnished.

Of course every fond mother tries to have the nursery one of the most attractive rooms in the house. This is easy with the exercise of a little taste and individuality. In the first place the room chosen should be naturally bright and attractive, with plenty of sunlight streaming through crisp white curtains. The woodwork in such a room is pretty when painted white and the walls tinted a pale blue. A charming blue and white nursery I recently saw had its walls ornamented with a wide frieze of sea gulls and other aquatic birds flying over a rough expanse of blue waves. The walls were hung with marine lithographs inclosed in plain white wood frames. Running along three sides of this room were low white cupboards, which contained the children's toys and books. A blue and white Japanese rug and blue denim cushions on the chairs further carried out the color scheme.

AN ENGLISH IDEA.

From an English home comes the nursery illustrated. The woodwork of the room is oak stained a dull green, and the walls are a warm gray in tone. The furniture is designed after the quaint old English style. It is green ornamented with red mottoes in ancient lettering. The walls are paneled with a series of amusing paintings. One sets forth the contents of Noah's ark, the animals marching two by two. On another wall is a representation of Mother Duck and her family, while the opposite side shows Mother Hen and her brood. There are a toy cupboard, with a shelf above for books, a broad, low table, on which rests an assortment of picture books, and a window seat upholstered in red.

Nowadays all the leading interior decorators keep a special line of nursery wall papers. Some of these are in tiled effects, each square showing a scene from some fairy tale. Others illustrate Mother Goose rhymes, while there are other charming friezes.

HELEN CLIFTON.

The Lost Continent

By CUTCLIFFE HYNE.

Published by Harper & Bros. Copyright, 1900, by Cutcliffe Hyne.

"She was a swineherd's daughter from the mountains, though this is never even whispered now, as she has declared herself to be a daughter of the gods, with a miraculous birth and upbringing. As she has decreed it a sacrilege to question this parentage, and has ordered to be burned all those that seem to recollect her more earthly origin, the fable passes current for truth. You see the faith I put in you, Deucalion, by telling you what you wish to learn."

"There has always been trust betwen us."

"I know; but this habit of suspicion is hard to cast off, even with you. However, let me put your good faith between me and the torture further. Zaemon, you remember, was governor of the swineherd's province, and Zaemon's wife saw Phorenice and took her away to adopt and bring up as her own. It is said that the swineherd and his women objected; perhaps they did; anyway, I know they died; and Phorenice was taught the arts and graces, and brought up as a daughter of the Priestly clan."

"But still she was an adopted daughter only," I objected.

"The omission of the 'adopted' was her will at an early age," said Tatho, dryly, "and she learned early to have her wishes carried into fact. It was notorious that before she had grown to 15 years she ruled not only the women of the household, but Zaemon also, and the province that was beyond Zaemon."

"Zaemon was learned," I said, "and a devout follower of the gods, and searcher into the higher mysteries; but, as a ruler, he was always a flabby fellow."

"I do not say that opportunities have not come usefully in Phorenice's way, but she had genius as well. For her to have raised herself at all from what she was, was remarkable. Not one woman out of a thousand, placed as she was, would have grown to be aught higher than a mere wife of some sturdy countryman, who was sufficiently simple to care nothing for pedigree. But look at Phorenice: it was her whim to take exercise as a man-at-arms and practice with all the utensils of war; and then, before anyone quite knows how or why it happened, a rebellion had broken out in the province, and here was she, a slip of a girl, leading Zaemon's troops."

"Zaemon, when I knew him, was a mere derision in the field."

"Hear me on. Phorenice put down the rebellion in masterly fashion, and gave the conquered a choice between sword and service. They fell into her ranks at once, and were faithful to her from that moment. I tell you, Deucalion, there is a marvelous fascination about the woman.

"It is one long story of success. She deposed Zaemon from his government in name as well as in fact, and the news was spread, and the Priestly clan rose in its wrath. The two neighboring governors were bidden to join forces, take her captive, and bring her for execution. Poor men! they tried to obey their orders; they attacked her surely enough, but in battle she could laugh at them. She killed both, and made some slaughter among their troops; and to those that remained alive and became her prisoners she made her usual offer—the sword or service. Naturally they were not long over making their choice: to these common people one ruler is much the same as another; and so again her army was reenforced.

"Three times were bodies of soldiery sent against her, and three times was she victorious. The last was a final effort. Before, it had been customary to despise this adventuress who had sprung up so suddenly. But then the priests began to realize their peril, to see that the throne itself was in danger, and to know that if she were to be crushed they would have to put forth their utmost. Every man who could carry arms was pressed into the service. Every known art of war was ordered to be put into employment. It was the largest army, and the best equipped army that Atlantis then had ever raised, and the Priestly clan saw fit to put in supreme command their general, Tatho."

"You!" I cried.

"Even myself, Deucalion. And mark you, I fought my utmost. I was not her creature then; and when I set out (because they wanted to spur me to the uttermost) the high council of the priests pointed out my prospects. The king we had known so long, was ailing and wearily old; he was so wrapped up in the study of mysteries, and the joy of closely knowing them, that earthly matters had grown nauseous to him; and at any time he might decide to die. The Priestly clan uses its own discretion in the election of a new king, but it takes note of popular sentiment; and a general who at the critical time could come home victorious from a great campaign, which moreover would release a harassed people from the constant application of arms, would be the idol of the moment. These things were pointed out to me solemnly and in full council."

"What! they promised you the throne?"

"Even that. So you see I [illegible] with a high stake before me. Phorenice I had never seen, and I swore to take her alive, and give her to be the sport of my soldiery. I had a fine confidence in my own strategy then, Deucalion. But the old gods, in whom I trusted then, remained old, and taught me no new things. I drilled and exercised my army according to the forms you and I learned together, old comrade, and in many a tough fight found to serve well; I armed them with the choicest weapons we knew of then, with sling and mace, with bow and spear, with ax and knife, with sword and the throwing fire; their bodies I covered with metal plates; even their bellies I cared for, with droves of cattle driven in the rear of the fighting troops.

"But when the encounter came, they might have been men of straw for all the harm they did. Out of her own brain Phorenice had made fire-tubes that cast a dart which would kill beyond two bowshots, and the fashion in which she handled her troops dazzled me. They threatened us on one flank, they harassed us on the other. It was not war as we had been accustomed to it. It was a newer and more deadly game, and I had to watch my splendid army eaten away as waves eat a sand-hill. Never once did I get a chance of forcing close action. These new tactics that had come from Phorenice's invention were beyond my art to meet or understand. We were eight to her one, and our close-packed numbers only made us so much the more easy for slaughter. A panic came, and those who could fled. Myself, I had no wish to go back and earn the ax that waits for the unsuccessful general. I tried to die there fighting where I stood. But death would not come. It was a fine melee, Deucalion, that last one."

"And so she took you?"

"I stood with three others, back to back, with a ring of dead round us, and a ring of the enemy hemming us in. We taunted them to some one But at hand-to-hand courtesies we had shown we could hold our own, and so they were calling for fire-tubes with which they could strike us down in safety from a distance. Then up came Phorenice. 'What is this to-do?' says she. 'We seek to kill Lord Tatho, who led against you,' says she. 'A fine figure of a man, indeed, and a pretty fighter, seemingly, after the old manner. Doubtless he is one who would acquire the newer method. See, now, Tatho,' says she, 'it is my custom to offer those I vanquish either the sword (which, believe me, was never nearer your neck than now) or service under my banner. Will you make a choice?'

"'Woman,' I said, 'fairest that ever I saw, finest general the world has ever borne, you tempt me sorely by your qualities, but there is a tradition in our clan that we should be true to the salt we eat. I am the king's man still, and so I can take no service from you.'

"'The king is dead,' says she. 'A runner has just brought the tidings, meaning to have fallen into your hands. And I am the empress.'

"'Who made you empress?' I asked.

"'The same most capable hand that has given me this battle,' says she. 'It is a capable hand, as you have seen; it can be a kind hand, also, as you may learn if you choose. With the king dead, Tatho is masterless man now. Is Tatho in want of a mistress?'

"'Such a glorious mistress as you,' I said, 'yea.' And from that moment, Deucalion, I have been her slave. Oh, you may frown; you may get up from this seat and walk away if you will. But I ask you this: keep back your worst judgment of me, old friend, till after you have seen Phorenice herself in the warm and lovely flesh. Then your own ears and your own senses will be my advocates, to win me back your old esteem."

CHAPTER II.

BACK TO ATLANTIS.

The words of Tatho were no sleeping draught for me that night. I began to think that I had made somewhat a mistake in wrapping myself up so entirely in my government of Yucatan, and not contriving to keep more in touch with events that were passing at home in Atlantis. For many years past it had been easy to see that the mariner folk who did traffic across the seas spoke with restraint, and that only what news the empress pleased was allowed to ooze out beyond her borders. But, as I say, I was fully occupied with my work in the colony, and had no curiosity to pull away a veil intentionally placed. Besides, it has always been against my principles to put to the torture men who had received orders for silence from their superiors, merely that they shall break these orders for my private convenience.

However, the iron discipline of our Priestly clan left me no choice of procedure. As was customary, I had been deprived of my office at a moment's notice. From that time on, all papers and authority belonged to my successor, and, although by courtesy I might be permitted to remain as a guest in the pyramid that had so recently been mine, to see another sunrise, it was clearly enjoined that I must leave the territory then at the topmost of my speed and hasten to report in Atlantis.

Tatho, to give him credit, was anxious to further my interests to the utmost in his power. He was by my side again before the dawn, putting all his resources at my disposal.

I had little enough to ask him. "A ship to take me home," I said, "and I shall be your debtor."

The request seemed to surprise him. "That you may certainly have if you wish it. But my ships are foul with the long passage, and are in need of a careen. If you take them, you will make a slow passage of it to Atlantis. Why do you not take your own navy? The ships are in harbor now, for I saw them there when we came in. Brave ships they are, too."

"But not mine. That navy belongs to Yucatan."

"Well, Ducalion, you are Yucatan, or, rather, you were yesterday, and have been these 20 years."

I saw what he meant, and the idea did not please me. I answered stiffly enough that the ships were owned by private merchants, or belonged to the states, and I could not claim so much as a ten-slave galley.

Tatho shrugged his shoulders. "I suppose you know your own policies best," he said, "though to me it seems but risky for a man who has attained to a position like yours and mine not to have provided himself with a stout navy of his own. One never knows when a recall may be sent, and through lack of these precautions a life's earnings may very well be lost in a dozen hours."

"I have no fear for mine," I said coldly.

"Of course not, because you know me to be your friend. But had another man been appointed to this viceroyalty, you might have been sadly shorn, Deucalion. It is not many fellows who can resist a snug hoard ready and waiting in the very coffers they have come to line."

"My Lord Tatho," I said, "it is clear to me that you and I have grown to be of different tastes. All of the hoard that I have made for myself in this colony, few men would covet. I have the poor clothes you see me in this moment, and a box of drugs such as I have found useful to the stomach. I possess also three slaves, two of them scribes and the third a sturdy savage from Europe who cooks my victual and fills for me the bath. For my maintenance during my years of service here I have bled the state of a soldier's ration and nothing beyond; and if in my name any man has mulcted a creature in Yucatan of so much as an ounce of bronze, I request you as a last service to have that man hanged for me as a liar and a thief."

ONE CERTAINTY.

Some Plainfielders Fully Realize It Now

When the back aches from kidney ills.

There's a certain way to find relief.

A sure way to be cured.

Doan's Kidney Pills will do it.

Plainfield people endorse this claim.

Mr. Robert Love, of 44 Duer street, member of the firm of Love Brothers, grocers, of 257 West Front street, says: "I suffered from kidney complaint for eight or nine years—pain across the back and a lameness over the kidneys. Colds always settled there and aggravated it. At last my back grew weaker and any heavy lifting or too much standing or sitting gave me additional pain. In the morning my back bothered me greatly until I moved about and took some exercise when it became better to a certain extent. I doctored and used different kinds of so-called kidney cures but it was throwing money away. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills highly recommended in our paper and being in bad shape at the time, I got a box from L. W. Randolph's drug store. Before taking half of it my condition was greatly improved and continuing their use, all the pain left me."

COLLECTED HIS FEE.

Then the Squire Christened the Baby in Legal Form.

Began Operations by Swearing Parents, Child and Sponsors, Named the Young Hopeful and Adjourned Court.

"There used to be some funny ones down by the Rio Grande," remarked the tall, broad-shouldered Texan to a Chicago Inter Ocean reporter. "Yes, there were some mighty funny ones. I remember particularly an old justice of the peace down there, who performed all sorts of offices, particularly those of a religious or semireligious nature, in the absence of a minister. He made some awful breaks in his time; but he didn't reach the height of his originality until the day he christened the newly born child of a cowboy named Wilson. I'll tell you about it.

"In these days we never worried much about christenings and such in Texas. We simply slapped a name on a kid and if a minister happened along we had him go through the regular form; if not, we let it go at that and the kid never knew the difference. This Wilson, however, was strong on religion, though I reckon he didn't know so very much about it, and when his pretty little wife presented him with a son he set about to have the child regularly branded by some one in authority. There was a minister within negotiable distance, and so he brought the child, accompanied by its mother and the intended sponsors, to our justice of the peace and asked him to perform the ceremony. Now, old "Bill" Scruggins—that was the justice's name—had never witnessed a christening. He remembered having seen a book about the house years before with a form of christening in it; but where it was he could not remember. A man with less nerve would have faltered; but not the justice.

"'Hats off in the presence of the court!' he commanded.

"All being uncovered, he said: 'I'll

"THAT'LL BE THREE DOLLARS."

swear you in fust. Hold up yer right hands.'

"'Us, too?' asked the sponsors.

"'Of course,' said the justice. 'All witnesses must be swore in.'

"Then, looking at them all with comical dignity, he began the strangest christening ever performed. 'You an' each one of you do solemnly swear that the evidence you shall give in this case shall be the truth, the whole truth, an' nothin' but the truth, s'elp you Gawd!'

"'You, John Wilson, do solemnly swear that to the best o' yer knowledge an' belief, this yer child is yourn an' yer wife's to have an' ter hold for yerself, yer heirs, exekyters, administrators, an' assigns, for yer an' their use an' behoof forever?'

"'I does,' answered the father.

"'You, Mary Wilson, believe this man an' boy; to wit, John Wilson an' son, to be yer husband an' child; an' you do further swear that you are lawfully seized in fee simple, are free from all incumbrance, an' hev good right to sell, bargain an' convey yer own an' husband's name to the principal in this case; to wit, yer son an' heir, his heirs, administrators an' assigns.'

"'I does,' answered the mother, solemnly.

"'Well, John,' said the justice, wiping the perspiration from his brow, 'that'll be about three dollars.'

"'Ain't the child christened yet?'

"'Not yet he ain't,' replied old Scruggins; 'but this is where the fee comes in.'

"The money being paid over, the justice put it in his pocket and went on as follows: 'Know all men by these presents that I, Willyum J. Scruggins, justice of the peace of Waco, in the state of Texas, being in good health an' of sound an' disposin' mind, in consideration of three dollars to me in hand paid, the receipt whereof is hereby acknowledged, do an' by these hev declared the child's name to be Willyum J. Scruggins Wilson, during good behavior an' till otherwise ordered by this court, which now stands adjourned.'"

The Kaiser's Playing Cards.

The playing cards used by the German emperor have old German designs on their faces. The backs are devoted to a symbolical exposition of the triple alliance. The Prussian eagle, the double eagle of Austria and the silver cross of the house of Savoy appear on a red field, surrounded with ivy and surmounted by the imperial crown. Similar designs are introduced at the corners, and the "four colors" are strewn over the card. The picture cards are executed in corresponding style.

SPORTING.

ON THE DIAMCND.

Too much praise or words of encouragement cannot be given to Short-stop "Brit" Martin for the part he took in the Hope-St. Mary game Saturday. His fielding was of the kind that inspires confidence and at no time was it misapplied. He seemed to be here, there and everywhere and he finally became so conspicuous by grabbing everything in sight that the St. Mary rooters shouted to every batsman, "Look out for Martin, he's a dangerous man." The man at the bat knew this full well, but there was no way to avoid the danger. Martin's work at the bat was also very good, and there was more than one rooter in the crowd who predicted he would make his mark in the baseball world. Many other complimentary remarks were passed, but none of them affected "Brit" as he is anything but a grand-stand player.

Saturday afternoon will see another contest on the diamond between two local teams, when the Hope and Clinton Avenue nines meet on the former's grounds. The Clinton Avenue team, since its rejuvenation, has been doing some great work with nines in this vicinity, losing but one of five games. The contest promises to be almost as exciting as that of last Saturday.

The St. Mary team will not play on its own grounds Saturday, a return game being scheduled with the Garwood A. C. Since its defeat in this city a short time ago, the Garwood team has undergone a number of important changes tending to strengthen weak points. The start will be made from the North avenue terminus by trolley at 2 o'clock.

Captain Overbaugh, of the local police nine, has received no word as yet from the Elizabeth blue-coats in regard to the final game in the policemen's series. If possible arrangements will be made to have it played next week.

GOLF.

The qualifying round of the amateur championship of the United States Golf Association was the attraction at Atlantic City yesterday. Frank O. Reinhart and Frank C. Talmage, of this city, were among the well-known golfers to enter. Reinhart, whose partner was W. C. Fownes, Jr., of Pittsburg, qualified with a score of 171 for thirty-six holes. Today Reinhart is scheduled to play No. 1 of tie for last place, which will be determined after the play off. Talmage did not do so well. His score for the thirty-six holes was 180, a little too high to qualify.

An interesting golf match was played last week Friday on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course by the caddy boys. The short nine-hole course around the caddy house was used. Ten caddy boys entered the qualifying round and eight qualified at match play. William O'Loughlin won the prize in the final play. The prize was a cleek offered by Frank O. Reinhart, who, with Frank Talmage, arranged the play. The best score for the afternoon was 22. The boys hope to arrange a similar event once a week during the remainder of the season.

Walter J. Travis, of Garden City, won the honors yesterday with a score of 157, thus leading the crack golfers. There were several who were tied for last place yesterday and the tie was played at one hole the first thing today.

FOOTBALL.

Local athletes who desire to become members of a football team are asked to communicate before Thursday with Frank Emmons, of Washington avenue, or George Gaddis, of Regent street. Applicants must average between 150 and 175 pounds in weight.

ROD AND GUN.

A party composed of H. A. Weber, Simon Mantz, Edward Sebring and George Voehl are spending the week at Barnegat trying their luck in the piscatorial line.

Harvey Drake and Thomas Fahy spent Sunday at Perth Amboy. Drake caught six weak fish while the usually lucky Fahy managed to land but one.

AMONG THE STEPPERS.

Paul Patchen, the speedy trotter, owned by Douglass Darby, of Scotch Plains, captured the purse for second place in the Lebanon races Friday. The horse was entered in the 2:28 class. There were five entries.

—B. W. Pursell, Kintersville, Pa., says he suffered 25 years with piles and could obtain no relief until DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve effected a permanent cure. Counterfeits are worthless. L. W. Randolph.

EXPERIENCED HANDS.

Have Been Brought for Service on Through Trolley Line.

The officials of the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Railway brought to this city last evening, a number of experienced motormen and conductors, who will be placed on the through line. Considerable difficulty has been experienced of late by a shortage of men and the new comers will be placed on regular runs at once. The men came from Jersey City and other places and will reside in the West End.

CITY AND BOROUGH SCHOOLS ARE OPEN.

over 100 pupils enrolled already and last year the highest number of pupils in that department scarcely reached that figure. Last year there were 1,000 pupils, in the Somerset street and Watchung Schools, but today the number far surpasses that.

There were no unusual exercises attending the opening of the High School this morning. Henry A. McGee and James Richard Jov, two of the members of the Borough Board of Education, were present, but they were there merely to lend any assistance required.

No work of any importance will be done today, but tomorrow the school machinery will be in full operation.

BIG CHANGES PROMISED ON LOCAL TROLLEYS.

John Adelmann is to Return as Superintendent From Dunellen to Westfield.

WILL HAVE ENTIRE CHARGE.

FIFTY EXPERIENCED MEN TO BE BROUGHT HERE TO RUN CARS.

Rolling Stock on Local Lines is Worn Out and Will Be Repaired or Replaced—Officials Think Accidents Are Too Many.

It is quite evident that some radical changes are soon to be made in the management of the local trolley. It is stated authoritatively that John Adelmann, formerly superintendent of the Plainfield trolley lines, is to return October 1 and have entire charge of the line between Dunellen and Westfield, and that he will not be interfered with by anyone else as superintendent. Another superintendent will have charge of the line between Westfield and Elizabeth. Mr. Adelman has just recently disposed of his hotel property at New Market and is making arrangements to accept his new position.

It is reported that there is also to be some changes among the motormen and conductors, and that only men of experience will be employed to run the cars. Yesterday a report was in circulation that nearly fifty men are to be brought from Kingston, N. Y., to this city, where they will be gradually broken in on the local trolley lines. This change is attributed to Mr. Taylor, who was recently appointed an official in place of Mr. Husband, resigned.

The officials of the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company are convinced that there are too many accidents on the trolley lines and it is believed that this has had much to do with the many changes now being planned.

While the company is planning to make changes among the men, it is believed that a change in the rolling stock will also be made. Some of the cars now used in this city would not be tolerated five minutes in some places. They are worn out and not fit to be run on any line. However, it is understood that the company intend to thoroughly overhaul the rolling stock and give the patrons the best of service. The new car sheds at Westfield are gradually nearing completion. When this work is finished all cars will probable be started from that place every morning.

QUALIFIED AS SHARPSHOOTER.

Capt. W. K. Browning Made a Fine Score at Sea Girt.

Captain W. Kempton Browning, of Company K, returned from Sea Girt yesterday, where he visited the rifle range. It will be gratifying to his many friends to know that he qualified as a sharpshooter, making a score of 63 out of a possible 70 on the two ranges. While Company K was in camp last summer Captain Browning performed some excellent work on the range, and yesterday's result shows that he has greatly improved in his work. Harold Whitney accompanied Captain Browning. He made five straight bulls eyes, and then missed the target twice owing to the heavy winds.

The Summer Guests Have Gone But New Ones Have Come—Who They Are.

Though the summer is fast drawing to a close the Hotel Netherwood gives no signs of a waining season. Guests for the summer are gradually leaving, but in their places come many, whose time of rest is restricted and they have chosen the cool days of September.

ANOTHER BAND CONCERT.

LaVere's Band to Give Musical Feast Provided Funds Are Raised.

Within the past few days, Ben LaVere has been working to secure funds for another band concert, which will be the concluding one of the season. So far his efforts have been attended with fair success and there is a possibility of the concert being given within two weeks. The last one, however, was given before the full amount of its cost was subscribed and this deficit must be paid. The prospective concert will not take place until all expenses are guaranteed as Mr. LaVere finished the season last year considerably out of pocket.

The latest contributions are as follows: George H. Chapman, $5; Miss Ada Marsh, $5; Dr. Duncan, $5; cash, $4.50.

FINALLY CAPTURED.

Two Colored Men, Long Wanted by the Police, Apprehended in House on Paradise Alley.

After eluding the police for the past three weeks, Eugene and Walter Britton, two colored men, suddenly found themselves in the toils of the law at the unseemly hour of 2 o'clock this morning. Acting Chief Frederickson had learned of their whereabouts and detailed Roundsman Flynn and Patrolman McGinley to bring them to headquarters. They obeyed instructions and the Brittons were taken from bed in a house on Paradise Alley where they have been keeping under cover.

The two men, together with Lewis Moon and Lottie Hurley, engaged in a free for all fracas at the residence of Mrs. Charles Kinney, on the Boulevard, early last month. Moon was arrested and subsequently released on his own recognizance to appear for trial when the remainder of the quartette was apprehended. The Hurley woman has left town and the Brittons eluded arrest until this morning. Owing to the absence of City Judge Runyon they will not be given a hearing until this evening.

NO MORE HARANGUES.

Police Decide That Socialistic Meetings at Street Corners be Given up Hereafter.

The police department has sent forth the edict that in the future no orators with arguments for the supremacy of the masses as upheld by Socialistic doctrines, will be allowed to harangue from street corners.

For the past year this privilege has been granted and some of the speeches have been of the most incendiary nature. In view of the circumstances which led to the shooting of President McKinley, it was deemed best to adopt this course at once.

PRESIDENT IS BETTER; CLAM BAKE ASSURED.

Final Details Of Union County Republicans' Outing Were Made Last Night.

BY THE COUNTY COMMITTEE

ALSO PASSED RESOLUTIONS OF SYMPATHY FOR THE PRESIDENT.

As President's Recovery Seems Assured, Plans Go Forward—Many Leaders Expected—The Committee In Charge.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Sept. 11—A meeting of the Union County Republican committee was held in the Dix building last evening, when further action was taken regarding the proposed clambake and resolutions regarding the attempted assassination of President McKinley were adopted. Hamilton F. Kean, chairman of the committee, was in the chair. It was thought that owing to the condition of the President the bake would have to be given up, but his improved condition has dispelled all doubt and arrangements are now being completed for the outing which will be held at the Recreation Park, Saturday, September 21.

The following resolutins in reference to President and Mrs. McKinley were adopted:

Resolved, That we extend our sympathy to President McKinley and to his devoted wife, suffering for our country's sake, and we are profoundly grateful to learn that the murderous attempt on the President's life is likely to fail.

That the cruel and horrible attempt to murder the President of the United States has shown the necessity for the enactment of laws adequate for the protection of officials elected to high office by the people and charged with the administration of government. As their lives are exposed to dangers, from which others are exempt, laws especially adopted for their protection should be enacted.

That the right of free speech and the right to assemble for the discussion of public affairs must no longer be perverted so as to protect or tolerate assassins and enemies of all government while teaching anarchy and conspiring to murder.

That in our judgment laws should be carefully framed and promptly enacted by Congress and the State Legislatures making it a highly criminal offense, punishable by the severest penalty that can be inflicted, for any one to form, belong to or participate in any society or organization designed to promote anarchy, or to murder either the President of the United States or the governor of any State and those nearest in succession to the offices of President and governor; and

That all who incite or aid in any way in the assassination of the President or governor of any State or participate in any conspiracy for that purpose, no matter how remotely, shall be equally guilty with and suffer the same penalty as those who actually commit the crime.

The committee in charge of the bake has issued 2,500 tickets and they will be ready for distribution tomorrow. They will be sold at $1 each. It is expected that there will be fully two thousand people at the bake including Governor Voorhees, Congressman Fowler, Senator Kean, Franklin Murphy, Major Lentz, all of the prominent members of the Camden County Republican organization, Essex and Hudson county politicians of prominence and many politicians who are well known about the State House. The members of the Republican Club, of Rahway, will attend in a body.

Arrangements will be made to have plenty to eat for everyone. It has not been definitely decided whether Nat Astfalk, of Elizabeth, or a man from Pleasure Bay, will take charge of the bake. The members of the county committee who will be in charge are Ellis B. Meeker, of Elizabeth, chairman; Andrew McCardell, R. F. Murray, of this city; James White, of Elizabeth; Charles N. Codding, of Westfield; Milton E. Warren, of Cranford; S. Busling Ryno, of Rahway. Tickets for the bake can be secured from any of the above members.

Those from this city who attended the meeting last evening were Roger F. Murray, W. T. Kirk, Andrew McCardell and Collector F. H. Smith.

MARTINE AT ESSEX CO. DEMOCRATIC OUTING.

Drafted Resolutions of Sympathy to President, Which Were Adopted.

CROWD THERE FOR SEYMOUR

OUTING WAS A BIG ONE, FULLY 2,200 BEING PRESENT.

Was No Speech-making, But Mr. Martine Offered a Resolution—Former Senator Smith Would Not Talk.

Avon-by-the-Sea, N. J., Sept. 11.—A typical Rhode Island clambake was held at this place yesterday under the auspices of the Essex county Democratic committee and fully 2,200 followers of Jefferson enjoyed the outing.

David B. Hill did not appear and hence the speechmaking scheduled was dispensed with. James E. Martine, the Farmer Orator, of Plainfield, was on hand early and mingled in the many discussions concerning proposed gubernatorial timber. Mr. Martine won the approval of the crowd by offering a resolution of condemnation of the dastardly attempt on President McKinley's life, and when submitted it was passed by the unanimous vote of the Democrats.

In detail the resolution is:

"Resolved, That the Democrats of Essex county take this opportunity to express utter detestation and condemnation of the cowardly attempt on President McKinley's life. In such a crisis partisanship is lost and overawed by our patriotism and love of order and country. It is our earnest hope that the President may be spared to complete the term for which the American people elected him, and we extend our heartfelt sympathy to his wife and family."

Although many efforts were made by the followers of Former Senator Smith to prevent any demonstration for Mayor Seymour, the latter's boom for the governorship nomination took quite a lift. Nearly the entire delegation from Essex, according to all reports, favor Seymour and they displayed the Seymour buttons prominently. Smith would not declare his choice.

At the dinner 80,000 clams, 1,500 lobsters and 800 chickens were consumed.

AT THE THEATRES.

Something About the Attractions Which Plainfield Theatre-Goers May Care to Witness.

Next week at Keith's Union Square Theatre, New York, The Great Cinquevalli will appear. It is nearly twenty years since first in wonder and amaze, people contemplated the performance of M. Paul Cinquevalli, and now he returns to America, after an absence of five years, with all the charm of novelty. Cinquevalli is without doubt the greatest jugler the world has ever known. He has the distinguished honor of having performed before all the crowned heads of Europe. It is a safe prediction that he will be the talk of New York after his first exhibition. There are many other excellent acts on next week's bill, among them the Eight English Roses; Tom Nawn and Company, "Pat and the Genii;" Keno, Welk and Melrose, grotesque acrobatic comedy; Callahan and Mack, Irish comedians; Charlotte Geyer George, a gifted contralto; Collins and North, eccentric comedians; Seeker, Wilkes and Seeker; Jacklin and Ingram, Rosse, and many others. The feature this week proved wonderfully attractive. The act was styled "The Eight English Roses." It was Mr. Keith's latest importation, direct from London, and was presented by eight beautiful, well-gown typical English girls, who entertained with a combination of mirth, melody and motion that pleased the eye and ear and appealed to the artistic sense as a rare novelty and a delightful entertainment. There were twenty other acts on the bill worthy of mention, among the artists being America's greatest humorist, the inimitable Fred Niblo. Continuous performance from noon to 10:30 p. m. THE DANGER PASSED

President McKinley's Condition Continues to Improve.

PHYSICIANS EXPRESS CONFIDENCE.

Vice President and Senator Hanna Leave For Their Homes Assured That the Wounded Man Is Steadily Gaining.

BUFFALO, Sept. 11.—The corps of eminent surgeons and physicians in attendance upon the wounded president commit themselves without reservation to the opinion that their patient is out of danger and that only the possibility of complications threaten his life. They do not give assurance of his recovery collectively over their signature in an official bulletin. That is more than can be asked in reason. Scientific men, no matter how strong their convictions may be, cannot be expected to assume the grave responsibility of officially proclaiming the certainty of the recovery of a man lying on a bed of pain with a bullet hole in his stomach, but they go a long way toward it individually and separately each of them with the exception of Dr. Rixey, who has placed himself squarely on record, not privately to the friends of the president, but publicly through the agency of the press, that the danger point has passed and that the president will survive the attempt upon his life.

"Of course we will all feel easier when a week has passed," said Dr. McBurney, the dean of the corps. "We would like to see every door locked and double locked, but the danger from possible complications is now very remote."

Thousands of men are today walking the earth in perfect health with much larger chunks of lead in their bodies. The X ray machine is ready for instant use, however, and if there is the slightest inflammation or pain in the vicinity of the bullet an operation will be performed.

The vice president, members of the cabinet, Senator Hanna and the other distinguished friends of the president who have remained here to await the issue accept the verdict of the physicians as practically conclusive, and there has been an exodus of those who considered their presence no longer necessary. Vice President Roosevelt left last evening for his home at Oyster Bay, Senator Hanna returned to Cleveland on business to be gone two days, and Comptroller Dawes has gone to Washington. Abner McKinley, the president's brother, will remain a few days longer, but his family have returned home, and Mrs. Duncan and several other relatives of the president have gone. Judge Day, long and closely associated with the president, has returned to Canton. The five members of the cabinet still here will remain a few days rather as friends who have been intimately associated with the president for years than as public officials.

Vice President Roosevelt left the city last night at 9:30 for Oyster Bay perfectly confident that the president will recover. So confident was he, in fact, that when a question of doubt was put to him he answered it with a parry. He was asked, "Do you remember that President Garfield progressed for ten days and that then just when he was ready to get out he collapsed and finally died?"

Quick as thought the vice president answered: "Ah, but you forget twenty years of modern surgery of progress! From what I can learn also the Garfield wound was much more serious than the wound of President McKinley. I believe that the president will recover, and I believe it so thoroughly that I will leave here at once."

Questioned as to the mode of procedure so far as the state was concerned, he said: "I see no need for the call of an extraordinary grand jury. The grand jury now in session, composed of American citizens, will undoubtedly take care of the would be assassin, and the authorities of Erie county will for county, state and national pride make a vigorous prosecution. Unless Governor Odell is asked to interfere I see no need of his calling an extra term or deputizing an assistant attorney general to prosecute."

Asked as to the enacting of legislation against anarchists, he said: "I have not thought much on the matter. What has disturbed me has been to find a reason for even anarchists to attack a man like President McKinley. Here is the one country where they are allowed perfect freedom of speech. Here as the ruler is a man descended from farmer stock, self made. Here is a man who has no fortune or no means other than that which he may manage to save out of his salary as president. Probably many a workingman in the United States today has as large an amount of real estate as Mr. McKinley. In addition he is a kindly disposed Christian gentleman, and in every great emergency in which he could act he has been a friend of the common people. Why should he be shot at, then, even by anarchists?"

The president's physicians have been impressed with his remarkable recuperative powers and the rapidity of his improvement. Ordinarily an incision for such an operation as was performed upon the chief executive should heal within three weeks, but in the president's case it may be strong enough for him to be moved a little sooner. The president will be taken direct to Washington as soon as it is safe to move him.

Within the sickroom many evidences of the president's improvement are apparent. The president himself begins to show confidence in his ability to care for himself, and from time to time he will carefully turn himself and gain a more restful position. The nurses naturally observed with care these evidences of growing strength and courage and are ready to see that there is no undue tax on the president's strength or the straining of the wound. These slight movements from side to side are all that he has attempted thus far, and it is too early yet to think of his sitting up in bed or of any other marked use of his muscles.

A most important development is the private determination reached among those in charge of the case that food should be administered to the patient today by the mouth and not by the rectum. Not since the shooting has a morsel of food been given to the president by natural means, but the drain on his system has been met by dissolved foods administered by injection.

The importance of this feeding by the mouth is that it will restore the normal action of the stomach for the first time since that organ had both its walls pierced by a bullet. The doctors are satisfied that the time has come to renew these normal functions, and the five days which have elapsed since the wounds in the stomach were closed give every assurance that the sutures are sufficiently healed to allow nature to resume her sway.

Although the house is fairly embowered with flowers, sent as tokens of sympathy and gratitude, none of the sweet scented blossoms is taken to the president's chamber. The most rigid system of simplicity prevails there, and sentiment is not allowed to qualify the stern requirements of the case. The only persons admitted to the sickroom other than the doctors and attendants were Mrs. McKinley and Secretary Cortelyou.

Although pronounced out of danger, no member of the cabinet has yet been within the sickroom, nor has the vice president or those closest to the confidence of the president, such as Senator Hanna and Judge Day, seen the president. But these restrictions established by the doctors are merely for the sake of encouraging every particle of energy in the patient, and relatives and friends alike accept the rigorous policy as decidedly for the best. Secretary Cortelyou sees the president much as the doctors and nurses do. There is never a breath of business, public or private, and at no time has there been the slightest reference to anything connected with the president's duties.

In referring to this one of the president's associates who was present at the operation said Dr. Mann displayed his consummate skill and calmness by going about the operation as if the patient was a child with a slight complaint. And yet Dr. Mann has since told a friend that when he realized the duty before him, although he had performed hundreds of operations of laparotomy, he would have sacrificed all he possessed to have escaped the terrible responsibility of operating upon the president of the United States.

Some uneasiness was caused last night because of the length of the consultation of physicians, and this was somewhat increased when it was learned that Dr. McBurney, who had intended to leave for Stockbridge, Conn., at 11:20, had missed his train and had decided to remain over until tonight, but the doctor himself did all he could to dispel the idea that the change in his plans portended anything serious. It was 11:20 when the physicians emerged from the house. They had been in consultation an hour and fifty minutes and announced to the waiting newspaper men that the president's condition was unchanged in every important particular.

As explained in the bulletin which all the doctors signed, it seems that a small fragment of the president's coat had been carried into the body by the bullet, and although this foreign substance was removed a slight disturbance developed which made necessary the opening of the wound. The doctors seek to allay all apprehension by the positive statement that this incident cannot give rise to other complications, and their frankness in giving the news to the public leaves no reason to question their entire good faith. The further fact communicated in the bulletin that the president was now well enough to begin taking nourishment in the mouth in the form of pure beef juice was of course gratifying, but to the laymen the mere mention of a complication, however slight it might be, naturally created alarm. It seemed like a little cloud on the horison which might grow and spread. But the most positive assurances were given that the only effect might be to slightly delay the healing of the wound. The irritation was not in any way the result even of a suggestion of blood poisoning, and the physicians declared over their own signatures that it could not result in complications. The opening of the wound was in no sense an operation. Several of the stitches were simply taken out, and after a thorough antiseptic washing of the inflamed tissue the wound was again sewed up. No anæsthetics were necessary. Considerable delay was caused by the fact that a certain dressing desired by the surgeons was not in the house, and it was necessary to send into the city for it. The first time the messenger returned he did not have what was wanted, and he had to make another trip.

After the bulletin was issued Secretary Cortelyou and Mr. Milburn came to the press tent to dispel any alarm that might have arisen with positive assurances of the unimportance of the incident.

Maggio's Record.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 11.—An investigation of the local record of Antonio Maggio, the Italian who is said to have predicted the death of President McKinley and who is under arrest in New Mexico, reveals the fact that he was the leader of a considerable band of anarchists in Kansas City two years ago. These men held regular meetings in the rear of a barber shop kept by Maggio, and it is stated that the "removal" of the president of the United States was the principal subject of discussion. Maggio and his associates, all of whom were Italians, were disciples of Emma Goldman, for whom Maggio had a sort of veneration. It was from her, it is said, that Maggio imbibed his anarchistic ideas. One of Maggio's associates still in the city is known to the police, but has not been arrested.

The News Killed Him.

YORK, Pa., Sept. 11.—Robert A. Thompson of Red Lion, aged eighty years, is dead as the result of shock produced by the news of the attempted assassination of President McKinley. "It is more than I can bear; it will kill me!" he exclaimed on hearing the news. He was in the best of health previously, but soon became ill, and doctors were unable to save his life.

Rejoicing In Berlin.

BERLIN, Sept. 11.—Everybody here rejoices in the reassuring dispatches as to the condition of President McKinley. Public interest in the outcome has in no way abated. A fine picture of Mr. McKinley in the window of the office of the Lokal Anzeiger attracted crowds, those who studied it commenting upon his characteristic features.

A Fund For Parker.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 11.—A fund for Jim Parker, who saved President McKinley's life, has been started in this city. The Herald being made custodian of the fund. The managers of the Grand Opera House have agreed to give 25 per cent of Wednesday night's performance to the cause.

Killed In a Canning Factory.

ROME, N. Y., Sept. 11.—While at work in the United States canning factory here Miss Lenore E. Haynes, aged twenty-six years, was caught in the machinery and thrown around a shafting. She died a few minutes after from the effects of her injuries.

GOLDMAN ARRESTED

Female Anarchist Found Hiding In Chicago.

DENIES COMPLICITY WITH CZOLGOSZ

But Admits Having Met the President's Assailant In July—An Interview For Publication.

CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—Emma Goldman, the anarchist, has been arrested in this city. She had been sought by the police ever since the man who shot President McKinley declared that her anarchistic writings had led him to make the attempt on the president's life.

The woman was arrested by Captain Schuttler of the Lake View police station. She was in hiding in a house at 300 Sheffield avenue. She was taken immediately to the Central police station and questioned by Mayor Harrison, Chief O'Neill and newspaper men. She admitted having met Czolgosz, but said she had not seen him since July 12, when he was in Chicago.

Under cross examination the Goldman woman made the following statement:

"I do not know Czolgosz. There was no plot against anybody, so far as I know. I am sure the man who shot President McKinley acted without instigation. He was certainly not prompted by me, and I am sure none of the Isaaks or other anarchists I know had anything to do with his foolish act."

The anarchistic lecturer wore a white shirt waist of fine material, a dark blue

cheviot skirt, patent leather boots and a straw hat encircled by a dotted veil. She took a chair in the middle of the room and faced the little group of inquisitors with an air of confidence.

Later in the day Miss Goldman was interviewed in the woman's annex at the police station by a reporter and a stenographic report taken. Miss Goldman said:

"I feel sure that the police are helping us more than I could do in ten years. They are making more anarchists than the most prominent people connected with the anarchist cause could make in ten years. If they will only continue, I shall be very grateful. They will save me lots of work."

Asked if she had been on the downtown streets before her arrest, she answered:

"Certainly I have. I have been shopping—went to Fields'; have been in restaurants; in fact, I passed the city hall several times.

"The police knew positively that I was coming," she continued, "because I wrote on Friday from St. Louis both to Mr. Havel and to Mr. Norris that I would come Sunday if I got through with my business on Saturday, and if so I would telegraph them the hour of my arrival. I also said that if I did not come on Sunday I would surely come on Monday or Tuesday. These letters they must have seen at 515 Carroll avenue."

"What do you think of your own arrest?" she was asked.

"If I told you," she replied, "it would look somewhat conceited, and I certainly would not like to be guilty of that. Not only my arrest, but the others, smack of the Haymarket. The police are very much in disrepute all over the country, and they wish to do something to clear themselves. They are trying to make it an anarchist plot. If they wish to make up a case, they may succeed."

Referring to the attempt on the life of the president, Miss Goldman said:

"It is a dirty trick to charge in the newspaper reports that it was the result of an anarchist plot. Mark Hanna has been the ruler of this country, not McKinley. McKinley has been the most insignificant ruler that this country has ever had. He has neither wit nor intelligence, but has been a tool in the hands of Mark Hanna. Other presidents have had a heart or something, but this poor fellow—God forgive him, since he knows nothing!—is a tool in the hands of the wealthy, and it seems very remarkable for Mark Hanna to say that he was notified of a plot for his assassination. I think McKinley too insignificant for such a thing."

"What man in the United States, in your opinion, is of sufficient prominence to warrant such a plot?" she was asked.

"I am not in position to say," replied Miss Goldman, "who ought to be killed. The monopolists and the wealthy of this country are responsible for the existence of a Czolgosz. If imperialism would not grow in this country, if the liberties of the people were not trampled under foot, there would have been no violence."

Referring to the would be assassin Miss Goldman said:

"I feel that the man is one of those unfortunates who has been driven by despair and misery to commit the deed. I feel very deeply with him as an individual, as I would feel with anybody who suffers. If I had means, I would help him as much as I could. I would see that he had counsel and that justice was done him."

Asked if she thought Czolgosz's act was praiseworthy from her viewpoint, she answered: "I am not in a position to say whether it was good or bad. It is bad for the man who attempted to do. I am not in his boots and know nothing about it. What I don't see is why they should make more fuss over the president than anybody else. All men are born equal."

"But some men rise above the equality of birth," a reporter suggested. "We are all interested in the man whom we have made our chief."

"I don't think men put him in office. I think money put him in office," remarked Miss Goldman. In reference to Czolgosz's alleged statement that he was inspired by a lecture of Miss Goldman's in Cleveland the prisoner said: "As I have repeatedly said, it is foolish to think that this man would claim that he did that deed alone and unaided and at the same time claim that I inspired him. If he had accomplices and still claims that he was acting alone, do you think he would have singled me out as the only friend he would not protect by assuming entire responsibility? He might have heard me in Cleveland, for I lectured there twice May 6 last.

"I was born in St. Petersburg thirty-two years ago. I came to this country with my sister, who is now in Rochester, sixteen years ago. I speak Russian, German, French and English. I came from the middle class in Russia, but my heart has always been with the poor and downtrodden. The injustice of the Haymarket prosecution made an anarchist of me. I have taught the creed of anarchy ever since."

FOR A BABY OF THIS SIZE

Or a baby of any size, when suffering from simple fevers, coated tongue, constipation, or any trouble arising from the stomach, the purest, safest and best remedy is LAXAKOLA, the great tonic laxative.

Mothers, watch your children carefully. Their health, perhaps their lives, depend on keeping their bowels regular. Many parents make a fatal mistake by giving their little children the old-fashioned, violent purgatives which are racking and griping, and are therefore not only unpleasant, but dangerous. Make no mistake, give them

LAXAKOLA

It does not gripe nor irritate. It is a pure, gentle, speedy and painless liquid laxative. It is not only a sure laxative, but it contains valuable tonic properties which act upon the bowels, tone up the entire system and purify the blood.

A few drops can be given with safety to very young babies, and it will often relieve colic by expelling the wind and gas that cause it. It will aid digestion, relieve restlessness, assist nature and induce sleep.

For constipation, simple fevers, coated tongue, or any infantile troubles arising from a disordered condition of the stomach it is invaluable. Great relief is experienced when administered to young children suffering from diarrhœa, accompanied with white or green evacuations, as LAXAKOLA neutralizes the acidity of the bowels and carries out the cause of the fermentation.

LAXAKOLA FOR THE COMPLEXION

Blotched, sallow, unwholesome and muddy skin, with its consequent mortification, often leading to morbid seclusion and aversion to society and friends, shows that your blood is bad. The only way to clear the complexion and restore it to its normal, healthy, velvety condition is to clean out the entire system, purify the blood and remove the causes, and Laxakola does it, as well as acting directly on the pores and assisting the perspiratory glands in throwing off impurities. It purifies the blood as no other medicine can, and your skin will not only be well but you will be well. At druggists, 25c. and $1.00. Send for free sample to LAXAKOLA CO., 120 Nassau Street, New York, or 356 Dearborn Street, Chicago.

Sea Girt Shooting Contest.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—After eleven days of actual work on the state camp ranges at Sea Girt, N. J., the international riflemen wound up the annual meeting of the National Rifle Association of America yesterday. The final contest was an all comers' match at 800, 900 and 1,000 yards. Thirty-three men entered for the contest, which began on Monday. It was shot in two stages, each man having ten shots at all ranges each day. Frank Hyde of New York, who used a Lee-Remington match rifle, won out with an actual score of 275 points, and this, supplemented by an allowance of seven, made his gross score 282. The next best gross total was that of Dr. J. C. Sellars of Dundalk, Ireland, who had 279. Major J. K. Millner and Thomas Caldwell, both of the Ulster Rifle association, tied, with 278 each, but as Millner had made the better score on the 1,000 yard range he secured third place.

Baseball Club Goes to Pieces.

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 11.—The financial collapse of the Hartford baseball club of the Eastern league occurred yesterday. Salaries for about two weeks are due the men, and the treasury is empty. The men did not show up at the grounds yesterday afternoon, where a game was scheduled with the Worcesters, and so far as the management is concerned the team is permanently out of the league. The team has lost about $4,800 this year over the receipts, including all of the capital stock, about $2,000 advanced by stockholders to help pull the team through and unpaid bills of about $1,200.

Did Not Name a Candidate.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Sept. 11.—The Democratic state central and executive committees by a vote of 11 to 7 defeated the proposition to nominate a candidate for United States senator by a popular primary election and referred the matter to the next Democratic state convention, which will meet in 1903. Former Governor McCreary and Judge James E. Cantrill appeared before the committee and stated that they did not oppose the primary plan, but regarded it as impracticable. Congressmen Wheeler and Smith, the other two candidates, favored it.

Autos Reach Albany.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 11.—Fourteen motor vehicles in the endurance test of the Automobile Club of America reached here before the "control" opened for the end of the day. The first to receive the timer's signature was the roadbook of David Wolf Bishop, who drove a thirty horsepower motor. Next in line stood the twelve horsepower semiracing car of Bradford B. McGregor and after him Colonel John Jacob Astor in his 1,900 pound gasoline vehicle. The last automobile, the sixty-sixth, arrived at 8:53.

Is It to Be Smith?

Is it possible that Former United States Senator James Smith, Jr., is coming out for the Democratic nomination for governor? Such is the rumor which emanated from Newark Sunday and which the former Senator has refused to confirm or deny. That that well-known Democratic leader is seriously thinking of entering the field against Mayor Seymour is quite evident from the mere fact that he did not deny the story off hand. His opposition to Mr. Seymour is well-known and it may be that he thinks this the only way to bring about his defeat in the race for the gubernatorial nomination.

While the Democratic State convention is still three weeks away, it will not be very long before the delegates for that convention will be chosen. Then will come the battle. For a long time the name of Mayor Seymour, of Newark, has occupied a conspicuous place. His friends have worked earnestly for him and Col. Price has engineered the boom with skill. The redoubtable Robert Davis, of Hudson, has been emphatic in his support of the Seymour boom. But the Essex County committee of the Democrats has labored against it. Other men have been mentioned, among them James E. Martine, of this city, but these booms have not assumed magnitude enough to figure sufficiently in the race. South Jersey has had several men.

The great Democratic strongholds are Essex and Hudson. Naturally the nomination is likely to go to one or the other. It was on account of his acknowledged popularity in Essex that the Seymour boom depends for much of its strength. In order to beat him, it is believed by some that there should be another Essex candidate, and so it may be that these two sons of Essex, Seymour and Smith, will be arrayed against each other when the Democrats gather at Trenton for the State convention.

Governor Will Act.

The action of Governor Voorhees regarding the anarchists of New Jersey will undoubtedly win for him universal commendation all over the State. With thousands of other good citizens of New Jersey, the Governor is horrified at the despicable crime which was attempted at Buffalo. He is convicted that it is time for the State to act. Under the present wording of the law, there is practically nothing that the State authorities can do unless the crime is committed within the confines of the State. Therefore there must be new legislation if anything is to be accomplished.

The Governor is quoted with the following statement:—

"A law is be prepared, and will be enacted by the next Legislature beyond the remotest shadow of a doubt, that will fill the bill completely. It will allow us to prosecute participants in any conspiracy in New Jersey that results directly or indirectly in the assassination of any ruler the world over, or the murder of any person in or out of New Jersey. The conspirators will be treated as accessories before the fact, and the charge will be murder. If convicted they will suffer just the same punishment as if they were convicted of aiding or abetting in any ordinary case of murder."

It is announced on the authority of the proprietor of a well known food preparation says the Philadelphia Record that a manufacturing concern has offered a million and a half for his business. Besides the value of his plant, he has drawn enormous yearly profits from his establishment. He affirms that he owes his success chiefly to advertising in the leading daily newspapers, without which there could have been no widespread demand for his product.

The appointment of David M. Runyon as cashier of the First National Bank was expected. He has served that institution faithfully and well and when the late cashier, F. S. Runyon, was called to a better land, it was but fitting that the promotion should come to him. He has a host of friends in this city who are glad to see him thus advanced.

Good judgment is required in selecting a sleeping place as well as in anything else. Some time ago a man in Pennsylvania laid down on the railroad track for a nap. They took all that was left of him to the hospital. Now a man went to sleep on the edge of a dock on New York Harbor. He woke up in the water.

The action of the Councilmanic street committee in repairing the macadam surface on Watchung avenue between North avenue and East Fifth street is one which will be much appreciated by the residents who are called upon to frequently traverse that thoroughfare. The improvement is a worthy one.

During the absence of Chief Kiely, the safety of the community rests in the hadds of Sergeant Frederickson. There are few, indeed, of the city officials who have served Plainfield so indefatigably as he.

After a season in which much good has been accomplished, the Fresh Air Camp at Westfield has been closed. The local Endeavorers took a very active part in conducting that worthy charity.

Throngs of people consult The Daily Press bulletins daily to learn the latest news concerning President McKinley's condition. And they find it there.

There are so many children in the city and borough that the local school authorities are having their troubles to provide for them all.

It would be a worthy plan if a proper sidewalk were laid on the west side of Madison avenue, between Front street and the brook.

Plainfield has been very fortunate in the selection of the new instructors at the city High School.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short and Gossipy Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

A Plainfielder, who has just returned from Canada, says that a forcible illustration of the McKinley idea of Pan-Americanism was evident in the Dominion on the occasion of the announcement of the mishap to the President. At Hamilton, Woodstock and London large crowds assembled about bulletin boards eagerly scanning the despatches from Washington, and many expressions for the recovery of the Chief Magistrate were to be heard.

* * * *

A few days ago a forlorn looking man called at the shop of a Somerset street merchant and requested payment of a small bill for work done for the merchant's wife. At first the storekeeper doubted whether the man presenting the bill was the right party.

"What does she look like; is she good looking?"

"Oh, no!" replied the man with emphasis on the word of negative.

"Take your money," said the merchant without a moment's hesitation.

The merchant's wife in some manner heard of the conversation related above and is vowing to make the man's face an illustration of anti-beauty if she ever gets hold of him.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May Be Of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

The rumor that Senator Mahlon Pitney, of Morris county, because of his recent appointment as a justice of the Supreme Court will resign from the Republican State Committee, probably is true. The accompanying rumor that his successor has already been selected by Morris county's leading Republicans lacks confirmation. Daniel Voorhees and Assemblyman Garrison have, however, been mentioned for the place.—New York Tribune.

Same Old Story.

Several days ago Mrs. Mary Clawson, of Liberty street, lost a valuable lodge pin. She advertised her loss in The Daily Press and the next day the pin was returned. Another evidence that advertising in The Press pays.

Engaged a Band.

The West End Hose Company has engaged the services of James' Band, of Elizabeth, for the festivities attending the fire department parade.

—Housewives are admonished that it is time to can peaches, pears, etc., and Neuman Bros. has a large variety to select from.

Betts, originally illustrated from many photographs lately taken for the purpose by Henry Hoyt Moore. Mr. Riis' "The Making of an American" is also very fully illustrated; the chapter in this issue tells the story of New York police reform under Commissioner Roosevelt. Other illustrated articles are "The New Bishop of London," by William Durban, "In the Cotton Fields," by Max Bennett Thrasher, and "A Philippine Educational Exhibit." ($3 a year. The Outlook Company, 287 Fourth avenue, New York).

RESULT OF FALL.

Richard Waring, of Park Avenue Suffering From Abscess in Eye.

Richard Waring, of Park avenue, is suffering considerably with an abscess that is forming in his eye. Recently, he was playing polo at Meadowbrook Club, L. I., and was thrown from his horse. In falling he went under the horse, and it is believed that some dirt got in the eye thus causing the abscess to form. Last Sunday Mr. Waring, in company with A. R. Fisk, was horseback riding at Southampton, L. I., when the horses collided and both riders were thrown from their mounts. Neither one sustained any severe injury.

Pressing Progress.

Mrs. Whyte—I hear that you have sent your daughter to Bryn Mawr. Is she learning rapidly?

Mrs. Browne—Yes, indeed! She can spell the name of the college now the first time trying.—Somerville Journal.

Unsociability of Royalty.

Entertaining the king and queen of England is not invariably an affair of mutual sociability. It not infrequently happens that the host and hostess of royalty see very little of their distinguished guests. In many great country houses the royal suite of rooms forms a self-contained flat, to which even a garden is sometimes attached, and dinner has become the only household meal which the royal guests are expected to share with their hostess and the latter's family.—N. Y. World.

The Greatest Grapevine.

North Carolina can boast the largest grapevine in the world. It is on the farm of B. F. Meekins, Roanoke Island, not far from the site of Fort Raleigh and near the birthplace of Virginia Dare. It is claimed that the vine was planted by Sir Walter Raleigh's ill-fated colony in 1587. It is of the Scuppernong variety, covers an acre of ground, and yields about a ton of grapes annually.—Iowa State Register.

Siamese Don't Want Christianity.

Hamilton King, consul general of the United States in Siam, says the people of that country do not want the Christian religion. They are believers in the Buddhistic faith, the faith of their fathers, of their king and of their country. But the king is willing they should learn of Christianity, and missionary work goes on unhindered.—Indianapolis Journal.

Not Popular with the Small Boy.

Small Girl—What do you think about men and boys wearing girls' shirt waists, anyway?

Small Boy (in his sister's bloomers and shirt waist, savagely)—I don't like it! It was bad enough when we boys had to wear our big brother's old clothes, but I kick at having to wear out my sister's old things, too.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Slow.

Towne—Isn't he the most tiresome talker you ever heard?

Browne—Yes, he reminds me of a woman sharpening a pencil.

"Sets your nerves on edge, eh?"

"Not only that, but it takes him so long to get to the point."—Philadelphia Press.

The Man Who Tells Secrets.

We dislike the man who is always telling us "secrets," and asking us "not to say anything." A certain man in this town has been telling us secrets for 20 years, and never yet told us anything worth repeating.—Atchison Globe.

Advice.

"Don't you think you think of yourself too much?"

"Well, I don't know."

"You really ought to have something to occupy your mind."—Detroit Free Press.

A Draw.

May—Jack bet Bess that he'd be engaged before she was.

Pamela—Which won?

"Neither. They're engaged to each other."—Puck.

Information for Him.

"Surely, you did not consider my affection merely Platonic?"

"Well, I hoped it was — for your sake!"—Puck.

Witchcraft in Normandy.

Superstition of the grossest kind still flourishes all over Normandy. A most respectable old gentleman recently died in a village near Dieppe, who, although he was both wealthy and charitable, had for years before his death been under taboo by the villagers. He had the reputation of being a sorcerer. The belief in witches and sorcerers is still rampant at the beginning of the twentieth century all over this province. These evilly disposed persons, such is the popular credence, can cast spells, whereby cattle peak and pine and harvests fail. This in a province where there are the shrewdest heads in France. And it is in the rural districts only that these absurd beliefs obtain. I was in Rouen some time ago—the capital of Normandy—and found there flourishing a superstition and its resultant rites which date from before the Christian era, indeed, more than 20 centuries before our era.—Boston Transcript.

A Tall Smoke Column.

During the burning of the Standard Oil company's tanks at Bayonne, N. J., in July, 1900, an immense column of smoke, shaped at the top like an umbrella, rose into the air, where very little wind was stirring, to an elevation, measured by triangulation, of 13,411 feet, or more than two miles and a half. Above the column white clouds formed in an otherwise cloudless sky, and remained visible for two days, the fire continuing to burn and the smoke to rise. After the explosion of a gas oil-tank flames shot up to a height of 3,000 feet, and the heat radiated from them was felt at a distance of a mile and three-quarters, where it was more noticeable than close to the fire.—Youth's Companion.

Long in England's Service.

It appears that the 69 years of the Sprague family in the Gibraltar consulate are outdone by the services of the Fox family at Falmouth, England, which has lasted 107 years, the first American consul there having been Robert W. Fox, grandfather of the present incumbent, whom President Washington appointed May 30, 1794. The present consul's son is vice consul, and is likely to succeed his father, as the salary is but $300 a year, though it is said that office-seekers are in the habit of representing to every administration that this important stipend is being wasted on Englishmen.—N. Y. Sun.

Commander Sargent Sends Assuring Message From Colon.

LIFE AND PROPERTY FULLY PROTECTED

Commander of the Machias Says Position of Insurgents Is Three Miles From Bocas del Toro—National Forces Control the Situation.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—The navy department has received the following cablegram from Commander Sargent of the Machias, dated Colon, Sept. 10, who was sent to Bocas del Toro to ascertain if American interests in that quarter were in danger:

"On return from Bocas del Toro. I do not consider the lives and property of American citizens in danger. The position of the insurgents isolated. The island of Provision distance three miles from town. The situation is controlled. More than 200 national forces."

Insurgents Given Warning.

COLON, Colombia, Sept. 11.—The United States gunboat Machias has returned from Bocas del Toro, no developments having occurred there to require her presence.

The following is the text of the communication, dated Sept. 4, in which the United States consul replied to the rebel manifesto addressed to foreign consuls in Colon, dated Gatun, Sept. 3, and signed by General Patino, which intimated that Patino intended to attack Colon shortly and which requested that the respective nationalities be notified:

"I acknowledge receipt of your letter of yesterday and hereby respectfully notify you that any interference on your part with the free transit of goods or passengers across the isthmus of Panama would be a violation of treaty rights with my government, and the latter, should you attempt such interference, would act accordingly. Obstruction of free access to the Panama railroad stations in Colon from any docks at this port or obstruction of the main streets leading to the Panama railroad stations or any act on the part of the insurgent forces rendering such access dangerous would be regarded as interference with the above mentioned free transit."

G. A. R. ENCAMPMENT.

Naval Veterans' Day at Cleveland. Perry's Victory Celebrated.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 11.—The naval veterans took first place in the festivities attendant upon the Grand Army encampment yesterday. The eighty-seventh anniversary of Oliver Hazard Perry's historic triumph on Lake Erie was fittingly celebrated in a grand parade of naval veterans and a naval display on the lake.

Other features of interest in the day's programme were as follows:

Reception by the Cleveland Yacht club, naval display on Lake Erie, the fleet being opened to the inspection of the public; dogwatch of the Association of Naval Veterans at Gray's armory, campfire of Union ex-Prisoners of War at Central armory, reception for national officers of the Grand Army by Women's Relief corps at Chamber of Commerce hall, reception of ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic, west side campfire at Turn hall and a lake front naval display by the United States and naval reserve boats, including illuminations and maneuvers by the fleet.

The real business relative to the administrative affairs of the Grand Army commenced in the afternoon, when numerous caucuses were held at the headquarters of the various departments. The election of the next commander in chief promises to be one of the most interesting and spirited in the history of the organization. General Sickles' candidacy is still being boomed, but if he secures the election he will be the first Democratic incumbent of that most important office.

Governor Van Sant of Minnesota is handling the campaign of Judge Torrance of Minneapolis, and the Minnesotans claim they have excellent chances of winning out. It is said General Stewart of Pennsylvania is the administration favorite, and the fight is expected to be waged most closely between the candidates from New York and Pennsylvania.

Roberts' Long Honor Roll.

LONDON, Sept. 11.—The Gazette publishes today Lord Roberts' final list of recommendations for meritorious service in South Africa. It extends to forty-one pages, with an average of 130 names per page. The recommendations affect every rank and branch of the service, the list including Colonel Yule, who conducted the masterly retreat from Dundee to Ladysmith, the omission of whose name from previous lists had excited much comment in military circles. In a dispatch expressing his high appreciation of the promptitude and completeness with which all the administrative departments at home and in the colonies met his demands Lord Roberts trusts that the list of recommendations will not be thought too long, "considering the number engaged, the extent and severity of the operations and the very great hardships cheerfully borne by all ranks."

Forty Miners Entombed.

CAERPHILLY, Wales, Sept. 11.—A serious explosion took place last evening at the Llanbradach colliery, near here. Six miners have been rescued, all suffering severely from the effects of after damp, which prevents a continuance of the relief work. It is reported that forty are still entombed. The explosion occurred between shifts, rendering an accurate estimate difficult. At a late hour it became known that at least two of the miners were dead, and the total of the death roll will probably be ten, as eight have not yet been recovered. Many are seriously injured.

Cresceus and The Abbot to Meet.

BOSTON, Sept. 11.—Cresceus and The Abbot will race for a purse of $20,000 at Readville Sept. 19, the winner taking the whole purse, which is offered by Thomas W. Lawson of this city. Mr. Jewett, secretary of the New England Trotting Horse Breeders' association, announces that the preliminary arrangements for the race have been completed. The gate receipts will go to the West End nursery in Boston. Boralma and Lord Derby will also race during the meeting for a purse of $10,000, which is offered by the association.

He could not retain his food, had palpitation of the heart, nervousness, vertigo, etc. "I tried the best doctors in Gaston Co.," he writes, "and tried nearly every kind of patent medicine without relief. I suffered untold misery for seven years; I could scarcely walk; I only weighed 103 pounds; the doctors said they could do nothing for me. The New Woman

By ELIZA ARCHARD CONNER

Sitting here at my desk during the summer I have watched with much interest the different ways in which women take their vacations. Really original, resourceful ones generally go vacationing in a way out of the common rut. They do it unconsciously, without the vulgar idea of being different from other people just to attract attention to themselves. Some ladies have made a trip from New York to Boston or from Boston to New York and back by trolley, a journey past green fields and under open skies, blue or gray, but always glorious and expansive. We may look forward with delight to the time when this great country is trolleyed from one end to the other. Entrancing summer vacation trips there will be then, as in the delightful old stagecoach days, only these will be cleaner, swifter, and there will be no horses to wear out. One young lady lawyer whom I know went with a friend on a bicycle journey through part of New England. She has one of the new cushion frame, chainless, coaster brake machines, and skimmed like a bird 60 miles a day without fatigue. Most of all, however, appeals to the imagination Mr. and Mrs. Decker's automobile journey from the Atlantic coast to Texas. Mrs. Decker was captain and pilot, Mr. Decker was crew. Away they went, on good highways nearly a mile a minute, over roads yellow and red in the clay country, white in the limestone region and dusty and black in the rich loam plains. If there be anything approaching perfect happiness on earth, it is this. Here's hoping we shall all have automobiles some day! This kind of travel, too, is like flying, and flying is the next attainment the genius of man will achieve.

I notice a "professor" advertises to teach people personal magnetism. If you want personal magnetism, cultivate good will and kindliness to every creature. If you have an enemy, put out good will and friendship all the more strongly to that enemy. So shall you lift yourself above the plane of human jealousies and bickering. So shall a perfect aura of personal magnetism stream out around you.

Johnnie Blank is the only son of his mother, and she is a widow. He is one of the best sons living. Johnnie is an office boy and hands his little $3 a week faithfully over to his mother. She is a dressmaker and works very hard. The two together do their housework. Johnnie washes dishes, scrubs floors and even carries home the kerosene can full of oil without a murmur, for he loves his mother. There is only one thing among the thousand which he might "kick" about that he objects to—he says he doesn't mind anything except when his mother laces a corset upon him and uses him for a dummy over which to fit the gowns of her customers.

Is there any woman artist in America who can paint a horse race or a cavalry dash like Lucy Kemp-Welch of England? We have in America one woman who has pictured a horse race splendidly in poetry. That woman is Ella Wheeler Wilcox, and the poem is "Salvator."

Tatho looked at me curiously. "I do not know whether I admire you more or whether I pity. I do not know whether to be astonished or to despise. We had heard of much of your uprightness over yonder in Atlantis, of your sternness and your justice, but I swear by the old gods that no soul guessed you carried your fancy so far as this. Why, man, money is power. With money and the resources money can buy, nothing could stop a fellow like you; while without it you may be tripped up and trodden down irrevocably at the first puny reverse."

"The gods will choose my fate."

"Possibly; but for mine, I prefer to nourish it myself. I tell you with frankness that I have not come here to follow in the pattern you have made for a viceroyalty. I shall govern Yucatan wisely and well to the best of my ability; but I shall govern it also for the good of Tatho, the viceroy. I have brought with me here my navy of eight ships and a personal bodyguard. There is my wife, also, and her women and her slaves. All these must be provided for. And why indeed should it be otherwise? If a people is to be governed, it should be their privilege to pay handsomely for their prince."

"We shall not agree on this. You have the power now, and can employ it as you choose." If I thought it would be of any use, I should like to supplicate you most humbly to deal with lenience when you come to tax these people who are under you. They have grown very dear to me."

"I have disgusted you with me, and I am grieved for it. But even to retain your good opinion, Deucalion—which I value more than that of any man living—I cannot do here as you have done. It would be impossible, even if I wished it. You must not judge all men by your own strong standard; a Tatho is by no means a colossus like a Deucalion. And, besides, I have a wife and children, and they must be provided for, even if I neglect myself."

"You have changed, Tatho, with the years, and perhaps I have changed also. These alterations creep imperceptibly into one's being as time advances. Let us part now, and, forgetting these present differences, remember only our friendship of 20 years agone. That for me, at any rate, has always had a pleasant savor when called up into the memory."

Tatho bowed his head. "So be it," he said.

"And I would still charge myself upon your bounty for that ship. Dawn cannot be far off, now, and it is not decent that the man who has ruled here so long should walk in daylight through the streets on the morning after his dismissal."

"So be it," said Tatho. "You shall have my poor navy. I could have wished that you had asked me something greater."

"Not the navy, Tatho; one small ship. Believe me, more is wasted."

"Now, there," said Tatho, "I shall act the tyrant. I am viceroy here now, and will have my way in this. You may go naked of all possessions: that I cannot help. But depart for Atlantis unattended, that you shall not."

And so, in fine, as the choice was set beyond me, it was the Bear, Tatho's own private ship, with all the rest of his navy sailing in escort, that I did finally make my transit.

The voyage was very different to my previous sea-going. There was no creeping timorously along in touch with the coasts. We stood straight across the open gulf in the direction of home, came up with the banu of the Carib islands, and worked confidently through them, as though they had been sign-posts to mark the sea highway; and stopped only twice to replenish with wood, water and fruit. These commodities, too, the savages brought us freely, so great was their subjection, and in neither place did we have even the semblance of a fight. It was a great certificate of the growing power of Atlantis and her finest over-sea colony.

Then boldly on we went across the vast ocean beyond, with never a sacrifice to implore the gods that they should help our direction. One might feel censure towards those rugged mariners for their impiety, but one could not help an admiration for their lusty skill and confidence.

The dangers of the desolate sea are dealt out as the gods will, and man can only take them as they come.

I DROVE IN THE LANCE AT ITS OOZY EYE.

storms we encountered, and the mariners fought them with stubborn endurance; twice a blazing stone from heaven hissed into the sea beside us, though without injuring any of our ships; and, as was unavoidable, the great beasts of the sea hunted us with their accustomed savagery. But only once did we suffer material loss from these last, and that was when three of the greater sea-lizards attacked the Bear, the ship whereon I traveled, at one and the same time.

The shipmen faced the monsters with a sturdy courage. Arrows were useless against the smooth, bull-like hides. Even the throwing fire could not so much as singe them; nothing but 20 ax blows delivered on an attacking head together could beat it back, and even these succeeded only through sheer weight of metal, and did not make so much as the scratch of a wound.

During all time beasts have disputed with man the mastery of the earth, and it is only in Atlantis and Egypt and Yucatan that man has dared to hold his own, and fight them with a mind made strong by many previous victories. In Europe and mid-Africa the greater beasts hold full dominion, and man admits his puny number and force, and lives in earth crannies and the higher treetops, as a fugitive confessed. And upon the great oceans the beasts are lords, unchecked.

Still here, upon this desolate sea, although the giant lizards were new to me, it was a pleasure to pit my knowledge of war against their brute strength and courage. Ever since the first men did their business upon the great waters, they fulfilled their instincts in fighting the beasts with desperation. Hiding cowardlike in a hold was useless, for if this enemy could not find men above decks to glut them, they would break a ship with their paddles, and so all would be slain. And so it was recognized that the fight should go forward as desperately as might be, and that it could only end when the beasts had got their prey and had gone away satisfied.

It was in a one-sided conflict after this fashion then, that I found myself, and felt the joy once more to have my thews in action. But after my ax had got in that dozen lusty blows, which, for all the harm they did, might have been delivered against some city wall, or, indeed, against the ark of the mysteries itself, I sought about me till I found a lance, and with that made very different play. The eyes of these lizards are small, and set deep in a bony socket, but I judged them to be vulnerable, and it was upon the eyes of the beast that I made my attack. The decks were slippery with the horrid slime of them. The crew surged about in their battling, and, moreover, constantly offered themselves as a rampart before me by reason of Tob, the captain's, threats. But I gave a few shrewd progues with the lance to show that I did not choose my will to be overridden, and presently was given room for maneuvre.

Deliberately I placed myself in the sight of one of the lizards, and offered my body to its attack. The challenge was accepted. It swooped like a dropping stone, and I swerved and drove in the lance at its oozy eye.

I thanked the gods then that I had been trained with the lance till certain aim was a matter of instinct with me. The blade went true to its mark and stuck there, and the shaft broke in my hand. The beast drew off, blinded and bellowing, and beating the sea with its paddles. In a great cataract of foam I saw it bend its great long neck, and rub its head (with the spear still fixed) against its back, thereby enduring new agonies, but without dislodging the weapon. And then presently, finding this of no avail, it set off for the place from which it came with extraordinary quickness, and rapidly grew smaller against the horizon.

The male and the other female lizard had also left us, but not in similar plight. Tob, the captain, seeing my resolve to take hazards, deliberately thrust a shipman into the jaws of each of the others, so that they might be sated and get them gone. It was clear that Tob dreaded very much for his own skin if I came by harm, and I thought with a warming heart of the threats that Tatho must have used in his kind anxiety for my safety. It is pleasant when one's old friends do not omit to pay these little attentions.

CHAPTER III.

A RIVAL NAVY.

Now when we came up with the coasts of Atlantis, though Tob, with the aid of his modern instruments, had made his landfall with most marvelous skill and nearness, there still remained some ten days more journey in which we had to retrace our course, till we came to that arm of the sea up which lies the great city of Atlantis, the capital.

The sight of the land and the breath of earth and herbage which came off from it with the breezes, were, I believe, under the gods, the means of saving the lives of all of us. For, as is necessary with long cross-ocean voyages, many of our ship's companies had died, and still more were sick with scurvy through the unnatural tossing, or (as some have it) through the salt, unnatural food inseparable from shipboard. But these last, the sight and the smells of land heartened up in extraordinary fashion, and from being helpless logs, unable to move even under blows of the scourge, they became active again, able to help in the shipwreck, and lusty (when the time came) to fight for their lives and their vessels.

But when our navy had retrieved sufficiently the course that had been overrun, and came up with the two vast headlands which marked the entrance to the inland waters, there, a bare two days from the Atlantis capital, we met with another navy which was beyond doubt waiting to give us a reception. The ships were riding at anchor in a bay which lent them shelter, but they had scouts on the high land above, who cried the alarm of our approach, and when we rounded the headland, they were standing out to dispute our passage.

Of us there were now but five ships, the rest having been lost in storms, or fallen behind because all their crews were dead from the scurvy; and of the strangers there were three fine ships, and three galleys of many oars apiece. They were clean and bright and black; our ships were stormed-ragged and weatherworn, and had bottoms that were foul with trailing ocean weed. Our ships hung out the colors and signs of Tatho and Deucalion openly and without shame, so that all who looked might know their origin and errand; but the other navy came on without banner or antient, as though they were some low creatures feeling shame for their birth.

Clear it seemed also that they would not let us pass without a fight; and in this there was nothing uncommon; for no law carries out over the seas, and a brother in one ship feels quite free to harry his brother in another vessel if he meets him out of earshot of the beach—more especially if that other brother be coming home laden from foray or trading tour. So Tob, with system and method, got our vessel into fighting trim, and the other four captains did the like with theirs, and drew close in to us to form a compact squadron. They had no wish to smell slavery, now that the voyage had come so near to its end.

Our Lord the Sun shone brilliantly, giving full speed to the machines, as though he was fully willing for the affair to proceed, and the two navies approached one another with quickness, the three galleys holding back to stay in line with their consorts. But when some bare hundred shiplengths separated us, the other navy halted, and one of the galleys, drawing ahead, flew green branches from her masts, seeking for a parley.

The course was unusual, but we in our sea-battered state were no navy to invite a fight unnecessarily. So in hoarse sea-bawls word was passed, and we too halted, and Tob hoisted a withered stick (which had to do duty for greenery), to show that we were ready for talk, and would respect the person of an ambassador.

SETTLEMENT DELAYED.

President Shaffer Authorized to End Strike on Best Possible Terms.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 11.—President T. J. Shaffer and his advisers in the general office of the Amalgamated association hold the power by authority of the general executive board of the organization to settle the steel strike. Mr. Shaffer and his advisers apparently allowed yesterday to lapse after this authority was vested in them without closing any settlement. On Monday, it is said, the executive board directed President Shaffer, together with Secretary-Treasurer John Williams, Assistant Secretary M. F. Tighe and Ben I. Davis of the advisory board, to settle without delay on the best terms obtainable.

Since then there has been no action developing anything to further a settlement, but it is said that President Shaffer is seeking to reopen direct negotiations with the United States Steel corporation in the hope of getting better terms than those submitted to the Amalgamated executive board as the result of the endeavor last week in New York of the representatives of the National Civic federation, headed by President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor.

The terms secured by the National Civic federation were neither accepted nor rejected by the Amalgamated board. Instead a resolution was passed directing President Shaffer, with the aid of his immediate advisers, to secure the best possible settlement in the least possible time. The terms submitted provided simply for a signing of scales for all union plants of the Tin Plate, Sheet Steel and Steel Hoop companies except such as had been started since the strike began.

The executive board passed its resolution by a bare majority. President Shaffer protested against proceeding with so narrow a margin and suggested that the members of the board remain in the city for a possible further conference on Monday. At the meeting Monday, it is said, the executive board gave the Amalgamated president unanimous support for the best settlement that he may be able to secure, and no conditions were imposed.

BOND PURCHASE ANNOUNCED.

Secretary Gage Offers to Help the Money Market.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—The secretary of the treasury has given notice that he will receive and consider proposals for the sale to the government on account of the sinking fund of United States 3 per cent bonds, loan of 1908-18; 4 per cent bonds, funded loan of 1907; 2 per cent bonds, loan of 1925, and 5 per cent bonds, loan of 1904, to an amount not exceeding $20,000,000.

Commenting upon the offer made in his circular, Secretary Gage said that the active movement of crops had begun throughout the country, and he did not desire that the treasury should absorb millions of dollars that might be in trade channels. The subtreasuries in the west and south have been calling heavily for currency to move the crops, and the amount sent so far is in excess of any year in the history of the treasury.

The placing of additional money with the national bank depositories will divert about $5,000,000 from treasury vaults and put it into circulation. At the same time the purchase of $20,000,000 in bonds would be a decided relief. The only question now is whether the offers to the secretary will be such as to induce him to purchase the amount he desires or any sum at all.

The tendency in offers of this kind is to cause the prices of bonds to rise. Secretary Gage does not intend to pay above what the bonds are worth and will make no purchases if the offers indicate that the market prices are to be raised.

Since the offer of the secretary last April the treasury has purchased a total of about $20,000,000 in bonds, and these have gone into the sinking fund, thereby decreasing the interest payment of the government. The purchases have been made slowly, sometimes a few thousands on one day and on other days reaching into the hundreds of thousands.

Corn but Half a Crop.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11. — The monthly report of the statistician of the department of agriculture shows the average condition of corn on Sept. 1 to have been 51.7. There was a decline during August amounting to 2.3 points, and the condition on the first of the present month was 28.9 points lower than on Sept. 1, 1900, 33.5 points lower than at the corresponding date in 1899, 31 points below the mean of the September averages for the last ten years and 8.3 points below the lowest September average, that of 1881, ever before recorded. While the August rains were beneficial to late planted corn, it is in only a few states that the crop as a whole shows any improvement or has even held its own during the month. The average condition at harvest of winter and spring wheat combined was 82.8 against 69.6 last year, 70.9 in 1899 and a ten year average of 80.3.

Farm Buildings and Stock Burned.

BILLERICA, Mass., Sept. 11.—Six buildings on the farm of Cyrus W. Parsons were burned. The structures were a two story dwelling, an employees' house, blacksmith shop and three big barns. Much live stock was lost, including fourteen horses and twenty cows. The total loss is $30,000. The belief is general that tramps set the fire.

SPORTING.

ON THE DIAMOND.

If all the local baseball rooters follow the example of a spectator at Saturday's game between the Hope and St. Mary teams, the wherewithal for a revival of baseball such as enjoyed in the old Crescent days would soon be forthcoming. The man in question placed a $2 bet that Montrose would strike out a certain man. He also bet another $2 that Smith, of the Hope team, would make a safe hit. In both cases he won, but instead of pocketing his winnings he gave Smith and Montrose the money he had obtained through their efforts, and requested that they keep it as a nucleus for a fund to build a grand-stand next season. As this has been the intention of the Hope management it is needless to say the money will be kept for the purpose.

The entrance of of Hewitt into the pitcher's box Saturday last, was a surprise to many, as it was not generally known that he was a twirler. This is due to the fact that he did not become a member of the Hope team until the season was well advanced and then he was placed on second. He distinguished himself in several games, notably with the Rahway A. C., where he was placed in the box on trial, and it was soon apparent that he was destined to do some good pitching. He did remarkably well, Saturday, during the few innings he was in the game and there are many who believe the Hopes would not have come out at the wrong end if the change had been made sooner.

The baseball season in this city is rapidly drawing to a close. The St. Mary team has but three more scheduled games, the Hopes three and the minor teams about the same number. If the weather continues moderate there is a possibility of other dates being made by the respective managements.

Under its new management the Clinton Avenue team has done far better work than that of earlier in the season, and a good game may be looked for with the Hopes Saturday. It will be the only game on local grounds, as the St. Mary's play at Garwood.

The baseball team of Watchung Council, K. of T., will cross bats with the nine of the New Brunswick Knights on the Plainfield avenue grounds Saturday afternoon. The game will be in the nature of a deciding contest.

GOLF.

There were several surprises given in the amateur championship golf tournament at Atlantic City yesterday. Allan Kennaday, the State champion, was defeated in the final round play, by W. Holabird, of Chicago, 12 up and 10 to play. F. O. Reinhart, who qualified on Monday, was defeated in the first round by Louis Livingston, Jr., of Westbrook, 5 up and 3 to play. The Metropolitan papers speak in the highest terms of Reinhart's play and characterize him as a brilliant player.

The first golf tournament open to all amateurs was an attraction on the White Mountain links at Jefferson, N. H., yesterday. J. Whitney Baker, of Hillside, made a score of 93, quite low enough to capture one of the prizes offered.

There will be play for the Fisk cup on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course next Saturday morning.

MAID OF HONOR FROM HERE.

PLAINFIELD YOUNG WOMAN ASSISTED AT MARRIAGE.

Miss Mina Ammerman Wedded To Hugh Dunling At Springfield Church Last Evening

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Springfield, Sept. 11.—Miss Mina Ammerman, the handsome daughter of I. C. Ammerman, of Madison, and Hugh Aikman Dunning, of Providence, R. I., were married at 7 o'clock last evening in the Methodist church at this place. Rev. Christopher von Glahn, the pastor of the church, a brother-in-law of the bride, was the officiating clergyman.

The prominence of the bride in this community was the incentive for a large gathering of friends at the wedding festivities.

The little church edifice was crowded long before the nuptial ceremony began. Miss Sue D. Woodland, of Craig place, North Plainfield, was the maid of honor, and she, as well as the bride, was becomingly gowned.

Following the service at the church, a wedding reception was held at the home of Rev. Rev. Mr. vonGlahn. A number of friends of the bride in North Plainfield, where she formerly resided, were present at the affair.

This morning Mr. and Mrs. Dunning left for their honeymoon trip. They propose to live in the future at Providence, R. I., where Mr. Dunning is engaged in business

NO REDUCED RATE.

Trolley Company Wouldn't Sell School Tickets Until Scheme of Registration Could Be Made.

Some difficulty was experienced by the pupils of the public schools yesterday in their endeavors to purchase trolley tickets at the reduced rate.

Under its franchise, the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company is compelled to carry school children at a three cent fare. This the company declined to do yesterday, on the opening day of the local schools.

On investigation it was learned that the company did not intend to violate its compact, but that the rate was temporarily withheld, while some method of registration of pupils for its own protection could be arrived at. This morning the officials announced that a plan had been formulated and the company is now prepared to give the children the benefit of the reduction.

TENOR RESIGNED.

Vacant Position in Crescent Avenue Church Quartette Not Yet Filled.

The Session of the Crescent Avenue church met last evening and received and accepted the resignation of Harry Lott as a member of the church quartette. No one was selected to take his place, as Mr. Stephens, the organist, submitted no name as a successor. John Carrington, who sang at the church last Sunday, is considered favorably, but as yet the Session does not know whether he will accept the position.

Trying to Get Bail.

David L. Curtis, of this city, who is confined at the county jail in default of $1,000 bonds imposed by Justice Moffett, is still making efforts to procure bail. He claims to have $700 of the necessary amount and as soon as the rest is procured by friends he will offer it to the court. Unless the bond is forthcoming, Curtis will remain in jail until the October term of court.

In Justice Hand's Court.

In Justice Hand's court yesterday, judgment for the plaintiffs was rendered for the full amount and costs in the contract case of the Monarch Covering Company against Armstrong. The matter in tort of G. W. Wrennick against Wesley Robinson was adjourned for one week.

Rain Didn't Interfere.

Despite the storm there was an unusually large attendance at the devotional meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of Warren chapel last evening. Mrs. J. O. McKelvey had charge of the service, and many spoke on the topic "Heavenly Helpers."

FOUR HAVE QUALIFIED FOR HOLIDAY TROPHY.

Will Play off Semi-Finals at Match Play Saturday, October 26.

FINALS ON ELECTION DAY.

HISTORY OF THIS CUP WHICH WAS FIRST OFFERED LAST YEAR.

The Four, Who Have Made the Lowest Average Scores in Two Preliminary Rounds, are C. A. Reed, A. R. Serrell, C. L. Nichols, W. R. Faber.

The rounds of preliminary play for the Holiday cup at the Park Golf Club were completed Labor Day when the third round was played. Preliminary rounds of medal play were held on Decoration Day, Fourth of July and Labor Day and the four players making the lowest average scores in any two rounds qualified for the semi-finals at match play. Announcement has just been made of those who have qualified. They are Senator Charles A. Reed, Arthur H. Serrell, William R. Faber and Charles L. Nichols.

While nearly every active member of the club played one round there were only fourteen who competed in two or more and were thus eligible to qualify for the match play. Only four took advantage of all three opportunities to play, and of that number three are included among the quartette which did quality.

The golf committee of the club announces that the semi-finals match play will be played Saturday afternoon, October 26. If rainy that day the play will be postponed for a week. The finals will be played on the morning of Election Day, November 5. It was originally planned to have the finals on Thanksgiving Day, but it is considered too late in the season and so that change in the original plans was made.

The averages of the members who competed in two or more preliminary rounds are as follows:

	May 30.	July 4.	Sept. 2.	Ave.
Chas. L. Nichols..	103	75	95	85
William R. Faber..	86	84		85
Charles A. Reed..	86	88	116	87
Arthur H. Serrell.	91	103	87	89
M. T. Townsend..	96	90		93
Joseph L. Myers..	100		91	95.5
S. Townsend.....	100	95	97	96
Frank Bogue.....	94		99	96.5
Charles E. Morse.	97	97		97
W. A. Townsend..	115	81		98
H. D. Hibbard....	93		104	89.5
S.St. J. McCutchen	116		87	101.5
H. G. Phillips.....	117		105	111
Geo. D. Hallock..	131	97		111

The Holiday cup was first offered last year by the late Charles Hyde. The semi-final rounds were played Thanksgiving Day morning and resulted as follows: Frank Rogers beat Meredith Dryden four up and three to go, W. de la R. Anderson beat Charles B. Morse, one up in nineteen holes. In the finals that afternoon, Rogers beat Anderson three up and two to go. Rogers then became permanent possessor of the trophy. The cup this year is offered by the club.

"MAURIE" ON ELMWOOD PLACE.

Patrolman Higgins Ends Existence of Stray Bad Dog There

After nearly a week of inactivity, Patrolman Higgins again came to the fore yesterday and added another notch in his pistol butt to the already long list indicating the death of as many canines. A homeless dog made his appearance on Elmwood place, snapping and biting and giving signs of rabies. The fame of Patrolman Higgins has spread to that section of the city and a householder immediately sent for him. "Maurie" was quickly on the scene and in his usual masterly way put the canine out of existence.

Met a Tree.

George H. Fountain, of West Front street, has returned from a stay at the seashore. While there he narrowly escaped serious injury. One day while riding his wheel along a street a tree fell over. Mr. Fountain jumped in time to save his life, but his wheel was wrecked. Mr. Fountain had his camera with him and regrets exceedingly that he could not get a picture of the tree as it toppled over.

Suing For Medical Services.

The contract case of Dr. Gaston against N. K. Barnes will be tried before a twelve men jury in Justice Moffett's court this afternoon. The plaintiff is suing for the amount of a bill rendered for medical service furnished the defendant's wife. The line of defense is not known.

COST OF A FIGHT.

The City Judge Imposes Penalties On Those Engaged In A Fistic Encounter.

City Judge Runyon rendered his decision last evening in the cases of Eugene and Walter Britton and Lewis Moon who with Lottie Hurley engaged in a fight at the home of Mrs Charles Kinney on West Third street, August 13. Eugene Britton was fined $5 or twenty days, Walter Britton $3 or ten days and Moon was allowed to depart, as he had been decidedly worsted in the battle. The Hurley woman has since left town, but is under police surveillance. The fines of both men were paid by two women companions, who were interested spectators at the court proceedings.

YOUNG WOMAN DEAD.

Miss Anna Hoyt, Well Known in This City, Passes Away at Somerville.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Sept. 12—Miss Anna Hoyt, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Hoyt, of the County House, died early this morning after an illness of some duration. Death was due to lung trouble.

WORK ON ROAD BED.

Street Commissioner Gavett Repairing Damaged Thoroughfare.

Street Commissioner Gavett has placed a gang of men at work on North avenue, between Leland avenue and Cedar brook, in the hope of restoring it to something like its former condition before the recent deluge. On that occasion water to the depth of three feet rushed down the street, not only in the gutters but directly in the middle. Boys in the neighborhood were able to ride in tubs from Leland avenue to the brook for some time after the storm ceased. The street was badly washed and the large stones left uncovered were a menace to travel.

REAL ESTATE CIRCLES ARE GROWING ACTIVE.

There is Promise of Betterment as the Autumnal Season Approaches.

DEMAND FOR CHEAP RENTS.

CANNOT SUPPLY HOUSES OF CERTAIN GRADES FAST ENOUGH.

Chief Demand is For Residences With Monthly Rental From $25 to $35—East End Seems Most Popular Section.

As the autumnal season approaches real estate activity increases proportionally. Within the last two weeks, although the fall business has not yet really opened, there has been considerable demand in the rental line here in Plainfield, and it is believed by more than one of the many local real estate operators that the call for properties within reasonable rental terms will eclipse the record made for a number of years past.

One well known real estate man, in speaking of the subject to a reporter of The Daily Press, said that the demand for the cheaper grade of dwellings is extraordinary for this season of the year. Houses renting for $35 or $40 a month, said he, are particularly sought after, and it is questionable whether there are enough of that kind on the market to answer the calls even now. It is certain, he declared, that before many weeks they will all be taken. Almost all the inquiries for dwellings here come from New York and Brooklyn. People in the metropolis show a disposition to take up their residence in the country and travel to and fro rather than be subjected to the many annoyances of city life.

Another operator who deals in properties on an extensive scale, declared that he had many calls for properties with monthly rentals of $25 to $35, and it would be hard to suit the prospective lessees. There are quite a few empty houses in the west end, at present, said he, but there seems a disposition on the part of most of the customers to locate in other portions of the city. Why they do not desire the west end as a place of residence would be hard to say, but the fact is that there is not a call for properties in that vicinity.

It is difficult to learn at this time just what the prospects are for new dwellings. The applications filed with the building inspector during the past month are not encouraging so far as numbers are concerned, and what the present month will bring forth is yet a question. From all accounts there is a decided demand for locations in the eastern and southern parts of town, and from what can be learned there are few prospects for new buildings in these parts. The chief objection appears to be that all the prospective purchasers desire properties at such a low rental that it is impossible to equip them with all modern conveniences at a profit.

The Plainfield Photo Supply Company, of North avenue, has, of late, been troubled by many creditors and steps are now being taken to satisfy the claims. Yesterday, W. A. Schorb, Jeremiah Cash and Hezekiah Hand appraised goods at the store to the amount of $130 to satisfy a claim of Mrs. Lucy McVey for rent. The sale is scheduled to take place Tuesday afternoon, September 17, at 2 o'clock.

DETAILS OF WEDDING OF DR. F. W. FRENCH

Married to Miss Luella A. Crowther, Former Teacher, at Oil City, Pa.

A CHARMING CEREMONY.

WAS FOLLOWED BY A RECEPTION AT THE BRIDE'S HOME.

Those Who Formed the Bridal Party—Beautiful Gowns—Pretty Floral Decorations—Will Reside in North Plainfield.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Oil City, Pa., Sept. 12—Miss Luella Abbie Crowther, of this city, and Dr. Frank W. French, of North Plainfield, were married at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Crowther, here last Tuesday evening. The interior of the handsome home was profusely decorated with cut-flowers, palms, ferns and smilax so arranged as to form a pretty effect in green and white. A host of friends from this city and elsewhere had gathered to witness the nuptial ceremony, and the smart gowns and elaborate decorations, under the glow of light, made a brilliant sight.

Officiating at the wedding service was the bride's pastor, Rev. S. A. Cornelius, of this city, assisted by her uncle, Rev. S. F. Crowther, of East Liberty, Pa.

The Misses Grace Dietz, Gladys Richey, and Maude Henderson, cousins of the bride, and Miss Mabel Simmons, all of this city, were bridemaids. Attending the groom as best man was J. Ralph Crowther, a brother of the bride. Acting as ushers were Earnest R. Crowther and James H. Snowden, of the city, Bovarde A. Daugherty, of Buffalo, and Dr. Edwin Rhea, of this city. The bride was given away by her father, Marion B. Crowther. Two little nieces of the bride, the misses Mabel L. and Ethel Crowther, acted as flower girls.

At the conclusion of the short and impressive nuptial ceremony, Dr. and Mrs. French held a reception and subsequently departed on a late train for their honeymoon.

The bride was gowned in embroidered white chiffon over white taffeta and carried a shower bouquet of bride roses. The gowns of the bridemaids consisted of Persian lawn trimmed with old lace. They carried bouquets of sweet peas.

Among a large assortment of presents, mainly consisting of cut-glass and silverware, were a rare colonial work table and some old-fashioned candlelabra.

Dr. and Mrs. French will reside at Mr. French's home in North Plainfield, where he enjoys a lucrative dental practice.

The bride was formerly a member of the teaching corps of the North Plainfield public schools.

In a Mix-up.

An attempt to deliver several brooms by wheel resulted rather disastrously in the case of John Gray, an employe of A. M. Griffen, yesterday afternoon. He was riding along Belvidere avenue, when his knee became caught between the brooms and handle-bars, throwing him headlong against a curb-stone, with the wheel beneath him. Gray was somewhat bruised while the wheel was totally wrecked.

SERVANT IS THE ACCUSER.

MRS. M. E. FIEROE TAKEN TO NEW YORK ON EXTRADITION PAPERS.

Charged With Larceny by a Former Employe—Lived in North Plainfield.

Mrs. Mary E. Fiereo, wife of John Wesley Fieroe, a prominent Cincinnati artist, who for the past year has been living at 35 Fairview avenue, will be taken to New York today to answer a charge of larceny preferred against her by Miss Mary Meyer, a former servant.

Mrs. Fieroe was arrested several weeks ago and arraigned before Justice Nash. She was held in $500 bail to await extradition to New York. The necessary papers were secured from Governor Voorhees by Detective Michael Somers who brought them to this city this morning. Mrs. Fieroe will be arraigned before Judge Foster in the Court of General Sessions, Part I.

According to the complainant, Mrs. Fieroe failed to return to her the full sum of money obtained by the sale of twenty-five shares of street railway stock. The stock was purchased by Miss Meyer with the savings of a life time. It was borrowed by Mrs. Fieroe who afterward sold it for $1,179.79, but the real owner claims she received but $500 of this amount. Mrs. Fieroe has since been unable to pay the balance claiming it is tied up in an investment.

Mrs. Fieroe ventures the opinion that her former servant has been induced to cause her arrest because she had opposed the attentions which had been shown her by a German. The defendant is about forty-six years old and, it is said, came east to obtain a divorce. Her attorneys are Campbell and Hance, the junior member being H. O. Hance, who formerly had offices in the Vanderbeek building.

AERIAL TROLLEY LINE.

Borough Boy's New Means of Entertaining Himself and His Friends.

Willie Day's aerial trolley transportation line is exciting much interest among the small boys in the neighborhood of the corner of Duer street and Park place, where William E. Day, his father, lives.

The lad, who is at present the "olg" boy of the neighborhood, has rigged an unique system for riding, which he learned in Massachusetts. From one tree, at a height of approximately twenty feet, to another tree, some one hundred feet away, at a height of five feet, he has fastened an ordinary telegraph wire. On the wire has been placed a pulley, from which is suspended a small car or seat, held up by wires attached to the pulley of trolley.

The apparatus is supplied with a brake and also a cord, to be used in case of accident as well as to place the car at any location desired. Master William climbs a ladder to the highest point of his system, seats himself in the car, lets go the brake and away he sails down the incline. All the boys in the neighborhood envy Master William, and ere long it is believed that there will be a marked increase in private trolley systems.

UNITED AGAIN.

Pastor and Congregation Met at Mid-Week Meeting After Summer Vacation.

The mid-week prayer meeting at Trinity Reformed church last evening was a season of rejoicing for both people and pastor, who have been separated for several weeks. Dr. Schenck was present for the first time since returning from his summer outing and his people gave him a cordial greeting. The attendance was large and most gratifying.

The welcome was made doubly expressive in the beautiful display of choice flowers about the platform, and by the well-chosen remarks of Elder VanEmburgh, who welcomed the pastor and his family home to his church and people. He expressed the earnest desire of every one in hoping that the vacation season had been a source of strength and help to them. Pastor Schenck feelingly expressed his appreciation at his safe return and thanked his people heartily for their kindly thoughts and well-wishes and urged all to serve God with all their strength the coming year.

She reported that 7,000 pages of literature were distributed by her department to the soldiers and sailors in various parts of the country. Mrs. R. K. Case, superintendent of the Loyal Temperance Legion work, presented a very interesting report of the year's work. She said that fourteen States have prohibited the sale and manufacture of cigarettes, and that cigarettes have been included in the pledge the members are obliged to take when they join the Legion.

One of the most interesting features of the session was the annual report of the president, Mrs. Parse. She reviewed in details the work of the past year, showing the excellent progress made in the various departments. Mrs. Winter reported concerning Sabbath observance, and Mrs. DeForest gave an interesting report about her work of distributing flowers, literature, etc. Mrs. Drain, superintendent of the evangelistic work, tendered her resignation, but the members would not accept it.

After Mrs. Tomlinson gave notice of the approaching annual convention of the County Union to be held in Trinity Reformed church, October 10, the meeting adjourned in the usual manner.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short and Gossipy Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

In the office at fire headquarters there hangs a photograph of six ordinary looking men, all with beaming countenances. Chief T. O. Doane, the possessor of the picture, holds it as a memento of the recent convention of the fire engineers. The group is composed of half a dozen New Yorkers, including Chief Croker of the metropolitan fire department. These were the men who captured the convention of the organization for New York, and Chief T. O. Doane was one of their aids. The New York people, according to all reports, let the coin flow from their "barrel" as if it were water, and in this manner beat Pittsburg out in a neck-and-neck race for the honor.

ONE CERTAINTY.

Some Plainfielders Fully Realize It Now.

When the back aches from kidney ills.

There's a certain way to find relief.

A sure way to be cured.

Doan's Kidney Pills will do it.

Plainfield people endorse this claim.

Mr. Robert Love, of 44 Duer street, member of the firm of Love Brothers, grocers, of 257 West Front street, says: "I suffered from kidney complaint for eight or nine years—pain across the back and a lameness over the kidneys. Colds always settled there and aggravated it. At last my back grew weaker and any heavy lifting or too much standing or sitting gave me additional pain. In the morning my back bothered me greatly until I moved about and took some exercise when it became better to a certain extent. I doctored and used different kinds of so-called kidney cures but it was throwing money away. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills highly recommended in our paper and being in bad shape at the time, I got a box from L. W. Randolph's drug store. Before taking half of it my condition was greatly improved and continuing their use, all the pain left me."

For sale by all dealers. Price, 50c. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

GOLDMAN HELD.

Anarchist Lecturer Awaits Decision of Superior Court.

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—Magistrate Prindiville decided that Emma Goldman, the anarchistic lecturer, under arrest here, should be held without bail pending the decision of similar cases in the superior court.

The action of Justice Prindiville in holding her without bail extends only until tomorrow. At that time the question will be reconsidered and the magistrate will decide whether she shall be held without bail or released under bonds until the preliminary hearing of the charge against her, which is set for Sept. 19.

Miss Goldman appeared for a hearing before the magistrate during the forenoon. She had not secured counsel, but in a determined voice declared that she was ready to act as her own attorney. The assistant city prosecutor, however, obtained a continuance of the hearing till Sept. 19, the date set for the hearing of other anarchists in custody here. Mr. Owens, the prosecutor, stated that the result of an investigation at Buffalo was being awaited.

The court postponed its decision in the matter of bail, which Miss Goldman demanded the privilege of furnishing, until later in the day. While waiting, Judge Chetlain in the superior court held the other anarchists until tomorrow, when, he said, he would hear arguments in the application for writs of habeas corpus. As the charge against Miss Goldman, "conspiracy to murder President McKinley," is the one lodged against the local anarchists who are named as co-conspirators with Miss Goldman, Magistrate Prindiville thought it wise to await the decision of the higher court. He said it would not be necessary for counsel to apply for a writ for Miss Goldman, as he would deal exactly with Miss Goldman as Judge Chetlain did with the other prisoners.

Miss Goldman was represented by Lawyers Brown, Geeting and Saltiel. They were busy in the habeas corpus case during the forenoon, but interviewed their client in time to appear for her in the hearing on the matter of bail.

Venezuelans Forced Into the Army.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Sept. 12.—The steamer Maracaibo, which has just arrived here from Venezuelan waters, reports that all Venezuelan laborers from fourteen to sixty years of age have been impressed into the army, that the Maracaibo Bay and other steamers have been taken into the government service and that all horses and mules have been seized. The prisons are filled, and merely to discuss the question of war is an offense punishable by imprisonment. A number of Venezuelans who had booked passage for the north were not allowed to sail. C. T. Blenel, a coffee buyer, reports that when he left Venezuelan territory there was no fighting, although President Castro had sent men to aid the Colombian rebels. Venezuela was then quiet, and Americans throughout the country were respected.

Big West Virginia Coal Deal.

ROANOKE, Va., Sept. 12.—West Virginia is on the eve of a big coal deal. Some time ago the initial move was made by the purchase of all the coal operations on Kanawha river. It is said J. P. Morgan was behind it and that the drafts for the purchase money bore his signature. Hardly had that deal been consummated before it was announced that the Flat Top field had been purchased by the same or allied interests for $13,000,000. Today all the New river territory is agog. Messrs. Chilton, McCorkle & Chilton, representing New York capital, for the past week have been quietly at work, and it is now said that there is not a coal operation on New river on which there is not a twenty day option of purchase.

Plot Against Cornwall.

MONTREAL, Sept. 12.—Mayor Prefontaine of this city is in receipt of a letter dated Montreal and signed by one Giovanni Cabani. It is written in Italian and is a warning that a number of anarchists have left the United States to come here for the purpose of assassinating the Duke of Cornwall and York on his arrival here on Sept. 18. Cabani states in his letter that he is a loyal subject and he does not wish to see the fair name of his native country besmirched in this way by this class of people. The police are at a loss to know whether or not to treat the letter seriously.

Schley Court Opens Today.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—All arrangements have been practically completed for the opening of the Schley court, which will convene promptly at 1 o'clock at the Washington navy yard. Already many of the witnesses have arrived in the city, but it is not thought likely that any of them will be examined for several days. The court will be occupied the first day in completing its organization and will very probably take up the question of Rear Admiral Howison's eligibility upon challenge by Admiral Schley's counsel.

Pennsylvania State Fair.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Sept. 12.—Fifteen thousand people were attracted to the Pennsylvania state fair here by the Joe Patchen-Anaconda pacing match race for $5,000, with $2,000 added, to beat 2:04¾, best two in three. Twenty hours of rain had left the track in bad shape, and 2:07 was the time in both heats, Anaconda winning in a jog. Favorites won the other races in straight heats.

Denies Settlement Reports and Says Fight Must Go On.

STEEL TRUST OFFICIALS ACTIVE.

Preparations For Starting Many Plants Being Pushed Toward Completion—Star Mills Seem Lost to Amalgamated.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 12.—While stories of a peaceful settlement of the strike with the Amalgamated association were heard with much force and persistency, President Shaffer continued to deny them emphatically and said that the battle of the steel workers would go on until they won. He denied that the executive board had instructed him to settle the strike on any terms and said that he would not go to New York or make any further peace move for the present.

While the president of the Amalgamated association was standing in this position the officials of the United States Steel corporation were putting forth active efforts to start their plants. This was particularly the case on the south side. During the day the company held the strikers' pickets back by a show of police and got a lot of provisions, cooking utensils and cots for the men to sleep on into the Monongahela plant of the American Tin Plate company. It was officially announced at the same time that there was an ample number of men ready to enter the plant and start the mills as soon as they were in readiness.

While the strikers were busy watching these movements on the south side the officials of the same company showed greater activity about the Star plant. About 11 o'clock yesterday morning a car loaded with skilled men for the Star plant arrived in the Union station. These men were taken to the plant without any interference from the strikers, as none was about at the time. Pickets who had been guarding the works had gone over to the south side to take part in the movements of the strikers there. In the carload was about sixty men. They were all men who had worked in tin mills, and among them were rollers, roughers and catchers. They came from the east, and it is said that many of them had broken away from the ranks of the strikers in other mills and sought work in new localities under assumed names.

With this increased force the Star plant is practically filled with skilled men and will be able to operate all of the mills there on full turns. The efforts of yesterday, it is believed, have practically ended all possibilities of the Amalgamated association ever getting back the Star mills into their control, as the men who have gone to work there have declared their intention of remaining as individuals for all time.

The number to receive benefits is not more than 10,000, and this will require about $40,000 weekly. It is claimed that the Amalgamated treasury, reimbursed by the lodges whose members are at work, will be able to meet the payments with the aid of funds contributed by sympathizers.

To Open Illinois Steel Mills.

JOLIET, Ill., Sept. 12.—An attempt will be made to reopen the Illinois Steel mills here tomorrow morning, either with or without the consent of the Amalgamated association. This fact was made plain at a protracted meeting of the strikers yesterday. Two of the head superintendents of the mills were permitted to address the session. A speech also was made by Vice President Davis of Chicago. The men finally decided to adjourn until this afternoon, when a decisive vote will be taken on the question of returning to work. The company is summoning men to report for duty tomorrow, and the fires are all ready to be lighted. Official notice was posted at the tin plate works that the plant is closed indefinitely and probably will be dismantled. Striking employees were notified that there will be no work for them this fall or winter.

More Boers Disposed Of.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—Lord Kitchener reports to the war office from Pretoria that Methuen engaged Vautonder and Delarey in Great Maries valley Sept. 6 and Sept. 8, driving them from a strong position. The Boers left eighteen dead. Forty-one prisoners were captured. A dispatch from Matjesfontein, Cape Colony, says that Colonel Crabbe has surprised the camp of Van der Merwe, the most trusted lieutenant of Commandant Scheeper, killed him and another Boer and made prisoners of 37 out of 100 men under Van der Merwe's command.

Rain Does Damage In New Haven.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 12.—A rainstorm so heavy as to be almost a cloudburst was experienced here yesterday, and according to reports which have reached the public works department the damage will reach $50,000. Many cellars were seriously flooded, and electric car lines suffered by washouts. The downpour was so great that within a remarkably short time the sewers became utterly incapable of carrying off the flood, 3.15 inches of rain falling in three-quarters of an hour.

Disastrous Fire In St. John's.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Sept. 12.—A disastrous fire occurred here, resulting in the destruction of several stores containing fish and seal oil on the south side of St. John's. It started in a cooperage in consequence of the explosion of a boiler. Two men were killed and several others injured. The crew of his majesty's steamer Alert is helping to extinguish the conflagration. Already there is a loss of about $500,000.

Large Cattle Show Assured.

BUFFALO, Sept. 12.—Fifteen hundred head of cattle have now been entered in the Pan-American cattle show. A meeting of international interest will be the gathering of live stock men on the 19th and 20th. Sept. 18 will be known as Governors' day, and several state governors interested in cattle breeding will be present. Governor Odell has signified his expectation to be present.

Negroes Ordered From Town.

DALLAS, Tex., Sept. 12.—White men raided the negro district of Decatur, Tex., last night, terrorized the black residents and ordered them to leave town. Many negroes are departing.

Weather Probabilities.

Generally fair; cooler; light to fresh westerly winds, becoming variable.

ONLY GOOD REPORTS

President's Condition Continues Very Encouraging.

WOUNDS IN STOMACH HAVE HEALED.

Danger of Inflammation Where the Bullet Lodged Considered Remote, and All Signs Point to Speedy Recovery.

BUFFALO, Sept. 12.—The condition of the president continues favorable, and nothing has occurred to shake the faith the attending surgeons and physicians have expressed that he will recover. The danger from two sources is pronounced practically over. The holes in the stomach proper caused by the perforation of the bullet are now considered healed by Dr. McBurney and his associates, and the eminent surgeon pointed to the fact that the beef juice fed to the patient through the mouth was readily digested as proof of this. Sufficient time has also elapsed to warrant the doctors in asserting that the danger of inflammation where the bullet lodged has disappeared. It is believed that the ball has now become incrusted in the muscles of the back, and unless its location should prove troublesome later on there will never be any necessity for removing it. Dr. Mann, in speaking in regard to this, said he knew a man who lived for years with a bullet in the muscles of his heart.

The attention of the physicians is now, therefore, mainly directed to the care and treatment of the wound caused by the incision made in the abdomen above the navel when the operation was performed. This wound is progressing satisfactorily.

"Decided benefit followed the dressing of the wound" is the way the doctors put it officially. The slight scare which followed the announcement Tuesday night of the opening of the wound did not have a leg to stand on when fuller details of its insignificant character and importance were obtained. The "incident," as it is termed, would not have been mentioned in the history of an ordinary hospital case, and the physicians debated for some time upon the propriety of making it public. As they had promised to take the public into their confidence they finally concluded that the redemption of that pledge compelled them to announce it. Their frankness has already had one excellent effect. It has convinced all who may still have harbored doubts as to whether the public was getting the whole truth from the sickroom that their skepticism was unfounded. The country generally will probably also take this view. Another milestone passed on the road to recovery is the discontinuance by the doctors of the figures showing respiration variations in their official bulletins.

The president now breathes deeply and normally, and the addition of the respiration record to the bulletin was considered valueless. The president's pulse was slightly accelerated yesterday afternoon, but the change was not deemed material, and his temperature remained practically stationary at 100.2 from daylight until dark. The evidences of improvement are the president's keen relish of the beef juice given him and the increase in his allowance from one to three teaspoonfuls and also the fact that the wound is becoming "more healthy."

The president continues in excellent spirits, but he confessed to one of the attendants that he was getting lonesome. He requested that he be placed in another bed. A depression had formed in the mattress on which he has lain since he was taken to the Milburn house and had caused some discomfort. Another bed was provided, and last evening he was carefully moved from one to the other without difficulty. He has asked several times if there was any news which he should know, but inquiries, especially about public matters, are discouraged, and the rigid inhibition against the admission of any one except his wife and faithful secretary has not been relaxed.

It is now virtually decided that no attempt will be made to remove the president to Washington until he has completely recovered, and in a general way it can be said that there is no likelihood that this will be until October. The physicians are all agreed that no attempt should be made to take the president to Washington while the probability of an oppressive hot spell in the capital city remained.

Mrs. McKinley still displays the same brave fortitude she has shown since the tragedy occurred. She went out for a drive again yesterday and appeared bright and cheerful.

At the conclusion of last night's conference of the physicians the doctors gave another extremely gratifying report of their patient's progress.

The physicians did not begin to leave the Milburn residence until shortly before 11 o'clock. The reports which they had to communicate could hardly have been more gratifying than they were. Dr. Wasdin and Dr. Mynter came out together. The latter was hemmed in on all sides by the eager newspaper men.

"Good news, good news," he cried, "nothing but good news. We have washed and fed the president and moved him to another bed!"

"Is he still improving?"

"He is, and to prove it I desire to say that a count of his blood shows that it is in a normal condition and we feel that we can announce definitely that there is not the least indication of blood poisoning."

He referred the reporters to Dr. Wasdin of the marine hospital service, who was standing at his side, for a scientific interpretation. The latter explained that a count of the blood was a microscopic determination of the relative number of white and red corpuscles in the blood to determine whether inflammation of any sort existed. An increase of white corpuscles, relatively speaking, would show inflammation and deterioration of the blood that might indicate peritonitis, a blood poisoning.

He said that this morning a few drops of blood were taken from the lobe of the ear and microscopically counted under his direction. "We found," said he, "that the number of white corpuscles was just about normal, while the red cells were slightly below normal due to insufficient nutrition since the operation. The count was made," continued Dr. Wasdin, "to verify the fact that blood poisoning did not exist, of which we felt certain, but to remove every shade of doubt. The result is that we feel safe in announcing that not a trace of blood poisoning, peritonitis or inflammation exists. The test could not have been more satisfactory."

"Is the president out of danger?"

"No, I would not say that. He is a very sick man, but his condition under the circumstances could not be better. That much I will say emphatically."

"Was any trace of pus found in the exterior wound?"

"Not a particle. Pus means the existence of an abscess, and there is not a suggestion of pus about the president's body."

The bulletin which followed on the heels of Dr. Wasdin's statement officially confirmed what he had said.

Dr. McBurney remained in the house awhile longer than the other physicians, leaving shortly after 11 o'clock.

He confirmed the statements made in the bulletin to the effect that the examination of the president's blood showed no evidence of blood poisoning, nor, he added, did it show any signs of peritonitis. While the examination of the blood was not made to determine the latter fact, yet it would unmistakably have shown it had there been peritonitis. The examination was simply a way of testing the condition of the president's blood.

Dr. McBurney laid particular stress on the fact that the president was able to take a great deal of nourishment, which was an important factor in the treatment of his case. It was this one thing needed to strengthen and build him up after the terrible ordeal which has so weakened him. He is now taking about an ounce of beef juice every hour, and so far the stomach has not rejected any of it. In addition to this, nourishment in the shape of egg is administered through the rectum. The wound also which it was found necessary to redress last night is progressing satisfactorily, and Dr. McBurney said it had improved very much. The doctor apparently felt very much elated over the progress the president is making toward recovery and in response to an inquiry as to whether he believed Mr. McKinley would recover smilingly replied, "Oh, yes."

A Law Against Anarchists.

PATERSON, N. J., Sept. 12.—Former Attorney General Griggs says that the talk of amending the constitution to deal with the situation which arises out of the shooting of President McKinley is unnecessary. "A law should be passed," he says, "making it an offense punishable by imprisonment for life to be a member of any organization that teaches the murder of public officials. It should be made a capital offense to attempt the life of the chief executive and the higher officers of the government, whether it succeeds or not. This is not like attempted ordinary murder. The object of the crime is the subversion of the government and is therefore aimed at every citizen of the republic. Another law should be passed prohibiting the importation into this country of all persons who are members of organizations that hold and teach these murderous doctrines, and still another providing for the deportation of all such persons."

Germany's Interest Unabated.

BERLIN, Sept. 12.—Public interest in Germany in the recovery of President McKinley is unabated. The papers are filled with dispatches regarding his condition and with comments upon the enormity of the outrage.

Sympathizer Roughly Handled.

CASPER, Wy., Sept. 12.—Hans Wagner, who is said to have expressed sympathy with Czolgosz, was tarred and feathered and ridden out of town on a rail. Wagner will be lynched if he ventures back.

Large Charitable Bequests.

BOSTON, Sept. 12.—Bequests of $100,000 each to the Massachusetts General hospital and the Boston Museum of Fine Arts and $50,000 each to the Children's hospital and the Massachusetts Charitable Eye and Ear infirmary were found in the will of Charles W. Hayden, late of this city, which has been filed in the probate court here. There were several private bequests, and the residue of the estate is to be divided equally among several institutions.

Young Cressey Not to Be Tried.

BRATTLEBORO, Vt., Sept. 12.—Martin Starr Cressey, who accidentally shot and killed his roommate and guest, Sidney Gray Bristol, July 19, will not be required to stand trial, as the grand jury returned no indictment against the young man. Cressey claimed that he shot Bristol while sleepwalking.

A Costly Jewel Robbery.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—The Marquis of Anglesey, who is staying at the Walsingham hotel, was robbed last night of jewels of the value of £20,000.

EMPERORS MEET.

Nicholas of Russia and William of Germany Fraternize.

HELA, Prussia, Sept. 12.—The meeting between Emperor Nicholas and Emperor William was favored with perfect weather. The Hohenzollern, flying the German and Russian imperial standards at the main, welcomed the Standart with an imperial salute, which the Standart returned, both crews dressing ship, while the bands played the Russian and German national anthems.

Count Plateu, the kaiser's aid, went on board the Standart to escort the czar, who went on board the Hohenzollern. The kaiser received his imperial visitor at the gangway, where the two monarchs embraced one another. They then inspected the guard of honor together, after which they retired to the quarter deck, where they remained in animated conversation until luncheon, when the czar sat on the right of the kaiser and Grand Duke Alexis on the left. The luncheon party included Count Lamsdorff, the Russian foreign minister; Count von Bulow, the German imperial chancellor; Count von Eulenburg, Baron Fredericks, Count von Schlieffen, Admiral von Hoffman and Admiral von Tirpitz.

Just as the meal ended Hela was sighted. The German squadron was drawn up in double line, the vessels being decorated with bunting and the crews manning their sides. The Hohenzollern, with their imperial majesties on the imperial bridge, steamed slowly between the lines, followed by the Standart and her escort. The two yachts anchored at the heads of the respective lines, after which the admirals and principal officers of the squadron went on board the Hohenzollern and were presented to the czar.

VETERANS IN LINE.

Grand Army Has a Great Parade at Cleveland.

COLUMN OVER EIGHT MILES LONG.

Half a Million People Watch the Stream of Heroes of the Civil War—Governors of States Join Parade.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 12.—The surviving veterans of the greatest war in all the annals of history, of the greatest struggle for human liberty the world has ever seen, that iron gray host of God known as the Grand Army of the Republic, have again responded to the bugle call and fallen into line as they were wont to do in the dark days of the civil war. They awoke yesterday morning to the sound of reveille, and long before the hour set for the starting of the parade they lined the streets and avenues adjacent to Case and Euclid avenues, where the column was formed.

Old veterans prominent in the affairs of the G. A. R. said it was the grandest parade and the greatest day the organization has ever seen.

In a seemingly interminable line of blue the various departments took up their march over the hard granite pavements. Surging masses of people, numbering hundreds of thousands, lined the streets and the housetops and took advantage of every available point of view along the entire length of the line of parade. In the downtown district the streets intersecting and adjacent to the line of march were one struggling mass of eager and expectant humanity.

It is estimated that nearly half a million people were spectators of the magnificent pageant. The parade was over eight miles in length and was splendidly handled, the column moving steadily and with scarcely a halt or a break until the entire line had passed the reviewing stand.

The scene was most inspiring. Aged octogenarians with tottering footsteps and others erect and sprightly as in youth, but all with limbs and hearts of steel, plodded patiently side by side, and among the thousands who made up that gallant host there were scarcely a bare half dozen whom the fatigues of the march caused to fall out before they passed through the living sea of faces in the court of honor and the reviewing stand.

Promptly at the hour set for the parade to move General Leo Rassieur, commander in chief, gave the signal, and the column moved forward. The solid masses of humanity which crowded the avenue from curb to curb gave way like the parting of waves, and the march began.

The governors of several states marched in the line with their respective posts and were proud to go afoot with their old comrades in the old way. Even Senator M. A. Hanna caught the infection of the hour and left the reviewing stand to march down the line with Memorial post.

In addition to the regular line of veterans 90 bands and 108 drum corps incessantly poured forth patriotic and martial music.

It is expected that this patriotic outburst will be duplicated this afternoon, when a mass meeting will be held in praise and thanksgiving for the prospective recovery of President McKinley.

Steam Yacht Wrecked.

CAPE HENLOPEN, Del., Sept. 12.—The handsome steam yacht Rapidan, owned by Robert Hall McCormick, the Chicago millionaire, went ashore on the point off here and probably will become a total wreck. Two guests, the captain and a crew of seven men were landed in surfboats after considerable difficulty. The Rapidan, with Mr. McCormick and a party on board, left Chicago some time ago to attend the trial races of the Constitution and Columbia at Newport, R. I. The trip was made through the lakes. After the races the yacht was taken to New York, where the party split up, some going to Cape May, N. J., direct by rail, while the two guests preferred to remain on the yacht and go to Cape May by water. The Rapidan left New York on Monday, and on that night while steaming south off Barnegat she ran into a northeast gale.

Progress of the Autos.

LITTLE FALLS, N. Y., Sept. 12.—Mohawk valley roads, coupled with two driving rainstorms, put at least a dozen horseless carriages out of the endurance race yesterday. All the chauffeurs say the worst roads they ever encountered were between St. Johnsville and Herkimer. The day's run ended at Herkimer, a distance of 82.2 miles from Albany. The first machine to arrive at the Central station was David Wolfe Bishop's thirty horsepower gasoline at 3:25 p. m. Bishop made thirty-eight miles, Fonda to Herkimer, in 2h. 24m. Four steam machines followed at 3:58, 4, 4:02 and 4:07 respectively. Each is of six horsepower. The sixth and seventh machines were gasoline. Both arrived at 4:08.

It is an organization of most of the movements in which women are organized for philanthropic purposes. Its total membership is more than a million. Three sessions were held yesterday. Many interesting papers and reports were read. Resolutions expressing sympathy for the president and Mrs. McKinley were adopted. The resolutions also condemned lynching.

Such a Difference.

What a contrast there is between the progressiveness of Somerset and Hunterdon counties. And that contrast is growing. It has just been particularly emphasized by a resolution which was passed at the meeting of the Board of Freeholders of Somerset county, Tuesday afternoon.

At that time a resolution was passed settling on certain county roads which should be the next to be improved under the State aid road act. All over the county there is an unceasing demand that the good roads movement go on and each section is anxious to get the benefit of it. So the Freeholders were compelled to select which roads were most in need of immediate improvement. Already many miles of macadam and telford roads have been built in that county and the rural population is beginning to see the great value of them.

But what a contrast is Hunterdon county. The Board of Freeholders of that county even passed favorably on the plan of building a short section of road under the provisions of the State road act. But alas, the people of the county heard of it and forthwith the plan was reconsidered and lost. They might just as well build next year as this, one Hunterdon man sagely remarked.

Some day those poor benighted folk will awake to a realization of the opportunity they have missed. Then they will find the movement well under way throughout the rest of the State and poor old Hunterdon left hopelessly in the rear. The Somerset county Freeholders may grow obstinate and delay a needed improvement to a bridge on their borders. They may even forget themselves so far as to retract their word concerning the erection of an armory for their militia company, but the residents of Somerset county should be, indeed, thankful that their representatives possess enough foresight to see the need of good roads and take the advantage of the State's attempt to help in the work, rather than follow the example of the exponents of "old fogyism" in Hunterdon.

As President McKinley is improving so rapidly, the Republicans of Union county are preparing to give their outing at Recreation Park, Saturday, September 21. It promises to be on a more elaborate scale than any of the previous attempts of the county organization in that direction. A great variety of political dignitaries will be on exhibition and the committee says that there is going to be an unlimited supply of good things to satisfy the inner man.

One of the leading book publishers of New York, remarks the Philadelphia Record, has asserted that the enormous increase in the sales of new publications is due more to the new method of display advertising in the newspapers than to the favorable review of critics or to any other cause. He says that the elaborate art posters never paid, but that the "fetching" advertisements in the newspapers inspire people to buy.

The resolutions offered by James E. Martine at the outing of the Essex county Democrats were certainly timely and eminently proper. Although Mr. Martine did his best to bring about the defeat of Mr. McKinley, he realizes that today Mr. McKinley is as much his president as anybody elses and so he feels as deeply on the subject as does the blackest Republican.

The local trolley system seems to be on the eve of some very important changes. There have been too many accidents of that kind lately, and those high in power are going to see if they cannot be eliminated in the future. John Adelmann will be welcomed by a large crowd of friends in this city with whom he has ever been popular.

United States Senator Wellington may not have had any friendly feelings toward President McKinley but there was not the slightest possible call for any statement of the kind he made. The press of Maryland is almost unanimous in its demand that the senator from Maryland be expelled from the Senate.

It may be that the proposed weights and measures ordinance, which was introduced into the Common Council early last spring, will die a natural death. Nothing has been heard from it lately. In its existing form, it may be just as well that it should meet such a fate.

It was too bad that Plainfield's representative in the national amateur golf tournament should be dropped in the first round. It was, however, pretty fast company for even such a crack as Frank Reinhart.

Already, there is promise of happenings which will make the coming winter an active one, indeed, for Plainfield society folk.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May Be Of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

An epidemic of typhoid fever at Dunellen has moved the authorities to clean up some of the unsanitary spots around that village. It is strange that an epidemic is generally necessary to make people see dangers that are constantly right before their eyes, and that they will never learn that prevention is better than cure.—Newark News.

Up in Warren county they are predicting a mild winter, and are not worrying about the high price of coal. The old timers have been watching the hornets' nests and find that they are all hung on the low limbs, and they say that when the hornets build near the ground it presages a warm winter. This may be true, but whether hung high or low, the man who stirs up a hornets' nest is likely to find the weather uncomfortably warm in that vicinity, and the season of the year don't cut much figure in the matter.—Newark News.

The announcement comes from Essex that there is a movement on foot to make Ex Senator James Smith, Jr., the Democratic nominee for governor. If there is such a movement, which may well be doubted, it is not of Smith origin. The foxy ex-Senator knows full well that he would be slaughtered in the house of his friends. No, Jim Smith doesn't want the gubernatorial nomination, but he does want to say who that nominee shall be and be able to control him if he should happen to be elected.—Camden Post Telegram.

* * * *

At the outing of the Franklin Murphy Association, of Jersey City, Monday, Mr. Murphy, in speaking of the political situation in New Jersey, said that he did not think it would be opportune for him to make any statement in advance of the Republican State convention. Alluding to the action of the Essex county committee in indorsing him for the nomination for governor, he said: "While there has been some suggestion that the Essex organization would not give me cordial support, I have never felt that way, and have believed that at the proper time the friendly attitude of the county committee would be shown in no uncertain way. Indeed, if I had not felt confident not only of the support of the county organization, but that I would have a substantially united delegation from Essex county in the State convention, I would not have allowed my name to appear as a candidate for the office of governor."—New York Tribune.

Electrical Incubation.

Since the hatching of an egg results from the application of heat, it makes little difference whether this heat is applied by the hen or by artificial means. It is claimed for the artificial method that the chicks can be produced so as to be ready at the time when prices are best. Hence artificial incubation has come into extensive use, and as the most extensive application of these machines is in agricultural districts, where the kerosene lamp is the standard of illumination, it is not surprising that this same lamp has come to be the standard source of heat. About two years ago the writer witnessed the destruction by fire of the poultry houses connected with a large New York state institution, the origin of the fire being directly traceable to an incubator lamp, and it occurred to him that here was another legitimate field for electricity in the heating of incubators and brooders. Since that time experiments have been carried out, and with gratifying results.—Electrical World.

Mummy Causes an Inquest.

An Inca mummy in the Peruvian exhibit at the Pan-American exposition recalls the fact that an English coroner actually held an inquest on a similar specimen. In April, 1899, a Peruvian mummy arrived at Liverpool on a steamship and was to be forwarded to London by rail. In some way or other the box containing the mummy got mislaid. Some time later a clerk opened it and was horrified to discover its contents. He at once notified the coroner, who took charge of the box. A sober British jury, in considering the matter, returned a verdict to the effect that "she died on some date unknown in some foreign country, and they were satisfied that the body did not show any sign of crime in this country." The matter is again called to public attention by a suit which the owner of the mummy has brought against the railway company.—Chicago Chronicle.

Value of a Bee's Tongue.

In the new apiculture the length of the bees' tongues is looked upon as a matter of importance. The longer the tongue the greater is the insect's honey-gathering capacity, and a new French apparatus, the glossometer, is designed to aid the apiarist, who, by judicious selection, seeks to develop a long-tongued race. The apparatus is simply a glass vessel for sirup, with a lid containing numerous small perforations, and a floating scale to show the height of the liquid when the bees just reach it through the holes. It is estimated that the ordinary bee can draw sweets from a depth of about a quarter of an inch, and that selection can increase its range a twenty-fifth of an inch.—Science.

Prisoners Refuse to Eat.

One hundred and forty political prisoners at Kieff, who were kept in solitary confinement in dark cells for four months without any pretense of trial or examination, agreed by some mysterious means to strike by refusing to take food, says a Moscow correspondent. They resolutely carried out the project until the prison governor was faced by the choice of the grave scandal of 140 prisoners dying or sending them to the hospital. He sent them to the hospital and they were soon released.—N. Y. Sun.

Raising Truffles.

The pioneer of the new industry of truffle culture was a peasant who, having observed the peculiar attraction of oaks for truffles, had the happy idea of sowing acorns from these oaks in soil of a similar character to that in which the tubers had been found. The result was that seven or eight years later truffles appeared near the young oaks. Although that convincing experiment was made nearly a century ago, it is only in recent years that the French have seriously turned their attention to truffle culture. By its means land that was previously worthless, on account of its stoniness and aridity, had been made profitable.—Chicago Tribune.

Most Costly Animal.

The most costly of all wild animals is apparently not the giraffe, as is commonly imagined, but the Indian tapir. Mr. Hagenbeck, the zoologist, who keeps a preserve of all kinds of wild beasts in Cape Colony, charges 37,000 to 38,000 francs for a specimen, whereas a giraffe can be bought for 25,000 francs, and a six-year-old elephant for about half as much. Other prices range: Five thousand francs for a fine, well-grown lion, 8,000 for a panther, 20,000 for a two-horned rhinoceros.—Chicago Tribune.

Lovely Woman.

The toast to "lovely woman" at the Fourth of July celebration in Boston in 1833 was thus printed in the Post of two days after:

Woman:—When we affect to consider her inferior to man let us not forget that she first discovered the tree of knowledge and first dared to eat the forbidden fruit; while Adam had not pluck enough to pluck an apple, nor capacity enough to swallow one, for it stuck in his throat.—Boston Post.

Situations Into Which the Prize Fighters Are Drifting

ALTHOUGH the small army of pugilists that was provided with a luxurious commissary department by an indulgent public up to last winter has not taken to the fields of the agricultural west, it may be said with great earnestness that many a knight of the glove has had to go to work. Those who were boxmakers before the ring offered them tempting financial plums have gone back to the hammer and bench. The painters, expressmen, boiler makers, etc., in the pugilistic arena, have given up the easier although more strenuous life of the ring for the more prosaic vocations of the workshop. This does not apply to some of the more prominent prize fighters.

There is no wind that does not blow some good to some one. The wave or gust, or gale, whatever it may be called, that blew the prize fighters out of their strongholds in the largest cities of the United States, wafted some of the fighting men into good positions as physical culture experts. Teaching the sedate club members—merchants whose incomes are sufficient to enable them to afford all sorts of luxuries—the "manly art of self defense," as the fighters are wont to call their game, at so much per lesson, associating with members of exclusive athletic and social clubs and holding themselves aloof from the associates of the prize ring, is not at all bad for men whose average of intelligence is not very high.

Terry McGovern, acknowledged to be the greatest little fighting machine of the century—and his cyclonic career developed during the last century so rapidly that he was called unbeatable—has an eye to financial gain when he gives daily instructions to interested people in the art of home training. This is better than going on long trips to take on contestants who are not averse to putting up a faint-hearted resistance to Terry's showers of blows. Physical culture schools all over the country have enlarged their accommodations, and in many cases the managers have employed ex-prize fighters to assist the staff of old teachers. In one big club where millionaires resort, a former champion of his class has a well-appointed room where every day his clients think it an honor to be batted and bruised about by the athlete. "He hardens my muscles, you know, and keeps me in good physical trim," is the way one merchant put it. And a lawyer whose voice is so soft and tremulous in the presence of the court that you would never suspect he was an aggressive boxer, strong swimmer and all-around gymnastic athlete, comes from the physical culture room, his face all aglow, as he declares "I gave the instructor a good beating to-day."

Everybody may learn from these pugilists whose public occupation is nearly gone the lesson of the importance of physical culture. These men are constantly telling how to get well and strong and how to stay so. It was but a few days ago that Charlie Mitchell, the veteran of the old school of pugilism, electrified the followers of the ring by declaring that he would make a match with his old rival, John L. Sullivan, to show the people that 20 years of strenuous life has not made him a physical wreck. John L., too, wishes it understood that a pugilist may keep in healthy condition by observing a daily rule for exercise, and although he weighs close to 300 pounds, Sullivan takes his exercise regularly and fights off the physical troubles that John Barleycorn is thought to bring.

"KID McCOY."

It was a source of considerable surprise to me recently while in Boston to meet Mitchell and to find him possessed of the same cheery smile that he had when his cheeks were fuller and he was training for that memorable but short, sharp and decisive battle in Florida with Corbett. The big fellow, last of the English school of heavyweights—was strolling down Washington street with a stride that would bother a native of the Hub to keep up.

"Every business man should watch his health," remarked the old-time pugilist in the course of a conversation about his own prime physical condition. "It's easy to be healthy. The world thinks exercise is a task, when in reality it is nature's medicine. Ten or 15 minutes night and morning devoted to simple dumbbell exercise and chestweight work will correct the tendency of the high liver, the professional man, the banker, clerk, merchant, etc., to get soft and out of condition.

"Many men that one meets in a day's visiting in a hustling American city are former collegians who were accustomed to athletics in their younger days. I can tell these men almost instantly by their build. What a pity that, as they became older, they got lazy—yes, that is the word, harsh as it may seem—and neglected simple exercise. Of course, no one could accuse these men of being backward about using up mental energy in their business affairs. They live at a rapid rate, exhausting the mind and sapping the strong physical constitutions which they had built up at college. See them on every hand. Forty years old, say, and to carry a scuttle of coals upstairs would wind the best of them!

"For over 20 years I have been a professional athlete, and I expect that a score of years hence I shall be an athlete if I keep up my daily exercise and walks. True, I have lapsed a bit occasionally because of too much conviviality, but that was the fault of the life the fighter has to lead. To live to enjoy life, it is necessary to eat well, but not too well, to have a clear mind and, of course, regular muscular exertion is the key to all. Let me add that this daily exercise should begin with childhood, and should not be stopped. The women of America, I am pleased to learn, are becoming interested in physical exercise. Our English women are great walkers, but it must not be thought that walking alone will suffice for physical exercise. The dumbbell and the chest weight are the things to use."

"Kid" McCoy is accepted as the type of up-to-date, American athlete in build, general make-up and mental training. Thousands who have seen him in great ring contests have marveled over his suppleness, dexterity, quickness and terrific strength. Yet, to watch McCoy dressed in the latest style as he strolled about the corridor of a high-priced hotel, he would strike the observer more for his quietness, his desire to avoid ostentation and his perfectly healthy complexion than for his possession of any distinct type of prize ring walk, talk or posing. In short, this remarkable young athlete, always natty and witty, would be taken for a university athlete rather than for a fighter of great renown. His shoulders, even in the best tailor-made clothes, betray his muscular power. And McCoy was once so frail and slender that doctors advised him to take up gymnasium work, or his delicate health would bring him to the "narrow house" in short order. This decided the young man, and he pursued his physical exercise so faithfully that in a short time he developed considerable skill as a boxer. He soon learned that science was better than brawn, and the amateur prize ring held out inducements to him. Parental objection to this form of life caused McCoy to leave home and change his name. He tried rough work outdoors, indoor work with weights, and obeyed implicitly his physician's orders. In two years, by following the routine of muscular exercise he had built up his system and added 15 pounds to his weight.

It was my good fortune to meet McCoy in the corridor of a hotel one day, in company with his mother. How this kind-faced matron did smile on her son! She was proud of his physical prowess. To please her and to help himself to reach his ambition—to weigh 180 pounds and be world's champion by the time he was 30 years of age—McCoy purchased a farm in New York state. There he is now working—yes, every day he does the hard labor of a farmhand — and by the time he prepares for the fall or winter campaign of boxing he will have added ten pounds to his weight. Listen to his advice to all who would be strong and healthy: "Take a regular amount of exercise—work is better—every day, and do not abuse your stomach. Muscular exercise is better than medicine. Get outdoors as often as possible, and you will have broad shoulders, full chests and a sprightly step that will insure long and happy lives."

RIPANS
I felt better from the very first one I took. I had taken them for about a month, and was feeling so much better that I had forgotten about the bad feelings I used to have. The doctors called my trouble dyspepsia. I had it for about seven years, and had never in all my life been able to eat rich food or a very hearty meal. I often wondered why I should have so much dyspepsia. I would have what I call waterbrash sometimes four or five times a day, when clean water that seemed hot would run out of my mouth and the pain was something terrible for a minute, or else I would have pains at times in my stomach that would fairly double me up or pains in my shoulders and legs and all over me so that I would wish I was dead. I would send for the doctor, and when he came he would say: "Well what is the matter now?" The best way to describe how I felt was just to say that everything was the matter with me and I felt bad everywhere. I think everybody who is troubled with their stomach ought to just try Ripans Tabules and they will soon know how valuable they are. My age is forty-one years.
WANTED—A case of bad health that RIPANS will not benefit. They banish pain and prolong life. One gives relief. Note the word RIPANS on the package and accept no substitute. LACE SHIRT WAISTS.

Are They Conducive to Health and the General Good?

Here are a man's and a woman's opinions on the matter. This being a woman's story, it will be courtesy to let the man speak first.

He says he is very doubtful in his mind about the propriety of the lace shirt waist that reveals the neck and arms beneath—that is to say, he is not a bit doubtful.

"Such men must be very weak headed creatures," objects the woman.

"That they are, I grant you," replied the man. "But you must take them as they are."

He also objects to the peephole lace waist because it interferes in an odd way with his right to fresh air. He went to Asbury Park lately for a day or two. He desired all the glorious sea oxygen he could take in, for his splendid lungs are large. Daytimes it was well, for he was out where ocean, air and sunshine pour their mingled blessings into man. Evenings he sat in the public rooms of the hotel with the rest. But he still wanted what he came for—the electric sea oxygen. Then it was, however, the lace shirt waist girl demanded that the windows should be shut so she could be warm enough and at the same time look pretty. Talk of the wrongs of woman!

LACE WAIST GIRL IN TROLLEY CAR.

At home the man takes the front seat of the open trolley car to get the fresh morning zephyr. Again comes the lace shirt waist girl, on her way to her office, too, and orders that the front screens be closed.

The woman likes to see the lace waist. She thinks nothing is more beautiful than the perfect human skin as God made it and that as an esthetic spectacle young women never look lovelier than when their pretty necks and arms gleam through filmy lace. The girls look as sweet as infants. All the evil there can be in connection with it is in evil imaginations.

Moreover, modesty, not to say morality, is a matter of education and custom. In Japan and in the tropics everywhere the traveler becomes so accustomed to see the natives skipping about nearly naked that he at length notices it not half so much as he would at home notice a white lady without a choking high collar on. The white lady herself, when she lives in the tropics, comes to find propriety in a lawn Mother Hubbard and no stockings. Modesty, like beauty, is in the mind of the beholder.

In Paris, artistically the most sightly city of the earth, on every side meet the eye nude statues and groups of statues of such exquisite proportions and modeling that any thought of immodesty is quite lost in the contemplation of their beauty.

In brief the woman thinks there is nothing unseemly in pretty arms and shoulders showing through lace. If, on the other hand, they are not pretty, then to show them is very immodest indeed.

FOR AFTERNOON TEA.

Cooling Recipes Which Can Be Served on Warm Days.

The center of hospitality in summer as well as in winter is of course the afternoon tea table. With its dainty silver and china appointments it is a joy to the eye as well as an unfailing aid to conversation. Of course, the traditional cup of tea lies waiting for whoever wishes it, but there are many cooling recipes which are perhaps more tempting in warm weather. One of these is currant julep.

Mash a pint of currants, add a pint of water, rub through a sieve and strain through cheesecloth; set on ice to chill. Use tall, thin glasses, with crushed ice in the bottom of each and three cubes of sugar. Line with stalks of mint tall enough to come above the brim, and on top of the sugar place three ripe raspberries. Fill the glasses to within an inch of the top with iced currant water and serve with straws.

A decided novelty is iced chocolate. Mix six level teaspoonfuls of melted chocolate in one quart of boiling milk. Remove from fire and sweeten to taste. Add three drops of cinnamon extract and one-fourth of a pint of clear, strong coffee. Cool, then set on ice until chilled thoroughly. Remove every vestige of the oil which floats on top. Pour into iced glasses and place on top of each a large spoonful of whipped cream seasoned with vanilla.

By CUTCLIFFE HYNE.

The galley drew on, swung round and backed till its stern rasped on our shield rail, and one of her people clambered up and jumped down upon our decks. He was a dandily rigged-out fellow, young and lusty, and all healthy from the land and land victual, and he looked round him with a sneer at our sea-tatteredness, and with a fine self-confidence. Then seeing Tob, he nodded as one who meets an acquaintance. "Old pot-mate," he said, "your woman waits for you up by the quay-side in Atlantis yonder, with four youngsters at her heels. I saw her not half a month ago."

"You didn't come out here to tell me home news," said Tob, "that I'll be sworn. I've drunk enough pots with you, Dason, to know your pleasantries thoroughly."

"I wanted to point out to you that your home is still there, with your wife and children ready to welcome you."

"I am not a man that ever forgets it," said Tob, grimly; "and because I've got them always at the back of mind, I've sailed this ship over the top of more than one pirate, when, if I'd been a single man, I might have been e'en content to take the hap of slavery."

"Oh, I know you're a desperate enough fellow," said Dason, "and I'm free to confess that if it does come to blows we are likely to lose a few men before we get you and your cripples here and your crazy ships comfortably sunk. Our navy has its orders to carry out, and the cause of my embassage is this: We wish to see if you will act the sensible part and give us what we want, and so be permitted to go on your way home, with a skin that is unslit and dry."

"You have come to the wrong bird here for a plucking," said Tob, with a heavy laugh. "We took no treasure or merchandise on board in Yucatan. We stayed in harbor long enough to cure our sea victual and fill with wood and water, and no longer. We sail back as we sailed out, barren ships. You will not believe me, of course; I would not have believed you had our places been changed; but you may go into the holds and search if you choose. You will find there nothing but a few poor sailormen half in pieces with the scurvy. No, you can steal nothing here but blows, Dason, and we will give you those with but little asking."

"I am glad to see that you state your cargo at such slender value," said the envoy, "for it is the cargo I must take back with me on the galley if you are to earn your safe conduct to home."

Tob knit his brows. "You had better speak more plain," he said. "I am a common sailor and do not understand fancy talk."

"It is clear to see," said Dason, "that you have been set to bring Deucalion back to Atlantis as a prop for Phorenice. Well, we others find Phorenice hard enough to fight against without further reenforcements, and so we want Deucalion in our own custody to deal with after our own fashion."

"And if I do the miser and deny you this piece of my freight?"

The spruce envoy looked round at the splintered ship and the battered navy beside her. "Why, then, Tob, we shall send you all to the fishes in very short time, and instead of Deucalion standing before the gods alone, he will go down with a fine ragged company limping at his heels."

"I doubt it," said Tob, "but we shall see. As for letting you have my Lord Deucalion, that is out of the question. For see here, Pot-Mate Dason, in the first place, if I went to Atlantis without Deucalion, my other lord, Tatho, would come back one of these days, and in his hands I should die by the slowest of slow inches; in the second, I have seen my Lord Deucalion kill a great sea-lizard, and he showed himself such a proper man that day that I would not give him up against his will even to Tatho himself; and in the third place, you owe me for your share in our last wine-bout ashore, and I'll see you with the nether gods before I give you aught till you've settled that score."

"Well, Tob, I hope you'll drown easy. As for that wife of yours, I've always had a fancy for her myself, and I shall know how to find a use for the woman."

"I'll draw your neck for that, you son of a European," said Tob; "and if you do not clear off this deck I'll draw it here. Go!" he cried, "you father of monkey children! Get away, and let me fight you fairly, or by my honor I'll stamp the inwards out of you and make your silly crew wear them as necklaces."

Upon which Dason went to his galley.

Promptly Tob set going the machine on our own Bear, and bawled his orders right and left to the other ships. The crew might be weak with scurvy, but they were quick to obey. Instantly the five vessels were all started, and, because our lord the sun was shining brightly, got soon to the full of their pace. The whole of our small navy converged, singling out one ship of their opponents, and she, not being ready for so swift an attack, got flurried, and endeavored to turn and run for room, instead of trying to meet us bows on. As a consequence, the whole of our five ships hit her together on the broadside, tearing her planking with their underwater beaks, and sinking her before we had backed clear from the engage.

But if we thus brought the enemy's number down to five, and so equal to our own, the advantage did not remain with us for long. The three nimble galleys formed into line; their boatswain's whips cracked as the slaves bent to their oars, and presently one of our own ships was gored and sunk, the men on her being killed in the water without hope of rescue.

And then commenced a tight-locked melee that would have warmed the heart of the greatest warrior alive. The ships and the galleys were forced together and lay savagely grinding one another upon the swells, as though they had been sentient animals. The men on board of them shot their arrows, slashed with axes, thrust and hacked with swords, and hurled the throwing fire. But in every way the fight converged upon the Bear. It was on her that the enemy spent the fiercest of their spite; it was to the Bear that the other crews of Tatho's navy rallied as their own vessels caught fire, or were sunk or taken.

On our side the battle-cry was "Tob!" and the name of this obscure ship-captain seemed to carry a confidence with it for our own crews that many a well-known commander might have envied. The enemy had a dozen rallying cries, and these confused them. But as their other ship commanders one by one were killed, and Dason remained, active with mischief, "Dason!" became the shout which was thrown back at us in response to our "Tob!"

However, I will not load my page with further long account of this obscure sea-fight, whose only glory was its ferocity. One by one all the ships of either side were sunk, or lay with all their people killed, till finally only Dason's galley and our own Bear were left. For the moment we were being mastered. We had a score of men remaining out of all those that manned the navy when it sailed from Yucatan, and the enemy had boarded us and made the decks of the Bear the field of battle. But they had been over busy with the throwing fire, and presently, as we raged at one another, the smoke and the flame from the sturdy vessel herself let us very plainly know that she was past salvation.

But Tob was nothing daunted. "They may stay here and fry if they choose," he shouted, with his great boisterous laugh, "but for ourselves the galley is good enough now. Keep a guard on Deucalion, and come with me, shipmates!"

Tob's fellows shouted in their ecstasy of fighting madness, and I too could not forbear sending out a "Tob!" for my battle-cry. It was a change for me not to be leader, but it was a luxury for once to fight in the wake of this Tob, despite his uncouthness of mien and plan. There was no stopping this new rush, though progress still was slow. Tob with his bloody ax cut the road in front, and we others, with the lust of battle filling us to the chin, raged like furies in his wake. Gods! but it was a fight.

Ten of us won to the galley, with the flames and the smoke from the poor Bear spurting at our heels. We turned and stabbed madly at all who tried to follow, and hacked through the grapples that held the vessels to their embrace. The sea-swells spurned the Bear away.

The slaves chained to the rowing-galley's benches had interest neither one way nor the other, and looked on the contest with dull concern, save when some stray missile found a billet among them. But a handful of the fighting men had scrambled desperately on board of the galley after us, preferring any fate to a fiery death on the Bear, and these had to be dealt with promptly. Three, with their fighting fury still red-hot in them, had most wastefully to be killed out of mischief's way; five, who had pitched their weapons into the sea, were chained to oar looms, in place of slaves who were dead; and there remained only Dason to have a fate apportioned.

The fight had cooled out of him, and he had thrown his arms to the sea, and stood sullenly ready for what might befall; and to him Tob went up with an exulting face.

"Ho, pot-mate Dason," cried he, "you made a lot of talk an hour ago about that woman of mine, who lives with her brats on the quay-side in Atlantis yonder. Now, I'll give you a pleasant choice; either I'll take you along home, and tell her what you said before the whole ships' company (that are for the most part dead now poor souls!), and I'll leave her to perform on your carcass as she sees fit by way of payment; or, as the other choice, I'll deal with you here now myself."

"I thank you for the chance," said Dason, and knelt and offered his neck to the ax. So Tob cut off his head, sticking it on the galley's beak as an advertisement of what had been done. The body he threw over the side, and one of the great meat-eating birds that hovered near picked it up and flew away with it to its nest among the crags. And so we were free to get a meal of the fruits and the fresh meats which the galley offered, while the oar-slaves sent the galley rushing onward towards the capital.

There was a wine-skin in the after-castle, and I filled a horn and poured some out at Tob's feet in salutation. "My man," I said, "you have shown me a fight."

"Thanks," said he, "and I know you are a judge. 'Twas pretty while it lasted; and, seeing that my lads were, for the most, scurvy-rotten, I will say they fought with credit. I have lost my Lord Tatho's navy, but I think Phorenice will see me lighted there. If those that are against her took so much trouble to kill my Lord Deucalion before he could come to her aid, I can fancy she will not be niggard in her joy when I put Deucalion safe, if somewhat lamented and blood-bespattered, on the quay."

"The gods know," I said, for it is never my custom to discuss policies with my inferiors, even though etiquette be for the moment lodened, as ours was then by the thrill of battle. "The gods will decide what is best for you, Tob, even as they have decided that it is best that I should go on to Atlantis."

The sailor held a horn filled from the wine-skin in his hand, and I think was minded to pour a libation at my feet, even as I had done at his. But he changed his mind, and emptied it down his throat instead. "It is thirsty work, this fighting," he said, "and that drink comes very useful."

ANDREW J. MONTAGUE.

Democratic Nominee for Governor of Virginia Is a Young Man of Rare Ability.

Andrew Jackson Montague was born October 3, 1862, in Campbell county, whither his mother had refugeed by reason of the naval operations upon the waters of the Rappahannock in Middlesex county, where the home of Robert Latane Montague, his father, late president of the secession convention, and then a very prominent member of the confederate congress, was in constant jeopardy from the shells of passing gunboats of the federal government.

Mr. Montague educated himself, having borrowed money to attend college and the university. He is and has always been a hard student, and possesses a good library.

He received his education at public and private schools in Middlesex until he entered Richmond college, sessions 1880 and 1882. Here he won the medal for improvement in debate the first session and was final orator of his literary society in 1882. Here he graduated in two schools, and successfully passed all the collegiate examinations except one. On leaving college he taught school in Orange county for two years. He took the summer law course at the University of Virginia in 1884 and returned for only eight months of the regular session 1884-85, taking his B. L. degree in June, 1885.

He commenced the practice of law in Danville in October, 1885, and he soon secured a varied, large and most responsible practice. Many of his efforts at the bar gained for him far more than a local reputation.

He was appointed United States attorney for the western district of Virginia July 1, 1893, and tendered his resignation to President McKinley in June, 1897. His resignation was not accepted, and on July 23, 1897, Chief Justice Fuller appointed him district attorney ad interim, the duties of which office he performed until the day preceding his qualification as attorney general of Virginia, on January 1, 1898, to which position he had been elected in the fall of 1897, having run ahead of the state ticket 1,000 votes.

QUEER ENGLISH CHAPEL.

Built in the Form of a Coffin to Remind Members That They Are But Dust.

The Baptist chapel at Fressingfield, Suffolk, says the London Daily Mail, is probably one of the most curious places of worship to be found in England, its design resembling the shape of a coffin, as shown in the accompanying photograph.

FRESSINGFIELD CHAPEL.
(Erected in the Shape and Semblance of a Coffin.)

Its origin is not the outcome of an accidental freak on the part of the builder, the structure being expressly planned on these lines by a former pastor of the place, who desired that the chapel should be erected in the form of a coffin in order that the worshipers and public generally might be reminded of their latter end.

That the wish of the designer has been fulfilled is clearly evidenced by the name of "the coffin chapel" being applied to it, by which cognomen the building is known locally, and as such atracts the attention of all strangers who visit the pleasant Suffolk village in which it stands. The gruesome-looking building is visited by hundreds of people every week and opinions upon it are various.

Endurance of the Horse.

A horse can exist 25 days by drinking as much water as it desires; 17 days without eating or drinking; and only five days when limited to solid food, without water

SPORTING.

ON THE DIAMOND.

A number of local rooters have been advocating the formation of an invincible team by selecting the best of the St. Mary—Hope players to battle with the Scotch Plains nine. It is commonly reported that the 'Plains people have openly declared that there is no aggregation of players in Plainfield which can administer defeat to their home team and one enthusiast has offered to place a $500 bet to that effect. If this is true, the boast was evidently made before the Clinton Avenue team left the 'Plains Labor Day bearing away the local nine's scalp after an easy victory with a score of 8 to 3.

Between the present time and the date on which the last game in the series between the Plainfield-Elizabeth copper teams is to be played, Captain Overbaugh will put the local blue coats through some rigid practice work. The members of his team are only too willing that he should as they are doubly anxious to capture the last game and prevent the Elizabethans from taking three straight. The main trouble seems to be in batting, and from now on the club-swingers will be kept busy thrashing the air over the home-plate.

The game at Westfield Saturday will be with the Pearsalls, of Greenville, who claim the [championship of Hudson county. The Pearsalls have had hard games with the Equitable Life and the Marions, of Perth Amboy. Although beaten in these games, they fought every inch of ground and their strong team-work opened the eyes of their professional adversaries. Griffen is slated to pitch for the Pearsalls.

Managers Walter Foster, of the Hope team, and James Monahan, of the St. Mary players, have agreed upon Saturday, September 28, as the day on which the fourth game between their respective teams will be played. An earlier date was desired by both sides but previous engagements prevented. The impression prevails that a fifth game will be played in October in the event of the Hopes winning the coming contest.

GOLF.

Miss van Herwerden, Miss Adelaide Ball and Miss Daisy Elsberg, of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club, each have scored a win for the Fisk cup and therefore cannot enter the competition for the trophy next Saturday morning. Any other woman member of the club can contest for it and the chances are there will be a number to compete for honors.

Unless some unforeseen event should happen, Miss van Herwerden will no doubt win the Mellick cup being competed for on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course every Saturday morning. She now has 27 1-2 points, a safe lead, and barring accidents she should win.

One week from Saturday, September 21, the Harbor Hill golf team will play the Hillside team on the course of the latter in this city. This year's team matches have been few and far between, owing to the inability of getting the best players together for a match.

FOOTBALL.

In response to a call sixteen candidates for City High School football team assembled this morning to look over the field of available material and discuss the outlook. Lindley Best, the instructor in science, who will have charge of the squad this season, addressed the boys. After some discussion it was decided that there were sufficient pupils to compose a fairly formidable eleven, but the material is somewhat lighter and not so aggressive as that of the last season. It was decided to hold the initial practice during coming week. Fred VanAuken, who was elected captain at the close of the last season, will decide upon the gridiron to be used for the practice. It is probable that the Plainfield avenue grounds will be selected.

The football team of the Wyandotte Outing Club, of Orange, N. J., would like to arrange Saturday and holiday games for the coming season with first class teams averaging 125 lbs. Games to be played on grounds of opponents offering suitable inducements, enclosed grounds being preferred. The team will be ready to commence the season October 5th., and has all dates open during October and November. For games &c., address, Manager. Wyandotte O. C. football team, 334 Main street., Orange, N. J.

AMONG THE STEPPERS.

Sherman Hobbs, of Pearl street, has purchased a team of high steppers. There are a bay pair of horses and will be used for private purposes.

FOWLER RETURNS.

Has Been in Europe Studying Currency Conditions—Returned Saturday on Celtic.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, September 12.—Congressman Charles N. Fowler, of this city, was a passenger on the Celtic, which arrived in New York harbor Saturday. Mr. Fowler has been abroad for the last eight weeks, during which time he has toured England, Scotland, Belgium, Switzerland and France. The Congressman, who is a member of the banking and currency committee, went abroad to study the financial condition and currency questions as exemplified by the Scotch and English banks, as well as the Bank of France.

Mr. Fowler said yesterday, while speaking of the attempted assassination of the President: "I was apprised of the attempt through the quarantine officer. I am unable to express my feeling."

When asked concerning the enactment of a law to stamp out anarchy he said: "I am not in a position just now to say what I would do, but prudent and efficient methods should be adopted to stamp out the teachings of such principles as lead to the act of Czolgoez."

START WORK TOMORROW.

Will Rush Work of Macadamizing Somerset Street, One Side at a Time.

Everything is now in readiness for Borough Street Commissioner Emmons to go ahead with the work of re-macadamizing and re-grading Somerset street, and this he proposes to do at once.

Tomorrow morning a force of men will commence tearing up the west side of the thoroughfare from Green brook to Lincoln place. This section will be completed first and, as soon as it is done, the workmen will devote their attention to the remainder of the west side of the street as far as Park place. When this section is ready for use, the east side of the roadway will be torn up and overhauled. The idea of the street commissioner is not to block traffic, while the work is being done, and hence one side of the street will be in use at a time.

The work will be rushed as much as possible as the borough fire department parade will be held Thursday, October 17, and it is desired to "show off" to the visitors North Plainfield's new boulevard.

Costly Conversation.

"Sassing" an officer proved an expensive pastime for John Wood, who was arrested for that offence by Patrolman Lunger at the depot last night. Woods resented being waked up by the policeman and didn't hesitate to say so. In the city court this morning he was fined $3 or ten days. The fine was paid.

Miss Laura Streeter, of Somerville, and Miss Lillian Wark, of Newark, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. George W. Leighton, of Park avenue.

COMPANY K WANTS LOCAL RIFLE RANGE.

Good Showing Made by Two Members Encourages Others to Try for Honors.

SHOOTING DONE AT SEA GIRT

CAPTAIN BROWNING AND PRIVATE PEARSALL SHARPSHOOTERS.

Qualified at Longer Ranges This Week—Expected Other Good Shots Will Develope With a Little Practice.

The clever work of Edgar Pearsall, of Company K, with the rifle at Sea Girt last Tuesday, has caused much elation among his fellow privates and the officers of the local military organization.

Mr. Pearsall qualified as a sharpshooter and demonstrated his ability as an all-round marksman, reflecting credit on the company to which he belongs. Dr. Browning, the captain, has also qualified as a sharpshooter, and hence, although the company is still in its infancy, it can boast of a pair of crack shots.

In the test for rank as marksmen, while at the annual encampment some time ago, the contestants were placed at a range of 200 yards. At this distance Mr. Pearsall made a score of 31 and Dr. Browning, 29. Each contestant is given a string of seven shells, and the highest possible score he can make is 35 points.

When advanced to the 300 yards range, Pearsall duplicated his first score and Dr. Browning made an even better result, he having scored 32 points. It is essential for the participants to score at least 56 points out of a possible combined score of 70 in the 200 and 300-yard ranges. This was achieved by each, Mr. Pearsall having made 62 points while Dr. Browning fell but one point below.

This week Mr. Pearsall and Dr. Browning had an opportunity to contest at the long ranges, each of them having obtained more than the required average while at camp.

Monday, Dr. Browning was given a trial at the 500 and also the 600 yards ranges. At the former distance, he made 31 points and at the latter 32, making a total of 63 points, which is seven above the requirement for a sharpshooter and just sufficient to qualify him for entrance to the expert's contests. On account of defective eyesight, Captain Browning did not enter the trial for experts, which takes place on a 600 yards range. Winners in this contest are given an expert's medal.

Mr. Pearsall was given an opportunity to demonstrate his ability at long range Tuesday. At 500 yards he made a score of 29 points and at 600 yards he achieved a record of 32 points, making a total of 61 points or five more than necessary for sharpshooters' honors.

Thus Company K possesses two sharpshooters of record. This is not all, however, according to reports, for there are said to be a number of excellent shots within the ranks.

The announcement of the results attained at Sea Girt has instilled in the local organization a desire to possess a rifle range for the exclusive use of the members of Company K From all accounts it is not unlikely that one will be constructed in the near future. At any rate the agitation for an armory will give place to an effort to make possible a feasible range within easy distance of Plainfield, where the men in their leisure hours may obtain needed practice.

MADE MISS HARRIET KING AND E. L. MORGAN MAN AND WIFE.

Only Near Relatives And Intimate Friends Were Present—Both Are Well Known In Plainfield.

A very quiet but pretty wedding took place at the home of Thomas B King, of West Front street at 6:30 last evening, when his daughter, Miss Harriet Isabella King, was united in marriage to Everett Lucius Morgan, of Albert street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church, and was witnessed only by the immediate relatives and friends of both families.

The wedding took place in the parlor, which had been beautified with palms and potted plants, while in one corner where the young people stood, was a very pretty bower. Miss King was attired in a becoming gown of tan cloth, trimmed with white satin. She was unattended and was given away by her father. While the words were being pronounced which made them man and wife, the Lohengrin wedding march was rendered by Miss Alice Morgan, a sister of the groom.

Following the ceremony the guests partook of a wedding supper, during which the young couple were the recipients of hearty congratulations. At the conclusion of the repast Mr. and Mrs. Morgan took their departure for a wedding trip of two weeks, the destination of which they refused to divulge. On returning they will reside in New York city, where the groom has business interests.

Both young people have always been popular in this city, and particularly in the West End, where they have always resided. They were generously remembered by their friends with a beautiful array of presents.

WOULD PLAY CITY'S BEST.

SCOTCH PLAINS BELIEVES THAT ITS BALL TEAM WOULD WIN.

Feeling of Manager Johnston and Others on the Subject—Regarding Reported Wager.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Scotch Plains, Sept. 13—Manager Johnston, of the local baseball club, and the followers of the national game in town are delighted with the prospect of a game in the near future with Plainfield's invincible team, as announced in The Press of Thursday evening. The local rooters in town feel satisfied that Scotch Plains can defeat the best team that Plainfield can put in the field, providing the nine is composed of players who have been members of a regular team playing ball in Plainfield during the season about to close.

Regarding the bet of $500, which some enthusiast is said to have offered to wager upon the result, the club knows nothing about. The game has been played for sport only, but the interest aroused by such a game would probably be such that the club would not be able to control its friends and there is hardly a doubt but what those who like the excitement of having something on the game could be accommodated.

The club has no desire to take away one bit of the glory attending the victory of the Clinton Avenues on Labor Day morning but it would be well to state that Manager Squiers of the visiting team knew before play was called that he was not to cross bats with the best Scotch Plains had, as several players were being held for the afternoon game with Rutland College. Manager Squiers took his team to Garwood on the afternoon of Labor Day and was defeated quite handily by the Aeolians, a team Scotch Plains had defeated twice this season.

The local club has crossed bats four times with Plainfield this season. The result has been three victories and one defeat, which shows a neat little balance on the Scotch Plains side of the game.

Choir Chosen.

The music committee of Trinity Reformed church, through its chairman, H. J. Martin, Sr., announces the engagement of the present choir of the church, for the ensuing six months, namely, Miss Derby, soprano; Miss Minnie Williams, contralto; J. C. Martin, basso; H. J. Martin, Jr., tenor.

Fifth Time He Spoke Here.

ANOTHER YEAR BEGINS IN HEBREW CALENDAR

Rosh Hoshonah, the Jewish New Year, Begins at Sunset This Evening.

IT WILL BE THE YEAR 5662.

HOW THE FAITHFUL WILL OBSERVE THE HOLIDAY.

Will Be Ushered In by Sounding of the Ram's Horn—Will Continue Until Sunday—Yon Kippur Comes In Ten Days.

Rosh Hoshonah or, in other words, the Jewish New Year, commences at sunset this evening and, according to the Hebrew calendar, it continues until sunset Sunday evening. While it is generally observed throughout the Jewish world by all the faithful, the duration of the feast differs in the two schools of the Hebrew religion. The orthodox Jew continues his oblations for two days, but the reformed communicant ceases his devotions at sunset tomorrow evening.

This is the year 5661, in the Hebrew calendar, and, when the sun sets this evening, it will give way to 5662. The Jewish religion reckons time from the beginning of the world, or from the time of Adam. Here in Plainfield the faithful will close their shops, lock their doors and spend the major part of their time at the synagogue Beth Tefila Iebia Yental, which is temporarily located in Reform Hall. This evening, or rather before that interval of time arrives, the Jew will arrive at the house of worship, where two rabbis will officiate. Imposing services peculiar to the Jewish religion will be celebrated on this occasion and the climax of the ceremonies will not arrive until 7 o'clock this evening.

In ancient days the New Year was ushered in mid the blare of trumpets or rams' horns by the priests and today the rabbis sound the shohof or ram's horn as a signal that the New Year is born. At the service this evening a feature of the elaborate ceremonies will be the blowing of the ram's horn by the officiating rabbis.

When the devout have arrived again at their homes, after the services, in each family the father will surround himself by his little flock and then private family devotions will begin. The faithful will rise early tomorrow morning and gather, before 6 o'clock, at the synagogue, where the rabbis will start the morning celebration in all its pomp and splendor. This service will be finished at noon, and then, for the first time in the day, the Jew will break bread.

Again in the afternoon at 4 o'clock another service will be instituted and it will last until after sunset. Sunday these services of the preceding day, which is the Jewish Sabbath, will be repeated.

All day tomorrow the stores of the Jewish residents will be closed tight and no business will be transacted by them. It and Sunday will constitute feast days, but the devout must remain quiet and make not the least demonstration, but rather pass the time in prayer. The reformed Jews will open their places of business tomorrow evening and will view it as no breach of their religion to attend to their worldly labors Sunday. The orthodox believer, on the other hand, will religiously refrain from matters temporal and devote the time to things spiritual.

On the tenth day following the New Year comes Yom Kippur, or the Jewish Day of Atonement. This is a fast day and the believer will not take any food or drink from Sunday evening, September 22, until sunset the following evening. Under the guidance of the rabbis they will atone for all evil doing and pray for divine pardon.

APPOINTED DEAN.

New Honor Which May Call Rev. A. E. Main Away From Plainfield Permanently.

Rev. A. E. Main, pastor of the Seventh Day Baptist church, has been appointed dean of the Theological Seminary at Alfred University, N. Y, and professor of theology; also head of a training school for teachers of the English Bible and for other Christian workers. It is quite probable that Mr. Main will accept the new position.

Mr. Main has been pastor of the Seventh Day Baptist church since the retirement of Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, who was pastor for many years. He has served his church and people faithfully, and it will be a source of sincere regret to his people as well as the people of Plainfield in general if he decides to leave this city.

SUIT OVER PHYSICIAN'S FEE.

BROUGHT BY DR. GASTON AGAINST NORMAN K. BARNES.

Jury Stood Six To Six And Justice Moffett Discharged Them—A New Trial.

A case of more than ordinary interest was tried yesterday afternoon before Justice Moffett and a jury of twelve men, wherein Dr. William F. Gaston, of 535 West Front street, was was seeking to recover from Norman K. Barnes, of 930 West Fifth street, $131.50 for professional services rendered to Mrs. Barnes several months ago.

Dr. Gaston was represented by Lawyer George W. V. Moy, while Lawyer Winfield S. Angleman appeared for the defendant. The jury was composed of Cornelius VanHerwerden, Edward Willis, Charles Wilson, Clinton Shannon, William H. Brokaw, William E. Alpaugh, David N. Force, John DeMeza, William T. Banks, Preston B. Goodfellow, Humphrey Bodine and Jonothan P. Smith. It required the whole afternoon to try the case, and the jury, after due deliberation disagreed, standing six to six. Justice Moffett discharged the jury and set the new trial down for Thursday afternoon, September 19, at 2:30 o'clock.

According to the story told in court Dr. Gaston treated Mrs. Barnes several months for inflamation of the pelvis. She did not improve, and Drs. Endicott and Hedges were called in consultation. They both advised an operation, but not until after the second consultation with Dr. Endicott was it decided to operate. In the mean time Dr. Zoglio treated Mrs. Barnes for stomach trouble. Before he concluded his services his attention was directed to the former trouble, which had developed. At Mrs. Barnes' request Dr. Gaston was again called, as he had treated her for the same trouble before. It was this act that no doubt caused a division in the vote of the jury. After dismissing Dr. Gaston he was again called, and this gave some of the jurors to understand that Dr. Gaston had helped her before.

Dr. Endicott, Dr. E. W. Hedges, Mrs. Barnes, her nurse, Miss Barnes, Mr. Barnes and Dr. Zoglio were called in turn. The physicians simply told what they knew of Mrs Barnes' condition when they saw her, while the latter and her husband and the nurse attempted to prove neglect and a dilatory method in treatment.

It was after 6 o'clock when Constable Weaver took charge of the jury. It was not long afterward when they announced their inability to agree The justice then discharged them.

TO SELECT REGALIA.

Fire Laddies Preparing For the Big Borough Firemen's Parade.

A committee to arrange for the necessary caps and other regalia was appointed by the West End Hose Company at the regular meeting of that organization held last evening.

Herman Klinsman and Herman Hansen were the two members appointed to attend to this matter. It is the intention of the fire laddies of the West End Company to make a good showing on the occasion of the borough fire department parade to be held Thursday, October 17. No other business of importance was transacted.

Vice-President Roosevelt on Way to Bedside—Bulletin Promised Is Being Withheld Until After Consultation—Complete Dispatches.

[By Union Associated Press.]

Buffalo, September 13, 3:30 a. m.—There is an alarming change for the worse in the President's condition. Vice-President Roosevelt, the Cabinet and relatives have been hastily summoned to the bedside. Two emergency operations have been performed.

Buffalo, September 13, 3:40 a. m.—Secretary to the President Cortelyou says to prepare for the worst. McKinley is still conscious; but is sinking rapidly.

Buffalo, September 13, 6:30 a. m.—The attending physicians and surgeons worked over the President up until one hour ago. His heart responded slowly and he rallied somewhat. He is now in an exhausted condition. The surgeons have forced sleep. The extreme danger is at an end for the present.

Buffalo, Sept. 13, 12:30 p. m.—No bulletins have been issued since 9:30 o'clock this morning. The physicians and surgeons are now in consultation and will issue a statement at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The condition of the President is considered critical.

Buffalo, Sept. 13, 12:45—The following has just been issued from the Milburn house: "Official Bulletin, 12:30 p. m. The condition of the President is considered practically unchanged. He is sleeping quietly. (signed) George B. Cortelyou, secretary."

Buffalo, September 13, 2:15 p. m.—The President's condition is very grave and all the physicians have been summoned for a consultation.

Vice-President Roosevelt is now on his way to this city, and Dr. McBurney has been summoned from New York. All reports show that the President's condition is exceedingly critical.

The issuing of a bulletin has been delayed until 3 o'clock. This is necessary owing to the consultation now in progress. Unofficial reports give very little hope for recovery.

Buffalo, Sept. 13, 3 o'clock.—An official bulletin has just been issued signed by all physicians. It says that the President has more than held his own since morning and his condition justifies the expectation of further improvement. He is much better than yesterday at this time. Pulse 123, temperature 99.

FREEHOLDERS WON'T AGREE.

SO THE GIRAUD AVENUE BRIDGE STILL GOES UNREPAIRED.

Who the Men Are That Block the Progress of That Needed Improvement.

Considerable indignation has been expressed in this city as well as in the borough of late in regard to the apparent utter neglect of the Somerset County Board of Freeholders to provide for a proper bridge, over Green brook, at Giraud avenue.

Some time ago, the joint bridge committees of the Freeholders of Somerset and Union counties visited the site of the present bridge and were convinced that a new structure is necessary. Then came the hitch. A vote was taken concerning the style of bridge, and the result was that the freeholders of Union county were unanimously in favor of a concrete-floored bridge, while the Somerset delegation was much divided. Six of the members of the committee from the latter county fought for an ordinary plank-floored bridge, while four of the members voted solidly with the Union county men for the more substantial structure. Nothing could induce the protesting freeholders to change their opinion, and that was the way the meeting ended.

The Freeholders who stood out against the concrete structure as proposed are Edward Hogan, Jacob Cruser, William Howard, William J. Logan, John Bunn and Richard Hogan. Andrew Lutkins, Gus Mobus, C. G. VanCleef and J. Coddington stood up for the interests of the people in this section.

Subsequently another meeting was held by the Somerset county committee and the result was changed but slightly. John Bunn determined to vote for the more substantial structure and this he did, making the vote a tie, five to five. There is no prospect that the matter will be settled in the near future and in the meanwhile the people want a new bridge and from all accounts need it.

REFORM CLUB OPENS SEASON.

FIRST MEETING OF THE FALL WAS HELD LAST NIGHT.

No Elaborate Programme, But a Number of Informal Addresses Were Made.

The first meeting of the Reform Club for this season was held last evening at its headquarters on West Fifth street, and although poorly attended, numerically speaking, it was fraught with considerable interest.

The chief speech of the evening was delivered by E. L. Boice, who made a forcible presentation of the temperance cause. During his remarks he cited many instances of the ruin wrought by indulgence in strong drink, and warned the mothers and fathers to protect their offsprings from contracting the drink habit.

Mrs. John Goodwin, of West Third street, also made a short address on the same subject. Before adjourning the meeting, President Edward Smith announced that it was planned to provide musical entertainment for the meeting, but that he had been disappointed in this respect. He took occasion to draw the attention of the members of the club to the full, frank and fair accounts of the deliberations of the organization contained in The Daily Press.

Hereafter during the fall and winter months, regular weekly meetings will be held Thursday evenings and Sunday afternoons. At the Thursday evening meetings musical talent will furnish entertainment.

DIDN'T KNOW 'TWAS BROKEN.

Miss Louise Wilbur Fractured Her Wrist in a Fall Wednesday.

Miss Louise Wilbur, of Westervelt avenue, sustained a severe fracture of the wrist Wednesday afternoon in a peculiar manner. She was running near her home with a young companion when the latter stumbled and fell directly in Miss Wilbur's path. Miss Wilbur was thrown to the ground, falling on her right arm.

The wrist was broken, but she did not realize it until late yesterday afternoon, when the continued pain prompted her to call Dr. Tomlinson. The fracture was at once found and reduced and Miss Wilbur feels no ill effects from the long wait.

TIE-UP OF BAGGAGE AFFECTS LOCAL FOLK.

Return of Summer Tourists Has Completely Overwhelmed Most All Railroads.

TRUNKS ARE MUCH DELAYED

THE CRUSH WAS WORST AT THE GRAND CENTRAL DEPOT.

The New Jersey Central Had Lots of Baggage—All the Railroads Were Troubled—Many Failed to Get Trunks For a Week.

For the past two weeks the incoming baggage at the North Avenue station has been scanned with unusual care. Scores of people returning from their summer outings have been compelled to content themselves with the contents of their hand baggage for several days, as there has been a record-breaking blockade of trunks at all the principal railway terminals in New York. The trunks could not be located by the transfer companies and many did not appear until nearly a week after the arrival of the owners.

This general delay in baggage has made things lively for the local expressmen. Many of the returning ones have not been able to understand why their baggage is delayed in such unusual fashion and have appeared to think that the blame rested with the local office. So the expressmen have watched the incoming trains and located sundry missing trunks and hurried them to their destinations.

This blockade was probably the greatest at the Grand Central depot, where there were at one time over 4,000 pieces of baggage stored, waiting identification and delivery. The people who were away on their summer vacations appeared to return almost at the same time and the blockade was the result. The Pan American travel was another factor in the trouble. The rush is now practically over, but it will be fully a week yet before the enormous heap of baggage is cleared away. Meanwhile many people in this and other cities are awaiting the arrival of their property.

All the railroads suffered more or less from this unusual flood of baggage but the New York Central probably had the worst of it with all its Buffalo travel. The Weehawken station, the New York terminal for the West Shore and New York, Ontario and Western Railroads, was badly crowded while the Pennsylvania Railroad had its hands more than full. There was a surfeit of baggage at the station of the latter railroad arriving on trains of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, thus adding to the confusion. The New Jersey Central managed to handle its share with difficulty. All railroad authorities agree that it was the greatest rush of baggage ever known.

FUNDS SECURED.

Benefit Dance at T. A. B. Hall to Aid William Tobin Was a Complete Success.

Complete success attended the efforts of a number of young men in the West End, last evening, to procure sufficient funds to purchase an artificial limb for William Tobin, of West Fourth street, who lost a foot in an accident at the Pond Tool Works.

A dance, which was given for the purpose in T. A. B. Hall, was the best attended in that section of the city in some time, over 400 young people being present. The occasion was made doubly enjoyable to those in attendance from the fact that they were not only deriving pleasure but were also dancing for a worthy cause. It was long after midnight before O'Reilly's orchestra rendered the last number on the programme.

The young men who arranged the preliminaries and were responsible for the success of the affair were William Young, chairman; John F. Casey, James McKeon, Eugene O'Reilly, William Whitehead and William B. Connolly. William Whitehead acted as floor manager, while John F. Casey, James McKeon and William Young attended to the refreshment end.

Mr. and Mrs. Wharton were remembered by their friends, who extended a number of tokens.

AT THE THEATRES.

Something About the Attractions Which Plainfield Theatre-Goers May Care to Witness.

The great throngs which are in constant attendance at all four of Manager F. F. Proctor's New York city theatres prove that the amusement plans prevailing at those play houses are exactly suited to the entertainment wants of a large proportion of the theatre going public in the metropolis and its immediate vicinity. The introduction of George Hanlon, the nestor of pantomime and leader of the famous Hanlon Brothers in pantomimic inventions, will be a leading event at the Fifth Avenue, where "The Jilt" will be the offering of the stock forces. Manager Proctor brings "A Fair Rebel" to his Twenty-third Street Theatre for a week's engagement beginning Monday. Harry P. Hawson's stirring military drama has been mounted with sumptuous detail, staged with every attention to mechanical effects, is played by one of Manager Proctor's best companies and has been a great hit at other Proctor theatres this fall. Up in Harlem the Proctor Stock will introduce "Incog" as the comedy offering for the week. "A Night Off" will be given at the Fifty-eighth Street Theatre, fresh from its successful revival at the Fifth Avenue. "A Night Off" will be preceded by the pathetic little curtain raiser, "Meadow Sweet," which will provide contrast.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May Be Of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

A New Jersey Democrat, who stands within the inner circle of his party, said yesterday that the Democrats would endeavor to confine the coming campaign to State issues, among which the leading ones probably would be "juggling" with Supreme Court appointments; the new election law, whereunder State and municipal elections must be held simultaneously, and the mismanagement of State institutions by the Republican party, as developed by the recent investigation of the State Home for the Insane at Trenton.—New York Tribune.

* * * *

An appropriation of $10,000 is asked of the next Legislature by State Entomologist Smith for the war which it is proposed to wage against the perniciously active New Jersey mosquito. It is to be hoped the money will be forthcoming and that it will do all the good that Professor Smith believes it will. The great danger lies in the fact that the lawmakers will have forgotten all about the mosquito plague when they convene next winter and that it may be difficult to enlist their sympathy for the measure which it is expected will permit of an aggressive warfare against the insect pests. If a special session of the Legislature could be called just now to meet in any one of scores of New Jersey seashore resorts or even in Newark or almost any neighboring North Jersey city it is confidently believed that an appropriation of $1,000,000, for the extermination of the New Jersey mosquito could be obtained without a dissenting vote. And coming from Elizabeth, Governor Voorhees would scarcely veto it, either.—Mt. Holly Mirror.

—Many physicians are now prescribing Kodol Dyspepsia Cure regularly, having found that it is the best prescription they can write because it is the one preparation which contains the elements necessary to digest not only some kinds of food but all kind and it therefore cures indigestion and dyspepsia no matter what its cause. EVANS ATTACKED.

Pension Commissioner Accused of Unfairness by G. A. R. Commander.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 13.—The first day of the national convention of the Grand Army of the Republic was taken up with the reading of the reports by the commander in chief, adjutant general, chaplain and various commissioners.

The proceedings of the convention were prefaced with the adoption of a resolution offered by General Daniel E. Sickles tendering to the president the affectionate congratulations of the Grand Army upon his rapid convalescence. The resolution was embodied in a telegram which was immediately sent to Mr. McKinley at Buffalo.

The action of the convention on the report of the committee on pensions is still a subject of all absorbing interest with the veterans. It was expected that this matter would be disposed of at yesterday's session, but the convention adjourned without taking any formal action on the report.

Commander In Chief Rassieur in a spirited address severely arraigned Pension Commissioner Evans upon his administration of the affairs of the pension bureau. His complaint embraced alleged unfairness and dereliction of duty in office. General Sickles was careful to exonerate President McKinley and directed his attack at the head of the pension bureau direct.

Senator Hawley announced his intention of fighting any attack made upon Commissioner Evans. He expressed the fullest confidence in the administration to rectify any existing evils in due time and counseled moderation in the convention.

The report of the committee on credentials was adopted, the roll prepared by the adjutant general showing a total voting strength of 1,340, said to be the largest in point of attendance in the history of the organization.

A number of cities are in the fight for the next encampment of the G. A. R., Detroit, Denver, Atlanta, St. Paul, Salt Lake City and Charlestown, W. Va., being mentioned in the list of contestants. The place of meeting will be decided at today's session of the convention.

The thanksgiving mass meeting in praise and thanksgiving for the prospective recovery of President McKinley was attended by an immense outpouring of the people, including veterans and visitors. Senator M. A. Hanna presided as chairman. When he took his seat upon the platform, he was greeted with continued applause. The many eminent speakers, including Governor Nash, Judge William R. Day, Senator Fairbanks and others, spoke in most feeling terms upon the all absorbing topic of the day.

WRECK ON THE WEST SHORE.

Fifty Persons Injured In an Accident Near Syracuse.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 13.—The Chicago limited express, westbound, on the West Shore railroad, ran into an open switch at Eastwood, three miles east of here. Fifty persons were injured, but none of them seriously. The limited is the fastest train on the West Shore. It was made up of ten cars. The train was fifteen minutes late, being due here at 2:25 o'clock, and was running at the rate of forty-five miles an hour. When the train struck the switch, the engine, two coaches and three express cars were overturned. The other cars, which were sleepers, kept on the tracks.

David Pearsall was the engineer of the train, and Patrick Nixon was the conductor. They both live in this city. Both were painfully but not seriously injured. The tracks were torn up, and the engine and some of the cars were badly wrecked, but the debris has been cleared away, and traffic has been resumed. The fact that no lives were lost in the accident is considered marvelous, as all the cars were crowded with passengers.

The railroad authorities say they will not place the blame for the wreck until after they have completed an investigation. They say the damage to the rolling stock will amount to about $15,000.

CUBA'S ELECTORAL LAW.

Constitutional Convention Delays Handing Copy to General Wood.

HAVANA, Sept. 13.—The constitutional convention has not yet given to Governor General Wood the electoral law, although it was promised Wednesday. The delegates assert that they will hand it over today. Nominally the law was complete about three weeks ago, when the draft was turned over to the committee on style for final revision, as the clauses were in a disorderly condition. It was returned to the convention last week and was supposed to have been handed to the printers, although amendments continued to be proposed.

General Wood has informed Senor Capote that the convention will not be dissolved when the law is complete, but will separate without pay. This course, the delegates assert, will mean a change in the electoral law, as according to the law as it now stands the convention has to take part in the supervision of the election. It has been asserted that the convention gave the electoral law such a form in order to allow the delegates to go on drawing their salaries. The delegates, on the other hand, insist that the order convening the convention calls upon them to supervise the election.

THE FIGHT GOES ON.

President Shaffer Lays at Rest All Settlement Reports.

A TIN PLATE PLANT BESIEGED.

Officers, With Drawn Revolvers, Guard Nonunion Workmen at the Monongahela Mill in Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 13.—The air is again full of rumors that the strike has been settled. The absence of President Shaffer from Amalgamated headquarters yesterday up to 4 p. m. lent color to the report. By many Mr. Shaffer was supposed to be in New York in conference with President Schwab, and others were convinced that he was in conference with the American Tin Plate officials discussing a proposition to call the strike off so far as that company was concerned. When President Shaffer finally appeared at headquarters, he dispelled all hopes by saying there was no change in the situation.

Immediately after arriving at the office Mr. Shaffer called the national officers to his room for a conference, which lasted forty minutes. It was impossible to learn what the talk was about, as none of the party would talk.

A press representative captured the president as he was about to board a car for home. In reply to questions Mr. Shaffer said:

"There has been no conference with the steel people, as has been reported. I have not been to New York, and I am not going there, nor am I going to Youngstown, O."

This latter was said in answer to the report that the Youngstown strikers had held a meeting yesterday afternoon and had telegraphed President Shaffer asking him to attend an adjourned meeting last night. He said he knew of no meeting at Youngstown. In explanation of his absence from his office all day President Shaffer said:

"I was at home until very late. I was not feeling very well and did not come down town. That accounts for my absence."

It is said at Amalgamated headquarters that the steel combine has refused to entertain any further propositions of settlement from the Amalgamated association. This would seem to strengthen the report from New York that the situation is now in just the shape that it was before the first conference at Cleveland, in the hands of the constituent companies for settlement; that Mr. Schwab and Mr. Morgan have turned the matter over to the local officials and that if anything is done it must be done by them and not through the officers in New York. The officials of the American Steel Hoop company, the American Tin Plate company and the American Sheet Steel company are under orders now to start their mills either by opening them nonunion or effecting a settlement with the association on terms that will be satisfactory to the New York officials.

With drawn revolvers, two officers, one a Coal and Iron policeman, the other said to be a regular officer on the south side police force, sat on the top seat of a cab and guarded six nonunion workmen into the Monongahela tin plate plant on the south side yesterday afternoon. A great crowd of strikers and sympathizers pursued the cab to and from the mill, and when the return trip was begun both officers once more drew their guns, and at Fourteenth and Carson streets one shot was fired from the cab. Fortunately no one was hit.

The streets in the vicinity of the Monongahela plant are now virtually in a state of siege.

FIVE MEN KILLED.

Powder Mill at Oakland, N. J. Blown Up.

OAKLAND, N. J., Sept. 13.—Three explosions occurred in the works of the American-Schultze Powder company here yesterday. Following are the killed: William Titus, forty years old, engineer in charge of the boiler; Arthur Curry of Newburg, twenty-two years old, driver; John Dupont, twenty-five years old, employed at Isaac's hotel; Richard Van Blarcan, thirty years old, mason; Harrison Weyble, twenty-five years old, driver.

The fatally injured are: Bartholomew Burns, twenty-two years old, back broken; Andrew Lassenger, twenty-one years old, back broken.

The less seriously injured are: William Weatherworks, thirty-three years old, mixer; Abram McMonnies, forty years of age; Frederick Titus, thirty-five years old, brother of the engineer killed; Frederick and William Titus, sons of the engineer, and John Farrell, thirty-five years of age, roofer.

The first explosion was that of the boiler, cause not known. Following almost immediately were two explosions, one in the magazine, the other in the mixing house. This latter is supposed to have been caused by a spark.

The two men whose backs were broken were taken to the Paterson (N. J.) hospital. The others who were injured were taken to their respective homes. The coroner ordered the removal of the dead.

The men were at dinner at the time of the accident. The building was shattered. The police quickly formed a cordon about the ruins and held back the crowd. All business in the town was suspended during the excitement.

Anarchist Leader Arrested.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—John Most, leader of the anarchists in this city, was arrested by Detective Sergeants Steinbruck and Krauch of the central office last evening. He is now locked up at police headquarters, charged with circulating incendiary literature. Captain Titus said that the well known leader of the "reds" had been taken into custody for the publication of an article in his paper, the Freiheit, on Sept. 1. When questioned as to the article, Most said it had been published many years before in a foreign paper.

Explorer Baldwin Heard From.

CHRISTIANIA, Sept. 13.—A message, dated Aug. 5 and received by way of Hammerfest from Evelyn B. Baldwin, head of the Baldwin-Ziegler north pole expedition, says: "America, latitude 78, longitude 38, seeking passage northward through ice. All well."

Bishop Whipple Ill.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 13.—Word has been received here that Bishop Henry H. Whipple of the Protestant Episcopal church is dangerously ill at his home in Faribault.

A SOLEMN AFFAIR.

Such Was the State Dinner Given by the First President of the United States.

William H. Egle, of Harrisburg, Pa., has an interesting manuscript written by his great-grandfather, William Maclay, who represented Pennsylvania in the first senate of the United States, writes the Washington correspondent of the Chicago Record-Herald. It gives an amusing description of a state dinner at the executive mansion when George Washington was president and New York city was the capital of the United States. Mr. Maclay says:

"The company were: President and Mrs. Washington, Vice President and Mrs. Adams, the governor and his wife, Mr. Jay and wife, Mr. Langdon and wife, Mr. Dalton and lady, perhaps his wife; and Mr. Smith, Basset, myself, Lear and Lewis, the president's two secretaries. The president and Mrs. Washington sat opposite each other, in the middle of the table. The two secretaries one at each end. It was a great dinner, and the best of the kind that ever I was at. The room, however, was disagreeably warm. First was soup; fish, roasted and boiled; meats, game, fowl, etc. This was the dinner. The middle of the table was garnished in the usual tasty way with small images, flowers (artificial), etc. The desserts were, first, apple pie, puddings, etc., then iced creams, puddings, etc.; then watermelon, muskmelon, apples, peaches, nuts.

"It was the most solemn dinner that ever I sat at. Not a health drank, scarcely a word said until the cloth was taken away. Then the president, taking a glass of wine, with great formality, drank to the health of every individual round the table. Everybody imitated him, charged glasses, and such a buzz of health, sir, and health, madam, and thank you, sir, and thank you, madam, never had I heard before. Indeed, I had liked to have been thrown out in the hurry, but I got a little wine in my glass and passed in the ceremony.

"The ladies sat a good while, and the bottles passed about, but there was a dead silence almost. Mrs. Washington at last withdrew the ladies. I expected the men would not remain, but the same stillness remained. The president told of a New England clergyman who had lost a wig and hat in passing a river called Brunks. He smiled and everybody else laughed. He now and then said a sentence or two on some common subject, and what he said was not amiss. There was a Mr. Smith, who mentioned how Homer described Aeneas leaving his wife and carrying his father out of burning Troy. He had heard somebody (I suppose) witty on the subject, but if he had read it he would have said Virgil. The president kept a fork in his hand when the cloth was taken away, I thought for the purpose of picking nuts. He ate no nuts, but played with it. We did not sit long after the ladies retired. The president rose, went upstairs to drink coffee, the company followed. I took my hat and came home."

A Fortunate Delay.

In "Life and Sport on the Pacific Coast" Mr. Horace A. Vachell relates one of his narrow escapes from a friend's bullet:

My cousin and I had been camping and hunting for several days in a sort of Paradise valley. One day, during a long ride on horseback, we had seen a great many rattlesnakes, and killed a few—an exceptional experience.

That night my cousin woke up and saw, by the light of the moon, a big rattler crawling across my chest. He lay for a moment fascinated, horror-struck, watching the sinuous curves of the reptile.

Then he quietly reached for his six-shooter. But he could not see the reptile's head, and he moved nearer, noiselessly yet quickly, dreading some movement on my part that should precipitate the very thing he dreaded. And then he saw that it was not a snake at all—only the black and yellow stripe of my blanket that gently rose and fell as I breathed.

Had he fired—well, it might have been bad for me, for he confessed that his hand shook.

Monkey Tricks.

Anecdotes without end are told of feats and intelligence of the lower animals, but very few careful experiments have been made to determine just what they can really do. In this direction Dr. E. L. Thorndike, of Columbian university, seems to have done the best work. He has published experiments showing that dogs, cats and chicks not only do not reason, but only learn as it were by chance. They cannot be really taught even the smallest tricks. He thinks that monkeys may be included with man in a special mental genus, owing especially to their enjoyment of physical and mental activity. They cannot, however, learn by seeing other animals do the same thing or by being put through the movements. In spite of the common notion to the contrary, they do not really imitate. —Popular Science Monthly.

The Pope's Paraphrase.

An amusing story of the pope's good-natured humor is being told in Rome just now. His holiness is much sought after as a sitter by painters whose powers are not always equal to their ambitions. Quite recently one of these painters, having finished his portrait, begged the pope to honor him by inscribing upon it some Scriptural text, with his autograph. Pope Leo looked dubiously at the picture. It was mediocre enough and little like himself; but he reflected a moment and then, adapting the familiar line in St. Matthew to the peculiar circumstances, he wrote as follows: "Be not afraid; it is I.—Leo XIII."

SNAKE LOVED MUSIC.

Showed Great Rapture Over One of Chopin's Nocturnes.

Waltz Songs and Ragtime, or Anything Lively and Noisy, Repelled the Reptilian Critic—Charmed by Low Notes.

"During our first year in Colorado," said the ex-ranchman's wife to a New York Sun reporter, "my daughter and myself were desperately lonesome, and for the girl's sake more than for my own I urged my husband to try his utmost and get a piano brought there. A Colorado ranch was then much further from any point of civilization than it is to-day, and for a long time the feat seemed hopeless, but at last, after long and tedious effort, an instrument found its way to our wilderness.

"My daughter had a fairly good musical education before we went to the ranch, and after the arrival of the piano she spent all her leisure time at it. One evening, about two weeks after it came, she had spent a couple of hours practicing some of Chopin's waltzes; then she struck into the nocturnes. Chopin is my favorite among the composers. While I sat there listening intently, my elbow resting on a table beside me and my head on my hand, I felt myself impelled to go to the window and look out. I had heard no sound, everything was as still as death, but there was just a consciousness that something was outside.

"I moved cautiously, peered out slowly, and drew suddenly back. A huge snake was coiled up close under the window. Its body was perfectly still, its head poised in a listening attitude, and swaying slightly from side to side, as if in rhythmic movement with the music. I did not see this all at once. I took in the situation after I returned to the window and stood there for several minutes watching the creature out of range of his eye, and wondering if my presence would make itself felt and divert its interest from the music. But no; I don't believe even speech would have broken the spell. The creature seemed dazed, entranced, fascinated!

CHARMED BY A CHOPIN NOCTURNE.

"After watching him for a time I went quietly over to my daughter and without startling her by so much as a hint of my strange discovery, I asked her to desist for a few moments from the minor and semi-weird notes she was playing and strike into one or two lively airs. She did so, while I returned and watched the reptile.

"After a couple of minutes of the rattling music the snake began to grow restive. It reared its head, beat it from side to side, and showed other symptoms of restlessness and anger. The music kept on; the snake began to writhe and shiver, as if in distress; finally it uncoiled and glided away out of sight in the underbrush.

"When I told my discovery to the male portion of the family they were all ready to watch for that snake and kill him at the first opportunity. But I forbade that; I desired to make a further study of his love of music, and I did so. I prepared my daughter to look for his advent again, and his snakeship did not disappoint us. Again and again we watched him creep to his musical rendezvous, and again and again we tested the quality of his musical tastes. We proved beyond the shadow of a doubt that low, sweet music, minor, sad or weird notes fascinated that snake, and that anything lively or noisy repelled him.

"I grew positively interested in the study and even found myself bestowing a sort of human pity on the reptile. But it resulted in no good, for the other members of the family did not share my feelings, and I must finish my story by saying that the creature's love for Chopin's nocturnes cost him his life during one of his visits under our window."

Saved by His Ugliness.

In the case of a French conscript his face was distinctly his fortune, though not exactly in the sense in which the milkmaid reckoned. Brought before the council of revision at Nimes, he was of an ugliness so appalling that the council could not withhold a cry. Forgetting the young man's presence the council instantly fell to a heated discussion as to whether the laws which regulate the physical standard requisite for service could be stretched to exclude abnormal ugliness. They decided that the conscript must awake such mirth in the ranks as to injure discipline. The young man accordingly was dismissed, not wholly displeased with his homely face, which has saved him three years' service.

HOWISON IS EXCUSED

Schley Court's First Session In Washington.

ADMIRAL HAD UTTERED CONVICTIONS

Conversations Related Showed Him to Be Prejudiced In Favor of Sampson—Court Awaits the Action of Navy Department.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—Within three hours from the time of convening the court of inquiry it was announced that Rear Admiral Howison was disqualified from serving as a member of the court and was excused from further duty This brought the proceedings to an abrupt termination and caused a temporary adjournment of the court in order to permit the navy department to designate an officer to succeed Admiral Howison. No further session is probable until the latter part of next week.

It had been expected that little official business would be accomplished on the opening day, and the prompt decision as to Admiral Howison came somewhat as a surprise.

Prior to the court's convening a good sized crowd assembled at the Washington navy yard, where the court meets, to witness the coming of the prominent naval officers who were to take part in the proceedings.

They came ununiformed and unheralded, and until the full dress uniforms had been donned at quarters inside the yard for the actual sessions of the court there was little to lend dramatic interest to the occasion. Admiral Dewey and Admiral Schley naturally were the premier figures in popular interest. The latter had about him a distinguished party of counsel, including Hon. Jere Wilson, Attorney General Isidor Raynor of Maryland and Captain James Parker, with Mr. Teague acting as advisory counsel. The German naval attache, Captain Rebeuer-Paschwits, occupied one of the seats in the public area, and the number of wives of naval officers present was noteworthy.

A salute of seventeen guns in honor of the admiral of the navy marked the opening of the proceedings at 1 o'clock. The usual formalities on the opening of a court were transacted with dispatch. The first skirmish was opened by Admiral Schley rising from his seat and, speaking in a strong voice, calmly and deliberately, challenging Admiral Howison's eligibility as a member of the court. Three witnesses were brought forward in support of this challenge—namely, Mr. Francis S. Frost, Mr. William E. Spon and Mr. Foster Nicholls. They gave very positive testimony as to expressions they had heard Admiral Howison make favorable to Admiral Sampson and unfavorable to Admiral Schley. Mr. Frost testified to a statement Admiral Howison had made to him at Boston while the witness was seeking news as a reporter, Mr. Spon to remarks made while he and the admiral were journeying back to this country from Europe on a transatlantic steamer, and Mr. Nicholls' conversation occurred during a business call at Admiral Howison's private residence at Yonkers, N. Y.

Mr. Spon testified that he had been a passenger on the steamer Minneapolis, which had sailed from London for New York on the 11th of October, 1900, and that Admiral Howison also had been a passenger on the same vessel on this voyage. The witness related that one day during the voyage the Sampson-Schley controversy came up, and one gentleman expressed himself as favorable to Admiral Sampson. Mr. Spon had taken the opposite side and in his effort to show that Admiral Sampson was not a fit man for that position had remarked that the admiral had been the last member of the board of ordnance to agree to the use of smokeless powder by the navy.

Continuing, Mr. Spon said that Admiral Howison came within hearing of the conversation at this point and, walking up to the group, said: "I correct you. This is not so. You don't know anything about it. Sampson is very much respected and looked up to, especially by the younger members of the navy." Continuing, the witness said that some colloquy had followed, after which Admiral Howison had said: "Anyhow, Schley should have been court martialed. He was the main cause of all this controversy in the newspapers."

Mr. Spon added that Admiral Howison had seemed much excited during his conversation and that the other members of the party had listened in silence to what he had to say. "From his whole manner," the witness went on, "I infer that he was a very violent partisan of Sampson and correspondingly prejudiced against Schley. He was not content to correct me as to Admiral Sampson, but seemed willing to say bitter things, almost vindictively, against Admiral Schley."

Mr. Spon was immediately succeeded by Mr. Foster Nicholls of Yonkers, N. Y., which is Admiral Howison's place of residence. Mr. Nicholls is interested in naval publications and in this capacity called upon Admiral Howison on July 1 last for the purpose of securing from him notes for a biography of the admiral. He stated that the day on which the call was made was very hot, and on this account the admiral had asked to be excused from granting an interview. Mr. Nicholls said that after this conversation he had produced a copy of the work which his house was getting out, containing sketches of the leaders in the Spanish-American war and containing pictures of Sampson and Schley. The witness said that at the sight of Schley's picture Howison said Schley had no business in the navy and added that if Schley were in the English navy he would have been put out for less cause than there is in his case.

On concluding this testimony the question arose whether Admiral Howison would join issue with the statements made by the witnesses or would rest on his privilege to withhold any answer until he chose to submit it. The admiral met the issue by turning at once to Admiral Dewey and announcing that he would make a writ of rejoinder to the statements of the three witnesses. This rejoinder he prepared very speedily. While conceding the accuracy of some points in the evidence, it threw considerable doubt on other points and disclaimed any recollection of the talks said to have taken place on the transatlantic steamer.

It was not sufficient, however, to counteract the very direct testimony given by the three witnesses, and, moreover, the admiral himself in concluding his statement indicated plainly that he had no desire to remain on the court and was there simply in obedience to orders. He even appealed to his associates on the court to decide all doubtful questions as to his eligibility in favor of Admiral Schley.

Before submitting the challenge to the determination of the court Mr. Raynor cross examined Admiral Howison very minutely as to his personal sentiments toward Admiral Sampson and Admiral Schley and developed that Admiral Howison had expressed certain definite convictions as to Admiral Sampson's retention of authority and responsibility even while he was absent temporarily from the fleet at Santiago. The challenge then was submitted to the court, which under the circumstances narrowed to Admiral Dewey and Rear Admiral Benham to pass upon. After hardly more than fifteen minutes spent in retirement to the consultation room of the court Admiral Dewey briefly announced that the court sustained the challenge and that Admiral Howison would be excused from further attendance. The decision came so quickly and so unexpectedly that it sent a flutter of agitation throughout the courtroom. There was a buzz of animated comment, and Admiral Schley exchanged looks of satisfaction with his counsel. Admiral Dewey then at once closed the proceedings of the day by announcing that the court would adjourn indefinitely until the navy department had named an officer to succeed Admiral Howison.

Record of Executive Pardons.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—James S. Easby-Smith, pardon attorney of the department of justice, has submitted his report of the operations of his office for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1901. During the twelve months 762 applications for executive clemency were filed, 45 cases were pending at the close of the former fiscal year, and 34 cases were reopened from other years, making a total of 841 cases brought before the pardon attorney's office for submission to the attorney general and president. Of the cases handled 448 were not considered by the president, as they were reported on adversely by district attorneys, judges and the pardon attorney himself. Of the total number 343 were acted upon by the president, and 50 were unacted upon at the close of the year. Of the 343 cases acted upon by the president he denied 117 and exercised executive clemency in some form in 226. Of this latter number he pardoned 107, pardoned conditionally 2, restored civil rights to 53, commuted the sentences of 50, remitted the fines of 10, remitted 2 forfeited recognizances and reprieved 2.

Crime Hereditary.

The Police Should Act.

Although they apparently do not realize the fact, the police of this city are making this municipality liable to a heavy suit for damages when they allow the local wheelmen to ride about the city streets without check to their speed. A decision, recently made in a court of law, brings this particularly to mind.

In a city in Maryland, the bicycle ordinance was allowed to become a dead letter as it is here, as far as speed is concerned. A wheelman collided with a pedestrian, seriously injuring the latter. The bicyclist was admittedly going at a speed faster than the ordinance permitted. Suit for damages was brought against the city and a verdict for a large amount secured. It was brought out at the trial that the ordinance was a dead letter and that the police made no attempt to enforce it.

The local bicycle ordinance is composed of four principal provisions. A bell is required at all times and a lamp from an hour after sunset to an hour before sunrise. There must be no riding on the sidewalk and a limit is placed on the speed. It is the latter provision which is so constantly violated.

There are a number of wheelmen who ride through the city streets in a very reckless fashion, and the only wonder is that a fatal accident has not already resulted. The ordinance was made for the protection of the public, and the police should certainly see that it is properly enforced. After an example is made of a few of these reckless "scorchers," the practice will undoubtedly cease to a great extent. This habit of scorching is particularly noticeable every time the fire alarm sounds. It is to be hoped that the police will not forget their duty next time but arrest some of these bicyclists who appear to have such little regard for the welfare of the rest of the community.

The Philadelphia Record is authority for the statement that an Ashtabula, (Ohio,) minister, who has doubled the average attendance at his church by advertising every day in the newspapers, denies that the method is sensational. "The newspaper," he declares, "is the proper instrument through which to address the people on any worthy subject, whether it be business or religion." He thinks that he would be remiss if he should fail to use the immense influence of newspaper advertising.

As far as the nomination of a candidate for governor is concerned, the selection of delegates to the Republican State convention at the primaries, to be held in this city Monday evening, September 23, will be only a matter of form. As the delegates will have something to say, however, regarding the Union county member of the State committee, the two factions in the Republican ranks are likely to be in evidence and make a bold effort to capture the various delegations.

It may be that Plainfield does not present as many opportunities for temperance work as do some other cities in these United States, but the reports presented at the annual meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union show that these determined women have found a large field in this city for their labors, and that they have accomplished much during the last twelve month.

With the advent of cold weather, the mind of the lover of outdoor sports naturally reverts to the football gridiron. While there is no immediate prospect of any world-beating eleven from this city, it is probable that a number of teams will be organized and furnish enough local contests to please the lovers of that game.

There is already talk of athletics at the Plainfield High School this year of which the new science instructor will be in charge. His predecessor, Albert B. Meredith, now superintendent of schools at Nutley, is largely responsible for the healthy growth of sports among the local school boys during the past three years.

The character of the dastardly crime of which the negro, Robinson, pleaded guilty to in the Union County Court last week, fully justified Judge Vail in giving the colored man the extreme penalty of the law. In some States, it is probable that lynch law would have meted out speedy justice.

There ought to be some good talent in the West End for the minstrel show which is planned by the Young Men's Association of Hope chapel. Burnt cork exhibitions by local talent always take and the association is quite in need of funds. The result should be satisfactory to all concerned.

Anarchy must be stamped out. The attempted assassination of President McKinley has brought the subject to mind with renewed force. The Pope feels strongly on the subject and His Holiness will soon recommend that the powers of the world take joint action against it.

Mayor Smalley's pet scheme is slowly nearing completion. Somerset street has been widened, the telephone wires put under ground, and now the last step in the improvement of the thoroughfare, the regrading and macadamizing of the street has been started.

At the outing of the Essex county Democrats 80,000 clams were disposed of, and there were 2 200 guests present. What huge appetites those men from Essex must have. They are evidently not worrying about who the next governor of New Jersey will be.

Every individual demand for the installation of water meters has its influence with the Plainfield Water Supply Company. More than one householder will wish the meters were installed when the water bills come round in October.

The Mayor Seymour boom for the gubernatorial nomination of the Democrats took another lift when the Robert Davis Association held its outing. Col. Price and Mr. Davis were lined up side by side for Newark's mayor.

Congressman Fowler is home from an European trip. Probably his first semi-public appearance in Union county will be at the outing of the county G. O P. organization at Recreation Park.

Ben LaVere is having his troubles in raising sufficient funds for the final open-air band concert. There should be no difficulty in getting funds for such a worthy cause.

Pastors and congregations of the local churches are assembling together once more ready for the active work which follows the departure of the heated months.

This is the first time that nobody can be found to claim a wheel found by the police. It is usually the owners who are in the majority.

The Republicans of Union county are the first to open up headquarters. They have established them in Elizabeth.

What a feast the mosquitoes will have when the Republican clans gather at Recreation Park this month.

With the baseball season drawing to a close, chief local honors appear to rest with the St. Mary boys.

—Neuman Bros. will have over 300 baskets of fine canning peaches tomorrow morning.

—C. W. McCutchen, of Washington Park, has purchased a handsome new carriage for pleasure riding.

—Noah Dove Encampment, I. O. O. F., received two new members this month, and they have received the application of three members for next month.

DUNELLEN.

Dunellen, September 13.—The substance of the Hurst effigy story, which was circulated during the early part of the week, is that a crowd of boys, ranging in years from nine to fourteen, went Monday evening to serenade a young couple who were married at the home of Mrs. L. W. Clark. On the way over they found a rag doll to which some one set fire and burned it up. The crowd then visited W. E. Smith who treated, after which they dispersed. One who was there says that the name of W. R. Hurst was not mentioned.

A case of diphtheria has broken out in the borough. The victim is Lester, the nine-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kratzel. Dr. Brakeley, who was called in attendance, has sent a patch from the child's throat to Princeton for chemical analysis, but he says that there is no doubt but that the child has a mild form of diphtheria. The Lincoln school, at which the boy was a pupil, was closed yesterday to further the attempts being made to stamp out the disease.

CARRIED TOO MANY WEAPONS

MAYOR ASHBRIDGE'S PERMISSION DIDN'T GO HERE.

So the Men Captured On "Owl" Train Had to go to Jail in Default of a Fine.

City Judge Runyon's desk in the city court resembled an arsenal, this morning, after the officers had emptied the pockets of Edward Ennis, colored, and Harry Cummings, white, two men who were taken into custody by Patrolman McGinley at 3 o'clock this morning on Richmond street. Among the articles found on them were two loaded revolvers of the latest manufacture and two wicked looking blackjacks.

Both men claimed to be employes of the Adams Express Company at Philadelphia, while Ennis, in addition, said he was a night watchman in the Germantown district. Permission had been given them by Mayor Ashbridge to carry the weapons to protect themselves and the property in their care.

They left Philadelphia last night, riding "blind baggage" on the train which reaches Plainfield at 2:14, with the intention of getting better positions at Elizabeth. The sight of Patrolman Lunger at the depot scared them from the train, only to encounter McGinley.

Although the men's stories seemed straightforward, the offense was too great to allow suspension, and both were sent to Elizabeth in default of a $3 fine.

The family of Alexander Miller, of Madison avenue, have returned from their summer outing on the coast of Maine.

The Misses Maguire, of Elizabeth, have returned from a visit to their cousins, the Misses Garey, of West Fourth street.

Chief Kiely, Councilman Frank Randolph and James Stewart are taking in the sights at the Pan-American Exposition.

ACTION FOR DIVORCE.

Begun by Mrs. A. A. Chander of This City Against Her Husband.

Mrs. A. A. Chandor, of East Ninth street, this city, has begun suit for divorce from John A. Chandor, on the ground of desertion. Papers were served on the husband at the Continental Hotel, Newark, yesterday. Mrs. Chandor asserts that Chandor abandoned her ten years ago. She has six children, three of whom are minors.

The sight of over three hundred baskets of choice peaches, displayed on the sidewalks surrounding Neuman Bros. store this morning, was very gratifying to the throng of purchasers, and Neuman Bros. were heartily congratulated for the opportunity offered to purchase first-class fruit. EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning Sept. 15—"True Honor"—Text, John v, 41-44.

"The works that I do bear witness of me."

The person who cares nothing for the opinions of others is too dangerous to be allowed at large. As he disregards their sentiments he will be likely to violate their rights.

Next after the approval of our own conscience we should esteem the commendation of our fellow men. Honor is threefold. It is in its lowest degree the recognition which others give to our actions as praiseworthy. It is in a higher degree our own sense of right and nobility, and particularly our self-approval and satisfaction at any course pursued as right and noble and worthy. In the highest degree it is the silent witness of the works themselves as proper and worthy and befitting a person of high character and with a noble mission God inspired.

Not what people think and say is the most important consideration; not even what we feel and believe. But the correspondence of our acts with the ideal standard of duty constitutes true honor.

Honor and shame from no condition rise.
Act well your part; there all the honor lies.

We are all too much given to love of applause. In some form or other the love for titles is a strong appetite in most folks. Conspicuousness, prominence, praise even to flattery, is craved more than many realize. We see it in others and feel more or less of contempt for their weakness in them and little realize how the same defect in us appears to others.

In its proper place and degree the opinions of others form a safeguard to us in our work. No one, however wise he may be, is as wise as many together. It is a mark of foolishness rather than wisdom to hold fast to one's own opinion regardless of what others say; yet there are times when the many are wrong and the one is alone right. We may ever listen to the suggestions of all, but must finally go according to our own judgment. Tell me what you see, if you please; but I will at last trust my own eyes whether it please you or not. Esch sees more than he can tell. No two can see alike. To undertake to see exactly like another does is to risk the possibility of clearly seeing that which is for you alone.

Each individual life has the possibility of a separate vision of reality and an ideal of personal character and work. Each has a possible divine mission. God speaks to each one particularly. Each has his individual name and task and equipment to fulfill that mission. Honor is the doing of this life work well. The highest praise is the commendation of God at the completion of the work day when all shall be finished. His "well done, good and faithful servant," is the most desirable applause. To know in one's own soul that this approval is well earned and to recognise that the work done does worthily correspond to the ideal and model given of God for his guidance is to feel honor and self satisfaction of the purest type.

Be not too much moved by the praise or blame of others. They cannot know the pattern or the materials you are to employ.

To thine own self be true,
And it shall follow as the night the day
Thou canst not then
Be false to any man.

See thou do as Moses did with the tabernacle. Make thy life according to the pattern showed thee in the mount. Let God show you the model of the person you should be; then increasingly and unceasingly be such. That is true honor.

Honesty of Life.

The test of religious principle in the eyes of the world is honesty of life. If it be apparent that one is not honest in temporal things, his professions of religion will not be accepted as of much worth. They will be suspected as hypocritical. The effect of genuine piety is to lead men to do what God requires of them. The prophet sums it all up in one sentence, "What doth God require of thee but to do justly, love mercy and walk humbly with thy God?" These things are the fruits of a true faith in the Lord, by which we accept Him as our God. Any deviation from this law of rectitude on the part of Christians at once indicates something wrong.—Christian Instructor.

The Preaching of the Law.

Men go to great lengths to bring the preaching of the law into discredit and disfavor. They strive to belittle the Old Testament and the Epistles that they may destroy a legal spirit, as they call it, and establish the reign of love. But love is law; love without law is not love. God as a sovereign has established law in the natural and spiritual world. He administers law. Obedience to life with honor; disobedience is death with dishonor.—Christian Intelligencer.

For God and Humanity.

If the few are called to the work of preaching, all are summoned to Christian living. Gospel preaching and godly lives mean glorious results for God and humanity.—Episcopal Recorder.

Be Swift.

Be swift, dear heart, in loving, for time is brief,
And thou may'st soon along life's highway keep step with grief.

Be swift, dear heart, in saying the kindly word.
When ears are sealed, thy passionate pleading will not be heard.

Be swift, dear heart, in doing the gracious deed,
Lest soon they whom thou holdest dearest be past the need.

Be swift, dear heart, in giving the rare, sweet flower,
Nor wait to heap with blooms the casket in some sad hour.

Dear heart, be swift in loving; time speedeth on,
And all thy chance of blessed service will soon be gone.

—Christian Work.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Sept. 15—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—True honor.—John v, 41-44.

This chapter is taken up with the healing of an infirm man on the Sabbath day, the criticism of the Jews in respect to this act and Christ's reply to their criticisms. Christ defended His Messiahship and explained to the Jews the cause of their unbelief in Him. At this point our lesson begins. The chief cause of their antipathy to Him and refusal to receive Him was their false conception of honor or glory. They sought honor of man and not of God. They were ambitious for worldly and not for spiritual honor. Therefore, as Christ had come not to honor Himself or to bring honor to them, but to honor God, they were not drawn to Him, but were strongly repelled. And the sad result was that faith in Christ was made impossible.

1. True honor is not the honor received from man. The Jewish idea of honor was false because it meant simply the honor received from man. They honored men who came in their own name with the hope that in so doing they would receive honor and glory themselves. "I am come," said Christ, "in My Father's name, and ye honor Me not. If another shall come in his own name, him ye will receive." This prophecy of Christ has been amply verified by history. It tells of 64 false Messiahs, who succeeded in forming a party among the Jews. But their purpose in honoring these human Messiahs was to obtain honor themselves. Had Christ offered them honors and glories in a temporal kingdom they would have rallied to His banner. They would have enthroned Him instead of crucifying Him. These vainglorious, honor seeking Jews have many successors today. Thousands are madly seeking worldly honor and glory. But worldly honor is false honor. It is insincere; it is fickle; it is temporal. Christ sought it not. "I receive not honor from men." Let us not seek it.

2. True honor comes from God. The approval of God upon our lives is of vastly more importance than the approval of man. Had the Jews sought this honor by consecrating their lives to the honor and the glory of God they would have been both able and willing to have believed in Christ and to have partaken of the glories and honors of His spiritual and eternal kingdom. It was God's honor and honor from God that Christ sought. "I receive not honor from men," He said. His ambition was to do that which was in accordance with the will of God, and which would receive God's approval. This is the honor that we should seek—honor from God. It is sincere; it is valuable; it is lasting, for it will endure forever. Let us not be deceived and waste our lives following the will-o-the-wisps of worldly honor, but let us strive by a consecrated Christian life to receive the honor which cometh from God.

THE PRAYER MEETING.

Have a story service consisting of the reading of selected short stories illustrating the topic. There are many of them.

BIBLE READINGS.

Ex. xx, 12; I Sam. ii, 30; Ps. xviii, 20; xci, 14-16; Rom. ii, 29; xiii, 7; Eph. vi, 1-3; Phil. ii, 1-12; I Tim. ii, 12.

The Direct Way.

It is not the man who goes around talking to himself that succeeds in life. The most disagreeable people we have to deal with are the people who assert that their friends "ought to know" that they are sick or neglected or in want. The way to get, says Jesus, is to go right up and ask for it. Treat heaven in the same manly fashion. A thing that is worth having is worth seeking for. Great discoveries come to men first as mere shadowy hints. There is a vague suspicion that such or such phenomena mean more than has been wrought out, and men spend their lives in trying to "develop" the powers so indistinctly revealed. See the good of your soul in that way, says the Lord. When you wish a favor of a friend, you do not walk round his house and peep into his windows. You go right to his door and knock till some one comes out. Be as earnest about your soul's needs if you would win heaven's favorable consideration.—Selected.

Careful Speech.

Careful speech would seem to be a necessity of the daily life of Christians if they believe the Scriptural assertion, "By thy words thou shalt be justified and by thy words condemned."

Our lips are our own. We have the right to use language, but it should be tempered with discretion. Once a scornful or angry or censorious speech passes the gate of the lips we cannot control it, and its effects are beyond our estimation. Let us be careful what we say, and on our lips let us have the law of kindness.—Christian Intelligencer.

Strengthening Character.

An excellent way to strengthen character is to cultivate candor to acknowledge it when you are wrong. It will inspire self confidence, open the door of knowledge for you, and you will have the sweet consciousness of always being right in excluding at once all the spurts of wrong.—Reformed Church Messenger.

Thinking and Acting.

For His Sake.

Unto that child what tenderness we bear
Whose young face speaks to us of one removed;
How the sweet semblance lighteneth our care
And bringeth near the lost one that we loved!

Ah, could we feel such kindness and such grace
Toward our fellows, in the meanest clod
Seeing the likeness of the Father's face,
Then would our souls be lifted close to God.

FALL HINTS.

Leading Effects In Millinery and Out of Door Garments.

The new fall millinery shows an abundance of wings, entire birds and plumage; buf, as a rule, these are all manufactured from birds killed for food. Very handsome long breasts are made of goose feathers and specked after the fashion of ermine with single black feathers. The flat hat continues in favor as well as the double brimmed shape, with a scarf of twisted tulle or chiffon and a flat bow of ribbon behind.

BLUE BROADCLOTH COAT.

Basque effects and tabs are slowly but surely creeping in. They are not so universally becoming, but they certainly add greatly to the warmth of a garment. Louis Quinze coattails are also being revived, but the style will not last, as it is suited to but few people. The new long coats will be closer fitting than last year, and the most fashionable will be of three-quarter length.

A serviceable coat for a schoolgirl is shown here. The material is of dark blue cloth. The smartness of the coat consists in the oddity of the trimming, which is composed of rows of tiny scallops stitched perfectly flat. This trimming is seen on the square collar, the bell shaped cuffs and the square laps over the pockets. The garment is lined throughout with red silk.

The hat which goes with it is of blue felt trimmed with cordings of deep blue velvet and a big bow of figured blue and red panne ribbon.

DAINTY ACCESSORIES.

Separate Sleeves and Yokes Are Being Sold In Sets.

Little accessories of dress are a necessity in the wardrobe of every well dressed woman. Among these we may count fichus, girdles, collars, boleros, fancy vests and fronts and, lately, sleeves. I say "lately" because it is only recently that they can be bought in the shops at the fancy counter. Sleeves of lace, chiffon and embroidery are to be found there all ready to be tacked into the evening dresses, for which they are designed, and there are also yokes sold to match them. One of the latest of these sleeves is composed of unlined black chiffon very loosely draped, so that it hangs like a bishop's sleeve. It is gathered at the shoulder into a cap of ecru lace, and at the wrist there is a cuff of the same lace.

A stylish bolero is made of alternate strips of black panne and yellow lace, with sleeves reaching to the elbow and an open front to show the waist under it. A pretty collar is made of tucked cream mousseline de soie, edged by a row of lace medallions, with a lozenge of black velvet in the center of each.

One of the new fall styles in Parisian hats is shown in today's picture. It is made of two shades of deep red. The hat proper is of panne velvet, with a huge twist of tulle under the left brim. Starting from the right side and crossing over to the left there are a pearl gray breast and wings tipped with black. This hat is meant to be worn well over the face. JUDIC CHOLLET.

By CUTCLIFFE HYNE.

I put my hand on his blood-smeared arm. "Tob," I said, "whether I step into power again, or whether I go to the block to-morrow, is another matter which the gods alone know, but hear me tell you now, that if a chance is given me of showing my gratitude, I shall not forget the way you have served me in this voyage, and the way you have fought this day."

Tob filled another brimming horn from the wine-skin and splashed it at my feet. "That's good enough surety for me," he said, "that my woman and brats never want from this day onward. The Lord Deucalion for the block, indeed!"

CHAPTER IV.

THE WELCOME OF PHORENICE.

The splendid city grew out of the sea as we approached, and to every throb of the oars the shores leaped nearer. I saw the temple where I had been admitted first to manhood; I saw the pyramid in whose heart I had been initiated to the small mysteries; and then (as the lesser objects became discernible) I made out the house where a father and a mother had reared me, and my eyes became dim as the memories rose.

It has been said that the great should always collect dignity by keeping those of lesser degree waiting their pleasure, though for myself I must say I have always thought the stratagem paltry and beneath me. Phorenice also seemed of this same opinion, for (as she herself told me later) at the moment that Tob's galley was reported as having its flank against the marble of the royal quay, at that precise moment did she start out from the palace. The gorgeous procession was already marshalled, bedecked and waiting only for its chiefest ornament; and as soon as she had mounted to her steed, trumpets gave the order, and the advance began.

Sitting in the doorway of a pavilion by the water's edge, I saw the soldiery who formed the head of this vast concourse emerge from the great broad street where it left the houses. They marched straight across to give me the salute, and then ranged themselves on the further side of the square. Then came to the Mariners' Guild, then more soldiers, all making obeisance in their turn, and passing on to make room for others. Following were the merchants, the tanners, the spear-makers and all the other acknowledged guilds, deliberately attired (so it seemed to me) that they might make a pageant; and while most walked on foot, there were some who proudly rode on beasts which they had tamed into rendering them this menial service.

But presently came the two wonders of all that dazzling spectacle. From out of the eclipse of the houses there swung into the open no less a beast than a huge bull mammoth. The sight had sufficient surprise in it almost to make me start. Many a time during my life had I led hunts to kill the mammoth, when a herd of them had raided some village or corn land under my charge. I had seen the huge brutes in the wild ground, shaggy, horrid, monstrous; more fierce even than the cave-tiger or the cave-bear; most dangerous beast of all that fight with man for dominion of the earth, save only for a few of the greater lizards. And here was this creature, a giant even among mammoths, yet tame as any well-whipped slave, and bearing upon its back a great half-castle of gold, stamped with the outstretched hand, and bedecked with silver snakes. Its murderous tusks were gilded, its hairy neck was garlanded with flowers, and it trod on in the procession as though assisting at such pageantry was the beginning and end of its existence. Its tameness seemed a fitting symbol of the masterful strength of this new ruler of Atlantis.

Simultaneously with the mammoth there came into sight that other and greater wonder, the mammoth's mistress, the Empress Phorenice. The beast took my eye at the first, from its very uncouth hugeness, from its show of savage power restrained; but the lady who sat in the golden half-castle on its lofty back quickly drew away my gaze, and held it immovable from then onward with an infinite attraction.

I stood to my feet when the people first shouted at Phorenice's approach, and remained in the porchway of my scarlet pavilion till her vast steed had halted in the center of the square, and then I advanced across the pavement towards her.

"On your knees, my lord," said one of the chamberlains behind me, in a scared whisper.

"At least with bent head," urged another.

But I had my own notions of what is due to one's own self-respect in these matters, and I marched across the bare open space with head erect, giving the empress gaze for gaze. She was clearly summing me up. I was frankly doing the like by her. Gods! but those few short seconds made me see a woman such as I never imagined could have lived.

I know I have placed it on record earlier in this writing that, during all the days of a long official life, women have had no influence over me. But I have been quick to see that they often had a strong swaying power over the policies of others, and as a consequence I have made it my business to study them even as I have studied men. But this woman who sat under the sacred snakes in her golden half-castle on the mammoth's back fairly baffled me. Of her thoughts I could read no single syllable. I could see a body, slight, supple and beautifully molded; in figure rather small. Her face was a most perfect book of cleverness, yet she was fair, too, beyond belief, with hair of a lovely ruddiness, cut short in the new fashion, and bunching on her shoulders. And eyes! Gods! who could plumb the depths of Phorenice's eyes, or find in mere tint a trace of their heaven-made color?

It was plain, also, that she in her turn was searching me down to my very soul, and it seemed that her scrutiny was not without its satisfaction. She moved her head in little nods as I drew near, and when I did the requisite obeisance permitted to my rank, she bade me, in a voice loud and clear enough for all at hand to hear, never to put forehead on the ground again on her behalf so long as she ruled in Atlantis.

"For others," she said, "it is fitting that they should do so, once, twice, or several times, according to their rank and station, for I am empress, and they are all so far beneath me; but you are Deucalion, my lord; and though till to-day I knew you only from pictures drawn with tongues, I have seen you now, and have judged for myself. And so I make this decree: Deucalion is above all other men in Atlantis, and if there is one who does not render him obedience, that man is enemy also of Phorenice, and shall feel her anger."

She made a sign, and a stair was brought, and then she called to me, and I mounted and sat beside her in the golden half-castle under the canopy of royal snakes. The girl who stood behind in attendance fanned us both with perfumed feathers, and at a word from Phorenice the mammoth was turned, bearing us back towards the royal pyramid by the way through which it had come. At the same time also all the other machinery of splendor was put in motion. The soldiers and the gaudily bedecked civil traders fell into procession before and behind, and I noted that a body of troops, heavily armed, marched on each of the mammoth's flanks.

Phorenice turned to me with a smile. "You piqued me," she said, "at first."

"Your majesty overwhelms me with so much notice."

"You looked at my steed before you looked at me. A woman finds it hard to forgive a slight like that."

"I envied you the greatest of your conquests, and do still. I have fought mammoths myself, and at times have killed, but I never dared even to think of taking one alive and bringing it into tameness."

"You speak boldly," she said, still smiling, "and yet you can turn a pretty compliment. Faugh! Deucalion, the way these people fawn on me gives me a nausea. I am not of the same clay as they are, I know; but just because I am the daughter of gods they must needs feed me on the pap of insincerity."

So Tatho was right, and the swineherd was forgotten. Well, if she chose to keep up the fiction she had made, it was not my part to contradict her. Rightly or wrongly, she was empress, and without competitor, and anyway I was her servant.

"I have been pining this long enough for a stronger meat than they can give," she went on, "and at last I have sent for you. I have been at some pains to procure my tongue-pictures of you, Deucalion, and though you do not know me yet, I may say I knew you with all thoroughness even before we met. I can admire a man with a mind great enough to forego the silly gauds of clothes, or the excesses of feasts, or the pamperings of women." She looked down at her own silks and her glittering jewels. "We women like to carry colors upon our persons, but that is a different matter. And so I sent for you here to be my minister, and bear with me the burden of ruling."

"There should be better men in broad Atlantis."

"There are not, my lord, and I who know them all by heart tell you so. They are all enamored of my poor person; they weary me with their empty phrases and their importunities; and, though they are always brimming with their cries of service, their own advancement and the filling of their own treasuries ever come first with them. So I have sent for you, Deucalion, the one strong man in all the world. You at least will not sigh to be my lover?"

I saw her watching for my answer from the corners of her eyes. "The empress," I said, "is my mistress and I will be an honest minister to her. With Phorenice, the woman, it is likely that I shall have little enough to do. Besides, I am not the sort that sport with this toy they call love."

I MOUNTED AND SAT BESIDE HER.

"And yet you are a personable man enough," she said, rather thoughtfully. "But that still further proves your strength, Deucalion. You at least will not lose your head through weak infatuation for my poor looks and graces." She turned to the girl who stood behind us. "Ylga, fan not so violently."

Our talk broke off then for the moment, and I had time to look about me. We were passing through the chief street in the fairest, the most wonderful city this world has ever seen. I had left it a score of years before, and was curious to note its increase.

In public buildings the city had certainly made growth; there were new temples, new pyramids, new palaces, and statuary everywhere. Its greatness and magnificence impressed me more strongly even than usual, returning to it as I did from such a distance of time and space, for, though the many cities of Yucatan might each of them be princely, this great capital was a place not to be compared with any of them. It was imperial and gorgeous beyond descriptive words.

Yet most of all was I struck by the poverty and squalor which stood in such close touch with all this magnificence. In the throngs that lined the streets there were gaunt bodies and hungry faces everywhere. Here and there stood one, a man or a woman, as naked as a savage in Europe, and yet dull to shame. Even the trader, with trumpery gauds on his coat, aping the prevailing fashion for display, had a scared, uneasy look on his face, as though he had forgotten the mere name of safety, and hid his frantic heart with his tawdry outward vauntings of prosperity.

BOAT TOWED BY KITES.

Recent Successful Experiment on the River Moselle in France.

Since the kite has entered into the domain of science, it has been greatly perfected. The aim has been to give it considerable ascensional force and great stability, so that it may be used to carry into the air apparatus used in meteorology and photography without fear of disastrous fall. But hitherto little has been done to utilise its force of tradition, which may be considerable if it is given sufficient height. Recently, however, says Cosmos, experiments in this direction have been made on the Moselle by a man who, having flown a Malay kite two meters (six and one-half feet) in length, caused it to tow against a somewhat swift current a boat holding six persons. The wind was quite strong, and it was very easy to increase the force of traction by flying several kites. Those of the Hargrave system would, perhaps, be the best since one of this kind having a height of 1.4 meters (four and one-half feet) can scarcely be held by two men, when enough cord has been paid out. The retaining cable must possess great strength, especially if it is to hold several kites, or the tractive force may rupture it.

It is evident that in this original mode of locomotion the direction of the wind plays an important part, for if the angle that it makes with the watercourse exceeds 45 or 50 degrees, the boat is hard to steer, and moves slowly. Nevertheless this method of seeking a continuous current of air at a certain height is of the greatest simplicity. If it is not used, the reason is doubtless that it has been thought that not enough force would be developed by it. Still, the results already obtained are interesting.

A TEMPORARY CROESUS.

Postmaster Who Experienced the Delightful Sensation for a Few Seconds.

H. T. Canfield, postmaster of Wichita Falls, Tex., visited the subtreasury, and had the delightful sensation of being a millionaire if only for a minute, says the New Orleans Times-Democrat. He was allowed to handle money to the extent of $1,000,000, place it in his pocket, and walk about the inside portion of the subtreasurer's office.

"I'm nearly 60 years old," said Mr. Canfield. "I have been handling money of my own, the government's, and other persons for nearly a half-century, but I never had as much money in my possession before at one time, and I never expect to have that much again. The sensation of being a millionaire, if only for a minute, is peculiar. I, of course, swelled up immediately, but only for a second. When a person sees and handles a million or more of money in such small packages as I did there is no reason in the world why he shoudn't be conceited. This condition in my case, however, was short-lived, and the next minute I felt just like a torn two-dollar bill that had been knocked about the country for ages—that was, of course, when they took the huge amount of money away from me. I will go back to Wichita Falls now and handle postage stamps."

SYDNEY AN ORANGE MART.

Citrous Fruits Grow as Plentifully in Parramatta as Apples in Kent.

Australia has one of the most suitable orange growing districts of the world. What apple culture is in England that of the orange is in New South Wales, the Parramatta district, near Sydney, being to Australia what Kent, with its countless luxuriant orchards, is to the United Kingdom. The scenery of the Parramatta river is not unlike that of the Thames above Richmond, only more romantic and beautiful, especially during springtime, when the wonderful profusion of wild flowers imparts an additional charm to the picture. Even the masses of rock, which in many places rise boldly from the edges of the stream, are decked with bright-colored clusters of Australian native flowers of the most lovely and varied description.

The trees also claim a large share of admiration not only from the lover of the beautiful in nature, but also from the utilitarian, for they include the orange, with its bright green foliage and dainty white flowers or rich golden fruit both seen on the tree at one and the same time. The orange is not only a picturesque adjunct to the garden, but also more than repays the trouble and cost of cultivation. In the Parramatta district rich and luscious oranges are as plentiful as blackberries in an English country lane during the autumn time.

Skin Sewing Machine.

A sewing machine for the skin is a recent French notion. It was exhibited by Dr. Paul Michel, of the late congress of medicine, and is, of course, intended for the use of surgeons. The instrument is quite small, easily held in the hands, and has received the Barbier prize of the Faculte de Medicine. In future a surgeon need not slowly stitch the edges of a wound. With the left hand he keeps the two lips together, and with the right he fastens it by means of little clasps of "agrafes" of nickel, having points which only penetrate the epidermis and are not painful.

SPORTING.

ON THE DIAMOND.

The St. Mary team will contest tomorrow afternoon with the Garwood A. C. on the latter's grounds. The Garwoods were defeated in this city a few weeks ago by the St. Mary team and the former will make every effort to prevent it being made a double-header. Doyle will be placed in the box by the locals. The start will be made from this city at 2 o'clock and all those wishing to accompany the team will be made welcome.

The only baseball game in the city tomorrow afternoon will be between two local teams, the Hope and Clinton Avenue nines. Both teams are in readiness for some hard work, and a close game will undoubtedly result. Squier will do the twirling for the Evona people, while the Hopes will probably give both Montross and Hewitt a try-out. The game will be played on the Hope grounds and will be called promptly at 3:30

GOLF.

The weekly competitions for the Mellick and Golf Committee cups and the regular play for the Fisk cup will be the attractions on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course tomorrow.

KEEP TO THE RIGHT.

Several Arrested in the Borough for Failing to Drive on the Proper Side of the Street.

Chief Marshal Campbell, the "protector of the borough boulevard," has issued a proclamation that hereafter strict obedience must be paid to the borough ordinance, which prohibits persons from riding or driving on the wrong side of the respective thoroughfares.

Somerset street will be protected from this dangerous practice, in particular, and hereafter a vigilant eye will be kept on all violators. During the fore part of the week three teamsters employed at Mayor Smalley's stone crusher were arrested on Somerset street, and yesterday more arrests followed. Andrew Jefferson and Walter Emmons were each compelled to contribute $1 each to the borough treasury. This is in accordance with the edict of the Chief Marshal, sanctioned by the justice of the borough, Recorder Thomas Doud.

WOMEN TO ASSIST.

Were Present at Meeting of Retail Clerks' Association Last Evening.

The members of the Retail Clerks' Association met last evening in their rooms on West Front street, and the meeting was of considerable interest because the members entertained the women clerks.

After the transaction of business, the remainder of the evening was passed in a social way. Refreshments were served and everyone had a good time. These social gatherings will be a feature in the future, the clerks having planned to have the young women meet with them at least once a month. In this way the women will encourage the members of the association and assist them in advancing its interests.

DRAWING POSTPONED.

President Claassen Resigned Office in Local Barbers' Union.

The public drawing for a Pan-American ticket, which was to have been held by Local Journeyman Barbers' Union, No. 315, last evening, was postponed on account of several chances being withheld. It will take place Monday evening.

Wm. Claassen, president of the organization, tendered his resignation by reason of his becoming an employer. He was succeeded by Vice-president Alex. Stills.

Death of Mrs. Drake.

Henrietta Martin Drake, the widow of John D Drake, died yesterday at Newark. At the time of her death Mrs. Drake was in her eighty-ninth year. Mrs. Drake is survived by a son, William H. B. Drake, and the funeral services will be held from his home on Orchard place, Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

City Committee Meet Tonight.

There will be a meeting of the city Republican executive committee this evening.

SCHOOLS ARE OVERCROWDED.

TEACHERS WORKING OVERTIME TO GIVE ALL SOME INSTRUCTION.

Crowded Condition Exists Particularly in Grammar Grades of the Borough Schools.

There is no relief yet from the crowded condition existing in the borough public schools. Many pupils, who were necessarily turned away on the opening day, have been provided for temporarily. The teachers have arranged to work overtime so that all applicants for the benefits of the schools may receive some instruction.

At present a number of pupils are receiving instruction after the regular daily session. The hours under this arrangement are from 3 until 4 o'clock in the afternoon. It is mainly in the grammar department that the cramped condition exists. As it is chairs have been arranged for as many as can be accommodated within the various class rooms. In the primary department there is also somewhat of an overflow.

As soon as possible a temporary location for an additional class room will be selected. S. St. John McCutchen, the president of the school board, is in Buffalo and as soon as he returns the matter will be taken up, probably at a meeting of the Borough Board of Education. Some suggestion has been made that the old school room in the basement of the German Reformed church, which was in use some years ago, be refitted and used for a short time. These quarters are dark and slightly damp, and hence will not be put into service unless absolutely necessary.

STREET WORK.

Councilmanic Committee Decided to Start Macadamizing Specified Streets at Once.

The Councilmanic street committee held an important meeting last evening when the questions of macadamizing certain streets and extending the storm sewers were discussed at some length.

The bids received from C. M. Meeker for doing the work was accepted, as it was the lowest. Approximately his bid for the storm sewer work, omitting Madison avenue, will come within $2,000.

Regarding the storm sewer work the committee is strongly in favor of doing all work proposed with the exception of Madison avenue. This can be done with this year's money. If the sewer is extended from Arlington avenue to Cedar brook it will in a large measure relieve Madison avenue and thus obviate the necessity of placing a sewer in Madison avenue at present.

The committee decided to go ahead at once with macadamizing the streets specified in the ordinance and the approximate cost to the property-owners will be twenty-five cents a running foot. This is in accordance with the original plan, although the committee could not get a unanimous response from the property-owners to take the matter up. This made it necessary for the committee to take charge of the work and assess in the usual way.

TELLING THE NEWS.

Daily Press Bulletins are Displayed at Smalley's Market in the Borough.

In order that the citizens of the borough may become acquainted with the news of the Presiden's condition, from time to time, The Daily Press has arranged to display copies of its despatches received from Buffalo, through the Associated Press and other recognized agencies. As soon as the messages are received at this office, they are bulletined at the butcher shop of William L. Smalley, Jr., on Somerset street. Watch for the bulletins.

TURN FOR THE WORSE

News From President's Sickroom Less Assuring.

GREAT FATIGUE COMPLAINED OF.

Food Given Caused Distress, and Pulse Not Satisfactory—His Physicians Believe Bad Symptoms Will Soon Be Overcome.

BUFFALO, Sept. 13.—For the first time there was a bad strain in the news from the president's bedside last night. Possibly the alarm it caused was exaggerated, but that genuine apprehension existed there can be no question. The food given to the president has not been properly assimilated and passed, and the administration of food by the mouth has been discontinued. The president continued to complain of the fatigue noted by the official bulletin in the afternoon. His pulse increased to 128. This is considered entirely too high for his temperature.

One of the consulting physicians said that, judged by medical records, his pulse should be 96. The acceleration of the pulse was attributed partly to the revulsion of the stomach against the food.

The doctors held their evening consultation earlier than usual, and they frankly announced in their official bulletin at 8:30 that the president's condition was not so good. They are standing firmly by their resolution and promise to keep the public fully advised of the true state of affairs in the sickroom. Drs. Wasdin, Stockton and Rixey remained in the sickroom throughout the night, and those who left after the early evening consultation, contrary to their usual custom, slipped away.

"The manifold responsibilities of the chief magistracy for four years do not exactly fit a man for such an ordeal as this," said one of those closest to him. The doctors are directing their energies toward building up the president's strength. The interior wounds are pronounced healed, and so long as no complications arise the edges of the outer wound will gradually heal by granulation. Bringing up the general condition of the patient is therefore of prime importance.

The following bulletin was issued by the president's physicians at 8:30 p. m.:

"The president's condition this evening is not quite so good. His food has not agreed with him and has been stopped. Excretion has not yet been properly established. The kidneys are acting well. His pulse is not satisfactory, but has improved in the last two hours. The wound is doing well. He is resting quietly. Temperature, 100.2; pulse, 128.

The following bulletin was issued by the president's physicians at 12 o'clock midnight:

"All unfavorable symptoms in the president's condition have improved since the last bulletin. Pulse, 120; temperature, 100.2."

The slight alarm which was felt when the afternoon bulletin appeared was increased when the physicians assembled for their evening consultation about an hour earlier than usual. The cheeriness of the morning was succeeded by apprehension, and a dreary rain which began to fall added to the gloomy feeling which prevailed. The bulletin was personally delivered to the members of the press by Secretary Cortelyou, and the frankness with which the physicians announced that the president's condition was not so good, disquieting as it was, was a relief. It was felt to be additional proof that nothing was being concealed.

It was stated quite positively that the consulting physicians did not believe that the failure to digest the food was due to the condition of the wounds in the sides of the stomach, which were believed to be practically healed and so pronounced by Dr. McBurney and his associates. The fact that the food would not agree with the patient could not have been anticipated, so it was stated, but as soon as it was found that it had not the administration of food by the mouth was discontinued. The problem which now confronts the physicians is to dispose of this undigested food in the stomach. The fatigue of the patient noted in the afternoon bulletin continued during the evening, and several times the president murmured, "I am so tired; I am so tired."

Dr. Charles D. Stockton, who has a fine reputation as a general practitioner here, was called in at the evening conference. The problem now is one for the physicians rather than the surgeons, and the advice and counsel of Dr. Stockton was considered advisable. After the bulletin was issued two of the physicians slipped away through the side entrance, thus escaping the newspaper men. It was understood that Dr. Mann and Dr. Stockton remained at the Milburn house.

At 9:45 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Abner McKinley and Dr. and Mrs. Baer, who had arrived shortly after 8 o'clock, left the house. As they neared the corner of Ferry street Mrs. Baer slipped and fell on the wet sidewalk. She was not injured and was quickly assisted to her feet. Mr. McKinley assisted his family to a carriage and returned to the house. "Is there anything you care to say as to the condition of the president?" he was asked. "Nothing, nothing," he replied, and hurried along toward the house. He seemed anxious to get back to the house where his brother lies.

One of those fully identified with every feature of the case made the following statement:

"Yes, I do feel some concern about the president's case, but I think this will be dispelled as a result of the treatment that is being administered to him. The trouble now is with the question of nourishment and proper disposition of food through the stomach and bowels. The surgical treatment of the case is practically finished. The abdominal wound now gives no cause for concern. It is healing, looks better and is gradually disappearing. There are no indications of peritonitis, blood poisoning or inflammation whatever of any of the organs—absolutely none. The kidneys, too, which for a time caused some apprehension, also are working excellently, and there is no apparent danger from that source."

The quantity of beef juice given has been doubled, and the president is now getting an ounce every hour. Some food is also still being administered by enema.

The tone of the messages still pouring into the Milburn house from all over the world has changed from one of sympathy and condolence to one of congratulation, showing the prevalence everywhere of the conviction that the attempt upon the president's life has failed. Postmaster

GRACE MACKENZIE.

[The President's Nurse.]

General Smith has returned to Washington. The other two cabinet officers, Secretaries Hitchcock and Wilson, have made no plans to return. They will remain at least several days longer.

The district attorney here announced publicly yesterday that he had no evidence against Emma Goldman and that unless something turned up no requisition upon the state of Illinois would be made for her. This does not mean that the bottom has dropped out of the conspiracy theory, as some are disposed to hastily assume. It simply means that no evidence has yet been secured to connect her with the crime. If she is released, she will be kept under the closest surveillance, and it will be easy for the authorities to place their hands upon her if she is wanted later.

Maggio Examined and Held.

SANTA FE, N. M., Sept. 13.—Antonio Maggio, the alleged anarchist, has been taken from Silver City to Albuquerque. He was cross examined, but refused to divulge anything upon the subject of the president's assassination, although witnesses were present to testify that he repeatedly predicted that the president would be assassinated before Oct. 1. He was bound over for hearing on the charge of conspiracy to murder.

Rejoicing In Germany.

BERLIN, Sept. 13.—Everybody here rejoices in the good news regarding the condition of President McKinley. The papers say that the last doubt as to the existence of an anarchist plot has been dispelled. They condemn the leniency heretofore displayed in the United States and Great Britain in the treatment of anarchists and urge effective international arrangements against the scourge.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

ATTACKED ON STREET.

Emerson Mowen Reports Attempted Highway Robbery on East Second Street Last Night.

Emerson Mowen, a compositor employed in a local printery, reported to the police this morning that he had been attacked by a supposed highwayman while passing along East Second street, opposite Bartle's stone-yard, shortly before last midnight.

The man approached from the rear, suddenly seizing him by the throat and forcing him to the ground. A struggle followed, during which Mowen gave, as well as received, many blows. The ruffian finally became frightened, and, tearing himself away from his intended victim, made off in the darkness.

Mowen's clothing was badly torn and he has a number of bad bruises as proof of his encounter. Mowen lives at the corner of West Front and Liberty streets.

RUTGERS COLLEGE WILL OPEN NEXT WEDNESDAY

Prospects For a Successful Year at That Institution are Very Bright.

NEW COURSE INTRODUCED.

ATHLETIC OUTLOOK IS VERY PLEASING TO COLLEGE MEN.

Large Entering Class Includes Two Plainfield High School Graduates—New Track at Nelson Field is Ready for Use.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, September 14.—Rutgers College, the historic and honored institution of learning, here, will throw open its doors Wednesday morning for the reception of the youth of the land, desiring to take advantage of the many opportunities it offers. The prospects for a successful year are particularly bright. While many of the American colleges are reporting a falling off in attendance, unless all signs fail, Rutgers will be able to hold its own in this respect, if it does not advance.

Its entrance upon the one hundredth and thirty-sixth year of existence will be marked by the gathering of a freshman class, which will compare favorably with any that ever entered the institution. Many young men from this vicinity will matriculate for the various courses. Among them will be Townsend Mason and his brother, Fred Mason, of Bound Brook, both of whom were graduated from the High School in Plainfield last June.

So far as respects the curriculum, Rutgers has made but one change for the coming year. A Latin-Scientific course has been added, which will be pursued by some members of the entering class. In placing this course before prospective students the institution has followed the precedent of other colleges, as well as popular demand. Some time ago such a course was suggested, but it was deemed unwise to add it to the curriculum at that time. The faculty will be the same as last year, excepting that Dr Bowser, professor of mathematics and engineering, will be absent for the year. His classes will be taken by Professors Titsworth and Prentiss.

Regarding college athletics the outlook is particularly bright. The new track is in excellent condition and Nelson athletic field will be used for the first time. Dr. Louis Bevier, who has worked hard to make the field a reality, has at last succeeded and will win the undying thanks of the undergraduates. From all appearances it looks as if the college will have a strong football aggregation, and the hope is that new life will be instilled in the sport. Many of the coming freshmen are relied on to uphold the position attained by Rutgers on the track and in the gymnasium. From some rumors it is possible that more than one record will be broken. The two Mason boys are likely young athletes and in time will undoubtedly develop into good material

Rutgers holds a position in the college world envied by many of her sister institutions, and her friends predict that this stand will be maintained by her in a creditable manner at least for the near future.

MOTORMAN SUES ICE CO. FOR DAMAGES.

Claims He Was Twice Injured Through Carelessness of Company's Employes.

WANTS $10,000 DAMAGES.

SAYS ICE WAGON RAN INTO TROLLEY SPRINKLING CAR.

Stites' Right Leg Was Broken in Four Places—Trolley Company Considered Him Blameless—Elizabeth Ice Wagon.

Counsellor W. S. Angleman has been retained by Amos B. Stites, of Watchung avenue, to bring suit against the Elizabeth Ice Company, of Elizabeth, for $10,000 damages, for injuries received in a collision between the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Railway Company's sprinkling car, of which he was the motorman, and a wagon belonging to the ice dealers. The accident occurred on the line between Aldene and Roselle on May 17 and Stites has since been incapacitated from duty. His right leg was broken in four places, and it was only after heroic efforts on the part of skilled surgeons that amputation was prevented.

Stites' action in taking steps to institute suit is based on the assertion that it was not a case where the wagon was struck by the car, but where the conditions were just reversed. He had almost succeeded in stopping the heavy sprinkler when the wagon, he alleges, through carelessness on the driver's part, crashed into the car.

Just previous to the collision, he claims, the horses were crossing the tracks, with no guidance on the part of the drivers. The lines were hanging loose while the occupants of the were engaged in earnest conversation. Stites sounded his gong and approached the vehicle at a slow rate of speed when the horses suddenly became frightened and swerved directly toward him. He reversed the current and applied the brakes but, before the frightened horses could be controlled, the collision followed.

Stites stuck to his post and narrowly escaped being crushed by the wagon pole. He avoided this danger only to be struck by the hood of the wagon and swept to the ground. He was rendered unconscious and his leg was broken as before mentioned.

In addition to his physical injuries Stites claims that his feelings were hurt by the wagon drivers after he had recovered his senses. A bystander made the remark that the motorman was badly injured, when one of the drivers is said to have exclaimed, "Humph, the fool (with a prefix) ought to be dead."

Stites was brought to this city and suffered terrible agony for weeks. He finally recovered, but with one brief exception has been unable to perform any kind of work. The railway company considered him blameless for the collision and recompensed him for the time he was off duty.

The brief exception when Stites attempted to resume work was two weeks ago, when he was placed on inspection duty at the Elizabeth end of the line. On the second day, while engaged figuring accounts near the curb line of Broad street, an ice wagon swung around a corner and struck him on the side, knocking him down. By a strange coincidence the wagon belonged to the same company as the one which collided with his car. His thigh was badly bruised where the wagon struck him and he returned home. He has since refrained from attempting to work.

NOT A BLOOD RELATION.

Fight Against Step Daughter in Estate of Mrs. C. A. Gisser.

A motion was made before Judge Schenck at Somerville, yesterday, by Lawyer James P. Powers, of Elizabeth, executor for the estate of the late Mrs. Charlotte A. Gisser, to set aside the caveat filed against the estate by Mrs. Nicholas Myers.

He argued that as Mrs. Myers was but a step-daughter, she was not entitled to any interest in the property and that the blood relations should be considered in the matter. Judge Schenck reserved his decision until Friday. Mrs. Myers is represented by Counsellor W. S. Angleman.

WILLIAM M'KINLEY.

THE PRESIDENT HAS PASSED AWAY

The End Came at Milburn House, Buffalo, at 2:15 o'Clock This Morning.

(SPECIAL TO THE DAILY PRESS.)

Buffalo, September 14—President McKinley died at 2:15 o'clock this morning. Death came after a long period of unconsciousness and his end was one of peace.

Before lapsing into a comatose state, the great warrior of prosperity gathered all his remaining strength together and said: "Good-by, all, good-by. It is God's way. His will be done—not ours."

Then addressing his Father in Heaven, apparently, the dying statesman and President whispered 'Nearer my God, to Thee, e'en though it be a cross, is my constant prayer." It was then past 10 o'clock and at that hour hope had been abandoned. A sudden turn for the worse had come almost without warning at the early hours of yesterday morning. Summoning all the distinguished surgeons and physicians the medical attendants worked hard throughout the long day to stem the current of death which was fast setting in. It was without avail.

The President passed into a condition of unconsciousness late into the afternoon, but, before 8 o'clock in the evening, he regained his senses. Realizing that the end was near, the President asked to see his faithful helpmeet, Mrs. McKinley. Only a nurse remained in the room while the loving couple bid each other a last farewell.

An hour and a half later the President lapsed again into unconsciousness, and the official announcement was made: "He is dying!" The pulse had left the extremities and life was being sustained only by oxygen.

After the few precious moments of consciousness, which was visited upon him about 10 o'clock, the awful calamity was momentarily expected and it came at a quarter past two this morning, when the valiant and beloved leader, who had been laid low by an assassin a little more than a week before, went to his Father, leaving as a remembrance a prosperous country and a people who will recall him as they do Lincoln.

Such was the dreadful story of the culmination of the monstrous deed, which set not only Pan-American but the entire globe agog with indignation. The frightful news of termination of the atrocious act sped around the world. All the marvelous, ingenious inventions of man were brought into play to speed the horrible news on its journey. The telegraph, telephone and cable as well as the more antiquated method of dispatching couriers were used to hurry abroad the word.

TOLLING BELLS BROKE NEWS TO PLAINFIELD.

Daily Press Bulletins Kept Plainfield Posted With Situation Until Midnight.

NEWS CAME AT 3 O'CLOCK.

GREAT CROWDS ASSEMBLED ABOUT THE PRESS BULLETIN BOARD.

Premature Report of President's Death Given Out Early in the Evening, But it Was Soon Contradicted.

All yesterday, the bulletin service of the The Daily Press kept the people of Plainfield posted with the course of events at Buffalo. When the unfortunate rumor flashed through the city and borough, shortly after 6 o'clock last evening, that William McKinley lay dead at Buffalo, great crowds gathered in front of The Daily Press office. Citizens of every degree in life, but all in one accord in hoping for the recovery of the Chief Magistrate, were eager to scan the latest bulletins issued from the Milburn house. "Is it so?" were the only words they could utter.

The dispatch containing the ill-founded rumor had been posted in front of this office. The word had come swiftly over the wire from Buffalo. All the recognized news agencies in the land appeared to stamp authenticity upon the announcement. The populace was impatient for details, and happily in but a short interval of time the admirable service of The Daily Press was able to calm its fears. The story was happily false. The great man was low in his bedchamber and death was knocking at the door.

All through the long evening The Daily Press constantly received dispatches from the Associated Press, Standard News, New York Sun, and other reliable news agencies. Nowhere else in this vicinity could the people get such reliable information. The Press was fully a half hour ahead of all competitors in getting accurate reports and the people knew it. Never was there a more quiet and orderly gathering as stood before the office and it only at midnight when the office was closed, so far as posting news was concerned, that the remnant of the crowd dispersed.

Many were the mutterings heard against that hateful foe at whose instigation the weak coward had taken the life-blood of the President. Those who scanned the bulletins at this office, as well as those at the temporary branch office at the market of W. L. Smalley in the borough, appeared grateful to The Press for its enterprise.

At midnight most of the citizens repaired to their homes. They prayed that the good man be spared until the break of day at least.

It was shortly before 3 o'clock that the word was received here that the President had passed away. The inhabitants were aroused from their slumbers by the tolling of bells. Acting Chief Frederickson, at police headquarters, detailed an officer to enter Trinity church and ring the bell in announcement of the sad tidings. Over in the borough the fire alarm was dolefully sounded by Andrew Carney and Chief Marshal William Campbell. And everywhere there was sincere grief and sympathy.

ASKS THE CITY TO GO INTO MOURNING

Mayor Jenkins Issues a Proclamation—Mayor Smalley Makes a Statement.

OFFICIAL NOTICE TAKEN.

BOTH DENOUNCE ANARCHY AND PREDICT SPEEDY LEGISLATION.

Mayor Jenkins Asks the People of Plainfield to Drape Buildings in Black and Place Flags at Half Mast.

Mayor O. L. Jenkins, of this city, and Mayor Newton B. Smalley, of the borough, have each taken occasion to express their views regarding the untimely end of the President. The Chief Executive of Plainfield has issued a proclamation which is herewith published in full.

Mayor Smalley, of North Plainfield, as yet, has made no official statement, and possibly will await the formal action of the Borough Council.

Mayor Jenkins' proclamation is as follows:

MAYOR'S OFFICE,
Plainfield, N. J., Sept. 14, 1901.

TO THE PEOPLE OF PLAINFIELD:

The sense of sorrow and poignant personal grief which the death of our beloved President has brought to all the people of our country, and in hardly less degree to the whole civilized world, makes it fitting that it should be given expression by the official representatives of the people in every community throughout the land.

For the present, we may reserve expression of horror at the atrocity of the assasin's deed, and the determination to expunge from this country every vestige and every follower of the diabolical tenets which alone made the crime possible. Today, we feel the benumbing blow—the loss of our first citizen, the defeat by death of one who was not only the chosen ruler of eighty millions of Americans, discharging the duties of his high office in such manner as to unite in stronger bonds all sections of our country and to bring the name and fame of the Nation to a higher plane than they have ever attained before, but one whose simple but exalted personal character, whose purity, integrity, courage, fortitute and utter unselfishness, conspicious in health, alike in his home life and in his public career, and resplendent in his final heroic struggle, have endeared to us his name and memory as of one worthy of all that is greatest and best in this fair land, and have won for William McKinley a place by the side of the immortal Lincoln.

I recommend that all our citizens honor the memory of our martyred President by appropriate badges of mourning at their homes and places of business and that flags be displayed at half-mast, and suitable mourning drapings be placed on all public offices and buildings. Olin L. Jenkins, Mayor.

Mayor Newton B. Smalley, of North Plainfield, when asked by a Daily Press reporter this morning for an expression on the death of the renowned President, said: "I feel it so much that I hardly know what to say. He was a model President and the people knew it. One thing is certain—it will stir up the Congress to pass proper laws, providing for swift and just punishment for such scoundrels as Czolgosz."

DELEGATES HOME.

The delegates report having an excellent time and speak in glowing terms of the treatment accorded them during their stay.

KNOCKED FROM CAB.

Fireman James Hogan Had Rib Fractured in Accident.

James Hogan, aged twenty-three years, a fireman on the New Jersey Central, was taken to the hospital yesterday afternoon from the Grant Avenue station, suffering with a fractured rib. Asthmalene Brings Instant Relief and Permanent Cure in All Cases.

SENT ABSOLUTELY FREE ON RECEIPT OF POSTAL. WRITE YOUR NAME AND ADDRESS PLAINLY.

There is nothing like Asthmalene. It brings instant relief, even in the worst cases. It cures when all else fails.

The Rev. C. F. WELLS, of Villa Ridge, Ill., says: "Your trial bottle of Astamalene received in good condition. I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good derived from it. I was a slave, chained with putrid sore throat and Asthma for ten years. I despaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease, Asthma, and thought you had overspoken yourselves, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment, the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full-size bottle."

Rev. Dr. Morris Wechsler, Rabbi of the Cong. Bnai Israel. New York, Jan. 3, 1901.

DRS. TAFT BROS'. MEDICINE CO., Gentlemen: Your Asthmalene is an excellent remedy for Asthma and Hay Fever, and its composition allevistes all troubles which combine with Asthma. Its success is astonishing and wonderful.

After having it chemically analyzed, we can state that Asthmalene contains no opium, morphine, chloroform or ether.

Very truly yours, REV. DR. MORRIS WECHSLER.

AVON SPRINGS, N. Y., February 7, 1901.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO. Gentlemen: I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having received the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene, for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I chanced to see your sign upon your windows on 130th street, New York, I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the first of November. I very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her Asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease.

Yours respectfully, O. D. PHELPS, M. D.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE CO. February 5, 1901. Gentlemen: I was troubled with Asthma for 22 years. I have tried numerous remedies, but they have all failed. I ran across your advertisement and started with a trial bottle. I found relief at once. I have since purchased your full-size bottle, and I am ever grateful. I have family of four children, and for six years was unable to work. I am now in the best of health and am doing business every day. This testimony you can make such use of as you see fit.
